APPROVE PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOL

Fanwood Township Board Decides to Erect Four Room Structure.

TO COST ABOUT $8,000

Specifications Submitted to State Authorities—Miss Jessie Walker Resigns—Other Teachers Are Engaged For Next Year.

The question of building a new school in the "Graceland" section of the township was discussed at a meeting of the Fanwood Township School Board, last night. The new school would relieve the congested condition of School No. 1. The employment of several teachers was also considered and one resignation, that of Miss Jessie C. Walker of the fifth grade in School No. 1, was accepted. She plans to take a course in Columbia University.

The architect engaged by the board presented plans calling for a new fireproof building to be known as School No. 3, one story high with provisions for a second story if needed. It will be of hollow tile with stucco finish and shingle roof. There will be a corridor through the structure, with two rooms on either side, each of which will accommodate thirty-five pupils, making 140 in all, with space for twenty-five more if necessary.

There will be a large cloak room attached to each class room, and opening into the corridor. The cellar will have two play-rooms, with a boiler in the centre. The heating and ventilating will be installed by the American Heating and Ventilating Company, of Philadelphia. The building will be wired for electric lights. The estimated cost is $8,000. The plans were accepted and the architect was instructed to secure the approval of the State school authorities and report at the next meeting. Instead of building an addition to School No. 1, the committee suggested that the Board convert the assembly room and principal's office into class rooms. Forty pupils will be transferred to the new school when it is completed. It is hoped to have the building ready for the opening of the fall term.

William D. Althouse, of Eastport, Pa., was engaged to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Walker. It was also reported that Miss Anna Johns, also of Pennsylvania, had been engaged as departmental teacher in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades in School No. 1. The teaching corps is now complete.

After the State approval of the plans for the new school a date for an election will be fixed when the township voters will be asked to appropriate the amount necessary to complete the work.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM FOR TONIGHTS CONCERT

All Arrangements Complete For First of Weekly Affairs.

Provided the weather is favorable it is expected that the first of the series of weekly band concerts to be given tonight at West Fifth street and Monroe avenue, under the auspices of the West End Civic Association, will be attended by a large number of people. Arrangements have been made for an automobile parade to precede the concert. The cars will meet at Trinity Reformed church and headed by the Dutch Arms Band will go through the principal streets.

The grounds are high and well drained to insure against dampness. The Fourth street trolley cars go direct to the grounds, residents of Westfield, Scotch Plains and Dunellen being able to make the trip for a five cent fare. The patronage of the concert tonight will determine the advisability of continuing the same. The program to be given by the Dutch Arms Band is as follows:

March, "The Thunder," Sousa; overture, "The Golden Prince," Losey; serenade, "Twilight Echoes," Miller; march, "Colonel Miner's," Rosenkrans; waltz, "Sea Breezes," Losey; galop, "Shooting Stars," Losey; march, "Crystal Springs Park," Miller; medley overture, Miller; serenade, "Starland," Losey; march, "Camp Meeting Band," Gilbert and Muir; hesitation waltz, "Love Is Too Fickle," Kruseman; march, "Progressive America," Miller; "Star Spangled Banner."

The committee in charge are as follows: Chairman, B. K. Davis; publicity, A. R. Parkhurst, Jr.; lights, Joseph Edgar, Jr., and George H. Fisher, Jr.; lumber, Jacob Sachar, David L. Coleman; construction and grounds, William J. Boyd; seats and refreshments, Frank S. Powers, T. C. Vail, Richard D. Williams; parade, Frank A. Weeks.

DISTRICT SUPT. BUSY.

Rev. F. J. Hubach, district superintendent of the Elizabeth District, Newark Conference, is a busy man these days. Last Sunday he preached three times, in addition to conducting two quarterly conferences. On Sunday morning he will preach at Linden and in the afternon will address the Jr. O. U. A. M. near that place, and will also preach in the evening.

P. C. C. DINNER-DANCE.

The Plainfield Country Club will give another dinner-dance at the clubhouse tomorrow evening. These functions have been so popular that the house committee has decided to continue them for awhile longer, at least. The dinner will be under the direction of Superintendent John Eke.

HOUSES ARE ENCLOSED.

The number of new houses being erected by Jacob Sachar and the Bloom Construction Company, on West Front street near Giraud avenue, are now enclosed and the interior work is being rushed as fast as possible.

DRIVERS SAY LAW IS TOO STRINGENT

Automobile Drivers Suggest Employment of Different Tactics.

OBJECT TO ARREST

Letter of the Law and Not the Spirit of the Law Being Adhered to—Car Owners Want More Discrimination Used Here.

Another automobile speeder fell into the clutches of Motorcycle Patrolman Roy E. Martin's dragnet yesterday afternoon and had to forfeit a fine of $10 when arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning. The defendant this time was a woman, the first feminine victim to be apprehended by Martin. She was Miss Beatrice Jackson, of Westfield, who was piloting a seven-passenger touring car along East Seventh street at a twenty-four mile an hour clip when taken into custody. In sentencing the young woman the court took occasion to remark that the law was unyielding and applied to the woman driver as well as to the male chauffeur.

There is some sentiment among local automobile drivers in this city against the manner in which drivers are being dealt with by the authorities and the officials who are doing their duty in enforcing the law have become the brunt for much adverse criticism. It is the consensus of opinion here that the spirit of the law and not the letter should be adhered to in this matter. In all of the cases brought to the attention of the city judge since the introduction of the motorcycle into the police force there has not been the semblance of recklessness brought out and a majority of the defendants have been hailed before the bar of justice for driving their cars between twelve and twenty miles.

In speaking on the subject to a Plainfield Daily Press reporter this morning a well known local automobile dealer deplored the manner in which autoists are being "hounded" by the motorcycle policeman and said that unless different tactics are employed by the authorities a general howl of protest would go out. He further stated that ninety per cent. of the machines traveling through Plainfield's business section are running at a rate of fourteen miles an hour and if the letter of the law is to be enforced all of these drivers will be rounded up eventually.

Circumstances alter some of the cases brought to the attention of the court but all have to be dealt with in the same manner to avoid criticism. It has been suggested that warnings be substituted for summons in some of the incidents where flagrancy is not exhibited, thereby eliminating the unpleasantness now prevalent It is the intention of the police department to curb the habit of driving automobiles at a whirlwind speed through local thoroughfares and to put an end to recklessness, and there are a number of well-known ways of accomplishing this good end. One has been tried and while it has had some telling effect it is considered altogether too severe by the car owner. The police department and city judge are co-operating in every way possible to better conditions and to date every speeder has been subjected to a fine, whether he has been proven guilty of running his machine at a rate of fourteen miles or twenty-seven miles an hour.

Some there are who have the opinion that the fines collected go to the city and it has been stated that the money is being used to defray the expenses of maintaining a motorcycle policeman. This is not true. The fines are turned over to the State Department of Motor Vehicles at Trenton and not a cent remains in Plainfield to be used for any purpose.

The motor vehicles' law makes the driver liable to punishment if he is running his ear over twelve miles an hour but some discrimination has to be used in dealing with the violators.

RECEIVES A DIAMOND PIN.

The staff of employes of the local postoffice have presented former Postmaster E. H. Bird with a diamond stickpin, in appreciation of his long service and courtesy to them at the office. The employes were planning to give a complimentary dinner to Mr. Bird, but as this could not be arranged, it was decided to present him with a diamond pin.

BOY MURDERER WILL DIE FOR HIS CRIME

Stephano Ruggerio Taken From Somerville to Trenton to Await Death.

Stephano Ruggieri, the seventeen year old Italian who was convicted of murder in the first degree by the Somerset County Courts Tuesday, was sentenced to die during the week of August 31 by Justice James J. Bergen in Somerville yesterday. The youth shot Pasquale Folzarrano, at Millington, May 17 last, and his victim died the next day in the Summit hospital.

The jury in the case recommended mercy for the convicted boy but this was offered owing to a misunderstanding of the law. The statute relative to first degree murder reads as follows: "Every person convicted of murder in the first degree shall suffer death." This law automatically requires that Ruggieri be put to death. He has been removed to State Prison at Trenton.

UNION COUNTY CONVICTS PAROLED BY COURT ORDER

One Union county murderer is among the long list of convicts just pardoned from State Prison at Trenton, by the Court of Pardons. He is Thomas Doyle, convicted of murder in this county January 17, 1901 and sentenced to twenty years in prison. The Court of Pardons will hold its final session for the June term next Tuesday.

The other Union County Parols granted were as follows: Sydney Brown, robbery, term 7 years; Edward Kurtzner, breaking and entering. Henry Ostin, breaking, etc., to be released September 2?, next. Elsie Weir, disorderly house, 1 to 3 years, to be released September 26, next.

WILLIAM H. KUECT SUES BORDEN MILK COMPANY

The case of William H. Kuect, of 319 West Second street, against the Borden Milk Company, by which he was for some time employed, is being heard today before Judge Connolly, in the Common Pleas Court, Elizabeth. The suit was brought to recover for injuries sustained from a kick in the right knee by one of the defendant's horses on July 3 of last year.

It appears that Kuect was laid up for five weeks following the accident, after which he was able to return to work for a period of fourteen weeks.

At this time his knee bothered him, and he was again laid up, this time for a period of twenty weeks. During the twenty weeks, the company paid Mr. Kuect $7 per week, in consideration of being injured by one of the company's horses, but the plaintiff was of the opinion that he should have received more than this, or an amount nearer $15, which he was receiving as a salary. The case is being continued this afternoon.

MISS BUFFUM'S ENGAGEMENT TO T. W. ASHWELL ANNOUNCED

The engagement has been announced of Miss Helen M. Buffum, daughter of Dr. Charles T. Buffum of New York, to Thomas W. Ashwell, of Plainfield. Miss Buffum, who spends a great deal of her time at the country place of her father in Wainscott, L. I., was introduced to society four years ago.

She is a niece of Miss Helen Wainwright Bradley of this city. Her brothers are David B. and Thomas B. Buffum. Mr. Ashwell is a son of the late William C. Ashwell, of New York. He was graduated from Harvard in 1909. No date has been mentioned for the wedding.

PISTOL PRACTISE FOR LOCAL POLICE

Plainfield Policemen Being Put Through a Thorough Course of Instruction.

A DEPARTMENT NEED

Alfred P. Lane, Olympic Champion, Tells of the Value of This Phase of Work In Police Departments—Range Is Chartered.

Provision has been made by Chief Kiely, of the local police department, to give the members of the force here thorough instruction in the handling of firearms and for this purpose the rifle range at the Independent Gun Club has been engaged. This new feature of the department work is being carried on with the object of improving the aim of the coppers and each one of the men will be required to indulge in target practice on specified afternoons.

The improvement of marksmanship will do away with any possibility of recording unfortunate accidents due to the fact that policemen aim at one thing and hit another. While a number of the Plainfield bluecoats are unusually proficient in this art at the present time there is room for much improvement in a majority of cases, and by the time the course is completed, it is hoped to have a squad of marksmen who will be a credit to the city.

This phase of instruction is greeted with enthusiasm by the men who often have occasion to use their revolvers under the most trying and difficult circumstances. Competent instructors will drill the men in the use of the firearms and it is probable that the "coppers" will be divided into squads with regard to their ranking as sharpshooters. This particular line of work has long been agitated locally and recently there has been considerable emphasis laid on the need for a school for marksmanship.

During an interview on the subject of police instruction in marksmanship, Alfred P. Lane, the youthful holder of the world's pistol shooting championship, a title he acquired at the recent Olympic games in Stockholm, Sweden, said:

"Anybody can learn to shoot accurately, but there are many popular delusions on this subject of marksmanship. For instance, take what is commonly called 'finger pointing'

"You have heard of the hip shooting said to have been common in the West in the frontier days. It is even nowadays believed by some people that it is possible to sight a gun somewhat as a man points a finger. At ten feet, say, a man who is familiar with a gun can point offhand more or less accurately, but as the distance increases his accuracy decreases.

"Hitting a man while chasing him merely by 'finger pointing,' is a delusion. The method is faulty and the results are often disastrous in a way that is not intended. The only thing to do is to stop dead still and take good aim.

"Many people, because of the stray bullets that are fired, believe a revolver or pistol to be in itself a dangerous thing. They say it kicks when it is fired and that a marksman must be a good guesser as to how much his gun is going to kick. This is delusion No. 7,000,000 or something like that. A gun kicks, it is true, but the marksman doesn't have to do any guessing. When the sights are fixed, allowance is made for the recoil, and if the shooter knows how to hold and aim his weapon, the bullet will reach its mark."

Questioned about the difficulty of hitting a running man or a moving target, Champion Lane described a contest held at the Olympic games last year.

"At Stockholm there was a dueling contest, which went for to show what a stationary target expert could do to a moving mark. At a distance of fifty meters the edge of the target faces the shooter. The word to fire is given and the target turns from edge to edge for a few seconds, then swings back. During the brief space that it faces the marksman he must aim and place his shots. It doesn't leave much time for thinking as to where you intend to put your bullet. Stationary target men made good at this kind of shooting."

"Where policemen are instructed in the handling of firearms, as is now the case in several cities," said Mr. Lane, "they can easily be given practice that will stand them in good stead in any emergencies that may arise in the course of performing their duties. Moreover, revolver practice is a very enjoyable pastime, and in a police school there might well be frequent competitions of various kinds."

OFFERS HALL FOR BORO MASS MEETING

Debele's Auditorium Will Probably Be Accepted As Place For Discussion.

William G. Debele, of Somerset street, the borough this morning, offered his auditorium on Chatham street in which to hold the public meetings to discuss the consolidation question, prior to the special election to be held September 24. This offer was made to Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and will in all probability be accepted by the committee which will be in charge of the consolidation meetings.

There appears to be some misunderstanding concerning the proposed meetings, as some are of the opinion that they are to be "cut and dried" affairs, with only one side of the question to be presented and discussed. While it is the primary purpose of the gathering to educate the public as to reasons why consolidation should be received favorably by the voters of North Plainfield, objections to the movement may be made at the gatherings.

The meetings as planned will be so arranged as to present all sides of the question under consideration, in order that the voters will be able to cast an intelligent vote. It is expected that full details of the meetings will be announced in the course of a short time, although they will undoubtedly be held after the vacation season is over, thus giving all of the citizens of the borough a chance to attend.

REV. H. D. OPDYKE DIES IN 80TH YEAR

The funeral of Rev. Hiram D. Opdyke, for many years a resident of Martinsville, will be held at the late home at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, and will be in charge of several Methodist ministers, who were formerly associated with the deceased. The burial will be at Martinsville.

Mr. Opdyke was one of the best known members of the Newark Conference, which he joined in 1863, and was widely-known throughout New Jersey. He was a native of Everittstown, where he was born on January 23, 1833. His first pastorate was in St. Luke's church, Newark, where he remained until 1865. His other pastorates were as follows:

Rahway, 1884; Stanton and Allerton, 1891-1894; Mt. Horeb, 1895-1898. His last pastorate was at Cokesbury, 1899-1901 and in 1893 he retired from the ministry. Since that time he resided on a farm at Martinsville. He was beloved for his excellent Christian qualities and for his faithful ministry.

There survives a wife, a daughter, Miss Addie F. Opdyke, and two sons, Edward J. Opdyke, who lives at home and Arthur H. Opdyke, of Asbury Park.

FOURTH ANNUAL PICNIC PLAINFIELD HEBREW SCHOOL

The fourth annual picnic of the Plainfield Hebrew School will be held Sunday afternoon and evening at the Chimney Rock picnic grounds. The outings, held under the auspices of this organization during the past few years have been enjoyable affairs, and the occasion this year will be no exception.

Over eight hundred tickets have already been disposed of for the affair. The trip to the Rock will be made by trolley as far as Bound Brook, where stages will transfer the picnicers to their destination. The general committee of arrangements is composed of Hyman Adelberg, chairman; Harry Dreier, Morris Abrams, Jacob A. Fass, Kalmen Rothberg, Lewis Praeger, L. Goldson and Victor Drellick.

BONNIE BURN IMPROVEMENTS.

Excavations are well under way at Bonnie Burn for the proposed new buildings, the contract price for which is $60,000. When completed the accommodations will be greatly enlarged.

CALKINS WILL BE A CANDIDATE

Announcement Made Today That He Will Seek Mayoralty Nomination.

URGED TO ENTER RACE

Predicted That Third Ward Councilman Will Have United Support of All Parties—Has Been Active In City Affairs.

Councilman Leighton Calkins, whose term expires this year, it was announced today, has consented to seek the Mayoralty nomination on the Republican ticket to succeed Percy Leighton Calkins.

H. Stewart, the present incumbent. Mr. Calkins is now enjoying an automobile trip with his family through the New England States. He will return home the latter part of August in time to engage in the primary campaign.

The announcement of Mr. Calkins candidacy was made by President George S. Clay, of the Common Council, who said: "The fact that Mr. Calkins has decided to enter the race is most gratifying to me, especially because through close association with him in councilmanic affairs, I have become thoroughly familiar with his ability and know that should he be elected his administration of the Mayor's office would be efficient and painstaking. He has been urged by a number of prominent citizens to seek the office of Mayor, and I myself have requested him to do so, because of his known ability.

"Mr. Calkins is now in good health and his business affairs are so arranged that if elected he could devote his time to the office. The petitions are now being prepared and will be placed in circulation within a few days. I feel sure that he will have the united support of all Republicans and Progressives as well as many Democrats in not only securing the nomination, but at the election in November."

Mr. Calkins was elected in 1912 for a two-year term. He served on many important committees last year and this year is chairman of the finance committee, and is also a member of the committees on fire and buildings and police. He has taken an active interest in all city affairs, especially the police and license matters. This year he secured the adoption of an ordinance which gives Plainfield a fixed policy as regards the sale of liquor, and in many other ways he has suggested legislation tending to the best interests of the city.

Mr. Calkins is an enthusiastic golfer and for several years was president of the Plainfield Country Club, where his valuable services were much appreciated. He is engaged in the practice of law in New York and since becoming a Councilman has made a close study of municipal laws with a view to familiarizing himself with important matters pertaining to city government.

ENJOYABLE TIME IS PROMISED.

The annual excursion of Trinity, Netherwood and Marconnier Reformed churches, and Mt. Pleasant Sunday schools to Asbury Park, will be held on Thursday, July 30, and promises to be one of the best of the season. There will be two sections leaving Plainfield at 8:15 o'clock in the morning. Returning from the shore the trains will leave at 7:10 and 7:15 o'clock. The committee in charge has made all arrangements for a pleasant day for the excursionists.

UNDERWENT OPERATION.

Mrs. Adelbert Vail, of East Fifth street, who underwent an operation yesterday at her home, is resting comfortably. The operation was performed by Dr. J. H. Buchanan, assisted by Dr. Van Horn. It was very successful.

The Dunbar Social Club will hold a shirt waist dance and social in the Washington School this evening at 8:15.

PLAINFIELD PRICES LOWER THAN ELSEWHERE—BUY HERE AND SAVE

As a result of the Trade-in-Plainfield contest inaugurated by the Press many instances of what can be accomplished by shopping here are being brought to light. Some of them are being saved for the Contest Editor, while others are being related now, with no thought of prize winning.

One woman, for instance, desiring to buy a hammock, sought the latest styles in such porch furniture and priced the various kinds in Plainfield and also in the big department stores in New York. She found that hammocks of the identical kind, make and style were much lower in price, very much lower, in Plainfield than in the city.

Had this woman made her purchase in Plainfield in the first place she would have saved 25 per cent. on her investment. In addition she would have saved railroad fare and the time required for her trip to the metropolis, as well as the cost of her luncheon and value of a day spent there.

As it is with hammocks, so it is with practically everything else and hundreds of shrewd, careful shoppers can tell similar stories of how it pays to Trade in Plainfield.

Everybody in Plainfield and for miles around should enter the Trade-in-Plainfield Contest and win a Press prize. The cash prize of $10 will prove a nice addition to vacation spending money and the merchandise-order prizes may be utilized for the buying of vacation necessities.

Four prizes, beginning with $10 in gold, will be given by the Press for the writing of short letters giving experiences in buying of articles from any of the many merchants who advertise in this newspaper. The contest will continue until August 12. It will not be conducted in the interest of any particular advertiser, but to show the readers of the Press that it will pay them to study the advertising columns of the Press as carefully as they do the news and feature columns.

Letters should not exceed 500 words in length. They should be written on one side of the paper only and mailed to the Press office not later than the day following the closing of the contest. In judging the letters consideration will be given to those best illustrating the advantage of buying from Press advertisers, to those best illustrating the advantages of buying in Plainfield, to the brevity and simplicity of the illustrations.

The size of the purchase will have no bearing on the contest. It may be either large or small. The only conditions are:

The instance related in your letter must be bona fide, contain a description of the purchase and be accompanied by a copy of the advertisement and tell the character, amount and date of purchase. The advertisements must be taken from the Press, within the time limit of the contest, July 22 to August 12.

The prizes to be awarded follow: First, $10 in gold; second, $6 order on any advertiser in the Press; third, a year's subscription to the Daily Press; fourth, cash order for $3.

The condition of Mrs. Roger L. Cooley, who has been critically ill at her home on Dunellen avenue, took a turn for the better last evening.

RETURN FROM AUTO TRIP.

A. G. Nelson, Clarence M. Haight and William Giles and family, returned last evening from an automobile tour since Monday, through Long Island. They had intended to be away a week but the inclemency of the weather yesterday afternoon resulted in a decision to return home.

FRACTURES BOTH ARMS.

Mrs. Margaret Parkinson, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. John Reiss, on North avenue, fell down the rear stairs of the Reiss residence last night, breaking her two arms and sustaining injuries about the face. Mrs. Parkinson was going down the back stairs about 11:30 to get a drink of water when she stumbled in some manner and fell to the bottom of the steps. Doctors Cooley and Whitford were immediately summoned and Mrs. Parkinson is now confined to her bed in a serious condition. She is seventy years old.

BOY SCOUTS MEETING.

Don't forget the important meeting of the council of the Boy Scouts of America in the borough hall this evening. Your presence at this meeting is most earnestly solicited, as they want you to be fully informed as to what is to be undertaken so as to secure your wholehearted co operation.

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT AT BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT

A large audience attended the benefit entertainment given last night in the Netherwood Reformed church, and enjoyed an excellent program of music and recitations. The affair was a marked success financially the services of the various performers being given without charge for the occasion, some coming from Cranford and New York.

The program included the following numbers: Trio, piano, violin and cello, Messrs. Van Sothern, Wilkinson, Thomas; tenor solo, "Invictus," by Mr. Metcalf; reading, "The Beggar at the Opera," by Mrs. Tomlinson; violin solo, "Cavatina," Mr. Thoma; soprano solo, Miss Raybert, "To You," "A Perfect Day," "Who Knows"; impersonations and baritone solo, Mr. Du Barry; piano duet, Mrs. Mattell and Mrs. Rush; cello solo, "Elegie," "Massonet," Mr. Wilkinson; impersonations and baritone solo, Mr. Du Barry; recitations, Miss Alice Stewart; tenor solo, "Laddie," Mr. Metcalf; violin solo, "Humoreske," Mr. Thoma; reading, "The Gypsy Trail," Mr. Tomlinson. Mrs. Wm. Hadley, Mrs. S. O. Rush and Mr. Van Sothern were the accompanists.

CONFERENCE COMES TO A SUDDEN TERMINATION

London, July 24 (Central News Cable).—The conferences of representatives of all political parties interested in the Home Rule for Ireland question, which were called by King George and have been taking place at Buckingham Palace since Tuesday, came suddenly to an end at noon today.

Representatives of the Government, the Opposition, and of the Irish Nationalists and Ulster Unionists, met today at 11:30, but the meeting broke up soon after the opening and it is officially announced that the conferences will not meet again.

What transpired at today's conference could not be elicited from any of the members who took part.

PERSONAL.

Miss Anna Lee, of West Sixth street, is spending two weeks at Greenwood Lake.

Miss Margaret Blackburn, of New York, is visiting Mis Maria A. Carty of Orchard place.

John Bimble and J. J. Carty are spending two weeks at Montreal, Canada.

A. I. Littell, of North avenue, is spending his vacation at Ocean Grove.

G. D. Hallock, of Willow avenue is at Round Mountain Lake, Maine.

Ensign John Brown, of the United States battleship Nebraska, has returned to Boston after a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Murray Burtis, of Fairview avenue.

Charles H. Grannatt, of East Front street, who is a representative of a New York concern through the southern States, is spending his two months' vacation in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Firstbrook, of East Front street, are returning today from Asbury Park, where they have been spending the past two weeks.

President W. G. Besler, of the New Jersey Central, and family are registered at the Hotel New Monterey, Asbury Park.

LOCAL MAN IN CHARGE OF RING AT HOLLYWOOD

Joseph J. O'Donohue, the well-known horseman who resides on Plainfield avenue, is in charge of the ring at the Monmouth county horse show in Long Branch, today. This is the twenty-first annual exhibit of the Long Branch club at the Hollywood Park and will be concluded tomorrow when the half-dozen championship classes will be judged.

Yesterday was "Governor's Day" at the show and the affair was attended by throngs of horse lovers. Governor Fielder and his staff arrived at the field at 3:30 o'clock for the gala occasion.

CITY GETS TAIL-END OF TERRIFIC STORM

Surrounding Country Devastated By Wind and Rain Yesterday Afternoon.

Plainfield and vicinity got the tail-end of one of the worst thunder and lightning storms recorded in this State in several years, yesterday afternoon, and the damage here was slight compared with that done in other sections of New Jersey. After its visit here the storm left in its wake many broken limbs and several disabled electric light wires. Patrolmen in all portions of the city were kept on the lookout for live wires hanging close to the ground and in several instances the officers had to stand guard over the wires in which death lurked for several hours. The storm assumed the appearance of a minature tornado and came from the West. Its coming was announced several minutes before the rainfall by lowering clouds and increasing wind and after a downpour of twenty minutes it disappeared almost as quickly as it had come. During the storm one of the Arlington avenue trolley cars was derailed while rounding a corner on Woodland avenue and traffic on that line was delayed for half an hour. The remainder of the damage was confined to trees many of which were minus several limbs when the wind abated.

The rainstorm following two hours of sulphuric atmosphere oppression and in other portions of the State the damage was terrific and in some cases irreparable. Roofs were ripped from their moorings, cellars filled with water, trees were uprooted, traffic was brought to a standstill and wreckage strewn about the thoroughfares. At the national guard camp in Sea Girt one of the guardsmen was killed by a bolt of lightning. Another man was killed by a falling sign on the streets of Newark and several in the immediate vicinity of Plainfield were paralyzed by shock. Shutters in some cases were torn off houses and the rain was swirled about the buildings of the city so that it entered the smallest crevices.

EX-WIFE GIVES UP CAILLAUX LETTERS

Hands Them Over In Dramatic Scene In Court.

Paris, July 24.—Mme. Berthe Gueydan, Joseph Caillaux's first wife, a slender woman with wasted cheeks and black eyes, came into the court and faced her former husband, former premier of France, and put as though upon a rack the womar who had won him from her, Mme. Henriette Caillaux, now on trial for the killing of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro.

Mme. Gueydan was to tell her part in the publication in the Figaro of the now celebrated "Thy Joe" letter, but she declared she knew nothing about it and affirmed that she had told Gaston Calmette nothing.

The emotional summit of the trial was reached when other private letters were handed over by Mme. Gueydan to Fernand Labori, counsel for Mme. Caillaux. It was one of the most dramatic moments in the annals of the French courts. A deep and impressive silence fell upon the courtroom, which was crowded to suffocation.

"Here is the packet of letters I took at Mamers," said Mme. Gueydan, giving them to an attendant, who passed them to Labori.

"I will consider with Maitre Chenu what shall be done," said Labori, "but whatever we decide the jury may rest assured that they will be apprised of their contents, as is their right and duty to expect."

"Among them," added Mme. Gueydan, "are the two letters referred to as the private letters."

Praying For Rain.

Noblesville, Ind., July 24.—A meeting was called here to pray for rain, members of the First Presbyterian church of this city being led by their pastor, the Rev. Frank F. Miller. Crops in this section have been ruined, as there has been no rain for eight weeks.

ARMY WORMS VS. MOSQUITOES.

Elizabeth, July 24.—It was reported by Russell W. Geis, inspector for the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission, that army worms are appearing in great numbers near the commission's headquarters, 25 Rahway avenue.

George W. Seller today complained of army worms on his lawn at 473 Morris avenue.

WIRES AND TREES.

Attention has been called to the damage being done to shade trees in Plainfield by the electric light wires Complaints continue to come to the Daily Press office, and it seems to us that it is time for the authorities to see that the trees are properly protected. In one case, a limb off of an apple tree, containing fruit, was found on the ground, and the mark of the wire was plainly burned into it. In another a resident saw a slight blaze at a distance, which looked as if the home of a neighbor was on fire. He hurried to the spot to find that a tree was being severely burned by a wire from which the insulation had been scraped. The local authorities inform us that wherever wires pass through trees they are supposed to be protected by wood, so as to prevent the trees from coming in contact with them, but this apparently is not done by the light company.

The care of its shade trees is the concern of every city, or should be, yet it is far from usual for a municipality to take up this, its duty, in the fullest meaning—a duty involving the general protection of trees, promotion and supervision of tree planting and general care and trimming of the city's shade. City forestry departments are more or less frequently to be found and some city tree commissions exist to do remarkably good work, but these have too often been hampered by lack of good laws and available cash. The city of Indianapolis, Ind., with neither forestry department nor tree commission, is finding it possible to do much, having good laws and sufficient money.

Indianapolis has a municipal tree brigade—to be exact, it has two of them—whose duty it is to systematically trim all the shade trees in all lots and yards fronting on the public streets, and to see that they are protected from wires. These tree "manicures" are under the direction of the city Board of Park Commissioners. At a surprisingly low cost—an average of 47 cents per tree—an enormous amount of good has been acomplished in a little more than two months in saving the city's shade and beautifying the city's thoroughfares.

The park horticulturist, in addition, is making a survey of all the city's streets to ascertain varieties which have been planted, the number of dead trees and the space between trees. The board is making an effort to cause property-owners to plant certain varieties at intervals which will permit the trees to enjoy a healthy growth. A special ordinance has made all these things possible by putting in the hands of the municipality the control and full supervision of all shade trees adjacent to public streets. No one can remove, trim, spray or plant a tree without a permit from the park board. All work must be done by licensed men, expert in their work, and the inexperienced tree trimmer has been entirely eliminated. Here is a program which other cities might copy with good results and which might be investigated by Plainfield.

Here's the latest from the East Second street sage: "Boosting, like saving money, is hard to start, especially if you don't happen to have an alibi. But it is easier to start today than next week and, as time passes, the habit accumulates, and the interest on the time and energy is compounded every six months. It is a wise investment, no matter whether you save money on the one hand or boost Plainfield on the other. You reap the benefits of both in due season."

Do you realize that if you should look upon scenery equal or not, so beautiful as that which surrounds Plainfield, while you are on your vacation, you would undoubtedly stop to behold the grand handiwork of nature. But for some reason, you cannot appreciate that within a small radius of this city, and within its very borders, there is scenery that ought to command your attention as much as any that the average person beholds on an extended vacation to other parts.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane gives some helpful advice to propertyowners in the contributed editorial which will appear in tomorrow night's Daily Press. He shows how the average resident can be of service to the fire department, and what he has to say is well worth heeding by every resident of the city.

By the way, old chap, can you honestly say that you have said one kind word for your home town during the past week—or even the past month? If not, why not?

Thought for today: To find fault is human; to see and speak of the good, divine.

COURT OF PARDONS' RIGHT QUESTIONED

This Body Has Been Granting Paroles to Convicts in State's Prison.

The question has been raised on the legal right of the Court of Pardons to grant paroles from the State prison and the other penal and correctional institutions of the State, it being claimed that under the provisions of the new parole act of 1914, the sole power of granting paroles is vested in the Board of Inspectors of the State prison. It is understood that the Attorney General's Department has rendered an oupinion to the Court of Pardons to the effect that since the enactment of the 1914 act the court has no authority to grant paroles. The Attorney General's Department refuses to make its opinion public, but the fact that such an opinion has been rendered was confirmed today.

The document is understood to be in the hands of Governor Fielder. The opinion was given several days ago, before the meeting of the Court of Pardons at Sea Girt on Tuesday, at which time the court granted nearly 200 paroles. This would seem to indicate that the members of the court put a different construction upon the new act and proposed to ignore the opinion.

The parole act of 1914 expressly provides that "The Board of Inspectors shall have full and final authority to grant and revoke paroles."

ACCIDENT TO DUNELLENITE IS SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

Members of the Zimmerman family, of Dunellen, left hastily for New York city, last night, where they had been summoned by the serious condition of one of the other members who was injured in an accident earlier in the day.

Although no details regarding the occurrence could be obtained today it was said that Mrs. Alfred Zimmerman and her son, Alfred, who recently moved to Dunellen, went to New York yesterday morning and it is thought by intimate friends that one or the other was injured. When interviewed in New York by a Daily Press reporter this afternoon Miss Edith Zimmerman, a daughter, refused to comment on the nature of the family's hasty trip to that city. The home in Dunellen is closed.

November 3—Election Day.

POLITICAL NOTES. . . . . .

Edgar A. Knapp, Progressive State Committeeman, denies statements that former Mayor George W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, will not be a candidate for the nomination of State Senator on the Progressive ticket. He declared unequivocally that Mr. Moy has consented to run at the request of numerous friends. Mr. Knapp also intimated that Republican politicians were responsible for the circulation of the rumors regarding the alleged refusal of Mr. Moy to be a candidate. The entry of the former Plainfield Mayor is not intended to keep others out of the race, he declared, as the Progressives will welcome an open primary contest.

A joint meeting of the Progressive State Committee and county chairmen will be held at the Hotel Montereyfi Asbury Park, Tuesday night, for the purpose of discussing plans for the forthcoming campaign. Consideration also will be given to the holding of a big mass meeting in Asbury Park or Ocean Grove in the latter part of August, with Theodore Roosevelt as the principal speaker. Special rates have been obtained at the hotel and other interested party members are invited to attend.

One primary candidate certain to stand the September test and to go before the electorate of the whole county for approval in November, promises to be County Registrar Frank H. Smith. The dearth of rivals for the Republican nomination is taken by many as a criterion of his strength.

Suggestion that ex-Freeholder Thomas J. Pierson be a candidate for county clerk on the Democratic ticket, with the tacit approval of factional leaders, has met with considerable approval. The sentiment of recent conferences on the county ticket was that candidates for county clerk and registrar should be from this city, with the sheriff and Senate aspirants from outside. There is a dearth of candidates for county clerk, however, and Kenyon Messick, of Cranford, may yet be the only primary aspirant for the nomination.

HEALTH BOARD AND COMMISSIONERS MEET

Investigate Complaints Regarding Mosquito Breeding Places.

The city Board of Health and the Mosquito Commission of Union county, have made a thorough investigation of the complaints that have been made of mosquito breeding places. They have inspected all of the property in question and at a meeting of the local commission, the Dunellen Mosquito Commission and the North Plainfield Township Commission, this morning, it was decided to serve notices on property-owners where mosquito nuisances exist to clean out and drain swampy lands and put them in good condition.

It was also found that the breeding occurred on the property of some of the complainants and they were likewise instructed to better the conditions. All of the guilty persons were instructed to proceed with changes immediately. At the meeting, this morning, it was also found that some of the complaints did not concern this city and were dismissed.

The North Plainfield Township Commission held a meeting a short time ago and suggestions were made as to how the property-owners should remedy the present conditions in regards to this question. All of the offenders were notified and have complied with the wishes of the commission.

FRIENDS GIVE FAREWELL TO WILLIAM LEITHEUSSER

A farewell party was tendered to William Leitheusser, of East Second street, last night. Mr. Leitheusser sails for Germany tomorrow, for the first time in twenty-four years. During that period of time Mr. Leitheusser has done much for the cities of Plainfield and Westfield. Acting in the capacity of construction superintendent he has built many of the finest houses in Plainfield, and for the past five years he has been giving his energies to the building up of Westfield, having superintended the building of more houses there in that period than any one other man.

Mr. Leitheusser has won the hearts of all his workmen and a goodly gathering of them were present to help make merry the last evening but one which he will spend in America for several months.

The evening was truly delightful. Friends and relatives, some from as far off as Canada, some from nearer home, gave way to the spirit of the occasion, and grown-ups became children again. Games were played, songs and solos were rendered, and after that refreshments were served.

It was too hot to dance but all enjoyed a fine evening, and "Billy" was a grand host.

SYSTEM UNDER REPAIR.

The borough fire alarm system, while under repairs yesterday, sounded one or two taps from the bell, giving people the idea that a serious fire was in progress at a nearby point.

FITZSIMMONS WILL BOX IN BOUND BROOK THEATRE

Bob Fitzsimmons, ex-heavy weight champion pugilist of the world, and his husky son, Bob Jr., will feature the unique program arranged for the benefit of the South Bound Brook fire department in the Bound Brook theatre tonight. The two members of the Fitzsimmons family will engage in a sparring match of several rounds and Bob Sr., will give one of his famous "spiels" on how to become a real fighter.

In an interview with a Daily Press reporter yesterday afternoon the elder Fitzsimmons was optimistic of his son's chances of putting to sleep any living white hope of the present day and proposes to show just what kind of a punch the youngster has.

NAVY COMMANDER ORDERS VAIL TO REMAIN AWAY

Bert Vail, the Plainfield boy, who is a sailor on board the U. S. S. Florida, and who was apprehended here the forepast of the week on a disorderly charge, has returned to his ship with a letter in his possession from Chief of Police Kiely, suggesting that he be kept away from Plainfield where he frequently gets into trouble. The local police head cited the circumstances surrounding the apprehension of the sailor here and said that in his opinion the boy was better off away from his former pals.

In response to the letter Chief Kiely received the following communication from William S. Crosby, commander of the United States Navy, this morning:

"Albert Vail has delivered your letter on board and has been warned to keep away from Plainfield. Your letter and the action of the court in Vail's case are very much appreciated by the captain of the Florida and I desire to express my appreciation also."

OFFERS $5 GOLD PIECE.

Samuel Rothberg, the West Front street clothing merchant, as a further means of stimulating interest in the contest being conducted by The Daily Press, will present $5 in gold to the author of a prize-winning letter which is written on purchases made at his store.

SEARCH IS BEING MADE FOR CHARLES WHEELER

Chief Kiely, of the local police force, is in receipt of a letter from the chief of police of Lawrence, Mass., requesting him to make an investigation locally to ascertain the whereabouts of one Charles Wheeler, who is supposed to be living here. Wheeler was formerly a sailor in the United States Navy and married a girl in Lawrence.

He mysteriously disappeared from that place two years ago and has not been since heard from by his brother who now lives there and is making an effort to find out if his relative is still alive. Since Wheeler was last heard from two of his brothers have died. He is described as being thirty years old, is five feet eight inches in heighth, fair hair and fair complexion. Chief Kiely would welcome any information regarding this man.

TO EXHIBIT AT TRENTON.

William J. Trembath, of Chatham street, is planning to exhibit a number of fowls at the Trenton Inter-State Fair, as well as the Allentown, Pa., Fair, this fall. Mr. Trembath has had remarkable success in rearing chickens and other fowl. He was recently designated by the New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement as official delegate to the New Jersey Experimental Station at New Brunswick.

LABOR PARADE PLANS.

The committee on arrangements for the Labor Day parade met last evening at the Trades Council rooms, when the work on the making of the details of the plans for the occasion were started. While the parade will primarily be a labor parade, local business men and industrial concerns are being asked to prepare floats for the occasion. The material for the large reviewing stand is to be contributed by the Master Builders Association, while the carpenters will do the work in the erection of the stand.

MRS. JOHN HUTCHINS.

Mrs. John Hutchins, aged 87 years, died last evening at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John K. Large, of 400 East Front street following a long illness. She was a native of Winchester, N. H., and about five years ago came here to make her home with her daughter. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Hutchins is survived by a son, Eugene Hutchins, of Winchester. The funeral and interment will be at Winchester.

Jack Fritts Stole Home.

ark coppers on Parker Field, yesterday, because rain came in the seventh and put a stop to the contest. The locals were closing the gap in the score in the last few innings and had the full nine innings been played the score might have been different. The final score was 5 to 3. The locals had a great day and were playing a good brand of ball.

Leary, Newark's pitching wonder, was on the mound and was given perfect support, the contest being free from errors. In the first inning two errors and a passed ball gave the invaders one run. But, in the second round, Fritts, running for McLoughlin, showed the visitors some classy work on the bases. Warry had singled and Fritts took his place on first. Jack stole second on the first ball pitched and third on the second. He was held there while two men struck out and then stole home with the locals first run.

Both teams were blanked in the third and fourth inning and the Newarkers took the lead in the fifth. Two singles and a passed ball did the trick and put them two runs in the lead. In the sixth they scored one but the locals came back with a pair and almost tied the score. Another tally in the seventh gave the visitors the game as the locals did nothing in their half of this period and then rain interfered.

McCarthy, catcher for the locals, had his finger broken in the sixth inning and Tommy Mullin took his place so that the game could continue. Fritts and Lawrence did the best stick work for their respective teams. The score:

MC CARTHY OUT OF GAME FOR REST OF SEASON

Cornelius McCarthy, who catches for the police baseball team, had his finger broken in the game with Newark, on Parker Field, yesterday. He injured the finger somtime ago playing and had it wrapped up ever since. Yesterday he received a foul tip on the end of it and it broke at the first joint. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the injured member was set and put in splints. As the locals had no other catcher, Tommy Mullin took his place behind the bat so the game could be continued.

HIGHLANDERS vs. PARKS.

The Highlanders, Netherwood's fastest representatives on the diamond, will meet the Park Avenue Baptist team tomorrow afternoon on Crescent Oval. As both teams have been playing winning ball of late a close contest is expected. Denny and Dodd will form the battery for the Highlanders while Bowlby and Blume will probably be the selection for the Parks.

GAME WANTED.

Owing to a cancellation, Manager Carroll Taylor, of the Canadian A. C., is without a game for tomorrow afternoon and would like to hear from some fast team of this vicinity. Telephone 512-R.

WEEKLY S. S. GAME.

The weekly game of the Sunday-school Baseball League will be played tomorrow on the Clinton avenue field between the Monroe and First Baptist teams. The game will start at 3:30 sharp.

SUNDAY BALLISTS AGAINST OLD RIVAL

Plainfield - Flemington Diamond Encounters Will Be Resumed Saturday.

The Plainfield Sunday B. B. C. will lineup against Flemington next Sunday, at Woodland Park. This is the first time Flemington has been down here since the time they used to play the old Clinton avenue team.

The Flemington team is winning all its games and Plainfield will have its strongest lineup on the field. Miller will be used in the outfield and also as substitute pitcher on account of the fine showing he made last Sunday against Perth Amboy. Jackie Hayes, the New Brunswick twirler, will be the regular box artist and he will fill the one weak spot the team has had all season.

The lineup:

PLAINFIELD.	FLEMINGTON.
Jaeger, lf	ss, Anderson
Grimes 2b	rf, Lynch
Conti, 3b	1b, Slattery
Mullin, ss	c, Mount
Alberts, c	2b, Bellis

Bayonne,	6	2	.750
Orange,	5	5	.500
Rahway,	3	3	.500
Plainfield,	3	4	.428
Jersey City,	1	9	.100

It was decided at a meeting of the managers of the Moose Baseball League last night, to replay the Elizabeth-Rahway game of July 12 and the Bayonne-Rahway tilt of June 28. These contests were protested. The managers will arrange for the games.

The following men were present at the meeting: William Barry and N. Johansen, Plainfield; F. C. Reimer and A. M. Roarke, Rahway; James Dwyer, Orange; J. E. Kuster, Jersey City; F. H. Trevena and P. J. Tobin, Bayonne; Fitts J. Osmun and James Hill, Elizabeth. Oscar De Hart, president of the league, presided. The league will conclude in September.

Following is the schedule drawn up last night.

ANDY COAKLEY ANGLING FOR LOCAL TEAM'S TWIRLER

Andy Coakley, of the Asbury Park team, of the Atlantic League, has been after Jackie Hayes, who will pitch for Tommy Mullin's Plainfield Sunday Baseball Club, to join his team, but Jackie has refused the offer submitted to him. He has no desire to enter professional baseball. He could have been in big company before, as he had several offers made to him.

Jackie will pitch for the Plainfield team against Flemington, Sunday, and will be in fine condition for the game. He expects to give a good account of himself.

MARTIN HAS OFF DAY.

Jack Martin apparently had an off day yesterday in the field, making three misplays. The entire team was off and there were eight errors chalked up against the players who lost to Chicago by a score of 15 to 8. Jock Chicago by a score of 1 5to 8. Jack made up for his errors by pounding out two singles out of four trips to the plate and stole one base. He also figured in one double play. In the fourth round he singled and scored ahead of Dooin who hit for a circuit trip. He had two assists and two putouts to his credit.

BOY AND VETERAN CLASH TOMORROW

Great Game Expected on Parker Field When These Teams Meet First Time.

George Townley and "Warry" McLoughlin will oppose each other on the mound tomorrow afternoon when the Plainfield Pets and Saurers come together on Parker Field at 3:30. The big difference between these two pitchers is that McLoughlin is an old timer and Townley is just breaking into fast company. The boy, however, expects to give the old warhorse a run for the victory and ball fans will probably be treated to one of the best games of the season here.

Plainfield will have its regular lineup with the exception of Harney at second and his place will be filled by Brown. The Pets have lost but two games this year and both of those went for extra innings while the Saurer aggregation has only had one defeat. The teams are evenly matched and there should be a tight game. The teams will lineup as follows:

PLAINFIELD.	SAURER
Coyle, 3b	2b, Harriman
Mullin, ss	ss, Jaegar
Dixon, 1b	c, Alberts
Nelson, c	2b, Martin
Brown, 2b	1b, Garretson
Stine, rf	p, McLoughlin
Dorman, cf	rf, Dixon
Stewart, lf	cf, Miller
Townley, p	lf, Wilson

FIRST CANOE "CHAMPS" HELD IN NEW JERSEY

Paddlers representing probably the strongest canoe clubs in the east, among whom are William Schooley, formerly of this city, will come together tomorrow at Deal Lake, when the State canoe championships, under the auspices of the Asbury Park Canoe Club and the Carnival Association, will be held. The "champs" are the first of their kind ever held in the State, and one of the greatest crowds in the history of Deal Lake is expected to line the banks at Asbury Park and Loch Arbor. The races will start at the beach and the finish line will be close to the trolley bridge.

After the meet the Asbury Park club will entertain the visiting paddlers at the North Asbury Park firehouse where Colonel Aymer will award the medals to the victors. A banquet will be served, and visiting paddlers and their friends will be invited to attend.

CONNIE MACK PICKS UP BOUND BROOK PLAYER

Nick Powers, of Bound Brook, who covered the shortfield for many of the best known semi-pro teams in this section, has been ordered to report to the Philadelphia Athletics for a try-out. He has been playing with the Morrisville Club of the Deleware League. Powers is considered a clever fielder and can also bat well.

NOVEL FEAT OF DUNELLEN WOMAN BOWLER.

In the games of the Women's Two Team Bowling Tournament on the Presbyterian alleys, last evening, Miss Pearl Dodwell, of the Voorhees and Dodwell combination, knocked the pins over for four straight strikes in the first game of her team's match with the Vail and Johnson duo. This feat is believed to have never been equalled by any woman bowler in this vicinity.

SECOND PLACE TIE IN ALLEY TOURNEY

Rare Feats Being Registered By Dunellen's Fair Pinners.

Miss Pearl Dodwell, of the Voorhees and Dodwell team, accomplished a feat in the games of the Women's Two-team Bowling Tournament, on the Presbyterian alleys, Dunellen, last night, that in all probability has never been equalled by any woman bowler in this vicinity, when she knocked the pins over for four straight strikes in her team's first match with the Vail and Johnson combination. Up to the fifth frame, when Miss Dodwell started to "strike," she only had a score of 27, which accounts for the fact that she finished the game with a score of only 147.

The results of the night's matches were three victories and one defeat for the Voorhees and Dodwell team, two victories and two defeats for the Vail and Johnson duo and one victory and three defeats for the Vail and Smith combination, Mrs. Charles Vail substituting for Mrs. W. G. Smith, in the latter combination. As the result of the Voorhees and Dodwell team winning three games and losing one and the Vail and Johnson team losing two of the games that they bowled, a tie was caused to exist between those teams for second place position with a percentage of .687.

In the individual standing column Miss Pearl Dodwell increased her average eight points, from 71 to 79, and jumped from a position of fifteenth in the list to twelfth. Miss Florence Smith also increased her average eight points, passing Miss Alice Apgar and Mrs. J. G. Kelley. Mrs. Fred Vail increased her average one point, to 102. Miss Ruth Voorhees dropped to 93, but still occupies fourth place. Mrs. William Johnson had a decided off night, losing four points to 56, and dropping one peg.

Miss Voorhees	83	72
Miss Dodwell	54	74
	137	146
Mrs. C. Vail	46	90
Miss Smith	76	90
	122	180

TO MEET IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., July 24—All arrangements have been perfected for the annual convention of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations, which is to be held in this city next week. The sessions will begin Monday and continue through Wednesday. The National Association of Examiners, composed of officials appointed by the State governments to supervise the building and loan associations in their respective States, will hold its third annual convention here at the same time the league meets.

INAUGURATES NEW PORT.

BRUNT[illegible], July 24—Today marked the [illegible]ning of a series of elaborate fetes and pageants in honor of the opening of the new port and maritime canal of Brussels. The celebration is to cover a period of four days and will include a number of attractive features. Among the special guests of the occasion are the Lord Mayor and sheriff of London and similar officials representing many of the prominent cities on the Continent.

CLAFLIN CO. CREDITORS MEET.

New York, July 24—A preliminary statement of assest and liabilities of the H. B. Claflin Company, the great dry goods house which recently went into bankruptcy, was presented to the creditors at a meeting today. On account of the large number of creditors the meeting was held in the ballroom of a prominent uptown hotel, since no hall of sufficient size could be found in the downtown business section.

WATSON vs. CLINTON.

The Watson A. C. will lineup against the Clinton A. C., Monday, at 1:30 o'clock on Hope Common. The batteries will be Porter and Snyder for the Watsons and Wilson and Bussel for the Clintons.

COL. HENRY P. MC CAIN MAY BE NEXT GENERAL

Washington, D. C., July 24—The opinion is going around in army circles that Col. Henry P. McCain is likely to be the next adjutant general of the army, succeeding Brigadier General George Andrews, who will be retired from the service on account of age. In response to orders from the Secretary of War, Col. McCain is now on his way to Washington from the Philippines and is expected to arrive here in a few days before the date of Gen. Andrews' retirement.

Col. McCain is the youngest officer in the permanent establishment and in the ordinary routine will not retire for age until 1925. He is a native of Mississippi and was graduated from West Point in 1885. After fifteen years' service in the infantry he was appointed in November, 1900, a major in the adjutant general's department and reached the grade of colonel in that department in 1904. For several years he was stationed at the War Department and frequently has acted as adjutant general. He was transferred to the Philippines about two years ago and the fact that he has been recalled before completing his tour of duty there has strengthened the impression that he is slated for the office of adjutant general.

TROLLEY TRAVEL LIGHT.

Officials of the Public Service Railway say that there is a marked decrease in riding this summer over that of a year ago, which they attribute to the fact that so many men are out of employment. They say that even on Saturday and Sunday, considered the two best days in the week, the travel is very light.

AN EXCELLENT SUGGESTION.

The county roads, which have been treated with the patent preparation known as amiesite, is standing up well under the heavy automobile traffic, and it has been suggested that the same pavement might be used in this city to the advantage of the taxpayers.

Unity "New Thought" services will be inaugurated in this city tomorrow noon and will continue for some time at 132 Crescent avenue. The services will be held at noon on week days and eleven o'clock Sunday morning. All interested are invited to attend.

WILL VISIT EUROPE.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, will sail on August 31 for a five weeks' trip to Europe. He will return home the first week of September.

"TOBY" AT THE SEASHORE.

Patrolman Tobias Nolan, who is enjoying his annual vacation, is spending the time at Atlantic City according to postal cards received by friends here.

Master John W. Cartwright, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Cartwright, of Jackson avenue, Netherwood, is spending two weeks at Gloucester, Mass., visiting his aunt, Mrs. Edward Patterson. The youngster made the trip all alone.

CHAIRMAN NEWLANDS.

© 1914, by American Press Association.

The administration's trust legislative program is at last before the senate. Chairman Newlands reported the railroad securities bill, the last of the trio of anti-trust measures. With the new order made by the Democratic caucus that the senate shall sit daily from 11 to 6 o'clock and cut out all routine morning business plans for expediting the legislation are matured, and progress is expected. Republicans seem disposed to join hands with the Democrats in getting the legislation through.

BEGS FORGIVENESS OF BRIDE'S FATHER; SHOT

Boy Eloper Killed by Town Clerk of Haverstraw, N. Y.

Haverstraw, N. Y., July 24.—A clean cut young fellow, Eugene B. Newman, walked into the office of William V. Cleary, town clerk, to make known his secret marriage to Mr. Cleary's daughter, Anna, last Saturday. Thirty minutes later he was carried out of the office with four bullet wounds in his body, dead.

"I want to tell you, Mr. Cleary," said the youth after he had managed to draw his wife's father to one end of the room, "that Anna and I were married last week."

At the other end of the office sat County Supervisor Josiah Felter, Bernard Fox and John Seibold, friends of Cleary.

"I came to tell you about it," the young man went on. "We want to ask your forgiveness. You see, Mr. Cleary, we can't be happy until we have that."

As Eugene spoke Mr. Cleary's anger mounted rapidly. His friends observing the pair from the other end of the office and, unable to avoid overbearing the conversation, rose with the intention of withdrawing.

In a flash Cleary stepped backward and reached into his hip pocket. Before Newman got the least inkling of what was happening the man had drawn a revolver, leveled it and fired. The boy reeled and fell to the floor. A bullet had pierced his heart.

The three friends sprang forward. In quick succession Cleary fired three more shots at Newman, each one taking effect.

SUIT TO DISSOLVE NEW HAVEN LINES

Government Suggests That Receiver Be Appointed.

ACTION FILED IN NEW YORK

Criminal Suits to Follow—Special Federal Grand Jury to Consider Charges Against Individual Defendants—Sixteen Corporations Involved—Demands in Brief That United States Makes.

New York, July 24.—The department of justice's suit for the dissolution of the alleged New Haven transportation monopoly was filed in the federal district court here.

The filing of these papers marks the beginning of the fight which the federal government is to wage against the New Haven railroad in pursuancee of the president's instruction that civil and criminal proceedings be begun against it and certain of its directors.

The criminal proceedings will be undertaken early in August before a federal grand jury in New York.

Special Assistant Attorney General T. W. Gregory, who filed the action, also had a talk with United States District Attorney Marshall regarding the grand jury's investigation of the criminal aspects in the case.

"We talked over many details of the case, both in regard to a grand jury investigation and the method of docketing," said Mr. Gregory later. "Because of his previous connections Mr. Marshall will not handle the case. Of course there will be a grand jury called."

In its suit the government prays:

That its "contracts, combinations and conspiracies in restraint of trade and commerce, together with its attempts to monopolize, and its monopolies be declared in violation of" the Sherman act.

That its control of "railroad, steamboat and trolley lines be declared combinations in restraint of trade and commerce and that it be restrained from further maintaining these monopolies, or if the court should be of the opinion that the public interests will be better subserved thereby that a receiver be appointed to take possession of all the property of the New Haven company and take such course in reference thereto as will bring about conditions in harmony with law."

That its ownership of stock in the Rutland railroad be declared illegal and that its agreement to share with the New York Central "the financial results of the operation of the Boston and Albany" be declared illegal.

That the "transactions whereby the New Haven company acquired stock in the Boston and Maine and in the leased lines thereof and in the Boston Railroad Holding company be declared illegal" and the New Haven and the holding company be directed to "sell all stocks and bonds" held by them in the Boston and Maine.

That all the stock it holds in other railroad lines, in steamship lines and trolley lines be sold, that it be "enjoined from further holding, directly or through any subsidiary, any of these stocks, shares or securities or interest therein" and that all sales prayed for be made "under the direction and supervision of the court to persons not stockholders or agents or otherwise under the control and influence of the New Haven company."

Twenty days have been allowed to the defendants to reply to this, and when their answers have been put in the case, in accordance with precedent in big Sherman lawsuits, will be sent to a special examiner for the taking of evidence here and at any other centers which are convenient. It is expected that this part of the proceedings will begin in the fall.

Investigation into the "criminal aspects" of the acts of some of the present and former directors will begin on Aug. 12, the day the New Haven makes reply to the charges embodied in the bill of particulars.

Indictments, if any are found, and criminal prosecution will precede the argument on the dissolution. A special grand jury will be drawn on Aug. 3, and its report on the alleged culpability of New Haven manipulators is expected before Sept. 1.

DRUG FIENDS SEEK ARREST.

Driven Insane by Inability to Obtain Dope Since the New Law.

Rochester, N. Y., July 24.—Driven desperate by their inability to purchase heroin, cocaine, morphine and other habit forming drugs since July 1, when the new state law prohibiting the sale of these drugs became effective, eight victims of drugs, all young men, applied to the police and asked to be locked up.

Several of the voluntary prisoners declared that if they were not placed in confinement they feared they would either commit murder of self destruction.

"Either give us the drug or lock us up until we are cured," summed up their appeal.

HANDLESS, HELD AS FORGER.

Accused of Signing Mother's Name With Pen In His Teeth.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 24.—Albert McQuiglin, aged thirty-two, was arrested and charged with forging checks, although he has no hands. Moreover, he has been under arrest before for forging checks and doing it so well he was able to pass them.

He does the writing with his teeth. It is his mother's name that he forges and is so adept that only experts can detect the false signature.

When arrested some time ago the mother made good the amount the son obtained and he was not prosecuted. He was bound over to the circuit court this time.

MOVIES ON FANWOOD FARM

First Reel Starts At 4 a. m. at Clipton's Wireless Hatchery.

FUSILADE OF SHOTS

Warren Peter, With Bill Manning's Gun, Retrieves His Shooting Record in Quiet Hamlet While Villagers Are Awestricken.

F. Leroy Clipton runs a chicken ranch out at Fanwood, N. J., says the Brooklyn Daily Eagle. Fanwood is twenty-one miles out, and Clipton commutes. Fanwood is a small town lying between the cities of Plainfield and Westfield, and there is plenty of room for all of Clipton's chickens and more. There isn't even a "movie" show in the town, but Clipton doesn't worry about that—he has his own "movies" on the farm. Clipton's family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Clipton, Clipton's step-son, Warren Peter, and Warren Peter's wife, Emmabelle—all earnest and aggressive chicken enthusiasts.

Clipton's chicken houses are all up-to-date, to the very latest minute—all except one. Each chicken house is wired all along the bottom with inch-mesh wire to keep rats out—all except one. Every morning, except Sunday, Clipton is yanked out of bed at 4 o'clock by an alarm clock. The other morning it was cloudy and dark, and when the alarm went off at the usual hour, Mrs. Clipton said:

"Don't get up yet, dear, it is too dark. Take a nap for another hour."

Clipton, awake, was restless, and didn't heed the advice of his spouse, so he dressed and went out prowling around the chicken houses, with an eye especially to the one that wasn't wired on the bottom. Gazing in through the wire-screened windows he saw a weasel at work killing his young roosters. It is a weasel's way to grab a chicken by the neck suck its blood out, cast the body aside, and take others quickly in succession. Four "broilers" had been killed already, and if Clipton had slept that other hour probably fifty would have been dead, for a weasel at its prey works like lightning.

Clipton ran into the chicken house to rescue his pets and the weasel disappeared through a hole that he had bored through the floor that wasn't wired. Clipton raised a shout that raised Mrs. C. from slumber and she ran out, scantily clad, to find out what was the trouble. Then she started off to inspect the other chicken houses, to look for more damage. But they were wired and immune from rats and weasels.

Clipton started to get water at the pump close by for the chickens in the various houses and had finished three, when, glancing over at the house where the weasel had been, he saw the weasel jumping up at the wire-screened windows, attempting to get in again, his hole having already been closed with a stone by the alert and wary Clipton.

Clipton stole over cautiously toward the weasel. The weasel saw him and promptly dashed away and up a tree.

"Hey, Rex! Rex, come here quick!" Clipton yelled. Rex is a mongrel dog, faithful guardian of the household and chickens.

Rex came with a rush, saw the weasel, and tried to climb the tree but could not.

Mrs. C. also arrived in a hurry again, demanding to know "what's the matter now?"

"Keep him up there," said Clipton, excitedly, while I get my revolver." Mrs. C. and Rex kept the weasel treed Rex barking and running constantly around in a circle near the tree.

Clipton came back with the revolver and fired a shot. No result.

"What's-a-matter there?" demanded Warren Peter, aroused from sleep by the revolver shot, and sticking his head out of the window, Emmabelle doing likewise.

Clipton explained, as he fired another shot. No result.

"Lemme try it," said Warren Peter, as he arrived at the foot of the tree a minute later. Warren Peter fired. No result. Weasel standing pat up the tree.

"Get my revolver, Emmabelle, it's better," said Warren Peter. She did Five more shots. Weasel still alive.

Enter Neighbor Russell, drawn to the spot by the sound of the revolver shots.

"Just come over to see if you have any carbolic acid handy," said Neighbor Russell. "I've got poison ivy on my arm and it itches something terrible."

"Wait till I shoot the weasel and I'll get you some," said Clipton. "I'll get it," said Mrs. C., returning with it a minute later.

"Why don't you get Bill Manning's shotgun," said Neighbor Russell, as he rubbed the carbolic solution on his itching arm. "Bill's shotgun is sure death, if you can hit anything."

"I'll get it," said Emmabelle, as she hurried off to Bill Manning's house, about a thousand feet away, and came running back with the gun over her shoulder.

"Lemme shoot," said Warren Peter to Clipton. "You might hurt somebody if you tried."

Warren Peter fired one shot and the weasel fell, with a dozen or more bird shot penetrating his hide.

"Takes men to get em," he said proudly. "I'm going to act for the movies in this sort of game."

"Might do worse an' might do better," said the philosophical Neighbor Russell. "Thanks for the carbolic acid. Better take the weasel down an' show him to Bill Manning."

"I'll take him along with the gun," said Warren Peter.

"I'm going along too," said Emmabelle.

"Guess I'll go along down to see Bill, too," said Neighbor Russell.

"Wait till I measure the weasel," said Clipton. The weasel measured over 14 inches in length.

"Guess I'd better hustle and get some breakfast, for the train don't wait," said Clipton, as he moved to get his machine out to take him to the station, and the weasel party departed in the direction of Bill Manning's.

Clipton hustled down a cup of coffee, some toast and a couple of eggs, and two minutes later the machine was disappearing in a cloud of dust down King street. Just as it passed Bill Manning's a party of six on the front porch held up the dead body of a large weasel to the admiring gaze of the Cliptons.

"That was a good morning's work," said Mrs. C., as the machine skidded around a corner. Hope we'll catch the train."

"I saw a dandy moving picture show up at Plainfield last night," said Clipton's seatmate a few minutes later, in the train.

"You haven't got anything on me," said Clipton. "I had a movie show of my own over at the farm less than an hour ago."

And it all happened before 6 a. m.

CHARLES W. COONS DIES AFTER LINGERING ILLNESS

Charles W. Coons, for many years a resident of the borough, died at his residence at 248 Somerset street, this morning, after a lingering illness. He was a member of Grace M. E. church, where he was an active worker while health permitted. Beside his wife, Mr. Coons is survived by two daughters, the Misses Florence and Eleanor Coons; a mother, Mrs. Eva Coons, of Newark, together with eight sister and one brother living in the vicinity of Newark and Orange. The funeral services will be held from his late residence, Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The interment will be made at Hillside cemetery. Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace church, will officiate at the services.

CHAPTER XXVI.

A Municipal Venture.

A NERVOUS little dark skinned man was in the store with Henry Closby and concentrated with penny pursuing intensity upon books, invoices, bills and receipts when a committee of four members of the city council, including the mayor, entered, with much pomp and ceremony.

In deference to his official capacity Mr. Boyler and Mr. Kerr and Mr. Scorpine allowed Mayor Sawberry to take up a position about two feet in front of them, and in solemn array, hats held formally across their left wrists, they awaited the attention of the proprietor.

Mr. Closby came forward, with scant graciousness. "Well?" he demanded peremptorily.

The mayor cleared his throat. "We represent Spanglerville, the people and the city council," he began sonorously and looked back at his followers to see if they were properly supporting him. His eye was attracted immediately to one of the show windows, however, against the pane of which was flatly pressed the nose of a face otherwise entirely concealed by a radiating pink beard of the most inflammatory anarchistic type. Needless to say, that face was Blackie Daw's!

"Very well," responded Mr. Closby, his gaze also roving to the face in the window, each eye of which at that moment successively winked shut.

"It has come to the ears of the city council that you have found the city water of use, necessity and profit in an art manufacture known as glazed inlay. Is this allegation true?" And the mayor, annoyed with himself, but unable to resist the fascination, turned again to find the face at the window pane. It was not there, he was relieved to note, but suddenly it appeared at the other window so low down that only the nose and eyes were visible above a pile of gingham. Much disconcerted, the mayor repeated his question!

"Since it is nobody's business I decline to answer," responded Mr. Closby, watching Blackie with mild pleasure, as that earnest detective slowly straightened to his full height, his nose sliding against the glass all the way up.

"You hold a patent for such a process, though," the mayor charged, sturdily resisting the impulse to look behind him. "You might as well answer that much, because Congressman Darkins sends me the Patent Office Record free and I have looked it up."

"Then you know that I obtained a patent," said Closby dryly.

"It has come to the ears of this body," went on the mayor, looking rigidly out of the back door to prevent his head from turning, "that you have made over $40,000 from this patent in less than three years and that you're taking in from it over $25,000 a year. Is this allegation true?"

"I refuse to answer."

"You don't need to!" retorted the mayor warmly. "The city council has absolute proof." It was almost impossible not to look again at that show window, but Mayor Sawberry accomplished it and gazed stonily out through the back door at the high board fence. "Now, the city council, which only wants its rights, Mr. Closby, has decided on this: It will take over the manufacture of your glazed inlay, make it a municipal enterprise, charge you nothing for the use of our valuable natural resource and pay you a fair and reasonable royalty on the output. The question before us for dispassionate and friendly argument is, What is the least royalty that will satisfy you?"

A fond light kindled in Henry Closby's eyes. "I have been waiting for this happy moment," he gayly informed them, and thereupon he emptied himself of all the bitterness that had been clogging his system since he was a boy.

"In conclusion," he went on, smiling sweetly in his black beard, "I have not forgotten that you cringing whelps came to obtain possession of my patent on glazed inlay. You may have it. It will cost you exactly $60,000; no more, no less. Thanking you, one and all, for your kind attention, I bid you a pleasant good morning."

The mayor and the committee were speechless with rage, surprise and many other emotions too complicated to assort. Some vigorous denunciation might nevertheless have come from some of them if there had not appeared at that moment above the board fence a solemn face wearing yellow Dundrearys a foot long and a pair of huge blue goggles. Needless to say that face belonged to Blackie Daw, and the mayor was so disconcerted by the sight that, with a parting puff of his cheeks, he turned and stalked rapidly out of the store, followed by the entire committee.

They were not to escape so easily, however, for just at the corner of the alley the tireless detective, now wearing a flawless Vandyke, met them with three separate hists.

"We are on his trail!" he declared. "He has sold his store and collected the money! He leaves town tonight on the 7:30 train, never to return! He will take the glazed inlay patent with him! Look!" And before their very eyes he plucked off his Vandyke, put it under his arm, handed them a telegram and replaced the beard, though upside down.

The mayor opened the telegram and read it with keen interest, then passed it silently to the other members of the committee. It was from Mr. Tuttle, in New York, addressed to Henry Closby and said:

Entertaining proposition apply glazed inlay table and dresser tops how much.

Saluting them, Blackie wheeled and entered the alley mouth. They watched him while he stopped at a dry goods store and emptied whiskers from all his pockets. When he began pointing at them successively with his forefinger and saying, "Eny, meeny, miney, moe," to determine which set he should wear next the committee hastily left.

As the result of their deliberations the city clerk was sent to Mr. Closby with an offer of $10,000 and a royalty for his patent.

The city clerk came back with a counter offer of $60,000 cash!

The city council offered $20,000 and royalty.

The answer was the same.

They offered $30,000 and no royalty.

Same answer.

Blackie Daw, wearing a Francis Josef makeup, dashed in upon the worried city council with another stolen telegram. It was from Chicago and said:

Shall you please come to 125 South Clark street. ANTONIO SCERLATTI.

That telegram settled the business. The mystery of it was what did the work. Just thirty minutes before the bank closed the city council accepted Henry Closby's offer of $60,000 cash for his patent on the process of making glazed inlay and for his written agreement never to engage in that or a similar enterprise as long as he lived nor to sanction such an enterprise; also, at their dictation, he wrote a letter to Mr. Tuttle advising that art agent of the sale and that the glazed inlay, henceforth and forever, was the property of the Spanglerville city council.

Before the 7:30 pulled out that night Wallingford, Blackie and Henry Closby, each with $20,000 of official money in his pocket, sat at a corner table in the dining car when an agitated knocking came at the window. Looking out, they saw the panting committee.

Wallingford hurried out to the rear platform.

"We want Henry Closby to sign this telegram," puffed the mayor breathlessly. "The city council 'll pay for it."

Since the telegram proved to be nothing more than an order forbidding Mr. Tuttle to have the city water of Spanglerville analyzed, Wallingford promised that they should have it and, hurrying in, obtained Closby's signature. He returned to the committee with a sadly grieved countenance.

"Gentlemen, you have made a hideous mistake," he told them as he handed the mayor the telegram. "Mr. Closby has never made a penny from the glazed inlay, and he just refused to sell the patent to a furniture factory because the best offer he could get was $500."

"It's a lie!" gulped the mayor. "You can't fool us. We seen his bank statement."

"Those receipts consisted entirely of royalties from the sale of plaster dogs," Wallingford suavely explained.

"From what!" gasped the mayor.

"Plaster dogs," repeated Wallingford calmly, and from his pocket he produced a copy of the canine whose forlornness had started Henry Closby on the road to a comfortable fortune.

The consternation on the faces of the four members of the committee was as the balm of Gilead to the soul of Henry Closby; and Blackie, sitting opposite him, and studying in friendly admiration the whiskered face of the artist, made a sudden discovery.

"You're about a week late in your trip to Chicago, aren't you?" he inquired.

"How do you know?" sharply asked Closby, turning upon him a scared countenance.

"By the streaks of rust in your chinchillas," laughed Blackie, tickled immeasurably with his discovery. "Am I some detective? I am!" And he jumped up from the table.

"Where are you going?" demanded Closby, jumping up also, his usually ruddy face now turning a deep scarlet.

"To explain the fatal mystery!" replied Blackie. "It'll sting them worse than anything."

"No, you don't!" cried Closby, starting after him, but Blackie had already passed Wallingford at the door, and was leaning out over the platform, while the conductor was swinging his lantern.

"Antonio Scerlatti!" he called in clarion tones.

"Robber!" yelled the committee as Henry Closby laid hold of Blackie's coattails.

"Hist!" shouted Blackie. "I know Henry Closby's secret!"

Closby reached farther and grabbed him by the shoulders.

"Antonio Scerlatti!" shrieked Blackie as the train moved away.

"Yes?" encouraged the mayor, quivering with eagerness.

"He is an Italian!" yelled Blackie, and, laughing himself limp, allowed Henry Closby to pull him inside.

"What's the fuss?" asked Wallingford as he followed them back to the table.

Closby grinned sheepishly. "S. Holmes had me scared stiff," he confessed, blushing, as he revealed the dark secret of his life. "He made me think that he was going to tell the official gossips of Spanglerville that I've been going to Chicago every two weeks for the last three years to have Antonio Scerlatti dye my whiskers."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

One of the most important necessities in the traveler's outfit is the coat. A very simple yet attractive little model is shown in No. 8270. It has the raglan, full-length sleeve, broad revers and a notched collar. This coat may be made with or without the circular peplum in front and the trimming bands on either side. The trimming bands are arranged in back to give the effect of a wide box plait. Tweed, serge or any of the wool mixtures may be effectively made up in this little top coat design. Serge is wide averaging 38 to 40 inches in width and may be purchased from about 75 cents a yard and up. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 36-inch material. Pattern comes in six sizes, 32 to 42.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give the right size measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing fifteen cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CORN SOUPS.

CORN, which in the canned form is available at all seasons, makes a nice light soup, suitable for serving with almost any bill of fare. If you do not care for one kind of corn soup try another. There are many ways of making it, as may be seen by a glance at the recipes here given:

Easy to Prepare.

Corn Caramel Soup.—To three pints of stock add half a cupful of corn meal well browned in the oven, half a cupful of canned corn and let come slowly to boiling point. Boil five minutes. Season with salt and pepper and serve.

Royal Corn Soup.—This may be made when a chicken has been boiled. Take the broth that is left and the next day place it on the fire and add to it the remnants of the chicken meat and bones. There should be two quarts of stock. Simmer until the meat is in shreds and then strain. Flavor with a teaspoonful of salt, a little celery salt and cayenne. Add a cupful of canned sweet corn. Let it cook slowly for half an hour and just before serving add a cupful of sweet cream or rich milk.

Savory Fare.

Corn Chowder.—Take four thin slices of white bacon, two medium sized onions, one quart of milk, four potatoes, one can of corn. Fry the bacon slowly to a crisp, then take it out and cut fine the onions and potatoes. Place in the fat, cover with boiling water and cook till tender. The water should be allowed to almost boil away. Before serving add one can of corn and one quart of scalded milk. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Let it boil once and serve.

A Plain or Rich Soup.

Corn Puree.—Chop canned corn fine, add a quart of boiling water and a teaspoonful of minced onion. Stew for three-quarters of an hour after it reaches the boil. Rub through a colander into a saucepan, add salt, pepper, three tablespoonfuls of butter rolled in as much flour and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Heat a pint of milk and when the corn mixture has simmered five minutes longer turn first one, then the other, into a bowl. Stir well and serve. Veal or chicken stock may be substituted for boiling water to make a richer soup.

She Bought Every One of the Berries.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Little Huckleberry Pickers Have a Party.

IT had been a very hot day, and it was all any one could do to keep cool.

"Is it too hot for a story tonight?" asked daddy.

"Oh, no!" said both the children.

"It is never too hot for a story," added Jack.

"Well, I really am very glad of that," continued daddy, "because I know I would be very lonely if I couldn't tell a story every night. I think I enjoy it as much as you do because I never see anything that is interesting nor hear of anything that is interesting that I don't immediately think—well, I can tell Jack and Evelyn all about this.

"Today I passed by a house and heard some little children talking to some other children who looked very ragged, hot and tired.

"These children had been picking huckleberries and were going around this hot afternoon trying to sell them.

"They had stopped by this house where they had seen the little children playing. The mother of the little children had gone out for the afternoon, but they were having a party with a few of their little friends.

"They told the little poor children that they hadn't any money at all to buy the berries with, but they asked them to stay and play with them and that they were sure when their mother came home she would buy all the berries.

"The children could not resist the invitation. They sat down and had some lemonade and sponge cake, and, oh, it did seem so good after the hot tramp they had made looking for the berries. After they had had all the lemonade and sponge cake that they could possibly eat they all went wading in a little brook back of the house. They did so enjoy the lovely, cool water, and when the mother came home, there she found her children entertaining the little poor children.

"Of course she bought every one of the huckleberries, which pleased the little children so much.

"But what pleased them still more was that the mother added that if they came that way every day she would like to buy huckleberries of them, for her family was so fond of them.

"And then you can imagine how they rejoiced when the children who had been so kind to them said:

"'Yes, and if mother isn't home when you come we can have another party just as we did today.'

"So they refreshed and made happy the little tired, hot children who have to earn money by picking berries for hours every day in the hot sun and then go around selling them. And not only that, but they gave them something to look forward to."

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

AT LAST.

At last, after two hundred and fifty years, more or less, New York does justice to New Jersey on the mosquito question. From the time of the settlement of both sides of New York Harbor the people on Manhattan Island have blamed New Jersey for hatching all the mosquitoes that have stung them, and thus tacked on to this State the stigma of being the especial home and breeding ground of the pest.

But now comes Dr. Alvin H. Doty, former health officer of New York, who frankly says, in a new book he has just published, that New York's mosquitoes do not come from New Jersey, but are hatched in New York city itself, mainly in the water tanks on the roofs of the buildings. And New Yorkers, he says will have to carry on a thorough and vigorous campaign of several years' duration if they wish to be rid of the pest.

Mosquitoes do not fly long distances, though they may be carried by high winds far from their hatcheries. Not only Dr. Doty but the late State entomologist, Dr. John B. Smith; Dr. L. O. Howard, government entomologist, and other eminent authorities declare that mosquitoes, as a rule, remain near their breeding places. This relieves New Jersey of the stigma of supplying New York city with the pernicious insects.—Newark Evening News.

HITS FOES OF BIG BUSINESS

At Chicagoan's Request the President Withdraws His Nomination to Bank Board—Time Has Come to Lay Aside Close Discriminations, Says the President—High Praise For Jones.

Washington, July 24.—The bitter fight in the senate against the confirmation of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago for the federal reserve board ended when the president withdrew the nomination. Mr. Wilson took this action at the request of Mr. Jones, who said that he was no longer willing to embarrass the president and to inflict a possible injury on the Democratic party. Mr. Jones' letter to Wilson follows:

Mr. Jones' Letter.

My Dear Mr. President:—I have reached a definite conviction that it is my duty to ask you to withdraw my nomination as a member of the federal reserve board. You are aware that I was in no sense whatever an applicant for the office. It was with the gravest reluctance that I agreed to accept the honorable but heavy burdens of that office in case my nomination were sent to the senate and confirmed by it. I did not then anticipate a protracted and bitter contest. At the invitation of the committee on banking and currency I willingly appeared before it to answer any questions which they might desire to ask me, and I endeavored to answer with entire frankness all the questions that were asked, and my testimony was made public at my request.

It is not for me to surmise motives or to complain of results. That my nomination and the controversy that has arisen over it in the committee on banking and currency is seriously embarrassing your administration and is causing injury to the party of which you are the leader is too clear to admit of any doubt. And in view of the character of the report made by the majority of the committee on banking and currency, a majority composed of six Republicans and two Democrats, much of it based on distortion of facts and perversion of truth, I feel convinced that such opposition has developed to the confirmation of my appointment and such criticism has been made of my nomination that even if the nomination were confirmed by the senate my usefulness as a member of the federal reserve board would be seriously impaired.

I am not willing longer to remain the cause of embarrassment to you and to your administration, and in view of the considerations above stated I now ask that you withdraw my name from consideration. Faithfully yours,

THOMAS D. JONES.

Wilson's Reply.

To this letter the president replied as follows:

White House, Washington, July 23.

My Dear Friend—Your letter of the 20th of July brings to me, I think, more kinds of regret than any other letter I ever received—regret, first of all, that the country should lose the invaluable services of such a man as I and all fair minded men who know you at all know you to be; regret that I should have brought upon you so unpleasant an experience in which you were treated with gross and manifest injustice; regret that such circumstances should seem even for the moment to be associated with appointment to high office under the great movement of the United States, representing a generous, fair and honorable people; regret that the organization of a great banking system should be so embarrassed and obstructed.

You need not think that anything in the present circumstances has embarrassed me in the least. It causes me not the slightest embarrassment. I have no moment of hesitation or flagging enthusiasm in standing by men whom I honor and believe in. It gives me nothing but pleasure and exhilaration to stand by them at any time and to any extent. You may leave my feelings (my feelings for myself) out of the reckoning. * * *

The adverse report on your nomination, to which you justly refer as unfair and untrue is, of course, not to be charged to the feeling or action of the senate of the United States or to anything for which that great body as a whole can be held responsible.

The report is signed only by the minority members of the committee and by two members of the majority who have usually acted with them. There is no reason to believe that either in its temper or in its conclusions that report represents the attitude of the senate itself. I wish most heartily that the inauguration of the new national banking system, a system conceived and enacted with no element of partisanship in its provisions, might have been free from this unfortunate and ominous incident.

I believe that the judgment and desire of the whole country cry out for a new temper in affairs. The time has come when discriminations against particular classes of men should be absolutely laid aside and discarded as unworthy of the counsels of a great people. The effort for genuine social justice, for peace, the peace which is founded in common understandings, and for prosperity, the prosperity of corporation and mutual confidence, should be a unit for without partisan prejudice or class antagonism. It is only of such just and noble elements that the welfare of a great country can be composed. We have breathed already too long the air of suspicion and distrust. The progress of reform is not retarded by generosity and fairness.

Your action in requesting that your name be withdrawn displays your usual sensitive regard for considerations other than your own personal interest, and sincerely as I regret it it I cannot but honor you for the action you have taken. I have no right to ask, much less to urge, that you continue to allow yourself to be made the football of the sort of contest which has sprung up over this nomination. It is a matter of genuine sorrow to me that a man like you should be excluded from the public service upon great occasion. But neither of us is responsible for these extraordinary circumstances. We must both accept them. I cannot ask you to undergo more than you have undergone. I can only hope that better, cooler, wiser counsels may presently prevail.

Moreover, a great program of corrective and constructive legislation is upon the eve of completion, and I am sure that you would not wish, as I do not wish, anything of a personal character to stand even temporarily in its way to delay or in any respect divert it. It is already clear that the country comprehends and will itself redress the injustice which has been done you. With warmest regards, cordially and faithfully yours,

WOODROW WILSON.

Here's Ten Dollars Free For Some Live Plainfield Shopper

Write a letter of not more than 500 words telling, in the simplest way possible, of the advantages you have gained in making a purchase in response to some particular advertisement of a local merchant in the Plainfield Daily Press.

From the fact that this Trade-in-Plainfield Contest is the most unique offer ever made by a Plainfield newspaper.

Letters must be in the Daily Press Office not later than August 12, and prizes will be awarded not later than August 15.

Trade-In-Plainfield Contest Prizes

First—$10.00 in gold.

Second—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $6.00.

Third—Years Subscription to Daily Press ($5.00)

Fourth—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $3.00.

Conditions of the Competition.

1. The instance related in your letter must be bona fide, contain a description of the purchase, the name of the store in which it was made and be accompanied by a clipping of the advertisement. The amount of the sale will have no effect in determining the winner.

2. The advertisement must be from a copy of the Plainfield Daily Press issued within the dates of the contest, i. e. July 22 to August 12. Whether the letters win prizes or not the right is reserved to publish same in the columns of the Daily Press, without payment being made for their use.

3. No person will be considered as a competitor, who is in any way connected with the Plainfield Daily Press.

4. Winners of the second and fourth prizes will designate on what stores the Press due bills are to be issued, but they will only be issued upon Plainfield stores which advertise in the Plainfield Daily Press.

THESE POINTS WILL COUNT IN THE ANSWER:

The best illustrations of the advantages gained by buying at Plainfield stores in response to Daily Press advertisements.

The best illustrations showing the advantages of buying in Plainfield over buying out of town, especially from mail order houses.

Brevity, simplicity and an intelligent handling of the subject.

Further information will gladly be given upon inquiry at the Daily Press office, although the conditions are fully described in this advertisement.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-know authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.

PROPOSALS FOR MACADAMIZING.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Common Council at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at 8 o'clock p. m., on Monday, the third day of August, 1914, for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the macadamizing contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable macadam pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council and approved by the Mayor, July 6, 1914, and as provided for in the specifications entitled "City of Plainfield, N. J., Proposal, Conditions, Specifications, Contract and Bond, for the Permanent Improvement of Streets, 1914," filed in the office of the Street Commissioner July 13, 1914.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents thereof in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of said prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

A separate price must be named for each street, and proposals should be endorsed: "Proposals for Macadamizing."

MISSING YOUTH IS FOUND IN WOODS

Mother Breaks Down and Confesses When Questioned.

HIDING MYSTIFIES POLICE

Why He Was Concealed Since June While County Was Being Scoured Baffles Egg Harbor Authorities—His Mother Tells Authorities When Told Innocent Man Was Held For Murder.

Egg Harbor, N. J., July 24.—John Weber, eighteen years old, son of Otto Weber of Green Bank, who mysteriously disappeared early in June, was located by Detective J. S. Smith of the prosecutor's office and City Marshal Paul A. Stieff. Young Weber was hidden away in a cave about two miles from his Green Bank home deep in the woods. The discovery of Weber was an interesting and mystifying one.

Detective Smith and Marshal Stieff were searching the woods on the banks of the shore where the dredger had been working and from where it was supposed the boy had been killed and done away with when they ran across a dinner pail several miles back from the shore. The dishes in the same were fresh with remains of food, and the kettle contained a girl's apron. Putting two and two together, the searchers decided the kettle might have some connection with the missing Weber, so they decided upon questioning the other members of the Weber family.

Arriving at the house, Detective Smith asked for several dishes, and they corresponded with the ones in the dinner pail. Smith fired question after question at Weber's mother, but she denied that she knew anything of his whereabouts.

Finally Stieff accused the mother of knowing that the boy was alive and also of harboring him. She was told that an innocent man was being held under suspicion of being a murderer. This unnerved her, and she finally admitted that the lad was concealed in the woods and that she had been sending him food daily.

Why the boy was hidden in the woods for this length of time while the country was being scoured for him is still a mystery that remains to be unraveled. Herbert McMicken, who had been arrested and held in jail under suspicion that he was connected with Weber's disappearance and probably his death, was taken to his home in Wading River.

EXONERATE SLAYER OF COP.

Burlington Citizens and Wife Weep When They Hear Verdict.

Burlington, N. J., July 24.—Winfield Templeton, who shot and killed Patrolman Thomas Rogan in mistake for a burglar Wednesday morning, was exonerated by the coroner's jury after a dramatic inquest. The jury was four hours in deciding upon a verdict.

The verdict was a surprise to Prosecutor Atkinson, who, it is said, expected Templeton would be held for a minor degree of manslaughter. John Rogan, a brother of the dead patrolman, said he was not disposed to drop the case at this stage and intimated he would make an effort to have it brought before the grand jury.

Templeton and his wife broke down and wept when they heard the verdict. Many in the courtroom pressed forward to shake hands with the prisoner.

WALL FALLS, SEVEN INJURED

Three Brick Masons Probably Fatally Hurt by Paterson Accident.

Paterson, N. J., July 24.—Three brick masons were probably fatally injured, three other masons and a laborer were dangerously hurt and a score of other persons had narrow escapes from injury when a wall, under construction at the Manhattan Shirt mills, on River street, collapsed.

Six of the injured men were at work on a scaffold three stories above the street when the wall caved in. They went hurtling to the ground and were buried beneath tons of debris. The seventh man was standing below and was struck by a flying beam.

BRIEF STATE ITEMS.

The Hudson county board of freeholders adopted the budget for 1914-15. It amounts to $2,791,036.67, an increase of $116,483.91 over the appropriations for the current fiscal year.

The first troop of the national guard in Hoboken has been organized with a hundred members. It will be known as Troop D and have a complete cavalry equipment.

Gustave Stadel, sixty, of Newark committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. His wife ended her life in the same manner two months ago, and he had been very despondent ever since.

A man about twenty-three years old who was brought to Morristown after evidently having been struck by a train near Denville died in the Memorial hospital without regaining consciousness. He wore a suit of high grade material and had $1.13 in his pockets.

"Flexo-Arch" Shoes

A Boon In Summer Time.

Are your insteps tired at night and tender in the morning? Do the muscles of your legs get sore while your very back-bone seems to ache? Then, you should try "FLEXO-ARCH" SHOES.

These shoes have a FLEXIBLE shank which strengthens, supports and exercises the muscles in the arch of your feet. The heel is somewhat raised on the inner edge to support the ankle bone and keep the position of the foot normal.

"FLEXO-ARCH" Shoes—needless to say—are built of the finest softest materials, and are shaped along correct, hygienic lines—so that they present THE-LAST-WORD in Comfort.

Be Good to your suffering feet, and try a pair.

For Men and Women.

YES! WE CAN GIVE A HUNDRED REASONS WHY

YOU SHOULD TRADE IN PLAINFIELD. A FEW OF THESE IN OUR BUSINESS ARE AS FOLLOWS:

WE BUY FOR CASH,

WE DON'T FIGURE RENT,

WE DON'T EMPLOY AN EXPENSIVE OFFICE STAFF,

WE SELL ON AN AVERAGE WITH SMALLER PROFIT THAN NEW YORK STORES,

WE DON'T HAVE TO SEND AN AUTO TRUCK 30 MILES TO DELIVER,

WE STAND BACK OF EVERYTHING WE SELL,

WE HAVE BEEN HERE OVER TWENTY-NINE YEARS AND HAVE YET TO SEE THE PERSON WHO WILL SAY THAT WE OVERCHARGED HIM.

CLOTHING ON CREDIT AT CASH PRICES

$1 WEEKLY TO ALL

NOW-A-DAYS

When the cost of living is so high, one must try as far as possible to make one dollar do the work of two. After one has paid for rent, fuel, light and food out of a moderate income it is rather a problem to purchase clothing for cash.

Then why try to do so, when our credit terms are so easy, our prices so low.

FILE PLANS FOR HOSPITAL CHANGE

Many Needed Improvements to Be Made By Building Committee.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

Diet Kitchen, Better Accommodations In Administration Building and a Children's Ward Will Be Some of the Features of New Work.

With the filing of plans today with Building Inspector T. O. Doane, another chapter in the Muhlenberg Hospital campaign of two years ago is well started. At the time this campaign was undertaken to raise money for the hospital one of the objects stated was needed improvements in the wards, operating pavilion and administration building and the establishment of a children's ward.

For months past the building committee of the hospital has been working on plans for these improvements and the public, as the contributors of the money which made these improvements possible, will be glad to know that this work is ready to go forward. The money for these improvements is in hand and will be expended with the utmost care.

For years the hospital has been handicapped for lack of facilities in the wards—particularly a proper diet kitchen and a more convenient duty, or work-room, for the nurses. These things will now be provided and other changes made to aid in the proper care of the city's unfortunate sick.

The administration building will be changed to provide better accommodations for the nurses' dining-room, for the business office and increased waiting-room facilities. In the basement the clinics, or out patient departments, will be greatly improved to care for this ever-increasing department of the charitable work. While on the second floor will be created a children's ward for the care of the little folks who have heretofore been denied admission or else put in the general wards with the adults in extreme cases of necessity.

Probably no department of the hospital work will appeal so generally to the public as this care of the little ones, and it is planned to make this branch of the work most complete, equipping it with diet kitchen, nurses' work-rooms, baths, elevator and every convenience, so that it will be a real department of the hospital and not merely a name.

The kitchen will be overhauled and equipped with new apparatus throughout. This is a much needed improvement and will greatly facilitate serving all classes of patients with wholesome, well prepared food. It was desired to build a new kitchen, but with $7,500 of pledges still unpaid this was found impossible and the new equipment in the old room will be made to answer present needs. Steam tables will be in every department of the institution when these changes are completed and there should never be complaint of cold food being served.

Linoleum will be used extensively as a floor covering and this will be laid by the improved German method of cementing it to the floors with a cushion or felt between. Such a covering is pleasing to walk on, is sanitary, fire-resisting and, in its inability to "buckle," most durable.

Fire protection will be a feature of all this work and it is probable that automatic sprinklers will be used extensively wherever there is the slightest danger that fire could originate—beside this, concrete floors will be used in places and metal lath and plaster will protect parts of the side walls and ceilings.

L. T. Titsworth will be in charge of the carpenter work and Tallamy Brothers of the mason work. The operation of the clinics will of necessity be somewhat curtailed, but the medical clinics will continue to the best of their ability while it is quite probable that the dental clinic will suspend during the period of reconstruction.

SAYS HE SUSTAINED PERMANENT INJURY

William H. Paquett, of This City, Petitions For Damages.

Elizabeth, July 25.—The hearing of the petition of William H. Paquett, of 319 West Second street, Plainfield, for compensation for permanent injuries sustained while in the employ of the Borden Condensed Milk Company in that city, was continued yesterday afternoon in the Court of Common Pleas. At its conclusion Judge Connolly told Winfield S. Angleman, Paquett's counsel, and Thomas M. Rowlett, counsel for the respondent, to submit briefs. He also suggested that an effort be made by them to reach a settlement.

Paquett was kicked by a fractious horse in the knee and claimed the superintendent of the company told him to accompany the regular driver at the time. The superintendent testified that he merely asked Paquett if he cared to take a ride.

Dr. William Eynon, of New York, said he could discover no physical evidences of permanent disability, after examining Paquett's knee. Paquett, in rebuttal, said that Dr. Eynon had told him it would be necessary for him to go to Sweden for special treatment in order to cure the lameness.

VAGRANT DISCHARGED.

Charged with vagrancy, Frank King, giving his address as nowhere in particular, was brought before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning. He was allowed to go with a suspended sentence.

SUCCESS MARKED OPENING CONCERT

5,000 People Attend First Open Air Musical By Dutch Arms Band.

PLAN NEW FEATURES

Civic Association Will Engage Metropolitan Singers to Render Special Numbers Next Week—Auto Parade Precedes the Concert.

In view of the marked success of last night's inaugural open air concert conducted at West Fifth street and Monroe avenue, under the auspices of the West End Civic Association, the committee in charge has decided to make it a weekly feature and will add to the excellent program presented by engaging metropolitan singers. Arrangements were made for the reception of a large audience but the attractive program and favorable weather conditions brought out a far larger number than was originally anticipated. Fully 5,000 people lined the extremities of the field and packed the temporary grandstand erected for the occasion. The parking space laid out for automobiles and other vehicles was packed and the streets in the immediate vicinity of the centre were lined on both sides with cars of every description.

The audience was a cosmopolitan one and music lovers came from all sections of the city. The trolley cars running near the grounds were packed on every trip prior to the starting time of the concert and many elected to walk to the scene, a steady drove of persons headed in the direction of the rendezvous being in evidence from the early part of the evening. The automobile parade that preceded

STATE ENTOMOLOGIST TELLS HOW TO FIGHT THE ARMY WORM

The following has been prepared by the State Entomologist, as the best means of fighting the army worm, which has made its appearance in Plainfield.

The army worm now damaging lawns and cultivated crops in New Jersey can be killed and the harm which it is doing prevented. In fact much of the damage which it has done can be repaired by giving the injured plants the proper conditions for recovery. It works at night and that brown spot in the lawn, or that worm-eaten kitchen garden which shows few if any worms when examined during the day may swarm with them at night. This army worm is a dark gray or dingy black caterpillar with several more or less distinct stripes running lengthwise its back. It ranges from a size so small as scarcely to be visible to the naked eye to from one and one-half to two inches at maturity. Digging in the soil in the spots supposed to be infested will usually reveal the lurking worms if they are present.

Just now the worms have exhausted the food in places where they were hatched and have started out to find a place to transform, or to find more food. Many are fully grown and will soon enter the earth to transform; but many others are not yet mature, and will consume more food if it can be found.

This insect normally feeds on grass and is present in such small numbers that its work is unnoticed. This year natural conditions for its multiplication and growth have been so favorable that it has sprung into the position of a first-rate pest. The eggs are laid by the parent moths in grass lands. The caterpillars begin feeding immediately after hatching and continue until they become full grown. Then they transform and eventually emerge as fully developed moths.

Whenever it happens that the caterpillars consume all the food in which they were hatched before they reach maturity they crawl into adjacent lots or fields where additional food may be found and at such times they move in a mass—a habit which has given to them the name of "army worm."

The eggs are laid and the caterpillars hatch in grass lands and the destructive armies practically always come from such places. This year they seem to have developed in lawns as well as in fields, and in many cases the first evidence of injury has been the browning of the lawn. Perhaps lawn injury has given rise to more complaints this year than any other injury which the worm has done.

This army worm's natural foes are destroying it in such large numbers that we have reason to hope that not only will it fail to reappear this season, but that it may not become seriously numerous again for several years.

When the worms are feeding in limited spots in lawns they may be destroyed by spraying the grass so thoroughly with arsenate of lead (1 to 1 1-2 oz. to 1 gallon of water) that the tender grass blades will, when dry, have a close coating of fine specks of poison or by dusting the infested spots with a mixture of powdered arsenate of lead and sulphur (1 part of arsenate of lead to 1 part of sulphur) in such a fashion as to give the tender blades a good coating. These mixtures may be used on vines, bushes and trees that are suffering from attack.

If the army worms are coming from adjacent plots into ones that should be protected their march may be stopped by interposing a band of poison bran mash, an arsenate of lead sprayed strip, or by cutting a ditch across their front. The poisoned bran mash is composed of 20 pounds of wheat bran, 1 pound of Paris green or white arsenic, 2 quarts of molasses and enough water to mix the bran into a stiff mash. The bran and the poison should be mixed dry, the molasses should be dissolved in the water and the water should be added to the poisoned bran (the bran mixture being stirred as the water is added) until the mass assumes the consistency of a fairly stiff but not sloppy mash. This poisoned bran should be placed in rows, preferably in the evening, across the line of march. The interposing of a strip of poisoned foliage may be brought about by spraying a strip of the lawn or by spraying a patch of the food they like, cutting it and placing it in rows across their line of march. In ditching we have perhaps the most thoroughly tested and the most effective means of stopping an advancing hord. The ditch should be 10 to 12 inches in depth, with the side toward the protected plot perpendicular and should be dug quite across the entire front of the army. It should be about six inches wide. If it will not hold water on which kerosene can be placed and thus destroy the worms that drop into it, it should have post holes dug along its bottom at intervals of from 5 to 10 feet and all the worms that collect in the ditch and the holes should be destroyed by pouring kerosene on them or by crushing them.

If the worms have already turned the lawn reddish brown and have disappeared the injured grass should be liberally watered and fertilized in order that it may recover from the attack. For one acre of medium-light to heavy soils a fertilizer composed of 150 pounds of bone meal and 150 pounds of nitrate of soda should be satisfactory, while for the same sized plot of very light soil a fertilizer composed of 100 rounds of bone meal, 150 pounds of nitrate of soda and 50 pounds of muriate of potash should be used. The fertilizer should be applied just before a good rain, or be followed promptly by heavy watering. It must be evenly distributed.

Trees, bushes and vines injured by this insect should likewise be furnished with food and water, in order that they may recover from the attack.

SUSPICIOUS NEGRO IN POLICE TOILS

Caught Lurking In Rear of Newark Jewelry Store at Midnight.

Taken into custody by the police of Newark while lurking in the rear of a jewelry store on Broad street at 12:10 this morning, a negro describing himself as Mathew Harris, of 532 West Third street, is being held a prisoner in the police headquarters of that city. When apprehended he claimed that he had a return railroad ticket to Plainfield but could not give a satisfactory explanation regarding his appearance in that place at the early hour of the morning.

When he was searched at police headquarters the authorities failed to recover the supposed railroad ticket and he failed to convince them that his presence in the rear of the jewelry store was without purpose.

Sergeant Maurice Higgins, of the local police department, was detailed to investigate Harris' claim of residence in this city this morning but found that no one of that name had lived in the section mentioned for some time past.

A FRIEND CONTRIBUTES $5 TO THE WORK

King's Daughters' Summer Fund Gets Another Boost.

The City Union King's Daughters' summer fund was increased by $5 today, when "A Friend" contributed that amount toward the worthy cause. This work of caring for sick children and babies is increasing and there is an urgent need for funds at this time of the year. The King's Daughters make an earnest appeal to the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield to aid this work through contributions, any amount, no matter how small, will be appreciated.

All interested are invited to visit the Day Nursery and learn for themselves of the great amount of work that is being done there, especially in the diet kitchen. The opening of the playground in the rear of the Nursery this summer has been the means of affording a great deal of amusement for the children.

The contributions received to date are as follows:

TO FORM AN EAST SIDE CITIZENS' ASS'N

Residents of Netherwood Section Will Organize Ou Tuesday Night.

The scope of the meeting of citizens, of the East End, called for Tuesday evening at the Netherwood Reformed church has been broadened The original call stated that the meeting would discuss the need of a new school building for that section of the city, but since then a desire to organize an East Side Citizen's Association has developed on many sides, and this question will be presented at the meeting.

While the Netherwood Resident's Association is doing a good work for that which is termed the "Hill" section of Netherwood, those residing on the North side of the track are of the opinion that a separate and distinct organization could keep a more watchful eye over the needs of that particular section. The agitation for a school as proposed would keep the new organization busy for some little time, while many other matters pertaining to the interest of the East End will be taken up as conditions warrant. This organization will undoubtedly play the same part in the life of the East End as the West End Civic Association plays in that part of the city.

DR. EATON TO PREACH.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, who resides at Watchung, will preach for his friends and neighbors at the Mary E. Wilson Union church, Watchung, tomorrow morning, and Mrs. William A. Coddington, formerly soprano soloist at the First Baptist church, will sing. Harold W. Schenck will preach at the evening service.

TWO YOUTHFUL BURGLARS CAUGHT

George and John Urisco Arrested at Dunellen For Breaking and Entering.

CLEVER POLICE WORK

Home of Mrs. Ernest Keppler Visited During Her Absence and Several Articles Taken—Prisoners Held For Juvenile Court.

Clever work on the part of Chief Marshal Tarpey, chief of the Dunellen police force, resulted in the arrest yesterday of two youthful burglars, George and John Urisco, aged 14 and 11 years, respectively, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Urisco, of Second street, Equator Park. This morning the lads were arraigned before Judge Rene P. F. vonMinden, and were committed to the county jail at New Brunswick to await the action of the Juvenile Court authorities.

The boys were arrested, after considerable difficulty, on a charge of breaking and entering the home of Mrs. Ernest Keppler, of Second street during her absence, and taking a gold watch, a revolver and a bank containing $2.50. Entrance was affected through a cellar door, which had been left open, and a locked door leading from the cellar to the kitchen, which the pair had little trouble in prying open.

Chief Tarpey was convinced that the burglary was not the work of men, especially when he found the print of a child's hand on the kitchen wall, near the place where the revolver was taken. While sleuthing for the burglars, the chief met a brother of the culprits, who informed him that his oldest brother had found a revolver.

George Urisco was captured as he was coming home for dinner, later developments showing that he and his brother, John, had been hiding in a nearby woods. The latter getting hungry went home for something to eat and the chief had traced him to the house. He saw the officer making for the house and beat it out the back door. After a long chase, the boy was caught. When searched in the borough hall the watch and a butt of an old revolver were found. The boy claimed there was no money in the bank and it was thrown away. John informed the officer that his brother had hidden the revolver under the front porch of their home, but search failed to reveal its whereabouts. The lads spent last night in the borough lockup and this morning were arraigned before Judge von Minden.

ARTHUR SMITH SUBMITS BID FOR BRIDGE WORK

Elizabeth, July 25.—The Union County Board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon received bids for the proposed bridge over the Rahway River at Springfield avenue, near Hampton street, Cranford.

The plans call for a steel plate girder bridge fifty feet wide and with a span of seventy feet. Arthur E. Smith, of this city, was one of the bidders on the work. His figures were $9,241.

THIMBLE CLUB GUESTS OF MR. AND MRS. WOODHULL

The Thimble Club, of this city, of which Mrs. Floyd T. Woodhull is a member, returned last evening from Lake Hopatcong, where it was delightfully entertained at the Woodhull cottage on Halsey Island for two days. The club numbers sixteen members, of which ten were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Woodhull.

All of the attractions of the lake, together with the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Woodhull, were enjoyed to the fullest extent and the guests regretted when the hour came for their departure for home. The guests included Mrs. Robert A. Meeker, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Mrs. Frank Wynkoop, Mrs. Winfield Schomp, Mrs. Charles Littell, Mrs. L. M. Leek and Mrs. Robert W. Meeker.

UNION SERVICE TOMORROW.

The fourth of the series of union services will be held tomorrow evening at the First Presbyterian church, at which time Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church will preach the sermon. Special music will be rendered by the choir of the home church. These union services have been well attended thus far. During the course of next month, the services will be continued, with the church supplies of the various churches in which the services are held preaching.

JOHN OWENS AFTER COUNTY CLERKSHIP

Local Man's Petitions For Candidacy Went Into Circulation Yesterday.

Petitions for the candidacy of John P. Owens, a local lawyer, for the office of county clerk on the Democratic ticket were put in circulation yesterday. It has been rumored for several weeks that the Plainfield man would be in the race for the county job this year and his official announcement has been well received by his friends here. He is one of the best known lawyers in Union county and has practised in this city for a number of years. Last fall Mr. Owens was a candidate for the office of city judge and after receiving the Democratic nomination was defeated by the present incumbent, William G. DeMeza.

Mr. Owens is at present the district supervisor for the transfer of taxes in Union County and was formerly the county attorney for the small Board of Freeholders, an office now defunct. He was graduated from Seton Hall College, in the class of '98 and is a member of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus.

SPEEDING AUTOISTS DESTROY THE ROADS

Chief Kiely Determined to Break Up the Practise In This City.

Chief Kiely, of the local police department, has received a number of complaints regarding the condition of the local streets said to have been badly damaged of late by automobile speeders. It is a well known fact that fast traveling vehicles of the motor driven variety have a tendency to tear up macadam roadbeds and those who are familiar with road construction have assigned this cause to the present condition of some of the thoroughfares in this city.

The police head announced this morning that he was determined to do his part to break up the habit of driving automobiles over the city streets at an excessive speed and the police department hopes in this way to be able to accomplish its part in the preservation of the roadbeds. Commenting on the Motor Vehicle law which places the speed limit at twelve miles, Chief Kiely said that his men were using good judgment in enforcing the requirements of the law and to date none traveling at a speed less than twenty miles an hour has been apprehended.

Warnings have been issued to many local drivers and the penalties imposed on several offenders have tended to bring about a feeling of respect for the department's determination to break up the practise.

REV. ERNEST R. BROWN WILL BE THE SPEAKER

The meeting of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, tomorrow afternoon, will be of special interest. The speaker will be the Rev. Ernest R. Brown, pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, who is a great favorite with the mothers and children at the Home. The music will be another feature, the quartet choir of the First Presbyterian church, under the direction of Herbert J. Harold, organist and director, will sing as will also the children's choir. The large attendance at the service on Sunday last was very encouraging to those in charge, and it is hoped that a deeper interest in this work may be shown by the people of our city.

On Tuesday evening George A. Horne will speak and on Friday evening George M. Rittenhouse will be in charge. On Sunday afternoon next the speaker will be Allen E. Beals Scout Commissioner of Plainfield. The Home is open at all times for inspection and old and new friends of the work are invited to all public services and to visit the Home at any time. Clothes, bedding, fresh vegetables and fruits are earnestly solicited, and will be called for upon notification of the Home by letter or phone. Contributions of money may be sent to George A. Chapman, of the committee. Tomorrow afternoon the music will be furnished by the Dutch Arms Band.

NEXT TO GO.

The annual excursion of the Reformed churches of this city and the Mt. Pleasant chapel, will go to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove next Thursday, July 30. The schools that will be represented are the Trinity, Netherwood, Marconnier chapel, of Oak Tree and Mt. Pleasant chapel. The train will leave the North Avenue station at 8:15 a. m. and Asbury Park at 7:10 p. m.

LOCAL MAN FACES FEDERAL CHARGES

Frank Weigman Arrested Here Last Night By County Detective Galatian.

GIRL VICTIM MISSING

Genevieve Moffett, of Westfield, Accompanied Him to New York, It Is Said, and Has Been Absent Ever Since.

Charged with an infraction of the Mann White Slave Act, Frank Weigman, of 681 West Front street, was arrested last night, and taken to the Union county jail at Elizabeth, where he will await a hearing. Chief of Detectives John J. Galatian, of Union county, came to the local headquarters last night, armed with a State warrant for the local man, and was accompanied to his home on West Front street by Sergeant Maurice Higgins and Patrolman John Neylon.

According to the police, Weigman, who is a machinist by trade employed by the R. H. Hoe Company, of New York city, admits that he took Miss Genevieve Moffet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Moffet, of Broad street, Westfield, to New York about two weeks ago. Since she accompanied the Plainfielder out of town the girl has not been seen or heard from by her parents and fears have been entertained for her safety. After establishing the identity of Weigman at the local headquarters, last night, Galatian accompanied the two Plainfield officers to the Grant Avenue station to meet the train on which he is accustomed to arrive from New York city. Their quarry did not make his appearance, however, having taken an earlier train, and when inquiry was made at his home it was learned that he had gone for a ride on his motorcycle.

A search was immediately started and the minions of the law came upon the man as he was riding on West Front street. Confronted by the officers and the warrant bearing his name he gave himself up willingly and was taken immediately by automobile to the county jail.

When interviewed by a Plainfield Daily Press reporter, this afternoon, Mrs. Moffet, mother of the girl, said that Weigman had frequently been a caller at her home, although another Plainfield young man was keeping steady company with her daughter at that time. According to Mrs. Moffet, the accused man came to her home during the parent's absence last Tuesday night and was seen leaving the premises a few minutes later in company with the seventeen-year-old Moffet girl. The only one at home at the time besides the missing girl was her six-year-old sister. The child says that Genevieve ran into the house and grabbed a hat and coat when she saw Weigman coming and that they stopped only a few minutes on the premises.

According to Weigman's confession he remained in Westfield with the girl over night and she borrowed clothes from a friend on Stanley place, Westfield, the next morning, before leaving for New York. Since her disappearance Wednesday morning she has not been seen by anyone except Weigman and his confession is expected to shed some light on her present whereabouts.

The missing girl is described as being seventeen years of age, five feet six inches in heighth, and wore dark clothes. She is well known in Westfield and until last year was a student in the High School of that place. Weigman has been visiting her frequently of late and the girl has been frequently admonished by her parents for entertaining him.

J. A. MARTIN REMEMBERED BY POSTAL EMPLOYES

The employes of the local postoffice have presented James A. Martin, former assistant postmaster, with a diamond studded cigar cutter in appreciation of his friendship and esteem while connected with the postoffice. The gift was a complete surprise to the recipient.

Mr. Martin, who was connected with the postoffice for thirteen years last April, retired the first of this month. He has been assistant to Postmaster Bird all of that time. The gift that he received was accompanied by a nicely worded letter from the committee.

CLARENCE GOSS ILL.

Clarence Goss, of East Sixth street, is in a helpless condition at his home, the result of a stroke of paralysis a few days ago. Mr. Goss has been employed at the Walter Scott Printing Press Works for a number of years and is prominent in Masonic circles.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

Postmaster Henry S. Garretson has been entertaining his mother, Mrs. Gertrude E. Garretson, of Raritan Landing.

Contractor Samuel M. Titus has been awarded the contract of erecting a house for an out-of-town party on Dunellen avenue at Equator Park.

Mrs. Sarah Painter is spending today with her sister, Mrs. George H. Firstbrook, at Newark.

CARL EBEL IMPROVING.

Carl Ebel, of Front street, is just recovering from the effects of being overcome by the heat at 5 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon of this week. Mr. Ebel, who works for Joseph H. Tetlow, the North avenue plumber, had completed work for the day in a house at Somerville and was waiting for a car when he informed a friend that he didn't feel well, and with those words collapsed.

AWARDED CONTRACT.

Willard H. Smith, of Bound Brook, has been awarded the electrical contract of the house that Contractor Samuel M. Titus is erecting for Charles Smith, of Front street, on Columbia street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McSorley have returned from their wedding tour through the State of Pennsylvania.

Contractor Frank Snyder is laying a concrete step in front of his property on Center street.

ARRESTED TWO HOBOES.

"If you fellows don't get out of my yard, I will blow your heads off," explained Andrew Smith, of Railroad avenue, who had been awakened by voices in his yard, as he stuck his head out of his bedroom window at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. "Everything is all right, Andy; come down a minute," spoke up Marshal Patrick Tarpey, who was one of the two. Tarpey had been attracted to the place by the continuous barking of a dog and had discovered two hoboes, as he called them, standing under a tree. The excuse they gave for being there, which was looking for a place to sleep, didn't satisfy the marshal and they were locked up. On Thursday morning, when arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell, they gave their names as Karl Miller and Eugene Kutner, both of New York. They were each given a sentence of thirty days, which was suspended on condition that they leave the borough at once and never put in appearance again.

SEVERS A VEIN.

Hervey Schworer, of Main street, New Market, one of the employes of George A. Schenck, the local ice dealer, had the misfortune yesterday, of severing one of the veins in the wrist of his right hand. Schworer had just dug the tongs into a good sized cake of ice and was in the act of lifting it out of the wagon when one of the points of the tongs released its hold and in swinging around caught him in the wrist, the blood fairly spurted out. Dr. Longbotham was immediately summoned and administered the necessary treatment. Schworer will be idle a week or more as the result of the accident.

ADDITION TO LIBRARY.

One hundred and twenty new books, of which eighty are juvenile and forty fiction, have been received at the library. These books will be placed on the library shelves next week. The cost of the books represents half of the money received through the sale of tags on July 4.

Mrs. E. H. Dean and daughter, Miss Gertrude, of Prospect avenue, who have been spending two weeks at Mount Pocono, are expected home today. Miss Margaret Dean, who was taken there by her grandfather, O. M. Whitney, on his way to Pittsburgh a couple of days ago, will in all probability return with them.

BOY SCOUTS MEETING.

The first meeting of the newly formed council of the Boy Scouts of America, was held in the borough hall, last evening, President H. D. Williams presiding. The entire meeting was taken up with the discussion of how best to increase the scout movement in this borough. In this connection it was decided to endeavor to have troops formed from the various churches of the borough and New Market, with each troop having its own scoutmaster. It was also decided to inaugurate a public campaign in the various newspapers and to have a public meeting in the near future to be addressed by Scout Commissioner Beals, of Plainfield, and a commissioner from Montclair. A meeting of the present organized troop in charge of Scout Commissioner Edward J. Dusel will be held in the Whittier School this afternoon. A scoutmaster will be elected at this meeting.

Mrs. Roger L. Cooley has shown additional marked improvement and her ultimate recovery appears to be assured.

Mrs. Fred Wrage and son and Mrs. Frank Culver departed today for Asbury Park, where they will stop for two weeks at the Mansion House.

H. A. BECKMEYER TO SPEAK.

Henry A. Beckmeyer, president of the American Business Bureau, of Newark, will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Past Councilors Association, Jr. O. U. A. M. of Middlesex county, which will be held at Spotswood, on Friday evening, August 7. President Beckmeyer is one of the ablest speakers of the Jr. O. U. A. M. of the State. He is a past councilor of Monroe Council, No. 232, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Newark. As Middlesex county is arranging for the installation of a business bureau, the committee in charge feel highly gratified that Mr Beckmeyer has consented to address the meeting and assist in the organization of the work. Mr. Beckmeyer's subject will be "Patriot or Tory—Which?"

NEW HAVEN REFUND SUIT.

Continued by Consent to Another Court In Massachusetts.

Boston, July 25.—The restitution suit against directors of the New Haven railroad to recover $306,000,000, alleged to be due through default of the fiduciary trust on their part, was brought up before Justice Braley in the state judiciary court and continued on consent of counsel to Aug. 7 in the supreme judicial court. The receivership petitioned for by the law firm of Whipple, Sears & Ogden in behalf of Ralph Burnett, as trustee under the will of Olea Bull Vaughn, was modified by consent to an order stipulating that there would be no transfer of any stock by any director or ex-director named as a defendant.

Attorney Moorfield Storey for the New Haven denied the jurisdiction of any court but a federal court in a case alleged to have arisen under the Sherman anti-trust law, and also contested the right of one stockholder holding only fifty shares out of some 80,000 to tie up all the stock held by the defendants.

DENIES SHE KNOWS WHERE HER SON IS

Didn't Say Boy Was In Woods, Declares Mother.

"FRAMEUP!" CRIES FATHER

Sure Boy Was Murdered—Asserts Suspect Should Have Been Held Until Mystery Is Cleared Up and Not Allowed to Go Free—Woman Made Statement, Says City Marshal.

Egg Harbor, N. J., July 25.—Another sensational turn in the mysterious disappearance of John Weber occurred here, when Mrs. Otto Weber, the lad's mother, declared that the assertions of Detective John S. Smith and City Marshal Stieff, in which she was quoted as having admitted to them that she knew where the lad was hiding, were untrue and beyond reason. She came to this city in company of her husband and then later appeared before Prosecutor Moore. Weber's father was enraged and stated that it was a frameup made by his enemies and that the detectives had fallen for the same.

"I am sure John is dead and was murdered," he said. "On the night of June 21 he had a violent quarrel with McMicken, and the next morning he was gone. A small sledge hammer which I had used that evening had also disappeared. It is my opinion that John was struck on the head with this, and then pieces of iron—of which there were plenty on the dredge—fastened to his body and then thrown overboard in the deep part of the river. I will spend every cent I have to find his body. It is an outrage that the report stating that my wife had admitted that he was alive and in hiding should have been given out by the detectives. McMicken should have been held until the mystery is cleared up and not allowed to go free. City Marshal Stieff, when seen, said: "Mrs. Weber did admit that she knew where the boy was and had been feeding him daily.

"She stated that he was back in the woods, and I asked her to get him which she said she would.

"A short time later she stated that the lad was afraid to come to the house on account of expecting a whipping from his father."

GRANT A HUNDRED PARDONS.

S. M. Egan, Former County Collector of Hudson, Is Paroled.

Trenton, N. J., July 25.—The New Jersey court of pardons at its June meeting at Sea Girt on Wednesday last considered 300 of the applications from convicts in the state prison seeking clemency and granted about 100, which took effect.

One of the most important of the paroles was that affecting Stephen M. Egan, former county collector of Hudson, who was sent to the state prison for embezzling county funds, in that he lent the money to the late Democratic "boss" of that county, Robert Davis. Egan will be released Dec. 1.

Another important parole was that of Harry Briehler of Mercer county, charged with killing Wesley Tall Chief, a full blooded Sioux Indian, about a year and a half ago, in a Trenton saloon.

REDUCES MOTHERS' PENSIONS

Judge Boyle Cuts Down Payments to Two Women in Camden.

Camden, N. J., July 25.—Judge Boyle, in this city, reduced the size of the payments made under the mothers' pension act in New Jersey to two women. The pension to Mrs. Elizabeth Casey was reduced from $22 to $14 a month, and to Mrs. Eva Riehm, from $14 to $9 a month.

The order was made upon the application of Miss Anna R. Snodgrass, of the state board of children's guardians, who said that since the pension was awarded to Mrs. Casey two of her four children had been placed in a home, while in Mrs. Riehm's case one of her two children has now gone to work and is assisting in the support of the family.

CONDENSED STATE NEWS.

Julie Journey, five years old, of Elizabeth died from burns she received when her playmates dared her to jump across a bonfire.

His shoulders and neck filled with shot, Bruno Veltinio of Passaic is a patient in the North Hudson hospital in Weehawken unable or unwilling to throw any light on how he received his injuries.

The Bayonne board of education lacks funds, and unless the council provides money until the state appropriation is received teachers and other employees will get no salary until December.

A duel with pitchforks was fought at Pennsville on the farm of John R. Powers, near Lower Penn's Neck township, between John Pfarr and Jack Anderson. Pfarr is under arrest, while Anderson, who was badly injured, was carried to the woods by friends, and the authorities are making an effort to find him.

Tri-State League.

At Harrisburg—Harrisburg, 5; Wilmington, 1.

At Reading—Reading, 7; Lancaster, 3.

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

POLITICIANS AID CLEARY DEFENSE

Man Who Killed Son-in-Law to Plead Unwritten Law.

SLAYER KEEPS LIPS SEALED

Witnesses Say the Democratic Leader Fired Before Boy Could Say a Word. Temporary Insanity Also to Be One of the Pleas of Haverstraw Town Clerk.

Haverstraw, N. Y., July 25.—A mighty fight to save William V. Cleary, Democratic boss of Rockland county, from the electric chair for the killing of his eighteen-year-old son-in-law, Eugene M. Newman, has been started.

Raising the issue of insanity, political friends of Cleary have even touched a responsive chord in Frederick E. Newman, father of the slain youth. While he calls for punishment, just and severe, the elder Newman expresses the hope that Cleary will not go to the chair.

Cleary's beautiful and talented young daughter, Anna, a music student of Walter Damrosch, widowed by her father's act, is prostrated.

The shock of the killing of the eloping son-in-law of five days, as he sought to ask the forgiveness of his wife's father, was augmented by Cleary's charges against young Newman and his taking refuge in the "unwritten law."

Cleary Raves In His Cell.

Shaken and cringing in his cell at the New City county jail, the "Big Fellow," as Cleary is known in Rockland county, raves in a delirium of remorse and agony. Friends of his political heydey, officials whom he has "made," promises of the unlimited legal support—all have failed to raise him from the awful depths.

The boy husband was actually shot to death in the Haverstraw police station. The chief of the fire department, chairman of the county board of supervisors and a member of the uniformed police force were the witnesses of the tragedy.

And when the crime was done—the boy shot down while seated in a chair that had been tendered to him with apparent hospitality, if not cordiality—every official there is said to have fled with Cleary.

Eugene Newman tumbled like a log to the floor, the final bullet entering his head from the back. With his head in a cuspidor, the boy lay gasping in the agonies of death for twenty minutes alone. Citizens who ran in found him thus, still breathing, but unable to make a statement.

Inquiry Into the Killing.

Official inquiry into the tragedy was started by District Attorney Gagan and Coroner Leonard. Statements were taken from Josiah Felter, chairman of the board of supervisors; Bernard Fox, chief of the fire department and political leader, and Policeman Hugh Sheridan, the three eyewitnesses to the shooting; also from Mrs. James Kennedy, grandmother of the slain boy.

On Monday Cleary will be arraigned for formal hearing before Acting Justice of the Peace Michael McCabe, who had him committed upon a charge of first degree murder preferred by Frederick Newman, father of the dead boy.

CLAFLIN TO PAY IN FULL.

Unexpected Assets Found—Receivers Made Permanent.

New York, July 25.—Creditors of the H. B. Claflin company to the number of 1,000 or more attended a meeting here. The expected clash did not occur. It was voted that the temporary receivers should be continued as permanent receivers.

The report showed assets of $55,259,524 and liabilities of $47,225,424.

Total assets exclusive of notes undiscounted are $52,876,354. Total liabilities exclusive of notes undiscounted and of capital stock are $44,842,254.

The excess of assets over liabilities is given as $8,034,100. This excess is arrived at before charging the capital stock liability of $9,000,000. After allowing for this liability there is a deficit of $965,900.

THREE KILLED IN STORM.

Many Others Injured as Baby Tornado Sweeps Over Illinois.

Chicago, July 25.—Three people were killed and a dozen injured in a terrific windstorm that swept down on Joliet and dipped down again in southwest Chicago.

The dead are Joseph Schaffer, Joliet; an unidentified man at the county infirmary at Joliet, and Miss Bertha Turnstra of Chicago.

Schaffer and the unidentified man were killed by flying timbers. The young woman was struck by lightning. Seven persons were seriously injured.

Peace Treaties Signed.

Washington, July 25.—With elaborate ceremony the Argentine, Brazil and Chile peace commission treaties were signed in Secretary of State Bryan's office. The ambassadors of the three countries who served as Mexican mediators were present, with a number of state department dignitaries.

WARNING

Any furniture bought before Tuesday, July 28, will be bought without comparison with the prices and values to be offered in the John Wanamaker August Sale, opening with four "Days of Courtesy" on that date. And without such comparison no one can be sure of getting the best return for the money to be laid out in improving the home.

$10 IN GOLD

TO BE GIVEN BY THE DAILY PRESS FOR THE BEST ANSWER TO ITS

Trade In Plainfield Contest

HOW TO ENTER THE CONTEST

Write a letter of not more than 500 words telling, in the simplest way possible, of the advantages you have gained in making a purchase in response to some particular advertisement of a local merchant in the Plainfield Daily Press.

Letters must be in the Daily Press office not later than August 12, and prizes will be awarded not later than August 15.

HERE ARE THE PRIZES!

First—$10.00 in gold.
Second—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $6.00.
Third—Year's Subscription to Daily Press ($5.00).
Fourth—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $3.00.

Conditions of the Competition.

1. The instance related in your letter must be bona fide, contain a description of the purchase, the name of the store in which it was made and be accompanied by a clipping of the advertisement. The amount of the sale will have no effect in determining the winner.

2. The advertisement must be from a copy of the Plainfield Daily Press issued within the dates of the contest, i. e. July 22 to August 12. Whether the letters win prizes or not the right is reserved to publish same in the columns of the Daily Press, without payment being made for their use.

3. No person will be considered as a competitor, who is in any way connected with the Plainfield Daily Press.

4. Winners of the second and fourth prizes will designate on what stores the Press due bills are to be issued, but they will only be issued upon Plainfield stores which advertise in the Plainfield Daily Press.

THESE POINTS WILL COUNT IN THE ANSWER:

The best illustrations of the advantages gained by buying at Plainfield stores in response to Daily Press advertisements.

The best illustrations showing the advantages of buying in Plainfield over buying out of town, especially from mail order houses.

Brevity, simplicity and an intelligent handling of the subject.

Further information will gladly be given upon inquiry at the Daily Press office, although the conditions are fully described in this advertisement.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JULY 25, 1914.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is Fire Chief T. O. Doane.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Solution of many important matters have been brought to the attention of the people living in the twentieth century, but that which has attracted the most prominence and which is of the greatest importance to the world is the warfare being waged against the needless sacrifice of human lives and property by fire. Plainfield contributes its mite to the army of specialists interested in placing the fire fighting science on the highest plane of efficiency. Consistent and tedious work on the part of certain city officials, co-operating with the fire department, has recently bought Plainfield to a par with other cities of its size for excellency in this line.

Men, equipment and proper supervision are essentials incorporated in the modern fire department, buf without the implicit confidence of the people the best results cannot be expected. In order to reap the biggest and best benefits from the equipment available there must be trust imposed in the department by the people at large. There must be co-operation. People of the town should be schooled in the belief that too many precautions cannot be taken.

The crusade to bring the danger of fire down to a minimum should begin at home. Although my purpose is not to spread needless alarm broadcast throughout the city, the reports of the National Board of Fire Underwriters show that Plainfield has its conflagration district and other characteristics conspicuous in towns of this size and population. The underwriters report that our fire hydrants, one of the essentials in fire fighting, are of satisfactory size, but in only fair condition, due to indiscriminate use. Some steps should be taken to prevent careless and unqualified individuals from attaching hose and other fixtures to the supply stations. They are frequently used by contractors, and for the purpose of filling street sprinkling wagons. If those taking advantage of these conveniences abuse the right some restrictions ought to be placed on their usage. In several instances the fire department has found hydrants with stripped threads, making them absolutely useless and encountered difficulty in opening a hydrant at a fire simply because someone has misused it. The distribution of hydrants in the city is wide, particularly in outlying sections. Additional hydrants are needed, for pressures at present are too low to give even moderately effective direct hydrant hose streams, except through short lines.

Unintentional negligence on the part of the householder causes numerous fires. To carelessness in disposing of matches, emptying ashes in wooden receptacles or against frame partitions, and the dicarding of oily rags can be traced the origin of many blazes that frequently assume disastrous proportions. The price of fire extinguishers at the present time is slight in comparison to that of several years ago and every home should be equipped with at least one of these improvements. In supplying yourself with an extinguisher you are safe-guarding your own family and property and possibly that of the neighborhood.

Many property owners are backward in calling the fire department when slight blazes make their appearance. In numerous instances we arrive at the scene of a supposed fire only to find that someone has put it out or that the alarm was merely a scare. That is what the fire department is for and I have spent much time in an effort to impress upon the citizens of Plainfield the fact that it is better to have the department take a needless trip than to run a chance of endangering lives and property by a big conflagration. Place your implicit confidence in our department and never be backward in notifying us of the smallest suspicion of fire, no matter what time of the day or night you discover it.

But the home is not the only place where the family has to be protected. Four years ago I was asked by the State Board of Education to present a report on the conditions existing in the local public schools. I condemned four of the structures, classing them as fire traps and menaces to human life. In these four instances the only chance the pupils would have of saving their lives in case of an outbreak of fire would be the excellently conducted drills in each instance, and I doubt if even that valuable asset would save them. I have long been advocating the installation of automatic sprinkling systems in public schools and factories in Plainfield. There is not a single instance on record where lives have been lost in fires that have occurred where there have been automatic sprinkling systems. The price of this equipment has been reduced to a minimum. In some instances fire insurance companies refuse policies to certain buildings because of their condition, but after the installation of these devices there is a rush for the insurance.

Plainfield's fire department is now rounding into shape and by next year I hope to have a fighting equipment that can be relied upon to take care of anything but an extraordinary blaze, and there is little danger of that breaking out here. The efficiency of our department has been demonstrated by its ability to get fires at the start and we have done some wonderful work with limited means. I want to impress on everyone the necessity of perfect confidence in the department, the fact that no fire is too small to warrant the taking of precautions and the fact that we need co-operation.

Fireman are human and when they roll out of bed in the middle of the night their one thought is to get to the fire. If their minds are so occupied with this thought that they become confused in the location of fire hydrants they become the objects of much adverse criticism. This can be averted by a little thought on the part of individuals. Learn the location of the fire box nearest your home and after doing that find the nearest hydrant. After turning in an alarm be ready to give out such information as the department may demand to facilitate speed in getting at the blaze.

JOHN SCHLEY CHOSEN HEAD OF TRADES COUNCIL

The Building Trades Council, of Plainfield and vicinity met last evening at their rooms and transacted considerable routine business. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term of one year: President, John Schley; vice-president, Fred Earhardt; recording secretary, John Cordover; financial secretary, Russel Hann; treasurer, H. S. Dorflinger; trustees, William Harding, Lewis Martinus, and E. A. Reed. William H. Lunger was re-elected as business agent.

The matter of having the show cases in front of various stores on Front street removed from the sidewalks was talked over to some extent, and will be taken up with the Business Men's Association in the near future. The question of the trolley line to South Plainfield will be taken up shortly by the Trades Council, and it is probable that this body will join with the other bodies which are working to secure this much desired improvement. It is the purpose of the Council to take up matters of civic interest from time to time, and join with such other bodies as may be working along similar lines as far as is possible. The suggestion that all civic bodies exchange representatives through their open meetings was discussed, and met with general favor. Definite action on this plan will follow later.

Walter Firstbrook, editor of the Building Page of the Daily Press, was present at the meeting and made some interesting remarks on the possibility of co-operation between the newspapers and the trades union men, so as to help keep Plainfield mechanics busy.

RECREATION NOTES

The Dunbar Social and Educational club, which meets regularly every Friday night in the Washington School, under the auspices of the Plainfield Recreation Committee, enjoyed one of the best entertainments of the summer last night in the form of a shirt waist dance. Two musical numbers were given; one a piano solo by Miss Davie Reed and the other a solo by Ralph Green. There were about sixty-five present. John Gates, president of the club, announced that next Friday night there would be a prize waltz with first and second prizes.

The municipal dance will be held tonight in the Washington School. The cares and worry of the week may be danced away in this well ventilated auditorium where good music is provided practically free for the young people of Plainfield. These are well chaperoned dances where any mother can be sure her young people will enjoy themselves under the right conditions.

WILL MEET WEEKLY.

The Labor Day Parade Committee of the Allied Trades have planned to meet each Thursday evening from now until after the event of which they have charge. The gatherings will take place in Trades Council Hall.

LODGE NOTES.

Lodges scheduled to meet tonight are as follows: United Commercial Travelers, Plainfield Council, No. 402, at the Babcock building; Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., at Coward Hall.

LOCAL SOLDIERS LEAVE FOR STATE ENCAMPMENT

Thirty-five members of Company K, of this city, in charge of Captain Charles Peterson left at noon today on the special train provided for the National Guard members for Sea Girt where they will attend the State encampment for one week. The corps from Somerville and Plainfield will arrive at the camp this afternoon and will start immediately on the routine of work planned for the week.

The local rifle corps left several days ago and will join the troupe this afternoon. Two days of bivouacking has been planned in connection with the stay at Sea Girt this year and the local soldier boys will participate in this work for the first time.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Union County Democratic Committee will hold a meeting at Elizabeth, July 31 when considerable important business will be taken up preparatory to the opening of the campaign.

The petition of William E. Tuttle for re-election to Congress from the Fifth district has been enthusiastically received in Elizabeth it is said. Congressman Tuttle is one of President Wilson's strongest supporters in the House of Representatives. At all times and in every vote it has been shown that Congressman Tuttle has supported the Administration. At the session of the Democratic State Committeemen in Long Branch Wednesday, Willard W. Cutler, of Morris, said that his county would give Tuttle a big majority.

I. B. S. A. MEETING.

Two meetings of the International Bible Students' Association will be held in the Reform Hall tomorrow. The afternoon meeting will begin at 3 o'clock and the evening meeting at 8 o'clock. Professor Cohen, of Brooklyn, will be the speaker.

0.32 INCHES ABOVE NORMAL.

According to Weather Prophet John Neagle, the heavy shower this morning brought the rainfall for the month up to 0.32 inches above the normal. Prior to today the normal fall was about two inches short.

SUCCESS MARKED CONCERT

the concert attracted the attention of those who had not already heard of the innovation. Fifteen automobiles participated in the demonstration and many other car owners planned to drive their vehicles in the procession but were kept out through a misunderstanding regarding the time for starting.

Members of the Dutch Arms Band rendered the program of instrumental numbers, all of which were greatly appreciated as evidenced by the applause they received. The affair last night was of an experimental nature and its success means the continuance of the open air concert idea permanently at that place. The program rendered consisted of the following numbers:

March, "The Thunder," Sousa; overture, "The Golden Prince," Losey; serenade, "Twilight Echoes," Miller; march, "Colonel's Miner's," Rosenkrans; waltz, "Sea Breezes," Miller; medley overture, Miller; serenade, "Starland," Losey; march, "Camp Meeting Band," Gilbert and Muir; hesitation waltz, "Love Is Too Fickle," Kruseman; march, "Progressive America," Miller; "Star Spangled Banner."

The committee in charge are as follows: Chairman, B. K. Davis; publicity, A. R. Parkhurst, Jr.; lights, Joseph Edgar, Jr., and George H. Fisher, Jr.; lumber, Jacob Sachar, David L. Coleman; construction and grounds, William J. Boyd; seats and refreshments, Frank S. Powers, T. C. Vail, Richard D. Williams; parade, Frank A. Weeks.

RATE DECISION WILL NOT BE MADE TODAY

Washington, July 25—It became evident, this morning, that the Interstate Comerce Commission would not be ready to announce its decision in the advance freight rate case today. During the week a large number of pages have been added to the text of the proposed decision. A little army of clerks are at present busy reading the galley proofs of this addition. Whether this is all or whether the Commission contemplates adding still more to the already voluminous text is not definitely known.

AN ORDINANCE

For the Laying Out and Opening of Spooner Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Eighth Street to the northwesterly side line of Sherman Avenue.

WHEREAS, The Common Council have judged and do hereby judge that the public good requires that Spooner Avenue should be laid out and opened between the points named in the title to this ordinance, therefore

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That a public street, to be known as Spooner Avenue, be and the same is hereby ordered laid out and opened in said city as hereinafter specified, that is to say:

The centre line of said street shall begin at an iron monument in the intersection of the centre lines of West Eighth Street and Spooner Avenue, as the same are now laid out and opened, and running from said point in a southeasterly direction and at right angles to the line of West Eighth Street, over lands now or formerly of the Estate of Edward Morgan, George F. Brown, Fred A. Martin and Walter F. Manning, a distance of 580.02 feet to an iron monument in the centre line of the block between Stelle and Sheridan Avenues, as the same are shown on a map entitled: "Map of Woodland Park," Plainfield, N. J., November, 1909. Owned and Developed by Central Holding Co., 1328 Broadway, N. Y. C.," on file in the office of the Register of Union County; and running from said point in a southeasterly direction and at right angles to the line of Sheridan Avenue, over lands now or formerly of the Central Holding Company, a distance of 180.02 feet to an iron monument in the center line of Sheridan Avenue; thence in a southerly direction in a straight line over lands now or formerly of the Central Holding Company and Helen B. Banchella a distance of 351.05 feet to a stone monument in the intersection of the center lines of Sherman and Stillman Avenues as the same are now laid out and opened, and there to end. Said street shall be 50 feet in width, that is to say, 25 feet on each side of said centre line, and the roadway shall be 30 feet in width, that is to say, 15 feet on each side of said centre line. Said centre line and also the side and curb lines of said street are delineated on a certain map filed with the City Clerk, April 6, 1914, entitled "Map showing Proposed Laying Out and Opening of Spooner Avenue from West Eighth Street to Sherman Avenue, City of Plainfield, N. J., March, 1914," to which reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken for the laying out and opening of said Spooner Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Eighth Street to the northwesterly side line of Sherman Avenue are all those lands, real estate and appurtenances included between the side lines above described lying 25 feet on each side of the above described centre line and parallel therewith, and includes all that part of the lands, real estate and appurtenances now or formerly of the Estate of Edward Morgan, George F. Brown, Fred A. Martin, Walter F. Manning, The Central Holding Company and Helen B. Banchella which lies within said lines.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken and the lines of the proposed street as the same is hereinbefore ordered to be laid out and opened, are shown on said map on file with the City Clerk, hereinbefore referred to and made a part hereof.

Adopted by the Common Council, July 13, 1914; approved by the Mayor, July 14, 1914.

PERCY H. STEWART, Mayor.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Baseball in the police department has proven a decided success this year and it is to be hoped that the sport will be established as a permanent feature of the P. B. A. work. Although this is the initial season of the pastiming among the coppers, a good team has been turned out and the locals have given a good account of themselves against the more experienced coppers of the State. One commendable feature of the local team is the fact that it is composed exclusively of genuine bluecoat talent and in only one contest did the policemen go out of their organization to get a player to perform. With this year's start and the experience to fall back on the local association ought to turn out a State champion next season.

It is to be regretted that Plainfield is not entered in that State Canoe Regatta at Deal Lake this afternoon. There are a number of expert paddle wielders in this city who should take pride in lending their services to bring some of the numerous rewards to the Queen City. The regatta is the first of its nature ever held in New Jersey and Plainfield, a city well known in State sporting circles, should be represented. There was some agitation here several weeks ago regarding this feature event of the year in water sports but those at the helm apparently gave up their work when the hot weather hove into sight.

Flemington's return to Plainfield terra firma for baseball purposes is welcomed by old time baseball fans in this city. Many there are who well remember the battles waged between the farmers and the Queen City bat vielders in days of yore and it is to be hoped that these tooth and nail issues will be revived. This attraction is a good one and should go a long way toward boosting the Sunday baseball proposition in the lot on Woodland avenue. Give the encounter the "O. O." and compare it with the ancient battles.

Now that Eugene Lidgate has found a berth with a semi-pro club and Jack Martin has proven that he is only human by contributing his share of errors to the box score it is up to the local baseball scribe to scour around for some more excitement.

Nick Powers has thrown his hat into the ring and qualified for some newspaper notices by signing articles for a go with Connie Mack's recruits. Nick is well known around these diggings and he goes to the majors with the well wishes of a horde of admirers to back him up.

Plainfield Moose have annexed the championship as "under cover" artists. While engaged in a hotly waged battle to keep out of the league's cellar the local club has found time to keep its record off the sporting pages. Yougottahandit to somebody for this thoughtfulness and we sincerely hope that the Moosers will be able to keep their names off the public's Sunday baseball roster.

Dunellen baseball has been shelved for the remainder of the season. This is only another indication that the national pastime is dying a cruel death in these parts this year. If some rescue artist does not appear on the scene pretty soon everything will be shot to pieces locally.

It's been a good year for the home youngsters to get in their bids for semi-pro jobs. The gate receipts do not warrant the hiring of outside talent this year, and as a rule the local bred players take delight in performing for the love of the thing.

Even though baseball has become a thing of the past in Dunellen there appears to be a couple of feminine pin splitters who are out to keep that little burg in the eyes of the sporting public.

INFLUX OF PROFESSIONALS THE CAUSE OF BASEBALL'S DOWNFALL IN DUNELLEN

By Robert Bogardus

The few ardent fans who have stuck to the Dunellen baseball club this season are sorry that the decision has been reached to disband. They fully realize, however, that unless the management was desirous of conducting a charitable organization that it had no other recourse than to take the action decided upon Thursday. George Voehl, who had charge of the team this year, was by far the most efficient man that has ever been in charge of a local team. Mr. Voehl not only understood the game from "A to Z," but he was also a man peculiarly fitted to take charge of the finances.

The situation that he met from the start was a perplexing one and not alone foreign by any means to Dunellen. It is country wide. Although players of the recognized ability of "Christy" Mathewson, had prophesied that on account of the endeavors of a new league to secure a foothold in the baseball world, that this would be the greatest year in the history of baseball in this country, the interest in baseball which went to sleep at the conclusion of the world series between the Giants and Athletics would not and has not as yet really awakened again. This has resulted, of course, in slim attendances at a time when players of recognized ability are demanding stupendous salaries and young players who are able to make a hit a game and catch a fly are also demanding big pay.

Baseball has changed from a sport to a profession and the sport-loving public has sickened at the monetary side of it. They want to see players playing for sport and to win, and not for dollars and cents. George Voehl, with his peculiar acuteness has recognized this and was gradually putting his team on an amateur basis. The funds in the treasury of the Dunellen club were insufficient, however, to see it through. Mr. Voehl deserves credit for keeping the team going as long as he has when the support tendered his team has been taken into consideration The local team made a very good showing, winning six games and losing five out of the eleven games played. Among the teams that the locals defeated were Plainfield, the disbanded Somerville team, Westfield and Cranford.

In commenting on the general baseball situation, last evening, Mr. Voehl said: "Interest in baseball taking the country as a whole, is certainly at a low ebb due to the present professionalism of the sport The baseball public will stand for professional baseball in the larger cities, but it will not stand for nation-wide professional ball. Baseball will eventually come into its own again by the re-establishment of amateur ball in the smaller places, but it will take sometime to awaken interest that has been destroyed."

SALARIES THEN AND NOW IN THE BIG LEAGUES BENEFIT THE STARS

Comparing the baseball salaries of the present day with those of the past is just like comparing a pony to an elephant—there's just that much difference in the general bulk of the pay envelopes.

Amos Rusie, regarded by many of the veteran fans who have seen the best of the past and present performers as just about the greatest pitcher of all time, got only a paltry $3,200 a year in comparison with Walter Johnson's $10,000; Nap Rucker's $7,500. Mathewson's $12,000 and Joe Wood's $10,000. The amount that Amos used to draw down for his brilliant work in an amount that even the twirlers fresh from the bushes would sneeze at in these days.

George Val Haltren had few peers as a base runner, few as a fielder and thrower, few as a brainy player, and usually could be counted on for a goodly number of safe hits each season. In the old days Van Haltren was figured to be of as much value to his team as Speaker is today, yet George got only $2,100 a year, while Tris takes unto himself about $18,500.

Herman Long takes rank as the very best shortstop the game ever has known, with the possible exception of Hans Wagner. Yet Herman got only $2,400 for his labors, a sum that is less than half that paid any of the major league shortstops of the present day.

If Big Dan Brouthers were in his prime today, he could command and get at least $10,000 a year. But Dan played in the old days of poor pay and was perfectly satisfied with the $1,900 salary that he drew.

Buck Ewing got only $2,400 a year—and he was worth $10,000 at least according to present-day standards. Tim Keefe had few equals as a pitcher, yet he got only $2,400.

FLEMINGTON APPEARS HERE TOMORROW

The Plainfield Sunday baseball team will meet the strong Flemington nine on the Woodland avenue field tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. Manager McDonough has secured the services of Jackie Hayes, of New Brunswick, to do the twirling for the locals and the visiting batters will have to be awake in order to hit him. The regular team will be used and a good game can be expected.

The Flemington team has cleaned up some of the fast teams in this vicinity and will undoubtedly give the locals a good rub for the decision.

BASEBALL NOTES

Manager Rickey, of the St. Louis Browns, is going to try out Catcher Shirick of the Cornell University baseball team.

It is rumored that Rochester will follow Baltimore's lead and sell a number of the star hustlers to the highest bidder.

A change from Cincinnati to Boston may help "Hobby" Hoblitzel's batting eye. The Red Sox new first baseman has hit for only .209 this year.

Ty Cobb has expressed the opinion that either the Detroit Tigers or the Boston Red Sox will beat out the Athletics American League pennant

In Outfielder Anderson, the Brooklyn Feds claim to have one of the fastest gardeners who ever played ball. He is a former New York State League player.

The Harrisburg club of the Tri-State League has a sweet flinger in Pitcher Chabek. He has won 15 of the 17 games in which he has pitched this season.

"Lefty" Russell, Connie Mack's $11,000 beauty of a few years ago, is playing a great game at first base for the Scranton team of the New York State League.

Manager Robinson, of Brooklyn, has been doing considerable weeding out of extra men lately. Outfielder Hummell and Infielders Egan and Elberfeld are the only utility men now with the Superbas.

The Chicago White Sox have won 9 of the 12 games played with the St. Louis Browns this season, and the Browns have copped 11 out of 16 contests played with the Cleveland Naps.

It would have been a case of "from the top to the bottom" for the Pirates if the Braves had come to life. Nobly have the Braves stood between the Pirates and the cruel outside world.

Pitcher Henry Peterson, recently signed by the Portland Northwestern League club, won 14 straight games while pitching for North Yakima, of the Western Tri-State League this season. And the "Yaks" are a tail-end team at that.

If the recent bickerings between the National Commission on one side and the Baseball Players' Fraternity on the other, are to continue for any great length of time, it is probable that the old "organ" in organized baseball will be on the bum.

The Cubs were certainly in right in having Roger Bresnahan on the job during Jimmy Archer's absence from the lineup on account of injuries. Roger has been doing the bulk of the backstopping for the O'Day outfit and doing it in grand style.

When a Boston scribe asked Tim Keefe what he thought of the 1914 brand, compared with the game as played in the '80s, the famous old pitcher of the Giants answered, "Umpire Jack Sheridan looks younger than when he was on the old Brotherhood staff 24 years ago.

ROD AND REEL

Reports from Barnegat Bay state that the fisherman are picking up bluefish by the barrels full. They are big ones, some weighing from five to ten pounds. Many are also being caught.

Mrs. George R. Morris, of this city, and several friends from Newark, motored down to Forked River today and will remain over tomorrow hooking big ones.

Twenty-five large weakfish were taken in at Morgan Station yesterday by two men who were out for a short time.

Catches have been numerous in Weequahic Park Lake this week. Catfish and white perch have been the specialties for the last few days.

Bass and pickerel are biting well at Green Pond.

Fluke seem to be the only thing that are biting at Necong these days. All of the anglers that visit that body get large catches of that variety.

Sewaren has become a popular fishing resort. Every day large catches of weakfish, fluke and crabs are made.

Night fishing along Raritan Bay and the Shrewsbury River is getting popular, as the fish seem to bite best then. Boats from Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Tottenville, Morgan and Keyport carry parties that bring in a good many fish. If the government could only see its way clear to spend a few dollars for lights on the jetties at Morgan, it would be a very popular place for these evening parties. Thousands of dollars are spent for the dredging on the Cheesequake Creek, but not a nickel goes for lights. Some say that the railroads are opposed, because they don't want the bridge over the creek opened, but bridges over other streams are operated at night and some of them are no more important than this creek.

HIGHLANDERS AND LAURELS MEET TOMORROW

The Highlanders and the Laurel A. C. baseball teams will meet on the Netherwood field tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. This will undoubtedly be a tight game as both teams are playing fine ball and have good records. The Highlanders have not been defeated yet this year and the strong Laurel aggregation expect to put a crimp in their perfect record.

Denny and Dixon will oppose each other on the mound and the game will probably result in a pitchers' battle, as both of these artists have lots of curves and can keep their opponents guessing. Both teams are noted for their crack infields and the pitchers will receive the best kind of support. The Highlanders have defeated some of the fastest teams of this city and vicinity and expect to uphold their unblemished record.

The teams will lineup as follows: Laurels—Dixon, p; Gleason, c; Miller, 1b; Mullin, ss; Brennan, 2b; Betzenberger, 3b; Jones, lf; McCarthy, cf; Lorton, rf. Highlanders—Dodd, c; J. Denny, p; Hoffmiester, 1b; Stebo, 2b; T. Denny, ss; Kyle, 3b; Hainzel, lf; Luttman, cf; Moore, rf.

NEWSBOYS HUMBLE THE "C-N" SCRIBES

Press Carriers Put Much Tooted Aggregation of Challengers to Root.

The Courier-News baseball team, the one that will play the New Brunswick paper team in a short time, was given some fine practice yesterday, when the Daily Press carrier boys defeated them on the Watchung avenue field by the score of 12 to 5. The "News" players were ever in the game and it took three pitchers to stop the Press sluggers.

LaPorte and H. Vail started on the firing line for their respective teams and both teams hit the ball hard. The Courier scored first but this advantage was soon overcome by a slew of safe hits that meant several runs. The Courier twirler was relieved by Serviss, who fared little better and he was eventually derricked in favor of Crook, who finished the game. Vail was relieved by W. Vail in the fifth inning. The winners scored five runs in the fifth inning.

The score by innings:

Courier-News ..	2	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	0	— 5
Daily Press ...	1	3	0	1	5	0	2	0	0	—12

VAN DEVENTER TEAM LOST LAST NIGHT

Local Brothers Bow to Strong Rahway Team In Semi-finals At Westfield.

In the semi-final round of the Westfield Golf Club men's doubles night tennis tournament, that has been running for the past week, Philip and Ludlow VanDeventer, of this city, lost to Lindsay Dunham and Harold Throckmorton, of Rahway, in straight sets, 6-1 6-2. The local pair had an off day and were easy for their opponents. These four players came together in the same combinations on the Fourth of July, when the Rahway team defeated the local boys for the Union county doubles tennis title. In that match the VanDeventers gave their opponents a hard fight for the title and the full five sets were necessary for the decision. They were the only Plainfield entrants left in the tournament out of three which started.

H. P. Randall and H. Cowperthwaite, of the Westfield Golf Club, defeated E. F. H. Pendergast and H. Glazebrook, of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, in two out of three sets, 1-6, 6-1, 6-1. After losing the first set the Westfield pair reversed and played a wonderful game, taking the last two sets with ease. In the second match of the semi-finals C. P. Throckmorton and T. Ernst, of the Sewaren Tennis Club, defeated Randall and Cowperthwaite, of Westfield, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-0. This qualifies them for the final round and they will meet H. Throckmorton and L. Dunham, of Rahway, for the title on the club courts tonight.

LOCAL COPS' RIVALS IN CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

The Elizabeth and Newark copper ball teams will battle at the latter place next Thursday in the first game for the State title. Both teams are in fine condition and are undoubtedly the two best cop teams in the State. The Newarkers have an edge on the Betsytown guardians of the peace and are the favorites as champions.

Last Thursday the Newarks defeated the locals in a fast game with a two-run lead and the Elizabeth team has taken the measure of Kiely's men twice this season. Both games were decisive victories. The Newark team has won five consecutive games. A return game will be played in Elizabeth and if the teams split even a third and deciding game will be arranged.

MOOSERS AT JERSEY CITY.

The Plainfield Moose baseball team will go to Jersey City tomorrow, and play a league game with the lodge team of that place. The locals are now next to last in the league standing in which the Elizabeth nine is the leader. The locals defeated this team last week and are confident of another victory tomorrow.

BOB AND BOB, JR., GIVE EXHIBITION

Spar Three Rounds at Benefit Entertainment Held at Bound Brook.

A record breaking crowd attended a benefit entertainment held at the Imperial Theatre, Bound Brook, last night, for the benefit of the South Bound Brook fire department. Representatives from several companies of the State were present and enjoyed an interesting program.

The feature of the evening was a sparring match between Bob Fitzsimmons, ex-heavy weight champion of the world, and his son, Bob, Jr. The match went three rounds and the audience was given a classy exhibition of the art of self-defense. Young Bob landed on his father several times and inflicted a cut over the left eye. Fitz, Sr., remarked after the show that he made several swings that, had they hit their mark, would have sent his son into the audience but young Bob was so clever and fast that he avoided them and came back with several jabs. Before this match Bob gave a monologue in which he told of the times when he was world's champion.

The rest of the entertainment consisted of vaudeville numbers and high class motion pictures. The entertainment proved successful in every way.

BURKE AND BONHAM GET CONTRACT FOR ROAD WORK

Bonham & Burke, local contractors, were last night, awarded the contract for laying streets in Newcastle, Del., by the road commissioners of that place.

The local firms bid of $37,000, submitted last week, was lowest received among a large number of proposals. The construction of the road will be of anthracite and bituminous materials.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

Happenings Due Next Week

Washington, D. C., July 25—It has been a long time since the national capitol has seen so much official activity in mid-summer as is the case at present. Ordinarily at this season of the year the machinery of government slows down almost to a standstill. But with Congress in session and the President and heads of departments all at their desks, with important developments in the Mexican situation of almost daily occurrence, with presidential conferences with the representatives of "big business" on the tapis, with the railroads of the country in a state of watchful waiting—under these circumstances, it is scarcely possible for the Washingtonian to distinguish the season from mid-winter, were it not for the extreme heat.

The hot weather of the past few weeks has imbued the powers with a strong desire to get away on their vacations before vacation time is entirely ended, and in consequence it is likely that the congressional mill will be speeded up from now on. Even so, there is little prospect that the Congressmen will be able to get away in time to escape any of the heat of summer.

Thousands of persons from all parts of the country are expected to gather along the eight miles of waterway at the formal opening of the Cape Cod Canal next Wednesday. The Governor of Massachusetts and other dignitaries, including a representative of President Wilson, will speak. The new water route cost $12,000,000 and was built by a corporation headed by August Belmont, of New York. The canal will shorten the distance 70 miles for coasters sailing into Boston and in addition will eliminate the dangerous passage around Cape Cod.

Union and Confederate survivors of the battle of the crater, which took place on the outskirts of Petersburg, Va., July 30, 1864, have been invited to participate in a celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the engagement, which is to be held on the battlefield next Thursday. The battle is regarded by many historians as the most notable of the Virginia campaign, as it delayed the surrender of the Confederate troops for nearly a year.

Many competitions of interest to followers of sports and athletics are scheduled for the week. Included in the list will be the elimination tennis matches for the Davis Cup, the Grand Circuit races at Detroit, the trial races for the America Cup defender, the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club, the Royal Canadian Henley regatta at St. Catharaines, Ont., the automobile races at Galveston, Texas, and the international motor boat races at Lake George for the championship of North America.

Among the notable gatherings of the week will be the annual national convention of the Loyal Order of Moose, in Milwaukee; the annual convention of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations, in Washington, D. C.; the fifth annual meeting of the Clinical Congress of Surgeons of North America, in London, England, and the Twelfth International Ophthalmological Congress, in St. Petersburg, Russia.

PILGRIMS AT SHRINE.

Quebec, July 25—Tomorrow being the festival of Ste. Anne, the shrine of the saint at Ste. Anne de Beaupre is already the mecca for hundreds of pilgrims. For several days the hotels and boarding houses have been filling with people from all parts of the country. Nearly all of the pilgrims are affected with various ills, among them being many cripples and blind persons. All of them are looking forward earnestly for special favors through the intercession of the gobd saint on the occasion of her own festival.

A Merchandise Gamble

You know the men who are in business in this community. You have known them for a number of years. You know them as being honorable and upright in every dealing you have had with them.

Knowing them in this way, are you willing to go to their stores and pay to them money for merchandise of which they can show you only a picture, and for which you must wait from one week to a month after they have received your money?

OF COURSE YOU ARE NOT!

But you are doing that very same thing with people you do not know when you send your money to the mail-order firms of the cities. You have only a picture or a brief description of an article from which to determine its value. After you have sent your money you must trust to the intelligence of a poorly paid boy or girl to send in return the merchandise you want.

The people of Plainfield who persist in dealing with the mail-order houses are doing themselves and this city an injustice.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

"Cornered" is to be the name of John Mason's new "vehicle."

Mary Ryan is to appear next season in a comedy called "The House of Glass."

Jack Lait, author of "Help Wanted," is to have a new play "Birthright" produced in Los Angeles.

"When Valmond Came to Pontiac" is the rather odd name of a new play recently completed by Gilbert Parker.

Max Reinhardt's massive spectacle "The Miracle," will be presented at Madison Square Garden on Dec. 4, with Maria Karmi in the leading part.

In addition to "The Vanishing Bride" David Belasco will open the new season with a play of crime and detection by Lloyd Osbourne called "The Blue Buckle."

Klaw and Erlanger are to produce next season Ada Sterling's adaptation of Eugene Brieux's "La Robe Rouge," which will be known in America as "The Judge's Robe."

Among the new plays recently announced for the coming season will be a comedy in three acts entitled, "Are You My Wife?" by Roy Atwell and Max Marcin.

Tully Marshall, Orrin Johnson and Charles Richman are three notable players to appear in "The Trap," the new drama by Richard Harding Davis and Jules Eckert Goodman.

Miss Ottola Nesmith, to whom David Belasco has given the title role in "The Vanishing Bride," is the daughter of Captain Otta A. Nesmith, of the U. S. Signal Corps.

Selwyn and Co., have accepted for production early in the fall a novelty farce called "Peace and Quiet," by Edwin Milton Royle, author of "The Squaw Man."

Charles Klein's new play "The Money Makers," with Alexandra Carlisle and Emmett Corrigan, will be produced in Washington on Sept. 14 and presented in New York a week later.

Henry Miller, whose producing plans have been made most secure by the success of "Daddy Long-Legs," has accepted a new play by Austen Strong, author of the "Toymaker of Nuremberg" and adapter for David Belasco of the Rostands' "Good Little Devil."

PAUL M. WARBURG.

New York Banker Is Still Backed by President Wilson.

© by Pach Bros.

Mr. Wilson's withdrawal of the Jones nomination, it was said at the White House, does not mean any change in his determination to insist upon confirmation of Paul M. Warburg. Assurances have been given that Mr. Warburg can be confirmed. Senator O'Gorman, who is understood to have been trying to persuade Mr. Warburg to accept the banking committee's invitation to appear before it, returned to Washington.

CAILLAUX LETTERS NOT READ IN COURT

Point For Accused Woman In Paris Trial.

Paris, July 25.—When the fifth session of the trial of Mme. Joseph Caillaux for the murder of Editor Calmette of the Figaro opened Palais de Justice was stormed by crowds who scrambled and fought to get in and hear the reading of the now famous letters written by Caillaux to his present wife.

Like the heroine in a tragedy, Mme. Gueydan, divorced wife of Caillaux, at the end of her three hour speech of denunciation of Caillaux and his present wife, rose in the witness chair and said:

"Here are M. Caillaux's love letters from Mme. Raynouard" (the present Mme. Caillaux) "which I have kept. I turn them over to you to do with as you wish," and handed the packet to Maitre Labori, counsel for the accused woman.

It was a dramatic coup. As attorney for Mme. Caillaux and therefore for her husband, Labori was placed in a delicate situation. If the letters were really tender love epistles which passed between Caillaux and Mme. Raynouard while each was married to another they would prove a liaison that would materially decrease Mme. Caillaux's chances for acquittal.

But he took up the gauntlet as melodramatically as it was thrown. "I will read the letters to the jurors," he promised.

Scandal loving Paris, made with excitement, stormed the palace of justice to hang, breathlessly, upon the salacious missives.

Mme. Gueydan was recalled to the stand. Maitre Labori took his stand before her.

"You played a fine trick," he sneered. "I return your letters. Three are most uninteresting and only two might even be regarded as relevant. These letters will not be read by me. Madam, do you wish them back?"

EUROPEAN WAR IN THE BALANCE

Russia Will Aid Servia In This Crisis.

SEEMINGLY READY TO FIGHT

Great Britain and France to Side With Russia in the Event of Hostilities. War Would Involve All of the Great European Powers — Conflict Now Seems Inevitable.

RUSSIA WILL AID SERVIA IN CRISIS.

Developments in the Austro-Servian crisis were rapid. Russia has practically decided to intervene and demand that Austria give Servia more time to answer her ultimatum.

Austria has instructed her envoy to Servia to leave Belgrade promptly on the expiration of her ultimatum.

Germany has formally declared she will support her ally, Austria.

For a long time Russia has been massing her Cossacks along the Austrian border, and it is believed she has more than a million troops to move if the need arises.

If the present negotiations fail, as now seems likely, the whole of Europe will be plunged into a great war, the greatest ever known, with Austria, Germany and Italy ranged against England, France and Russia.

London, July 25.—Information from an authoritative source is to the effect that developments are pending in the Austro-Servian crisis which are likely to lead if not to a great European war at least to a protracted period of international unrest, such as accompanied the outbreak of war in the Balkans. War, indeed, can only be averted by a complete backdown on the part of one or the other of the two great triplices into which the European powers are divided.

Confer With Francis Joseph.

Berlin, July 25.—Unless Servia backs down from the expressed intention of refusing to comply with the demands of Austria, Europe will see the beginning of a world war. This is the opinion freely expressed in governmental, military and diplomatic circles.

Baron Hoetzendorff, chief of the general staff, conferred with Emperor Francis Joseph at Ischl, reporting as to the position of troops prepared to back up the ultimatum served upon Servia. It is reported that the emperor will leave here for Vienna.

The Austro-Hungarian military authorities issued orders that all army reserves should be prepared to report to their regiments upon a day's notice.

The unprecedented demands of Austria and the sharpness of the note addressed to Belgrade struck Berlin as a thunderclap and caused the greatest amazement. A high government official declared that war or peace now rests entirely with Servia. The attitude of the Belgrade government is believed to depend entirely upon the approval or disapproval of Russia. Officials declare the gravest situation will be presented should France and Russia attempt to interfere.

In such event, it is declared, the conflict would be shifted over night from war between Austria and Servia to a situation menacing the peace of all Europe.

An ultimatum has been received at Belgrade calling upon the Servian government to suppress the Pan-Servian movement and punish those responsible for the assassination. It is understood that Servia will refuse to comply with the demands of the ultimatum, which calls for a reply by 6 o'clock this afternoon.

Servian Premier Off to Russia.

Reports received from Belgrade were conflicting. Nothing has been received to indicate that Servia contemplates complying with the demands of Austria. One report declares that Premier Paschitsch has started for St. Petersburg, presumably to seek the assistance of Russia. Paschitsch was believed to be away on a political campaign.

Austria sent a note to all powers reviewing the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Servian conspiracies and the anti-Austrian plotting as being responsible for the demands upon the Belgrade government.

Austria has made all preparations for war. A fleet of monitors is gathering at Semlin, opposite Belgrade, and for the past two weeks troops have been concentrating on the border.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

Plainfield People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills,
For Plainfield kidney sufferers,
Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Plainfield people.

Albert Naylor, musician, 256 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I suffered from an ache in the small of my bach and sharp pains when stooping or lifting. I took Doan's Kidney Pills, as I was told that they were good for such trouble and by the time I had finished two boxes, I was feeling better in every way. I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to people I have heard complaining of kidney trouble."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Naylor had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

News of Interest in Building World

BUILDING SLUMP STILL CONTINUES HERE

Only Three Permits Issued By Inspector Doane This Week.

The July building slump continues this week, as far as the granting of permits by Inspector T. O. Doane is concerned. During the course of the past week, but three permits have been issued from headquarters, while two or three permits are pending, calling for the erection of several dwellings. The permits issued this week are for the construction of two dwellings and one garage, at an aggregate cost of $10,600.

William H. Lunger, in discussing the local building situation said, "while the building activities in this city are far from what they ought to be, the opening of the present month saw more new buildings in the course of construction than any other previous month for some time."

While conditions in this city are far from being over active, the outlook in the various suburbs continue to improve, although they have been better in the smaller towns for some time than in this city. Many dwellings have been erected in Dunellen during the past season, the vast majority of them finding easy buyers on completion. The same condition found in Dunellen, exists in South Plainfield, Metuchen and Oak Tree, while Fanwood and Scotch Plains are not so well favored.

George Felmy is to erect a frame dwelling in the First ward at 336 Emerson avenue. The structure will be 24 by 33 feet, frame in construction, with a concrete foundation and shingled roof. The cost of this building is estimated at $4,000. George H. Fisher, Jr., is the architect, while Watson Payne, of South Plainfield, has the masonry contract. The carpenter work will be done by Mr. Felmly.

Mrs. Mary E. C. Laidlow, of West Eighth street and Grant avenue, has been granted a permit to erect a hollow terra cotta block garage at an estimated cost of $1,500. The structure will be erected in the rear of the residence of Mrs. Laidlow, and will be modern in every detail. Marsh and Getto, of New York, are the architects, B. F. Tallamy and Brothers, the mason contractors while James W. Carver has been awarded the contract for the carpenter work.

Michael F. Watson, of Grant avenue, will erect a two-family, two and a half story frame dwelling at 226 Grant avenue. A modern hot air heating system is to be installed. The cost is estimated at $5,100. William H. Clum is the architect, Howard Huff the mason contractor, and Charles E. Drake, the carpenter contractor.

AWARDED CONTRACTS.

A. Ammon and Sons, local contractors, have been awarded a contract for the erection of a boarding house at Warrenville for Mrs. Charles Dubois. This is but one of several buildings in the course of construction at that village.

MOUNTAIN TROLLEY FACILITIES NEEDED

Influx of Residents Demand Up-to-Date Transportation Line

With the erection of a large number of dwellings, summer residences and bungalows through the territory just across the mountains in the Passaic Valley, much talk has been heard about a movement to have the Public Service Railway Company continue its Somerset street line across the hill, thus connecting this city with the Lackawanna road. Should such a line as this be practical, there is little doubt as to the boom, both in real estate and building, which would follow in its path. Considerable building is going on as it is, with one realty concern erecting as many as twenty-five bungalows in one section.

In discussing the possibility of a trolley line through this section, a member of the North Plainfield Improvement Society said that while such a line is to be desired, he feared that it would be almost impractical to construct it, owing to the steep grades which have to be overcome." "Should such a line be built," he said, "it would of necessity, have to be constructed over the dug-way road or over a private right of way, either of which would be more expensive than the company would be justified in building at the present time. However, I believe it is only a matter of time when a line such as described will become a necessity, and the company will find it more than profitable to extend their line to one of the stations on the Lackawanna road. A greater number are each year being attracted to this section, a few seeking home sites, while many are seeking spots with country surroundings for their summer homes. This section, if the influx of population continues, will demand sooner or later adequate transportation, with a little or no thought as to whether the Public Service Company or an independent line affords the desired transportation."

REALTY TRANSFERS

Equator Building and Development Co. to August Wachter, plot South Second street, 100 feet west from Sanford avenue.

Equator Building and Development Co. to Frank Jaruszewski and wife, north side Bound Brook road, 250 feet west from Sanford avenue.

Philip W. Mundt has bought of John R. Tingley and wife house and lot in Piscataway township.

Mastro Donato has bought of S. P. Q. R. Co. house and four lots in Dunellen Heights, Piscataway township.

Thomas J. Cotter has bought of Twin State Realty Co. house and lot in Plainfield Terrace, Piscataway township.

Zugmunt Gordon has bought of Merchants & Traders Realty Co. house and lot in Plainfield Terrace, Piscataway township.

Michael J. Connolly has bought of Merchant & Traders Realty Co., house and lot in Plainfield Terrace, Piscataway township.

Cornelius W. Conover has bought of William B. McLain Realty Co., a lot in Lincoln Estates, Piscataway township.

ANOTHER PLANT FOR SOUTH PLAINFIELD

Prospects For Trolley Connection Now Seem More Promising.

South Plainfield still remains in the industrial spotlight, the latest development to be made public is that a large concern which manufactures willow furniture is soon to locate at that place. It is reported from reliable sources that work on a hollow terra cotta block will be started shortly on the west side of the Lehigh tracks, the structure to be fireproof. Shortly after the announcement made through the columns of The Daily Press a few weeks ago that the Spicer Manufacturing Company was to move its local plant to that village, real estate and building at South Plainfield took on renewed life, and there are, at present at least eighteen dwellings in the course of construction. It is known that several real estate dealers are planning for a further development of a residential section before long, an by fall South Plainfield will have many ideal homes to offer the influx of workingmen who will be attracted to the town by the two new shops.

The Board of Trade, which has been interested in the movement together with the local trade body, in promoting the possibility of a new trolley line connecting them with this city, are now of the opinion that the Public Service Railway Company will shortly build the proposed line, whether the Public Utilities Commission order them to do so or not. Conditions at South Plainfield have so changed in the course of the past twelve months, that it should appear to be a more attractive proposition to the transit company than before.

CEMENT HOUSES FOR INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

The advent of the "poured" concrete house as a home for the workingman has resulted in the carrying out of a number of building operations involving this form of construction, the idea being to provide houses of low rental which will be well adapted to the needs of industrial workers. Among some of the more important operations just projected is that the Crucible Steel Company of America, which will erect 500 concrete houses for its workmen near Pittsburgh, Pa.; the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company will erect 200 similar houses at Pottsville, Pa.; the Loyal Hanna Coal and Coke Company expects to build 200 at Johnstown, Pa.; the United States Steel Corporation has planned several hundred near its plants at Pittsburgh, Pa., and Gary, Ind., and Henry Ford, the well-known automobile manufacturer of Detroit, Mich., has in contemplation the erection of 2,000 houses for his workmen. These indestructible five and six-room cement houses may be built, it is claimed, for not more than $1,000 each.

BOSCH MAGNETO CO. PLAN NEW BUILDINGS

Purchase Additional Tract Adjoining the South Avenue Plant.

It was announced during the past week that the Borch Magneto Company, which recently took over the Rushmore Dynamo plant, has purchased a large tract of land in the East End from Daniel F. Dugan. The tract has a frontage of 563 feet on South avenue, and 200 feet on East Sixth street. It has been stated that the new concern has planned to erect an addition to the plant in the near future, making it possible to employ several hundred men within the course of a year.

Such action on the part of the new concern will mean the erection of a number of additional dwellings in the East End. While there are many vacant houses about the city, the majority of them are not suitable for the average working man. The fact that these new shops are to be erected will undoubtedly be instrumental in starting the development of the East End beyond the expectations of a few months ago, when the building and real estate conditions in this city were at low tide.

BUILDERS' WAGES IN 1913 WERE HIGHER

According to Bureau of Labor Statistics At Washington.

According to a statement issued May 9 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics at Washington, D. C., the average weekly wage in forty leading cities of the United States for more than sixty industries was higher on May 15, 1913, than on May 15, 1912, except that of the mill work carpenters. The following are some of the increases made in the period stated.

Bricklayers, 1.7 per cent.; carpenters, 1.7 per cent.; hod carriers, 1.3 per cent.; painters, 4.2 per cent.; plasterers, 1 per cent.; plumbers and gas fitters, 3.1 per cent.; structural iron workers, 2.6 per cent.; stone cutters, 2.2. per cent.

The highest scales per hour paid in May, 1913, in the above trades were as follows:

Bricklayers, 87½ cents in Dallas and San Francisco; carpenters, 65 cents in Chicago; hod carriers, 50 cents in Portland, Salt Lake City and San Francisco; painters, 65 cents in Chicago; plasterers, 87½ cents in San Francisco; plumbers and gas fitters, 81¼ cents in Seattle; structural iron workers, 75 cents in San Francisco; stonecutters, 70 cents in Portland; iron moulders, 50 cents in San Francisco.

The bureau reports that thirty-four trades showed a reduction of hours between May, 1912, and May, 1913; twenty-eight reported no change and one reported an increase.

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

About 120,000 telephone girls are employed in the United States.

The Federation of Railway Employes in Mexico has 150,000 members.

The International Typographical Union will hold its annual convention in Providence next month.

Control of employment agencies in Luxenbourg is soon to be taken over by the Government.

Statistics show that the United States now has more than 6,000,000 factory employes, and 1,600,000 railroad employes.

The average daily wage of factory employes in Michigan last year was $2.41, which was an increase of 10 cents per day over 1912.

The Supreme Court of the United States has rendered a decision upholding the constitutionality of the Ohio law regulating the working hours of women.

Negotiations between journeymen barbers and their employers in Pittsburgh have resulted in an agreement for increased wages and a shorter workday.

The union bartenders in Boston have presented to their employers a demand for a new scale calling for a minimum wage of $21 for a week of six days.

The law permits children to be employed in the English mills as half-timers at twelve years of age, providing they have made 300 attendances at school in five years.

The first agreement entered into by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers was that which was concluded with the Atlantic and Pacific Railway on December 16, 1891.

Baltimore is preparing for the entertainment in September of the annual convention of the International Union of United Brewery Workmen of America.

Owing to a general strike of printers in Prague, Bohemia, the leading newspaper of that city was recently produced by photography from typewritten copy.

In 1885 it took 274 minutes of labor to care for and raise a bushel of corn. In the year 1894 the average time required had been brought down to about 41 minutes.

The New Zealand arbitration court has granted a six-day week to hotel workers, and an agitation has been begun throughout the country for the extension of the principle to all seven-days-a-week occupations, including the police force.

The proportion of gainful workers in the female population of the United States ten years of age or over increased from 14.7 to 23.4 per cent from 1880 to 1890, according to a report recently made public by the Bureau of the Census.

In the total population of the United States more than two-fifths of all persons—over three-fifths of all the males, but considerably less than one-fifth of all the females—were engaged in gainful occupations in 1910. In the population of ten years of age and over more than one-fifth of all persons—over four-fifths of the males, but less than one-fourth of the females—were gainfully occupied.

BUILDING ON THE MOUNTAIN.

The Kline Realty Company, which is building many of the modern bungalows throughout the mountain towns, have recently started a number of dwellings on Dugway road, Watchung. These structures are to be modern in every respect and of the latest style of architecture. The same company is erecting about twenty bungalows at Warrenville.

SANTA FE MAY EXTEND.

Topeka, Kans., July 25—Having purchased the Oklahoma Central Railroad, westward from Lehigh, Okla., through Purcell to Chickasha, the Santa Fe is said now to be contemplating the construction of an extension southwest, presumably to Wichita Falls, Texas. The Oklahoma Central crosses the Santa Fe's main line at right angles at Purcell, penetrates the Oklahoma coal fields at Lehigh and connects with the Rock Island and 'Frisco at Chickasha.

Wallingford In His Prime

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

CHAPTER XXVII.

That Little Deal.

THE woman in the next room screamed again. Blackie Daw winced in sympathy; Wallingford grinned; the gray mustached man in the corner sat in patient misery, as he had from the first, and held his swollen jaw.

"I don't think it hurts so much as it did, Jim," decided Blackie, looking up with a hopeful smile. "Stop me, I think I want to go home."

"Stay right where you are and have it out," chuckled Wallingford. "You brought me along to keep you here, and I'll do it if I have to sit on you."

The dentist, who had tried to conceal his necessarily cruel countenance with a pink mustache, hurried out to the water cooler with a glass upon which was a bright red spot, and everybody grew solemn.

"Hello, Bessmer! How's Oak Center?" the dentist greeted the stranger. "Which of you is next?" And brutal speculation kindled his eye as he looked them over.

Both the patients, anxious to put off the moment of agony, indicated each other with surprisingly ready courtesy, but Mr. Bessmer had truth and the right on his side.

"These gentlemen were waiting when I came," he insisted.

"I am only my friend's guardian," explained Wallingford with a happy smile.

"I'm it, I guess," acknowledged Blackie, cornered. "Give me another drink, Jim; quick!"

"You may come with me now," the dentist remarked softly.

Blackie arose and followed, with much careless bravery.

"Is Oak Center a pretty fair business town?" asked Wallingford of the stranger.

"For some lines," stated Bessmer, with distinct and quite visible inward reservations. "It's really a farming town and very rich, but it gives slight support to manufacturing."

"You must be a manufacturer," guessed Wallingford.

"I am in a small way," acknowledged the other, still frowning. "I have a malleable iron foundry and have obtained capacity business on a process of my own."

"Capacity is good enough."

"The trouble is with the size of the capacity," explained Bessmer, with a dry laugh. "Why, with $50,000 more capital I could increase, not alone my net earnings, but my percentage of profit on the total investment not less than four times. As it is, I barely hold my credit."

"When a shaky business can't borrow money it sells stock," observed Wallingford with a wisdom born of much experience. "Are you incorporated?"

"Two hundred and fifty thousand. I've $125,000 worth of stock in the treasury. The $25,000 I sold of the other half went at 50 per cent."

"I suppose you'd be willing to clean out the treasury shares for your $50,000," suggested Wallingford.

The man jumped at that. "Show me how!" he begged.

"You're shamefully honest," mused Wallingford, studying him in minute detail.

"I hope so," returned Bessmer sincerely.

"I think I'll go to Oak Center and look at your plant," decided Wallingford, who had found his present location unproductive. "I have $50,000 that haven't done a useful thing, except come to me, since they were printed."

"I suppose I shall see you again, Mr. Wallingford," ventured Bessmer.

"I think so," replied Wallingford, shaking his head at him and giving a sidelong glance toward Blackie. Mr. Bessmer nodded in comprehension of the warning to be secretive. Wallingford took him by the arm and walked into the operating room with him, coolly closing the dentist out with Blackie. "I'd rather not have Mr. Daw know anything of our affairs," he explained.

"I guessed as much," smiled Bessmer, "but at first I thought he was an intimate friend of yours."

"He's an intimate business rival," denied Wallingford, chuckling. "We have some great fights."

"What is your business, if I may ask?" Bessmer naturally inquired.

"The purchase and sale of stock in unprosperous companies," J. Rufus told him, with a perfectly straight countenance.

"I guess you could do it," Bessmer opined, with a sigh. "I wish you would think it worth while to take hold of my factory."

"What time do you go back to Oak Center?"

"On the 2:40 train."

"I'll ride over with you," promised Wallingford, and they shook hands on it.

Mr. Bessmer, much relieved as to jaw and with renewed hope as to business, took a seat in the parlor car of the 2:40 train, correctly gaging that the resplendent Wallingford would ride there or nowhere. The train waited its appointed four minutes; its bell clanged; its whistle tooted; its smoke puffed, and it pulled out, and still no Wallingford!

Bessmer suddenly felt weary and old. He had not realized until now how critical his business situation really was. The proof of it lay in the fact that he had grasped so desperately at the word of a chance stranger.

"Well, Mr. Bessmer, how's the jaw?" inquired a cheerful voice at his elbow, and, looking up, he found Blackie Daw, laden with a suit case, a hatbox, an Oxford and a saxophone case.

"Haven't any, so far as the feeling is concerned," responded Bessmer, his heart jumping with the sudden memory that Blackie Daw was in the same line of business as the man who had failed him. "I didn't notice you getting on the train."

"You were looking for Jim Wallingford; that's the reason," laughed Blackie, stowing grips in every available corner, and sitting down, like a real sport, with no regard whatever for the tails of his Prince Albert. "I side tracked him."

Mr. Bessmer contracted his brows and turned on Blackie a glance of disapproval. "That was not fair to either Mr. Wallingford or myself," he charged.

"It's all in the game," declared Blackie lightly. "I saw he had a business opportunity with you, so I had a phony telegram delivered to him and sent him on a wild goose chase; then I made your dentist tell me all about the Bessmer Malleable Process company, and here I am!"

Mr. Bessmer could not see the joke. "Mr. Wallingford might have purchased my stock," he protested.

"So might I," Blackie consoled him. "On the other hand, Mr. Wallingford might not have purchased it, and I may not. Tell me the news."

* * * * * * *

J. Rufus Wallingford paused opposite the corner of the Bessmer Malleable Process company and made a comprehensive estimate of it. It was a more or less toy plant, but radiated the impression of extreme business so thoroughly that its walls seemed to bulge and quiver.

"You don't mean to say you've sold it?" protested Wallingford.

Bessmer, with gray filings on his hat and in his hair and mustache and even clinging to his eyebrows, was bent over a much soiled building plan.

"I'm in no hurry, Mr. Bessmer," said Wallingford cheerily. "When you're not so busy I'll take up with you the matter of the purchase of that stock."

Mr. Bessmer seemed somewhat embarrassed. "I'm very sorry to say you're too late," he returned, his conscience smiting him that he had helped to trick this friendly big stranger out of a possibly profitable deal.

"You don't mean to say you've sold it?" protested Wallingford.

In spite of his compunctions a gleam of satisfaction lit Mr. Bessmer's eyes.

"Well," he stated apologetically, "the spot cash was offered me, and now I'm building my extensions."

"I bet I know who bought it," declared Wallingford, with a trace of annoyance.

"Your friend, Mr. Daw," admitted Bessmer, flushing slightly. "I'm afraid that he played a rather questionable trick on you and that I made myself a party to it."

"I can't blame you," pardoned Wallingford, hurt, but generous. "Does Mr. Daw now own all your surplus stock?"

"Every share of it."

"Where would I find Mr. Daw?"

Bessmer suddenly laughed. "He is probably out oiling the engine, or trimming castings at one of the emery wheels to see the sparks, or riding on the warehouse elevator. Shall I send for him?"

"No, thanks," replied Wallingford, with careful gravity. "If you don't mind my going through your factory unattended I'll hunt him up."

With a fair certainty of what he would find Wallingford walked back through the grinding shop and out the side door. Across the yard on one of the little narrow gauge tracks that ran everywhere came a black casting car, rattling and bumping at top speed, and standing on the buffers was a tall lank figure in new vivid blue overalls and blouse and wearing a workman's cap tilted rakishly up over one corner of his forehead.

"Can't stop, Jim!" he yelled as he flew past. "They're waiting for this car."

Wallingford, finding no place clean enough to sit down, stood where he was for ten mortal minutes until Blackie came back with a face which, though well grimed, was perfectly happy.

"I thought you were supposed to stick around the town in a silk hat and inspire confidence," complained Wallingford by way of greeting.

"You know, Jim, sometimes I think you're a dub after all," reproached Blackie. "You never will get the finer points of stagecraft. I had myself made assistant manager, and I'm inspiring so much confidence that this morning I had Bessmer lock my own money up in his safe for fear I'd trust myself too far."

"Assistant manager!" chuckled Wallingford, who had the born instinct for mechanics, of which Blackie had no trace. "What do you manage principally?"

"The oil can till the engineer hid it," Blackie informed him, with regret. "He admitted that I was some sure enough oiler, but objected that the cost of the stuff came off his fuel appropriation. On the level, I'm crazy about this business! Say, do you know, the fireman went home sick last night, and I got here in time to have the safety valve popping off at 7 o'clock. I have to teach that fellow how to build a fire when he gets back. You do it like this: First you scrape all the ashes and clinkers out of the grate bars, then you put in an even layer of shavings and build a lattice work of kindling all over it, then you spread a thin layer of coal on top of that and light a cigarette and toss the match under the boiler. Why, two minutes after I blew the whistle I had the engineer in there—he gets pale when he's excited—fussing with the pump. He says I'm a corker of a fireman. But he has a cheaper man on the job now."

"I don't suppose you've thought of that list," observed Wallingford in a half hopeless tone.

"I'm so discouraged!" asserted Blackie. "I never get credit for anything. Here's your list. Stay and have lunch with us, Jim?"

"Lunch!" puzzled Wallingford. "Why, you're not over four blocks from your hotel."

"True," assented Blackie, "but am I one to assume airs of superiority over my own intelligent workmen? I treat them as fellow human beings. You see, I intend to run for mayor of my suburb on the reform ticket this fall. So I bring my lunch with me in a little tin pail every day and play them the saxophone at noon time. I've improved a lot in my music, Jim. Shall I come up and play for you tonight?"

"If you do I'll murder you," declared Wallingford. "You stay away from my hotel until we are through."

Some Cookery Suggestions

CUCUMBER NOVELTIES.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Macaroni and Cheese.
Cucumber Fritters.
Hot Rolls. Jam.
Cocoa.

MANY people are unaware that cucumbers may be served in a great variety of satisfactory ways other than in salads. They make nice entrees and are most useful viands with which to give relish to the summer luncheon.

Cooked in Stock.

Cucumber Patties.—Peel and cut a cucumber into slices about one and a half inches thick. Scoop out a little from the center of each, leaving the slices in the form of cups. Simmer till tender in a pint of white stock, with a teaspoonful each of sugar and vinegar. Fill cases with hot seasoned minced cucumbers. Serve with brown sauce made with the stock.

Cucumbers in Butter.—Take a cucumber, peel and cut into pieces two inches long. Take out the seeds and cook in boiling salted water. Drain; then put into a saucepan with a piece of butter and simmer for some minutes. Serve with chopped parsley. It may be prepared in the same way to serve with a white sauce instead of with parsley.

Drain Well Before Serving.

Cucumber Fritters.—Pare and grate some cucumbers and press out the juice. To one pint of the pulp add half a cupful of milk, one cupful of flour, three beaten eggs, one tablespoonful of melted butter, half a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter teaspoonful of white pepper. Beat well, drop from a spoon into smoking deep fat and fry until a golden brown. Drain thoroughly before serving.

A Novel Stew.

Stewed Cucumbers. — Take equal quantities of cucumbers and white onions, two ounces of butter, three tablespoonfuls of gravy, two tablespoonfuls of white wine, a small piece of mace, salt and paprika to taste, and a piece of butter rolled in flour. Slice the cucumbers and onions, removing the coarse seeds. Fry both vegetables lightly in two ounces of butter.

Drain from the butter and place in a stewpan with the gravy, wine and mace. Set over the fire and stew very gently for six or seven minutes; then stir in a piece of butter rolled in flour. Add the seasoning and shake over the fire until the sauce thickens. Serve hot

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

Nowhere is the picturesque tendency of fashions more noticeable than in the children's frocks.

This one is peculiarly charming in its short waisted effect, while at the same time it is exceedingly practical, since the skirt and body portion are buttoned together.

All the simple, pretty washable materials are appropriate for the frock. The blouse is finished quite separately from the skirt and is closed invisibly at the front. The skirt is made in two pieces

For the four year size the body portion will require one and one-eighth yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, the skirt and trimming one and five-eighths yards twenty-seven inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for children from two to six years. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8236, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

They Dropped a Star Over Every Guest.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Fairies Give a Big Summer Picnic.

THE fairies had had the most marvelous picnic ever given in fairyland only a few days ago, and, you may be sure, daddy did not waste much time telling Jack and Evelyn about it.

"They had the best time that they ever had had in their lives, they afterward said," began daddy, "and you know well how much that means, for they are in the habit of always enjoying themselves a great deal.

"In the first place, the picnic was a very large one. It was given in the big pine woods, and, oh, it was so deliciously cool there! It really was so cool that the fairies would run around and play games for all they were worth, so they could appreciate the cool breeze better.

"There were ever and ever so many guests at the picnic. The humming birds were invited with the butterflies, for the fairies wanted all the beautiful creatures they could have. The orioles were there and the bluejays and the robins; also the little red lizards, for, you know, the fairies are very fond of the little lizards and think they are very cunning. Then the elves were asked and, of course, the brownies.

"It was one of the prettiest picnics you can imagine, for with so many lovely creatures playing and dancing under the big, dark pine trees, with just gleams of Mr. Sun peeping through to see the fun—well, it was one of the prettiest sights in the world.

"The fairies began their picnic by swinging, playing tag and hide and go seek before they sat down to their supper, so as to make them very, very hungry, you see.

"Every little creature was given just what was most appealing for his special appetite.

"The fairies, elves and brownies had moss ice cream, which is their favorite kind, with evergreen patties. The birds had little dishes of cool spring water to drink and, of course, little worms to eat. The lizards were allowed to crawl around and pick up anything they chose. The butterflies and humming birds were given honey from the flowers, for the flowers were only too glad to help along.

"Everybody did have such a good time because everybody was thought of and nobody was forgotten about.

"But the most wonderful part of all was when the fairies entertained all their guests with a special dance which they had for the occasion. They dropped a star of silver over every guest, while they danced around in graceful and lovely manner.

"And all the guests picked up the little stars and applauded the fairies."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Mrs. Haryot Holt Dey tells us in the Syracuse Herald, that "the sun shines brighter in New Zealand than it does in a disfranchised State like New York. Again, "seeing sunshine is mental, and it goes without saying that to a woman who is recognized as having legal recognition with men before the law the sun does shine more brightly. The air in a State where women vote has more of life giving properties in it to the woman who thinks of these things, than in a State like New York, where the women are disfranchised and classified before the law with criminals, idiots and the insane."

If it is the enfranchisement of women which makes the sunshine brighter in New Zealand, why is the "New Zealand Society for the Health of Women and Children," founded in 1907, a necessary institution?

Suffragists in this country are pointing to it with pride, as a proof of the success of woman suffrage.

If it was established by woman suffrage, that is no argument in this country where in every State there are a greater or less number of associations for the guarding and protecting of the health and welfare of all humanity—men, women and children.

Laws already in force, and new ones constantly springing into existence—as the necessity for them is recognized—for the promoting of clean streets, better sanitation, pure foor, pure drugs. State laws and Federal laws, too many and too varied to enumerate in many columns.

New, better ventliated school buildings are everywhere supplanting the older ones and men's votes are doing it.

Why is not the women-voting sunshine of New Zealand life-saving "as well as" life-giving?

Why is it that despite the existence of the society referred to above, a woman doctor of New Zealand writes that "the high death rate amongst the children is a disgrace to the women of New Zealand?"

Why does she tells us that the low birth rate causes continued anxiety?

She tells us "divorce is much less thought of here than at home" and then explains that what is even more common are separations "by mutual consent," which never reach the courts, therefore do not show in the statistics?

Wife desertions have reached such serious proportions that special arrangements to prevent the success of hasty departures from New Zealand have been made with the authorities at Sydney, as it is the nearest port for such use, as Calais is for England.

These facts are all stated as late as 1911.

The sunshine which is "mentally seen" in New Zealand is evidently in some departments of life pretty thoroughly obscured by rather dense clouds.

Will Suffragists ever realize that conditions in New Zealand and Australia have no bearing on this country?

They cannot have now or ever, if only for the one great fundamental fact of the existence here of "States' Rights," which now and always will make it impossible for the Federal Government to order all the affairs of the country, but this is only one reason.

Space is not available to enumerate all, but one of the strongest is a problem with which no other country has to deal, viz: Our ever increasing, ever already huge and changing foreign population.

It would almost seem that Mrs. Dey was confusing New York State with our own, when she uses the term "disfranchised," since it cannot apply to women in a State where they were never enfranchised, while it can and does apply to the women of this State, where they were given the vote and deprived of it again in the same generation.

Deprived of it for disgracing the use of it, "repeating" in different districts as women and then beginning again clad as men.

Nowhere on the statute books of the State of New York are women classified with "criminals, idiots and the insane" and Suffragists alone are responsible for their ever having been mentioned in such a connection.

Surely the methods that distort the significance of the cry against "taxation without representation," read, write and quote words and meaning into a statute, which it never contained or was interpreted as containing augur badly for those which would be employed in the use of the ballot, by the inventors of them. To quote Miss Chittenden, "If they chose to place their sex in the ranks with the unfortunate and undesirable citizens of the State, let them do so on their own authority, and not fall back upon the Constitution to support their contention."

Mrs. Dey further voices another suffrage fallacy and tells us that "Wherever the voice of the mother is heard with authority, before the law, all conditions are improved." Is it the "voice of the mother" in Utah which makes twelve the age at which girls may become bootblacks, as one authority expreses it "thereby opening up a new field of usefulness for all the little girls who wish to follow the dainty, dignified and essentially feminine profession of shining shoes to the gutter's edge?"

Is it the "voice of the mother" in Colorado which decrees "that boys of any age may engage in street trades, and girls of ten or over?" Was it the "voice of the mother" that "defeated the uniform child labor law by a vote of 31 to 12 in Idaho in 1913?" In the Denver Post, Oct. 17, 1913, we were told by Mrs. Stuart Walling and Dr. Elizabeth Candy, in a report on the Colorado Reformatory: "Rotten, nothing but filth and graft found at Buena Vista." Merely a preparatory school for the penetentiary.

The reformatory submerged in politics is a monument of graft, ignorance, stupidity, extravagance and mismanagement." Building so infested with vermin that only fire could purify it.

In the Denver Daily News, Oct. 1, 1913, Rev. A. H. Shattuck, of Grand Junction, Colorado, tells us of the town: "Lawlessness is pronounced among us." "Illicit liquor selling is notorious." "Gambling joints are in full swing." "Boys and girls roam our streets late at night in unrestrained violation of the curfew ordinance." He adds pathetically "The mothers are possibly away from home attending to political affairs." As to the social evil in Denver, Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett, national president of the Florence Crittenden Home for Wayward Girls, tells us "In all of the seventy-eight Florence Crittenden Tomes I never saw such a collection of girls of the better class as are in the Denver home."

Truly the "voice of the mother" must be so feeble in Colorado as to be negligible, or is it not interested in these vital points?

The well-informed Suffragist tells us that in neglecting her children to work for suffrage she does it "to prepare a better world into which they may immerge" when life outside the home opens to them.

We do not need women to "mother" the government. We do not need to see the "mother spirit" in the Supreme Court. We need mothers where mothering counts—in personal contact with the lives of individual children. This is being made a matter of legislation when it should be parental control and parental love. We need better fathers and mothers, better homes, the family still the social unit with a common interest and sympathy. We do not need more women politicians, more women office seekers, more women street orators—which types are appearing in this suffrage agitation far too frequently for safety.

The theory that conditions will be bettered by the entrance for women into political life is disproved by the facts.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

8119

An excellent blouse for outing wear is shown in this model, 8119. It has a box plait over either shoulder, a rolled collar, forming a point in the back and a yoke onto which the back of the blouse is slightly fulled. The sleeve is full length and there is a pocket on each side of the front. One of the heavy linens or cottons, pongee or crêpe de Chine may, any of them, be used to advantage with this design. It is quite a fad to catch the sleeves and fronts of this season's blouses with links of colored beads or buttons. This gives just a suggestion of color which is quite necessary. To make this blouse in size 36, 2½ yards of 36-inch material are required. The new linens and cottons are wide; pongee and crêpe de Chine average 36 to 38 inches in width and are priced from 75 cents a yard and up. The pattern is cut in seven sizes, 32 to 44.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

SCENT FRAME-UP IN WEIGMAN CASE HAS BEEN RELEASED

Young Man's Straight-Forward Story Impresses Union County Authorities.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., His Counsel, Secures Man's Freedom on $1,000 Bonds—Did Not Have Improper Relations With Young Girl.

Through his straightforward story told the Union county authorities following his apprehension on a White Slave charge, Friday night, Frank Weigman, twenty-five years old, of 681 West Front street, has, it is said, practically cleared himself of the allegations, and developments in the case are now reversing the original circumstances. What appears to be a carefully laid plot to ruin the Plainfield man has been revealed and it was stated this morning that every effort would be made to bring the instigator of the whole affair to justice. It is now alleged that Weigman was charged falsely by the girl's father and the complaint against him, which alleges White Slavery, seems groundless. The details of the story Weigman tells to the authorities have been corroborated, it is said, and hard grilling has failed to shake his statements. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the firm of Reed & Hetfield, who has been retained as counsel for the accused, went to Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, and secured his release from the Union county jail on bonds of $1,000 furnished by Weigman's mother. The charge hanging over his head is that of an alleged infraction of the Mann White Slave law, act of 1912, relative to the transportation of women from one State to another for immoral purposes.

In his story to the Union county officials, Weigman is said to have told how he met Genevieve Moffet at her home, at 205 West Broad street, Westfield, Tuesday night, July 7, and escorted her to a party in that town. Prior to their meeting on that evening the girl had quarreled with her parents regarding their objections to her keeping company with a man of her own choice and their demands that she accept the attentions of another, who is said to live in this city. After the party the girl suddenly decided that she would not return to the parental home, according to Weigman, and he was too gallant to leave her at that late hour. He tells how they walked the streets of Westfield and sat on the park benches until dawn and then how she begged to be allowed to accompany him to New York city where he is employed as a machinist in the R. H. Hoe Company. He finally yielded to her entreaties, it is said, and the two went to the city and ate breakfast together in a restaurant. Being due at the Hoe company at a certain hour, Weigman left his youthful charge in the care of the woman who conducts the eating establishment, promising to return at night for her. His story up to this juncture is corroborated by a fellow employe in the Hoe concern, it is said. The matter preyed on his mind with such force that he related the entire story to the fellow workman that morning and was advised by him.

At the close of the day's work he again met the girl and brought her to the home of his mother in this city, it is further said. That, the young man contends, was the last time he saw the girl. Mrs. Weigman gave the girl shelter Wednesday night and next morning, at her advice, the girl started ostensibly for her home in Westfield, it is claimed. Instead of going home, it is said, she met a young man of her acquaintance on the streets of Plainfield and related her tale to him. He remonstrated with her over her actions and says that he induced her to board the 10:26 train for Westfield. She was next heard of in Elizabeth, although it is said that she did later return to her home in Westfield and borrow clothing from a girl friend on Stanley place. Since that time all trace of her whereabouts have been lost and the parents have resorted to every possible means to unearth her present stopping place.

Weigman says that when he parted with the girl, it was with the understanding that they meet again on July 9. He does not deny that they planned to be married and contemplated an elopement in view of further objection on the part of her parents. Efforts were made to secure some information from Weigman regarding the girl's present whereabouts, but he has been unable to account for the reason why she did not meet him on July 9.

The efforts of the police are now directed toward an effort to locate the girl and it is rumored that she will be found in Elizabeth before nightfall.

STARVING FAMILY FOUND BY POLICE

Pitiful Tale of Suffering Related By Housekeeper In City Court Today.

Declared by the court to be the worst case that has come to the attention of the local authorities in years, the charge against Asa Willis, for non-support, is being investigated by the police and the defendant was remanded back to a cell this morning to await the outcome. Called by the Charity Organization Society of this city, to Willis' home, 1433 Willever avenue, Saturday afternoon, Chief of Police Kiely witnessed one of the most heart rendering scenes imaginable.

The four children of the defendant and a housekeeper were found in an emanciated condition due to the lack of proper food and the interior of the house was devoid of foodstuffs, fuel and other necessities of life. The mother of the children is at present a patient in the Bonnie Burn sanatarium together with a step-daughter. Their detention at that institution is said to be due to the lack of food which has caused tubercular trouble.

The police head found a dog starving to death in the yard of the home and decided that to cut the leash which held the dying animal would endanger the lives of those in the immediate vicinity. The animal was maddened by suffering. In court this morning the housekeeper related a pitiful tale of suffering that has been going on for several weeks. She told how she was forced to burn rags in the stove to furnish heat for the baking of unleavened bread and claimed that tea and bread, in limited quantities, had furnished sustenance for the family for some time. Efforts are being made by the local authorities to have the children committed to some charitable institution and the father will be arraigned tomorrow morning for sentence.

MRS. ALLETTA J. SMITH DEAD, AGED 73 YEARS

Mother of J. A. Smith & Bro., Succumbs to a Long Illness.

Mrs. Alletta J. Smith, aged seventy-three years, widow of Frederick A. Smith and mother of J. Augustus Smith and Frederick E. Smith, the local firm of grocers, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Logreen, at South Bound Brook. She had been in poor health for many years and her death was not wholly unexpected, as she had failed rapidly of late.

Mrs. Smith was born in the vicinity of where she died and had always lived there. She was a member of the Reformed church, Bound Brook, and a regular attendant until ill-health prevented. She is survived by two sons, J. A. and Frederick E Smith, and one daughter, Mrs. J. A. Logreen.

The funeral will be held at the late home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Harold D. Green, pastor of the Reformed church, Bound Brook, will officiate and the burial will be at the latter place.

FOUR CAUGHT IN CRUSADE AGAINST STREET LOITERING

Initial steps to break up the practice of street loitering in the business section were launched Saturday night by Patrolman Nicholas Meyers, when he rounded up a quartet of loafers on Somerset street. Arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, two of the defendants were adjudged guilty of drunkenness and disorderly conduct and the other couple pleaded guilty to loitering.

Sheridan Jones, one of the culprits, who has a police record totaling seventeen arrests, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or spend forty days in the county jail. Frank Meeker, John Shanlin and James Harris, the latter colored, were allowed to go on a suspended sentence with a reprimand. Shanlin was intoxicated.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN.

The New Brunswick police Saturday night requested Police Chief Kiely to instruct his men to be on the look-out for a stolen automobile taken from that city. The machine is of the seven-passenger type and was taken by a young man about eighteen years old.

SONS OF IRELAND MET TO ORGANIZE TO PROMOTE FAIR PLAY

Local Order of Natives Formed In Stafford Hall, Yesterday Afternoon.

Officers Elected and Plans Laid For Aiding Natives of Ireland—Co-operation Sought By Leaders in the Worthy Movement.

For the purpose of organizing and promoting patriotism among the sons of Erin, who live in this city, a movement was launched in Stafford Hall, yesterday afternoon, which is destined to have a State wide effect before long. Natives of Ireland, many of whom still have relatives on the Emerald sod, met in the hall yesterday afternoon and affected the organization of an association of the non-sectarian nature and laid plans for activities which will have a commendable effect over a wide area. Those at the head of the movement are making efforts to interest all natives of Ireland, who make their home in this city, and have made a request that it be made known publicly that religion does not limit membership in the new society.

There has long been an agitation locally for such a project and now that it has been started the organizers anticipate active co-operation on all sides. Those who attended the initial gathering were of the opinion that the movement would meet with universal approval and it is hoped to doubly increase the membership by the next meeting, the date of which will be announced by President Peter McDonough.

In view of the fact that the natives of Ireland are constantly in need of help from their relatives and friends in America, the local organization will probably assume the role of a benevolent order with its prime object the promotion of "fair-play." There are several hundred natives of Ireland making their home in Plainfield and vicinity and if all of these can be interested the new body will be of great strength.

Only recently has the right of the Irish people to govern themselves in their own land been recognized, the Parliamentary enactment providing Home Rule for Ireland, having been passed. Her position among the nations has thus been assured and the powers of the world, recognizing the justice of the Irish demand, have welcomed with interest and sympathy her final triumph. Her sons on this side of the water have rallied to her aid and the Plainfield organization plans to do its share to preserve the crown of nationality. Universal aid is proposed and all of those who claim Irish blood should assist in the effort to organize locally.

The officers elected at the meeting yesterday were: President, Peter McDonough; vice president, Thomas Callahan; secretary, Michael McCaffrey; treasurer, P. S. Kiely.

WOMEN'S "DEN" REVEALED WHEN THREE ARE ARRESTED

Found in a drunken condition in her home, 303 Madison avenue, Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Mary McNee was arrested and placed in a cell at police headquarters to sober up. Her arrest resulted in the taking of Mrs. Anna Beresford and Mrs. Margaret Manson into custody and they were also charged with being helplessly drunk.

Arraigned in the city court, this morning, the defendants revealed a "den" for women of this calibre in the home of the Beresford woman and evidence showed that frequent parties of this nature had been held at that place. City Judge W. G. DeMeza, this morning, released the trio in $50 bail to appear for a hearing tomorrow morning and in the meantime the police will conduct an investigation into the home life of the defendants.

IN NEED OF EXTRA HELP.

Schiller Brothers, of 320 West Front street, manufacturers of women's waists and skirts, re-opened this morning, after being closed for the past week owing to a death in the family of the concern. The prospects for a busy season are promising and the firm is advertising for fifty girls, the extra help being needed to fill large orders.

ELECTRICIANS OUTING.

Electricians of this city, members of the I. B. E. W., Local No. 232, enjoyed an outing to Midland Beach, Saturday. The first part of the trip to New Brunswick was made by trolley, where a boat was taken to the Staten Island resort. The weather conditions favored the party, many of whom spent the day fishing.

HEIRS OF BIG BROOKLYN ESTATE THROUGH AUNT'S DEATH

Miss Theodora Bailey's Will Divides Net Estate of $97,447.31 Among Six Relatives—Report Is Filed Today In Surrogate's Court.

New York, July 27.—An appraisal of the estate left by Miss Theodora Bailey, aunt of Florence Bailey Lawrence, of No. 1,000 Hillside avenue, and Mary DePeyster Charles, of No. 977 Belvidere avenue, Plainfield, made by one of the Transfer Tax State Appraisers, which report today is on file here in the office of the clerk of the Surrogate's Court, show, that when the decedent passed away on February 14, 1913, she left a net estate of $97,447.31, which, under the directions of her will, executed June 14, 1883, passes over to her relatives, as follows:

Specific bequests and one-ninth of the residue each to both of the Plainfield nieces, each share which amounts to $10,816.94. To Theodorus Bailey, nephew, of No. 122 West Seventy-eighth street, New York, $10,845.49. To Katherine Jones Whipple, another niece, of Massapequa, L. I., $32,466.09. The balance of the estate to Sarah R. B. Tredick, a sister, of England, which amounts to $32,501.85. Edmund S. Bailey, decedent's brother, is the executor.

The gross estate, according to the papers on file, amounted to $102,303.66 and consisted of $35,020.57 in real estate; $16,410.25 in banks; $169.27 in personal effects, such as wearing apparel, jewelry, books, furniture, bric-a-brac, etc., and the rest out on bonds and mortgages.

The expenses — $4,856.35 — as charged up against the estate, are: Funeral, $413.15; administration, $2,000; commissions, $861.14, and the rest in personal debts.

SEEKS TO RECOVER FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

Mrs. Gertrude Rink Starts Action Under Employers' Liability Law.

Elizabeth, July 27.—Mrs. Gertrude Rink, widow of Isaac Rink, of Plainfield, has filed her action in the county courts under the provisions of the Employers' Liability Act, in which she seeks to recover for the death of her husband on May 13 last, when he was killed by a train at the Netherwood station of the New Jersey Central. Mrs. Rink asks for $144 funeral expenses and compensation for death on the basis of her husband's salary which was $2.85 a day. Attorney John T. Kelly represents Mrs. Rink.

Mr. Rink was employed as a carpenter for a number of years by the New Jersey Central, and it was while in the performance of his duty at the Netherwood station that a fast train struck and killed him. He was caught between the train and the iron fence separating the tracks. Mr. Rink had been a resident of this city for many years and was a member of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. He lived at 966 West Fifth street.

WILL PROVIDE $3 A WEEK FOR CHILDREN'S SUPPORT

Isaac White, colored of 537 South Second street, was arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, on a non-support charge preferred by Garret T. Dunham, overseer-of-the-poor.

According to White, his wife is living with another man in Asbury Park and his two children were taken from him. They are at present in charge of a matron who is caring for them and White was placed under bonds to furnish $3 a week for their support.

MRS. V. B. FRELINGHUYSEN.

Mrs. Victoria B. Frelinghuysen, aged 84 years, widow of the late Frederick J. Frelinghuysen, and mother of former State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, died yesterday at her home at Raritan. She is also survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. C. Southwick, of Somerville. The funeral services will be held at the late home, at Raritan, tomorrow afternoon, at 2:45 o'clock, and friends and relatives are invited without notice. Interment will be in the new cemetery, at Somerville, at convenience of family.

PLAINFIELD BOYS ARRIVE AT CAMP WILL HAVE BUSY WEEK

Company K Active In Routine of Work at State National Guard Quarters.

Plans Include Two-day Bivouack and Other Features Typical of the Present-Day Army Encampment—Local Soldiers in the Limelight.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

State Camp, Sea Girt, July 27.—Co. K, 2nd Regiment, thirty-five in number arrived at Sea Girt at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, proceeding immediately to the camp grounds.

It was noticed, with much approval, that the first and fifth regiments which were at Sea Girt last week, did not take down their tents, so that all the local boys had to do was to take possession. As usual the cooks were rather slow getting mess the first night, which in this instance may possibly be due to the fact that Quartermaster Sergeant James A. Thompson got a severe attack of 'cold feet" and found it impossible to go through another encampment. We notice, however, that he was able to bring a "chicken" down here Sunday on a motorcycle. We don't know where he found her but they are to be had at any hour along the shore.

We had some grub after a little wait, and its a queer thing where all the boys disappear right after eating. Taps were blown at 10:30 o'clock and we had only six men who failed to be in at check.

Reveille blew at 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Some of these people who hold "regular positions" in the city must be in the habit of getting to work at about 9:00 o'clock, judging from the way they turn out in the morning.

Do you know we have the best set of corporals ever put in charge of tents?

Well, we have, and they certainly get after those lazy members in great shape.

The major has issued orders to the effect that none of the so-called "booze" shall be allowed in camp this week, so you mothers who are worrying about your "little" boys need not fear their sobriety.

Captain Peterson and Sergeant Apgar "soft-soaped" the major, and in consequence they were allowed to go "off-duty" all day Sunday. They said they went to Asbury Park to see their wives but some of the non-commissioned officers are inclined to doubt the truth of their excuse as they say there are other fish to catch around that place. Perhaps they have been fishing themselves.

Sunday afternoon the regiment participated in the Colonel's review at 4 o'clock which was over just in time for Sergeant De Camp to take his usual place at the head of the "bread line." Today will be spent on the range and Company K expects to turn in some record-breaking scores as it has some very good material and everybody is anxious to make a better showing than the other companies.

NEW BRITAIN PHYSICIAN HAS ATTACK OF ASPHASIA

Dr. Franklin Packard, a dentist, of New Britain, Conn., son-in-law of Robert R. Pentecost, of the borough, is at the home of the latter recovering from a nervous breakdown, which resulted in an attack of asphasia. Dr. Packard had been spending a month with his father-in-law and returned home about a week ago.

In some way which the dentist cannot account for, he found himself in Plainfield late Friday night, and meeting some people on the street, was unable to get his bearings or tell his name. A visiting card served the purpose and Mr. Pentecost, who was notified, took charge of his son-in-law. He will probably return home soon.

FIGHTER BANISHED.

Caught in the wilds of Fanwood with a "shooting" jag, a man giving his name as Edward Mooney, and giving his address as any place between Scotch Plains and New Brunswick, was arraigned before Recorder Sheelen, in Fanwood, Saturday, and a sentence of $5 or twenty days imprisonment was suspended over his head on the condition that he steer clear of that village in the future. He was arrested by Marshal Logan after threatening to start a miniature warfare and plug the natives "full of holes."

CRANFORD BOY MISSING.

The police of this city have been requested to aid in the search for Francis Clark, fifteen years old, who disappeared from his home in Cranford, Saturday.

SMALL STAKES IN THIS "CRAP" GAME

Thirty-five Cents Found in Group of Cosmopolitan Sports.

Although there was but thirty-five cents displayed in a human arena formed by a cosmopolitan group of fifteen crap shooters on West Third street yesterday morning, when Sergeant Higgins and Patrolman Frank Sweeney broke in on the party, the sports were having a lively time and creating considerable annoyance by their outbursts of enthusiasm to the peace-loving populace of that section.

The appearance of the bluecoats on the scene was the signal for a wild burst for liberty, and according to Higgins, several of the colored youths exhibited rare qualities as sprinters. So fast did they disappear from the spot that the officers could bag but a few of the culprits, but, information obtained from those arrested resulted in the apprehension of eight in various parts of the city yesterday.

Arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court this morning Roy Johnson and Wilbur Brown were sentenced to pay fines of $5 or serve twenty days in the county jail because they were "veterans" at the game. Both have been arrested on several previous occasions for participating in like games and admitted their culpability. Brown admitted that he started the game. Both of the defendants who were fined are colored. Joseph Divver, white, Clifford Upshore, colored; Michael Garrelo, white; Jacob Marcus, white, and Joseph Mills, colored, were given suspended sentences because they were new at the game and had just been "breaking" into the sport when the minions of the law swooped down on the gang. Fred Lewis, colored, was also caught by the police but failed to appear in court today. He is said to have "skipped" town.

GEORGE SNEDIKER DIES IN 38TH YEAR

Former Well-known Resident Passes Away at Muhlenberg Hospital.

George Snediker, aged about thirty-seven years, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Snediker, for many years a resident of the borough and city, died yesterday at Muhlenberg Hospital, where he had been for a short time under treatment following an operation performed at the Post-Graduate Hospital, New York, three weeks ago. Mr. Snediker's death was due to complications.

Mr. Snediker was born here, where he lived until he grew to manhood. For several years he was in charge of the sporting goods department at Stern's, New York, but was obliged to give up his position on account of poor health. For awhile he lived with his sister, Mrs. Edward B. Harder, of Poughkeepsie, and later went to the Post-Graduate Hospital, New York, for an operation, coming here recently.

There survives the parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Snediker and a sister, Mrs. Edward B. Harder. The funeral will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, will officiate and the burial will be in North Plainfield cemetery.

ESTATE VALUED AT $86,258.02 BEQUESTS ARE MANY

North Plainfield Heir Gets Books Valued at $1,125.70, While His Brother Gets $1,136.15—Charities Are Remembered.

New York, July 27—Mrs. Sarah E. Rolston, grandmother of Brown Rolston, of North Plainfield, N. J., left a gross estate of $86,258.02 and a net estate of $83,077,98, when she passed away on February 7, 1914, according to an appraisal of her estate, made by one of the Transfer Tax State Appraisers, which report today is on file here in the office of the clerk of the Surrogate's Court, the net estate under the directions of her will and codicil, passing over to her relatives and friends, as follows:

William H. Rolston, son, of No. 222 West Fifty-ninth street, $20,076.53; Louis B. Rolston, son, of No. 19 West Fifty-fourth street, $20,081.53; Fanny H. Rolston, daughter-in-law, of the same address, $680.51; Minnie R. Marston, daughter, of Cranford, $24,477.72; Maxwell R. Marston, grandson, of Cranford, $1,000; Brown Rolston, grandson, of North Plainfield (books), $1,125.70; Minnie Tull, friend, Elizabeth, $5; Daisy Stimson, friend, Elizabeth, $5; Marston R. Miller, great-grandson, of No. 207 Maple Terrace, Cranford, $1,144.60; Helen R. Wilson, granddaughter, of No. 39 Garfield place, Brooklyn, $1,268.36; Roswell G. Rolston, grandson, of No. 222 West Fifty-ninth street, $1,136.15; Little Missions Day Nursery, New York city, $5,000; Jean R. Peacock, granddaughter, of No. 19 West Fifty-first street, $1,276.65. The rest is left to strangers.

William H. and Louis B. Rolston, sons, are the executors, and are receiving $3,180.04 equally between them for acting as such for the estate.

Mrs. Rolston, who was seventy-eight years old, was the widow of Roswell Graves Ralston, who, for forty-five years, was the president of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company. She was a native of Elizabeth, N. J., and was very active in charitable circles.

DROVE CAR TWENTY-NINE MILES AN HOUR, FINED $10

Charging with driving his seven-passenger touring car along West Seventh street at a twenty-nine-mile an hour clip, yesterday afternoon, Isaac Truman, a colored chauffeur in the employ of the F. L. C. Marsh Automobile Company, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 by City Judge W. G. DeMeza, today.

The speeder was apprehended by Motorcycle Policeman Roy E. Martin after the latter had recorded the driver's speed for nearly a mile during which time he averaged twenty-nine miles an hour.

GASOLENE 13 CENTS A GALLON.

Local garage owners are now selling gasolene at 13 cents a gallon, it was learned today after inquiry about the city. The owners are selling one hundred gallon books at $13, and in their opinion the price will be still lower. The present reduction is the result of the fight between the Standard Oil Company and independent oil concerns.

MERCHANT OFFERS EXTRA PRIZE IN TRADE IN PLAINFIELD CONTEST

Instead of winning $10 in gold for the best letter on the advantages of buying in Plainfield, it is now possible to secure $15, and if the method adopted by one of the local merchants is followed by others, there will be no limit to the amount to be procured in prizes. Samuel Rothberg, the Front street clothier and men's furnisher, has offered a prize of $5 on his own responsibility, to be added to the list of awards which are published elsewhere in an advertisement in this issue of the Press. The $5 will ge given to any person who writes a letter winning one of the four prizes offered by the newspaper, provided that letter describes a purchase made at the Rothberg store.

Contestants are urged to read the conditions of the "Trade-in-Plainfield" contest, very carefully, before sending in their letters. One communication was received this morning, which could not be entered because some of the conditions were not complied with. A copy of the advertisement which prompted the purchase was omitted, and the contestant neglected to sign his or her full name. Why the latter was done cannot be explained, as prizes cannot be given unless the name and address are known.

It is urged upon those who intend to compete that they send in their letters at once, and not wait until the last days of the contest, which closes on August 12. The Plainfield stores are offering some unusual bargains at this time of the year, in connection with their clearance sales, and any wideawake shopper can easily find merchants offers which will bear out the contention of the Daily Press and the leading Plainfield merchants, that there is no better place to buy than in Plainfield.

Giles, of North avenue, is interested in a company formed for the purpose of manufacturing a recently patented universal joint for automobiles. The old David Blackford place has been purchased at South Plainfield and the erection of a manufacturing plant will be commenced shortly. The first one of these joints was made at the Levgar Structural Company last week. Since then the joint has been put through the severest of tests and has not disappointed those vitally interested in it. It is claimed that with this joint an automobile can make 1 1-2 more miles an hour on a gallon of gasoline. The joint is said to be lighter and simpler than any at present on the market.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT.

For the privilege of fighting within the borough limits, John Bellior and Lewis Boehlle, both of Washington avenue, Greenbrook, and Peter Traynor, of Front street, were fined $10 each, when arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell in the borough hall yesterday morning, and in addition given a suspended sentence of 90 days confinement in the county jail. The scene of the encounter was in front of Taylor's Hotel, the time a little after eleven o'clock on Saturday night, and the cause a too familiar acquaintance with "John Barleycorn." When Marshal Patrick Tarpey hove into sight it was two against one. Traynor who had been knocked to the ground by blows on the face from the fists of Bellior and Boehlle was being severely kicked by the two. Upon Tarpey's appearance hostilities abrubtly ended and Bellior tried to make his escape. "Halt!" commanded the marshall, "or I'll shoot." Having no desire for a taste of hot lead Bellior decided to heave to. Traynor upon being taken to the borough hall in company with the other two was found to have had two teeth broken and to be so badly battered up in general that Dr. J. T. Longbotham was immediately sent for.

TENNIS TOURNEY.

Bender and Hyam, of Plainfield, defeated Westcott and Ritterbusch, of the Crescent Tennis Club, on the latter's Madison avenue courts, yesterday morning in doubles by taking two straight sets, 6-2, 6-4.

Miss Louise Trust, of Mountainview Terrace, has returned from a two weeks' stay at Big Moose Lake, N. Y.

ELECT SCOUTMASTER.

At the meeting of the local organization of Boy Scouts held in the Whittier School, on Saturday afternoon, Scout William Elliott was elected Scoutmaster to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Francis O. Spurdle. Scout Elliott's election was unanimous. Scout Commissioner Beals, of Plainfield, was present and gave the scouts some valuable pointers. The meeting received the good news that the St. John's Catholic church had decided to form a troop and it is hoped that the other churches will shortly fall in line. After the meeting the scouts hiked to Smith's farm on the Greenbrook road and joined in a picnic being held by the Boy Scout Cadets bringing the total of the gathering up to thirty-five. The picnic, which was in charge of Secretary E. L. Field, of the recently formed council, was a big success, all of the scouts having a bully good time. The afternoon was passed in playing games and in field events. Stanley Field received the first prize a scout's knife for obtaining the most points in the field events and Charles Johnson, Jr., who ranked second was awarded a scout's hatchet. During the afternoon refreshments consisting of lemonade, ice cream and cake were served.

AUTOMOBILE COLLISION.

A Studebaker "6" owned by Frank Linke, of Plainfield, with one of Mr. Linke's sons at the wheel, in rounding Grove street into Bound Brook road yesterday afternoon cut a light runabout, which was crossing from Somerville, off with the result that the runabout collided with the heavier car. Fortunately for all concerned both cars were going slow and no injuries were sustained by the occupants of the cars. The lamps and the mud-guards of the runabout were smashed and its front wheels were bent, necessitating its being hauled to the Barfuss garage. The only damage done to the heavier Studebaker was a bent mud-guard. The occupant of the runabout was a Somerville party, whose name is not known.

Edward Gray, Jr., of First street, has returned from New Haven, Conn., where he enjoyed a week's vacation.

An executive committee meeting of the council of the local organization of Boy Scouts will be held in the borough hall tomorrow evening.

Arthur O'Leary and William Victorson played for the Plainfield A. A. against the Newark All Stars at Newark yesterday. The Newark team supposing that it was the regular Plainfield team which they were to meet had padded up with players off of the Ironsides and Westinghouse Electric. The game was an eleven inning affair and was captured by the Newarks by the score of 2-1.

FAMILY REUNION.

Although the inclemency of the weather during Saturday morning kept quite a number away from the reunion and picnic of the Mirrell and Dayton families at Wayside Park, there was, nevertheless, a goodly gathering made up of some who came from as far as Chicago and points in the States of New York and Pennsylvania and others who came from nearby places like Metuchen, Stelton and New Market. The picnic was an all day affair both luncheon and supper being served. The day was most enjoyably passed in playing games like croquet, etc., and the recounting of tales that are taken each year from the archives of the respective families.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Mrs. Louis J. Garda, of North avenue, is spending several weeks at her old home in Cortland, N. Y.

Rev. George H. Houghton Butler was in charge of the services at All Saints' Episcopal church, yesterday. As is the annual custom the Sunday-school will not meet during the month of August, the last one being yesterday, and for the next month the pastor will give Bible talks.

Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Baptist church, addressed the soldiers at the State camp at Sea Girt, yesterday. Rev. Robert Middleditch, of Westfield, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church.

Dr. H. K. Carroll has returned from his summer vacation and preached at both services at the Methodist church, yesterday. John Wade led an interesting Epworth League meeting in the evening.

The ice cream, cake, candy and fancy article sale conducted in the Fanwood firehouse, Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of All Saints' Episcopal church, was a great success and a good sum was realized for the benefit of the church.

Miss Edith Lidgate has returned to her home on North avenue after visiting friends in Whitehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weldon, of Grand street, have been visiting their niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clark, of Boston, for the past two weeks.

A meeting of the Fanwood township Board of Education will be called within the next two weeks when preparations will be made for the calling of an election of the township voters to vote for an appropriation for the building of a new school in the "Graceland" section, to be known as School No. 3.

Charles Micvhaels has rented his newly purchased house on Park avenue, to John Colton, of Plainfield, who moved in with his family the latter part of the week.

S. W. McAneny, of the borough, has been elected a member in charge of the night tennis tournaments at the Westfield Golf Club. Many local people belong to the club.

Mrs. I. C. Hall has returned to her home on South avenue after spending the past two weeks in Washington.

The teaching corps in the local schools has been completed for the coming year and will include one male teacher, besides the two principals in Schools No. 1 and 2. There will be five teachers in School No. 3 when it is finished.

Judge Connolly again postponed the sentencing of Valentine Schmidt, found guilty of carrying concealed weapons in the borough, when arraigned in the Court of Special Sessions, last week. He will be sentenced on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kaufman, of Jersey City, spent the week-end with their son, James Kaufman, of the township.

Somerville

An automobile backfired and the consequent explosion caused no little excitement on Main street, Saturday night. Fortunately no other damage was done than temporarily disabling the auto.

J. R. Cowell, manager of the copper mines north of town, entertained a number of friends from this place yesterday. Among the number were Charles E. Torbitt, Charles Bodell, Sinclair Coates, Joseph Smith and Thomas F. Keiley. Several of the party ventured about 1,300 feet into

The Entire Resources of
This GIMBEL Furniture Sale With Initiative
Will Be Thrown Open for Public Review and Selection

Saturday, August 1st, marks the official opening of the Sale. But, as a matter of public convenience,—the Furniture being assembled and in place, and the machinery of the Sale in full readiness—these earlier days are intended to aid in satisfactory selection. Furniture thus chosen will be held, and charged out on the opening day of the Sale.

"Initiative" In This Case
A Term of Advertising Accuracy

It is easy—and dull—enough to follow in the usual rut of furniture sales, with the same dull assortment of commonplace furniture.

Easy enough to use the sale as a broom to sweep out, as far as possible, unwelcome loiterers, undesirable or antiquated in style..

GIMBELS steered away as far as possible from these habits in preparing this Sale. This time, more than ever before, we sought for and found the NEW—and it is to the NEW, the FASHIONABLE, in the Furniture in this Sale that we specifically call your attention—

Furniture in the New GIMBEL-GRAY Finish

Furniture in the Jacobean twist—especially in fine dining room suites.

Mahogany Four-poster Bedsteads—for which demand is continually increasing. Including a number in 4-ft. size, not usually found in wooden bedsteads.

Davenport, and Davenport Tables for the Library—the first time, to our knowledge, that this fashionable combination of pieces for fine living rooms has been specialized in a Furniture Sale.

Furniture with Cane Panels for bedroom and living room—a better collection than ever before.

Three Beautiful Suites—made especially for GIMBELS—two for the dining room, one for the bedroom.

Another remarkable offering of INNOVATION WARDROBES and CHIFFONIERS—the summit of modern furniture luxury. Sold at LESS THAN HALF PRICE.

All decided departures, you see, from the common run of Furniture Sale offerings—because they are UP TO THE MINUTE IN FASHION.

Now, a word about the

Savings in This Furniture Sale

Price Reductions of 10 to 50% Sound Pretty Much Alike on Paper. These Reductions Exist in this GIMBEL Sale on Furniture that Is NEW and Fashionable.

Bear that fact firmly in mind when you go about—as we hope you will—seeing what other Furniture Sales have to offer. It is an old saying that "The Biggest not always the best."

One thing more—we commend to your attention

The Superb Arrangement of the Furniture

It is planned like a city—avenues and streets crossing each other, wide and spacious, and brightly lighted, and frequent intervals.

This is another innovation in Furniture display, which we think will work out to the greater advantage and pleasure of our customers.

Trade In Plainfield Contest

HOW TO ENTER THE CONTEST

Write a letter of not more than 500 words telling, in the simplest way possible, of the advantages you have gained in making a purchase in response to some particular advertisement of a local merchant in the Plainfield Daily Press.

Letters must be in the Daily Press office not later than August 12, and prizes will be awarded not later than August 15.

HERE ARE THE PRIZES

First—$10.00 in gold.
Second—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $6.00.
Third—Year's Subscription to Daily Press ($5.00).
Fourth—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $3.00.

Conditions of the Competition.

1. The instance related in your letter must be bona fide, contain a description of the purchase, the name of the store in which it was made and be accompanied by a clipping of the advertisement. The amount of the sale will have no effect in determining the winner.

2. The advertisement must be from a copy of the Plainfield Daily Press issued within the dates of the contest, i. e. July 22 to August 12. Whether the letters win prizes or not the right is reserved to publish same in the columns of the Daily Press, without payment being made for their use.

3. No person will be considered as a competitor, who is in any way connected with the Plainfield Daily Press.

4. Winners of the second and fourth prizes will designate on what stores the Press due bills are to be issued, but they will only be issued upon Plainfield stores which advertise in the Plainfield Daily Press.

THESE POINTS WILL COUNT IN THE ANSWER:

The best illustrations of the advantages gained by buying at Plainfield stores in response to Daily Press advertisements.

The best illustrations showing the advantages of buying in Plainfield over buying out of town, especially from mail order houses.

Brevity, simplicity and an intelligent handling of the subject.

Further information will gladly be given upon inquiry at the Daily Press office, although the conditions are fully described in this advertisement.

PLAYGROUND GROWTH.

Some idea of the growth of the playground movement throughout the country may be gained from the pamphlet which has just been issued by the Playground and Recreation Association of America, which President George P. Mellick of the local committee has forwarded to the Daily Press. Not only here, but in many of the large cities have public spirited men and women given their time to the development of this great out-of-door recreation wark, so that within the last twelve months alone the work has been extended in cities which have a total population of 1,523,930 men, women and children. The booklet is illustrated with over two score of pictures, showing men and women who have helped develop the grounds, and groups of happy children in many of the centres.

In eleven cities and towns the work has been extended during the year ending May 30 last, including Tampa, Birmingham, Red Bank, N. J., Wheeling, Dayton, Ohio, Montreal, Scranton, Lynchburg, Va., Kansas City., Mo., Sioux City and Ishpeming.

As the report says, there are thousands of children and young people today who have an opportunity for happiness, which they never had before, being saved from delinquency, vice and crime, because of the fuller measure of development and happiness which has been opened to them through the establishment of the recreation centers. Although so much has been done to develop the work, there were on May first this year more than seventy-two millions of men, women and children who live in communities which have not made provision for the wholesome use of leisure time, even for the children and young people. What can be done to relieve this condition, it is pointed out, depends entirely upon the generosity of those who have thus far supported the movement, coupled with any new contributions which may be procured.

The playgrounds are doing great work. A glance at the illustrations in the pamphlet would convince the most skeptical of that fact. Here in Plainfield the benefits derived are a thousand fold, and yet there is plenty of room for their extension, especially in the adding of one or two swimming pools. The time is coming when they will be as important a part of the civic life of the community as are the schools and other departments.

CALKINS FOR MAYOR.

Councilman Calkins decision to become a candidate for Mayor at the primaries will be received by every good citizen with delight. Whether or not they agree with him politically, or intend to vote for him, they are at least assured that one party will have a clean-cut, able and progressive candidate, who if elected will serve the best interests of the city in a sensible, businesslike way. It would be a fine thing to forget politics and have him nominated by all three parties. Mr. Calkins has never been tied up to any machine, and his action in Council has proven that he is absolutely independent and outspoken in all that he undertakes.

His straightforward manner in speaking out on the liquor question during his term as councilman, when others were apparently afraid, concluding with the fathering of an ordinance which gives Plainfield a better regulation of the question than any other city in the State, has made friends for him, even among people who are opposed to the traffic. That he will have substantial support at the polls from men of all parties goes without saying. His presence in the campaign, backed with the assurance that if elected he will so arrange his business affairs that he can give his time to the office, will add much strength to his candidacy.

As a live wire organization, Plainfielders will have to hand the prize to the West End Civic Association. Several times its members have come to the front in city matters in such a way as to show that they are a wide-awake crowd, but nothing has proven the assertion more than has been the case since they tackled the band concert problem. While a lot of people sat back and bemoaned the fact that something of the kind was sorely needed in Plainfield, and twirled their thumbs while doing so the West Enders appointed a committee, with Barton K. Davis as chairman, and a little energetic work on their part, assisted by the very excellent Dutch Arms Band, inaugurated a series of summer programs So successful was the first effort last Friday night, we are told, that it will be repeated, probably every Friday night all summer. First thing we know, the organization will gather all the other civic bodies of the kind in the city under its wing, and will be doing all sorts of things, not only for its own locality, but for Plainfield as a whole. More power to them!

The East Second street sage is sure some fellow when it comes to boosting Plainfield. Here's his latest: "If you would remove the mote from the eye of the town, just remove the beam from your eye, that the brick you desire to heave at your home city may be directed at the right spot When the beam is removed, your vision will have been so improved that the mote will have almost completely disappeared."

Incidentally, we might call attention to that "Trade in Plainfield" contest which has created such a lively interest among the readers of the Press. Don't wait until the end to send along your answers. Send them now, and then if by any chance you have not complied with all the conditions, you will be in time to make a proper effort to win the prizes.

TEMPLE BAPTISTS TO OBSERVE HOME SUNDAY

First of Series of Special Programs On August 2.

The Temple Baptist School will begin its series of special programs Sunday, August 2, to continue for each session of the School during the month of August. "Home Sunday" will be the first of the series, it being the intention to have the parents and friends of the school as special guests.

Co-operation and a fraternal spirit should prevail in any sucessful Bible school, and while this spirit does dominate the Temple School, the Home Sunday is designated to augment this feeling. The pastor and superintendent will have a message that will emphasize this spirit and some other speakers, all of the home school, will endeavor to carry out the sentiment of the theme, all contributing to engender a feeling of love for the home school and church.

There are some parts of the program that have not been announced and may come as a surprise. The word "home" will be a prominent feature, and will be used in a novel and interesting manner, to illustrate the sentiment of the various remarks. After this Sunday, Mr. Conover, the pastor, and Superintendent L. W. Randolph will probably be away on their vacation and the special prodominate the Temple school, the gram arranged for this date will serve as a kind of good-bye as they leave for the summer outing.

Arthur S. Mosher, a popular amateur violin player, has recently taken charge of the orchestra for the school and during the August sessions, the musical part of the program will be especially attractive. A cordial invitation and a hearty welcome is given to all who will favor the school with their attendance. The session begins promptly at 9:45 a. m.

ENJOYABLE PICNIC HELD BY P. O. OF A. MEMBERS

Eighteen members of the P. O. of A., of this city, enjoyed an all day picnic to Wayside Park last Saturday. The day was spent in playing various kinds of out-door games and many of the younger people amused themselves with the swings and other apparatus at the park. Piano and vocal solos were also rendered by those present and dancing was enjoyed.

At noon a regular picnic lunch was had and the party returned home shortly after five o'clock after a very enjoyable outing.

PIGEON HUNTER HAD SOME IMAGINATION

Now Seaskol Will Have to Move Away From Little Old Handville.

Shooting pigeons with a pistol in the wee small hours of the morning cost Joseph Seaskol, a husky German, his residence in the little hamlet of Handville when arraigned before Recorder Charles Sheelen in the Fanwood police court, Saturday. The defendant was arraigned on a charge preferred against him by Anna Lentz, with whom he boarded.

According to the complainant, the accused attempted to break into her room and spoil her slumber one night last week. The evidence indicated how Seaskol had climbed out on the porch roof of the house from the window of his room and had crawled along the roof of the abode of Anna.

When detected in the act of opening the window of the woman's room he beat a hasty retreat to his own boudoir and leaped back into bed. Mrs. Lentz started on a tour of investigation and in response to her raps on Seaskol's door and her announcement that burglars were trying to get into her room, she was met by the male boarder. He grabbed a revolver and started to shoot at random, chasing an imaginary burglar.

Mrs. Lentz suddenly became aware of the fact that Seaskol and the roof walker were one and the same person and she so informed the police when they arrived on the scene. When asked by the recorder what he was shooting at Seaskol said he was after pigeons. A fine of $5 was suspended over his head on the condition that he leave Handville immediately.

FUNERAL OF REV. HIRAM D. OPDYKE IS HELD

The funeral services of Rev. Hiram D. Opdyke, a retired Methodist preacher, who was a member of the Newark Conference for many years, were held Saturday at the late home at Martinsville, and was largely attended by relatives, friends and a number of ministers of the conference.

Rev. F. J. Hubach, district superintendent of the Elizabeth district, was in charge of the service, assisted by Rev. D. B. F. Randolph, of the Monroe Avenue church; Rev. William Stout, of Cranbury; Rev. D. C. Dorchester, of Bound Brook, and Rev. Jesse Kennedy, who is in charge of the church at Martinsville. The burial was in Evergreen cemetery, Elizabeth.

HEBREW SCHOOL PICNIC WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

A large number of people enjoyed the fourth annual outing and picnic of the Plainfield Hebrew School, yesterday, when over 700 people spent the day at Chimney Rock. Stages and buses met the trolleys from this city at Bound Brook, and conveyed the party to its destination. It is estimated that the school is close to $1,100 richer as a result of the outing. Dancing and athletic "stunts" comprised the events for the day.

The committee in charge of the arrangements was composed of the following: Hyman Adelberg, chairman; Harry Dreier, Morris Abrams, Jacob A. Fass, Kalman Rothberg, Lewis Praeger, S. Golison, J. Sclorus and Victor Driellich.

BORO COURT NOTES.

Watchung.

An unusually large congregation gathered at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church, yesterday, when Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton occupied the pulpit and Mrs. William A. Coddington, of this city, sang. Dr. Eaton preached an eloquent sermon to his neighbors and friends, it being his annual discourse at the church. Mrs. Coddington, who was formerly Miss Elizabeth St. Ives, soprano soloist at the First Baptist church, sang "Open the Gates of the Temple" and "The Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Her singing was greatly enjoyed by everyone. In the evening, Harold W. Schenck, of this city, preached on the subject, "The Rock Christian."

The county's new steel and concrete bridge over Stony Brook near the postoffice has been completed. While many people regret the passing away of the old white bridge, as a historic landmark, yet it had become a menace to the public. The new bridge is 46 feet long and 35 feet wide, including two 4 foot concrete sidewalks; the old bridge was 36 feet long and 20 feet wide. The under supports of the bridge are 12x26 inches from beams, and two abutments with a thickness of 3 feet at the bottom and two feet at the top. The roadway is constructed with an 8-inch concrete slab; 3-inch mesh reinforcement and covered with two inches of dirt and four inches of macadam. There are also four wing walks, each 1 5foot long. There is 75 feet of railing (galvanized) on either side of the bridge extending over wing walks. The approximate cost of the new bridge is $2,750. The Board of Freeholders will hold a meeting on the new bridge tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock for the purpose of accepting the bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rendall, of Jersey City, are occupying their bungalow at Burnhead Lake for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burgess and family, of Edgewater, have been week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Vail, of Sterling Boulevard.

Misses Margaret and Winifred Eaton, who have been spending two weeks at Camp at Northfield, Mass., have returned to their home on Valley road.

Miss Virginia Pritchard, of Bayonne, is spending the summer with the Misses Koch, of Sterling Boulevard.

Mrs. William Demler and family, of Valley road, have taken a cottage at Manasquan.

TAPS FROM THE GAVEL.

Golden quartered oak sideboard. August Price..... $22.00

Old oak rocker (Charles II.), tapestry covered. August Price..... $18
(in mahogany $20)

Golden oak extension table, 54 inch top. August Price.... $64

It includes our entire regular stock of furniture and large additional special purchases, reaching a total value of more than one million dollars in this New York store alone. In Philadelphia we have another collection about as large. Both stocks are interchangeable at will.

Of course, this furniture was bought by us on the most advantageous terms. Manufacturers always give their lowest inside prices to the dealer who orders in the largest quantities. They also give their largest customers the benefit of any special lots they are closing out at reduced rates.

To begin with, then, this furniture was low in cost, quality considered, at our regular prices.

Now—for this August Sale—it is reduced in price from 10 to 50 per cent., the average being 25 per cent.

Any store can offer its regular furniture at 10 to 50 per cent. reductions, as many of them do. But what is the furniture so offered, of what quality and of what variety, and what were the prices before they were reduced? These are questions that only a personal inspection will answer.

A recent book on furniture speaks of the kind it is a crime to sell—

"Beds and bureaus whose veneered and polished surfaces are mirror-like when new, and patchy after a few months' use."

"Crude, pasted-on machine carving."

And then concludes:

"Is it any wonder that boys and girls leave home when the front parlor is equipped with suits of this type?" referring to the over-carved, gaudy parlor suites.

"If you are obliged to buy something cheap and nasty, do it with your eyes open."

Mahogany work-table (Adam period). Mahogany drop sides. August Price..... $17.25

Mahogany hall clock case. August Price..... $58

Solid mahogany tea wagon, with glass tray. August Price..... $19.50

The pleasure we have in business is that one can keep his eyes shut when buying here and still not be able to buy anything "nasty."

Yes, we could sell this so-called "cheap" furniture, and probably largely increase our business, but how could we look our customers in the face, especially when we have sold their fathers and mothers the furniture which a generation ago went into their new home?

No, we shall stick to the old standard—

Quality First

With the pictures on this page, drawn from actual pieces and suites of furniture on sale, we have tried to hold up to this community a mirror of the stock, but it is very unsatisfactory to us, and must be unsatisfactory to you.

We promise you this, however, if you will do us the honor to visit the sale, you will be satisfied and pleased.

The "Days of Courtesy,"

beginning tomorrow, Tuesday, July 28, are for the leisurely inspection of the furniture. Selections may then be made, the transactions to date from August 1, when deliveries will commence, unless otherwise desired.

Black enamel bedroom suite (6 pieces). Old Colonial with spindle posts; a fine example of this type; hand decorated. August Price..... $234.75

MATTY AND PLANK WHITEWASH KINGS

Two Great Pitchers In National and American Circuits Hold Shutout Records.

Should Christy Mathewson, of the Giants, and Eddie Plank, of the Athletics, face each other in another world series contest next fall the fans of New York and Philadelphia being pretty positive that the tribes of McGraw and Mack again are going to win the pennant in their respective organizations, the spectators fortunate enough to witness this encounter would be seeing a battle between the greatest whitewash spillers in the National and American Leagues. Mathewson has for several years been the Kalsomine King of the senior league, but it was not until May 28 of this year that Plank's friends had a right to announce that the veteran left hander had to his credit more shutouts than any other flinger in the junior organization.

When the season started, Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, possessed the honor now owned by Plank, of most frequently keeping his adversaries from the scoring station. The Westerner had used the brush 56 times, the Easterner 55. Jimmy Callahan did not give Walsh a chance to start a game until July 5, and by that time Plank had twirled three shutouts and since then another. Walsh, in his second trip out, came through with a "Chicago" victory over the Yankees, but he will have to pitch another brace of shutouts before he can catch up with Gettysburg's best known graduate in the important matter of spilling white wash. Plank has denied his opponents runs in 59 controversies, Walsh in 57.

Walter Johnson, on July 3 of this year, got into the Plank-Walsh class and by the half century post in whitewashing. At the end of the campaign of 1913, the Chalmers car winner had to his credit 45 kalsominings. By May 29 the Idaho phenom had fed his opponents on hen fruit four more times, but he had to wait quite a while until he could produce that fiftieth whitewashing, doing so July 3 against Boston.

Plank, Walsh and Johnson are not in much danger of having any more associates in their tight little white wash society for many years to come. Only three of the American League pitchers—"Chief" Bender and Jack Coombs, of Philadelphia, and Joe Wood, of Boston, have succeeded in keeping their opponents away from the plate in 25 or more games. Bender has shut out his rivals 33 times, Coombs 28 times and Wood 25 times.

These statistics show the number of times Plank, Walsh, Johnson, Bender, Coombs and Wood have blanked each of their rivals:

Plank, 59 shut outs—Against St. Louis 13, Detroit 11, Boston 8, Chicago 8, Washington 7, New York 6, Cleveland 5, Milwaukee 1.

Walsh, 57 shut outs—Against Boston 15, Washington 9, Philadelphia 8, Detroit 7, St. Louis 7, Cleveland 6, New York 5.

Johnson, 52 shut outs—Against New York 12, Boston 9, Philadelphia 7, Cleveland 7, St. Louis 6, Detroit 6, Chicago 5.

Bender, 33 shut outs—Against St. Louis 9, New York 8, Chicago 5, Cleveland 4, Detroit 3, Washington 3, Boston 1.

Coombs, 29 shut outs—Against Washington 6, St. Louis 5, Cleveland 4, New York 4, Boston 3, Chicago 3, Detroit 2.

Wood, 25 shut outs—Against New York 8, St. Louis 5, Chicago 4, Washington 5, Cleveland 2, Philadelphia 2, Detroit 1.

ROYLE PHILLIPS SCORES FOR PRESIDENT'S CUP

Returns a Low Card In Park Golf Club Competition.

The weekly competition for the President's cup was the only event at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, but it attracted a large field. The playing was a trifle slow, however, for the reason that the recent heavy rains made the greens a little soggy in places.

Royle T. Phillips, who is playing a fine game this summer, won the first three points for the cup, with a net score of 80, while H. L. Moodey finished second and A. Carroll and R. V. Carpenter divided third honors with net scores of 86. The leading scores:

Royle T. Phillips, 92, 12-80, H. L. Moodey, 99, 15-84; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 94, 8-86; R. V. Carpenter, 98, 12-86; Harold E. Blazier, 97, 8-89; Charles B. Morse, 101, 12-89; Clarence J. Hand, 108, 18-90.

A. W. RANSOME MAKES A SCORE OF 66

Competition Is Keen at Country Club For the Summer Cup.

A. W. Ransome made the best net score at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, in the weekly competition for the Summer cup, returning a 66 with a handicap of five. W. Lester Glenney was cecond with a 71. The player returning the three best average scores up to August 29 will receive the cup. These cards were posted Saturday:

A. W. Ransome, 92, 26-66; W. Lester Glenney, 76, 5-71; Stuart H. Patterson, 85, 12-73; Henry D. Hibbard, 90, 14-76; Frank O. Reinhart, 81, 5-76; R. G. Morse, 91, 11-80; H. W. D. Rapalje, 96, 15-81.

These scores were returned in the sweepstakes event:

W. M. Ailing, 90, 16-74; A. W. Ransome, 92, 17-75; E. A. Lyon, 98, 19-79; H. W. D. Rapalje, 96, 15-81; J. A. Hall, 112, 27-85.

The weekly dinner-dance at the club in the evening was largely attended and greatly enjoyed by all. The weather on the hill top was ideal and a feature of the social function was the attractive program of music by Van Eps brothers.

PETS LOSE TO SAURER TEAM

Greatest Game of the Season Played On Parker Field, Saturday Afternoon.

YOUTH VS. VETERAN

Townley and McLaughlin Engage in Great Pitchers' Duel—Townley Given Poor Support While His Opponent's Was Perfect.

One run in the sixth inning was enough to give the Saurer baseball team a shutout victory over the Plainfield Pets in the best exhibition of the national pastime that has been displayed on Parker Field this season. A large crowd was present to witness the pitching duel between Warry McLaughlin and George Townley, in which the latter out pitched his opponent in every respect. The contest was a thrilling one throughout the entire nine innings and it was not until the umpire had declared the last man out in the ninth frame that the Saurer boys could safely tuck the victory away.

George Townley, North Plainfield High School's stellar moundsman of two years ago and the pride of the Springfield Training School pitching staff this year, was in rare form and had he been given the support that was due him the game would have gone to extra innings without a doubt. One misplay in the sixth inning was enough to give his opponents the much needed tally. Townley's control Saturday was perfect, and he had the Saurer batters, who are supposed to be the heaviest sluggers in this vicinity, fanning the air or hitting them into the hands of his teammates at all times, especially in the pinches. Only three hits could be made off his delivery during the battle, one of these being a double. With men on the bases with chances to score, Townley tightened up and struck out the best men that the visitors could put up and had seven strikeouts to his credit. But old "Warhorse" McLaughlin must not be forgotten as the other member of that pitching duel, and the oldtimer deserves credit for holding the Pets down to five hits. Up to the ninth inning he was given perfect support, Dixon spoiling his team's record in the last frame. Warry had his famous drop, that has fooled so many batters in the last ten years, working to perfection and went his opponent one better in the strikeout argument, getting eight of the three swing variety. He was also there in the pinches and sent the pill over the plate so fast that the batters had to swing and then walk back to the bench.

The Saurer sluggers intended to "get to" Townley in the first inning, but soon found that their good intentions would not develop until possibly the sixth or seventh round. George walked Harriman, the first man to face him, and then, after fanning Jaeger, Alberts hit to Coyle who developed into a double play, retiring the side. Coyle fanned, Mullin doubled into deep left, Dixon flied out and Harney struck out. That was Plainfield's first inning. In the second round Garretson collected one of Saurers three safeties, but was stalled on second. Neither team did anything in the next two innings except fly out and strike out, but in the fifth the Pets were credited with their second double play, Mullin to Harney to Dixon.

The sixth was the round that caused all the excitement and decided the numerous bets that were placed on every man's favorite. Wilson flied out to Mullin and Harriman made first on an error by Dixon. Jaeger was called out for being hit by a batted ball and Albert came to bat. He hit safely between second and short and Dorman was about to field the ball when it hit a rough spot and bounded over his arm. Harriman scored from first and Alberts landed on second. In their half of this inning the Pets had a fine chance to tie matters up and almost did the trick. Montross doubled along the right field line. Coyle fanned, but McLaughlin hit Mullin, who went to first. Warry must have thought that Dixon was a bad man, for he hit him on the wrist, sending him to first also, which filled the bases. Harney hit to short and a double play followed, crushing all of the Pets scoring hopes. Jaeger threw to Alberts at home who touched the plate and threw to first in an attempt to catch Harney. The throw was high and Garretson made a beautiful catch, which undoubtedly saved the game for his team. He returned the ball to Alberts with lightning speed and the latter caught Mullin at the plate in an attempt to stretch from second with the tying run. This was the Pets best chance of the game. Neither team had a chance to score after that until the ninth inning when Dorflinger's men almost sent the game into extra innings.

Harney died out to Jaeger and Nelson struck out. Dorman singled and went to third on the throw to third to catch Dorman. Townley faced McLaughlin, and although he hit the ball hard, Wilson camped under it and made the last putout of the game. Alberts and Garretson were the only two Saurer men who could hit Townley for safeties, the former getting a double and a single.

STATE HURRY-SCURRY FOR BILL SCHOOLEY

Monster Regatta For New Jersey Titles Held At Asbury Park.

The Asbury Park Canoe Club won the State regatta held on Deal Lake, Saturday afternoon, with a total of twenty-two points, with the Tuscarora Canoe Club, of Branch Brook Lake, Newark, second, with fourteen; the Wenonah Canoe Club finished third with ten points, and the Wyona Club, of Weequahic Lake, fourth, having four points. Passaic Valley was the last to figure, that club scoring two points.

The event was the best that has ever been run and the intense interest and rivalry of the contestants afforded the large gathering of spectators much excitement. The events in the championship class were the quarter mile singles, half mile doubles and fours, and hurry scurry, consisting of a swim and a paddle. The last named event was the feature of the day and was easily won by William Schooley, Newark's city champion, in this event, who formerly lived in this city. Schooley raced against ten other good men and made the best getaway of the bunch at the crack of the pistol. He swam the one hundred feet in fast time and was in his canoe long before the others had finished their swim. He had a big lead which made it easy for him to cross the line a winner. At one time a pair of the Asbury Park club came within striking distance, but Schooley drew away from them and won the event by a good margin.

SUNDAY BASEBALL TEAM WINS TEN INNING GAME

The Plainfield Sunday baseball team defeated the strong Flemington aggregation on the Woodland avenue field, yesterday, by the score of 9 to 8. The contest went ten innings before the needed run could be made, but the locals finally hit the opposing pitcher for that tally.

Miller was on the mound for the locals and Alberts was behind the bat. All of the Plainfielders were playing good ball and were never in arrears in the scoring department.

FORMER LOCAL PLAYERS IN EXTRA INNING TIE

Four former Plainfield players, playing with the Hackettstown baseball team, last Saturday, played an eleven-inning game without a score against the Washington team. The former local players are Harter, Cosgrove, Stallings and Driscoll, all of whom were prominent in the game. Cosgrove made two hits, one for an extra base and Harter and Stallings each made their usual bingle. Driscoll playing first base was credited with thirteen putouts without a single misplay. "Doc" Scanlon pitched for the Hackettstown team and was opposed by McGarry. Grimes and Conti, members of the local Sunday baseball team, were on the Washington team, but failed to hit the former Giant safely. Hackettstown has a three-game lead in the Warren-Sussex League, having won seven games and lost one.

S. S. LEAGUERS GO FIFTEEN ROUNDS

Monroe Team Finally Defeats the First Baptist Crew By Score of 4 to 3.

The Monroe Avenue baseball team won a notable victory in the Sunday-school League when it defeated the First Baptist aggregation on the Clinton Avenue field, Saturday afternoon in a fifteen-inning contest by the score of 4 to 3. The game is by far the best game that has been played in the league. Smith started on the firing line for the Front street team and for six innings, until he was forced to retire because of a bad arm. He was relieved by Patterson, who pitched fine ball, only allowing four hits in seven rounds. Brick gave fourteen safeties, but was effective in the latter part of the game.

The Baptists took the lead in the fifth inning, when Savidge singled, stole second and scored when Barnes hit safely. Their second tally came in the fifth inning, in which Randolph doubled. The home team could not get to Smith in the early innings and were goose-egged in the first five rounds. In that frame two errors, a stolen base and a fielder's choice gave the Monroe boys their first tally. They scored again in the next inning without a safe hit. In the ninth frame the score was still tie and the extra excitement began in the tenth. W. Brown singled and scored with the hoped-for run when Smith doubled. The home team came back in their half of the first extra round and took advantages of their opponents' errors. One hit and an error did the trick and the score was again tied.

Both teams then settled down for a hard struggle and played a good game for the rest of the long battle. In the last half of the fifteenth, L. Brown went out to first base and Beekman drew a pass and stole second. T. Apgar fanned and then L. Apgar singled, scoring Beekman from second, with the winning tally. The home team collected eight hits and six stolen bases during the fray, while the Baptists only had one of the latter to their credit.

JACK MARTIN NOW BATTING SECOND FOR PHILADELPHIA

Jack Martin has been raised from sixth to second place in the batting order of the Philadelphia team. He batted in that position last Saturday and made two hits. Jack had a good day, when the Quakers beat the St. Louis Cardinals by the score of 3 to 0. The local boy was up to bat four times and singled twice. He scored one of his team three runs, made three putouts and three assists without an error. The opposing teams are keeping him busy all the time and yet he picks them up consistently with a few misplays mixed in, but every player makes those. Manager Dooin must have thought well of Jack's batting, as the second man up to bat is looked upon to advance the first batter if he made his base.

FLEMINGTON A. C. LOSES.

PLAINFIELD NOSED OUT BY NEWARKERS

Local Team Holds Strong North Ends Tie For Ten Innings and Then Lost Out.

The Plainfield A. A. baseball team went to Newark, yesterday, and played the North Ends, of that place, a ten inning game, which was won by the home team by the score of 2 to 1. Although the local boys made six errors the only one that did any harm was in the last inning, when the winning run was made on a bad play.

The local batters faced a fine pitcher and could only get three safeties off his delivery in the game, while the Newarkers made one more than that off Maiden. The home team took the lead in the fourth when they got for two safeties, but the locals tied the score in the sixth on clean hits. Both pitchers then settled down and were given fairly good support until the tenth, when the home batters took advantage of their opponents faults. O'Leary, Moulton and Pollock were the only local batters to score hits, and O'Leary scored the lone tally.

RALLY IN THE NINTH WINS THE CONTEST

The Tile Works baseball team, of Lincoln, defeated the All Lincolns, at Frolic Oval, Lincoln, on Saturday afternoon, by the score of 7-6. When the Tiles Works went to the bat in the ninth they needed two runs to tie and three to win. Thinking the game was as good as over most of the two hundred spectators commenced leaving the field. They were called back, however, by the cheering of the fans who remained when Tesner and Teeling singled in rapid succession. Quinn, pinch hitting for Perry, then doubled to the scoreboard in left, scoring both men. Quinn then stole third and scored a second later on Darbey's single, winning the game.

LOCAL CYCLISTS VISITED STATE CAMP AT SEA GIRT

Fifteen motorcyclists from this city, Somerville and New Brunswick, enjoyed a ride to Sea Girt yesterday. Jack and Mrs. Horner, Miss Mills, Miss Higgins, G. Winkleholz, H. Alberts and Mr. and Mrs. Kenner, of Somerville, left this city and went to New Brunswick where their number was increased by Mr. and Mrs. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Hampson, Miss Ball and A. Thompson. They then preceeded down to Freehold without a stop and there picked up the last delegation. A fast trip was then made to Sea Girt and they arrived at Camp Fielder at 11 o'clock. The camp was inspected and then because of the heat, the party soon left. At Bradley Beach the party stopped for dinner at the Hotel Mount and then went in bathing for a time. On the return trip the tired and hungry cyclists stopped off at the Hotel Klein and had supper. The local people arrived home about six-thirty.

J. Dickhundt and L. Conway have been among the missing since the Brighton Beach run.

MOTORCYCLE SPARKS

"Spark" Philips has his motor all apart and they say the street department is complaining of carbon in Fanwood.

Has anybody sighted W. Groff, of Cranford.

Alberts almost lost his side-car yesterday. He carried a wrench and the weather was to warm to work.

The first lieutenant, had his Sungrouch with him.

Second Lieutenant Reupert is working under a hoodoo since he got his arm band.

"Plug" Higgins has been seen outside of Plainfield on his machine. Good boy, Plug, you will be on a run yet.

RAHWAY TEAM WINS TITLE IN WESTFIELD TOURNAMENT

In the final round of the men's doubles tennis tournament at Westfield, last night, Harold Throckmorton and Lindsay Dunham, of Rahway, defeated C. P. Throckmorton and T. Ernst, of the Sewaren Tennis Club, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3 and 7-5. This pair has played a fine game throughout the entire tournament and have defeated some of the best teams of this vicinity.

They are the Union county doubles champions, having defeated a local team for the title. The tournament that has just closed has been very popular and the night playing is something of a novelty in this vicinity. Large arc lights were used for illumination and many fine matches were played in the tournament. Throckmorton is the State interscholastic singles champion.

WEST ENDS NO MATCH FOR STRONG LAUREL NINE

The fast Laurel aggregation defeated the West End team on Parker Field, this morning, by a score of 16 to 1. The Laurel batsmen hit Pennoyer for sixteen safeties, accounting fer twenty-two bases. Butler received great support by his teammates. The features of the game were the fielding of Brennan, the batting of Kline and the pitching of Butler. The Laurels now lead the league with a record of eight wins and two defeats. On Wednesday morning the Laurels will cross bats with the fast Red Star team.

KLINKERS NEXT VICTIMS?

Manager Martin, of the Saurer aggregation, has signed up the strong Klinker nine, of Somerville, to play his champions next Saturday. The game will probably be played on the Dunellen field. The local manager is getting all of the fast teams of this section to meet his boys and most of them are taking the short end of the scores. Saurer has only lost one game so far this year.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The union service next Sunday evening will be held at the First Baptist church, at which time Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, former pastor of the church, in which the service is to be held, will preach.

The board of trustees of the First M. E. church will meet at the conclusion of the morning service next Sunday.

Rev. Frederic L. Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, who has been spending his vacation in the mountains of New York State, will return during the course of the present week and occupy his pulpit next Sunday.

Rev. A. E. Finn, of Rochester, Pa., former pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of this city, will occupy the pulpit of his former charge at both services next Sunday.

The choirs of the First Baptist and the First Methodist churches will enjoy their vacations during August. Plans have been made by both churches to care for their music during the absence of the regular choirs.

FOURTH UNION SERVICE.

The fourth of the series of union services was held last evening at the First Presbyterian church, with a large congregation in attendance. In the absence of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the church, who has been laid up with an attack of knee trouble, H. W. Herrman presided, assisted by Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church. Rev. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached the sermon.

DISCUSSING MEANS OF AVERTING WAR

United States Will Stand Aloof From European Turmoil.

Washington, July 27 (Central News Cable)—So far as the United States is concerned it will stand aloof from the turmoil that Europe now finds itself in. President Wilson made this clear to callers today. In response to a question whether this government would offer its good offices for the assuring of peace, the President replied that it was the policy of the United States "not to interfere directly or indirectly in European affairs."

Paris, July 27—The "Echo de Paris" today states that Sir Edward Grey, the British minister for foreign affairs, has invited France, Germany and Italy, to take joint steps in requesting the Austrian and Servian governments to convoke a conference in London with a view to settle the disputes between the two countries. Russia was not invited.

Rome, July 27—The Italian foreign minister and the British ambassador to Italy, called on the Austrian-Hungarian ambassador today and discussed means of conciliation between Austria, Hungary and Servia.

Constantinople, July 27—The Greek minister here today, declared that in the event of war between Austria, Hungary and Servia, Greece would be compelled to dispatch 100,000 troops to the assistance of Servia.

Vienna, July 27.—A communication issued by the Austro Hungarian foreign office today says that the objects of the Servian note in reply to Austria's note is to create the false impression that servia is prepared to comply with Austria's demands in a great measure.

MAIN LINE TROLLEY CARS STALLED FOR TWO HOURS

Main Line trolley service was stalled for two hours this afternoon, when a car traveling west between Cranford and Garwood left the rails near the former place and wedged itself lengthwise across the tracks.

The repair crew was summoned immediately to the scene of the mishap, but considerable difficulty was experienced in righting the car owing to the fact that a portion of the front truck had become wedged in a sand bank at the side of the road. Two woman passengers in the car fainted but none was seriously injured.

ICE HOUSE THE SCENE OF HEATED ARGUMENT

The zero temperature of the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company's ice house in Watchung failed to cool the grieved feelings of William Hunter and Moley Roscoe, when they engaged in a fracas at that place, Saturday afternoon, and the argument became so heated that the pair wound up by resorting to some well directed blows. Hunter employed the use of a pair of tongs to "get square" with his adversary and Roscoe lost no time in having a warrant sworn out for his opponent.

The hearing was scheduled to be held before Recorder Anderson in Watchung, Saturday night, but the complainant developed a severe case of 'cold feet" and this prompted him to withdraw the complaint, the recorder, however, took up the case and suspended a fine of $5 over each man's head to be enforced if the affair occurred again.

MEETING WELL ATTENDED.

The meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home was held in the auditorium, yesterday afternoon, was attended by a large number of people. The Rev. Ernest R. Brown, of Dunellen, spoke to the children and the choir of the First Presbyterian church sang several selections. The Dutch Arms Band was also present and played. Mrs. William Hadley played for the children's choir. Clifford Braider had charge of the music.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

Haverstraw, N. Y., July 27—William V. Cleary, town clerk of Haverstraw, who on Thursday last shot and killed his son-in-law, Eugene M. Newman, waived examination and was held for the action of the Grand Jury in September.

FOUR KILLED IN RIOT IN DUBLIN

Score Hurt When Soldiers and Nationalists Clash.

SAY MOB FIRED FIRST SHOT

Troops Then Discharge Guns In Air, Finally Shooting In Crowd—Following Volley, Many Soldiers Are Beaten and Killed.

Dublin, July 27.—Four dead and thirty seriously wounded by bullets is the toll of a riot that occurred here when the regular soldiers and Nationalists clashed.

Thee outburst was the sequel to a Nationalist gun running exploit. About 1,000 Nationalist volunteers paraded early in the day and marched to Howth, about ten miles away, for the purpose of landing 1,000 rifles. On their arrival at the pier signals were made to a white yacht which had been maneuvering in the bay. The yacht promptly started toward the shore and when she came to the pier began discharging her cargo of rifles and ammunition. Two members of the Royal Irish constabulary who tried to interfere were shouldered aside and forced outside the lines of the Nationalist volunteers, who held the pier and barred access to it.

The body of coast guards were beside the yacht in their boat, but were ordered away and it is reported were threatened with revolvers. As soon as all the cargo had been landed the Nationalist volunteers started to return to Dublin.

Police Intercept Volunteers.

Meanwhile the authorities at Dublin had been warned of what was going on and a detachment of sixty to eighty policemen and 100 men of the King's Own Scottish borderers had been sent to intercept the volunteers. When the later arrived at Malahide road, in Clontarf, they found their way blocked by police in front and the soldiers, with fixed bayonets, behind.

The police were ordered to disarm the volunteers, who resisted, and a sharp fight ensued. Several persons were hurt by the clubs of the police and by rifle butts and bullets. The reports as to the subsequent happenings differ, but the main body of the volunteers fled and reached the city by cutting across fields.

Meanwhile the fighting had become known in the city, which was ablaze with excitement, and big mobs collected in the streets through which the soldiers were expected to return. As soon as they appeared there were shouts of rage that were followed by a volley of stones. The soldiers marched on until they reached the Bachelor's Walk Quay bridge, where the shooting began. It is said that some of the mob fired first with revolvers. The mob then pressed forward and threatened to sweep the soldiers with the revolvers.

The troops were ordered to fire a volley over the heads of the mob, which was done. The mob ignored this, and the soldiers then fired a volley of ball cartridges into the crowd. A number of persons dropped and there were shrieks of rage and pain. After this the soldiers proceeded to their barracks.

GREAT DEBATE ON.

Argument on Important Measure Began in Earnest Today.

Washington, July 27.—At 11 o'clock today, debate began in earnest in the senate on the administration anti-trust bills. Until these measures have been passed the senate will meet daily at 11 and continue its discussions each evening until 6 o'clock. No other business will be permitted to intervene. Most of the senate committees will knock off work during the debate on the trust bills. By keeping senators on the job seven hours a day the leaders see no occasion why the trust bill should not be placed before President Wilson by the last week in August.

While the senate is busy with the trust bills the house probably will debate a series of measures dealing with the subject of conservation. Some of the house leaders would prefer to recess for three days at a time instead of considering the conservation bills, and this plan may be adopted. It is being strongly urged by members of all parties who are anxious to get home to their districts. There is no intention on the part of the administration to press the conservation bills to enactment at this seession.

POLITICAL NOTES.

July 30—Union County Progressive Committee meets.

August 4—County Board of Elections meets to organize.

August 15—Union County Republican outing.

August 19—Elizabeth Democratic City Committee outing.

August 28—Last day for filing county petitions.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Notices have been sent out to members of the State Progressive Committee to meet at Asbury Park tomorrow night. As the condition of the party in the State is regarded just now critical, the call is looked upon with deep interest, not only by Progressives, but also by Republicans and Democrats.

Official call set forth that "business of importance will be transacted and final arrangements made at that time for the big rally in August, when ex-President Theodore Roosevelt will no doubt be the speaker of the occasion."

The principal business of immediate importance will be the action to be taken on the resignation of Frank B. Jess, of Camden, as chairman of the State committee. It is understood that no successor to Mr. Jess has yet been settled upon for presentation by the leaders.

Everett Colby, who has been in Maine for the last four weeks, is expected at the meeting. He will probably arrive home today to take part in some conferences that will be held with the object of presenting for chairman the name of some acceptable man.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Somerset county jury's verdict in the case of Sefano Ruggieri is additional evidence of the fact that expert testimony does not weigh as it did a number of years ago. Ruggieri, aged seventeen, was indicted for murder. On his trial Dr. Britton D. Evans of the State Hospital for the Insane, at Morris Plains, testified for the defense and said the boy's mind had never been normal and that he was insane at the time of the murder. But the jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree and recommended him to the mercy of the court. This recommendation can have no force or effect, as the judge can only impose the sentence of the law, but the question of the lad's sanity may be passed upon later and the expert alienist's testimony be found correct. The point is that the petit jurors passed upon the murderous act and not upon the young man's mental condition at the time the act was committed. This, to the unprofessional mind, seems to be the proper function of a jury, and it raises anew the question whether, in murder cases where insanity is pleaded, the verdict ought not to be "guilty but insane," rather than our present form of "not guilty because insane."—Newark Evening News.

Whitehouse.

Alfred Bishop, who was visiting his sisters, Mrs. Ross Burdette and Mrs. Alvah Dempsey, of East Whitehouse, returned to Elizabeth yesterday.

The Board of Education, of Peapack, has awarded a contract to John Bodine for changes in the school building there. The assembly-room will be divided so that the fourth and fifth grades can be in separate rooms at the opening of the fall term. Another teacher has been engaged. All the old teachers have been re-engaged for the coming school year, with the exception of Miss Tiger, who declined to return.

Miss Marjorie Hope, of Raritan, is spending a vacation of two weeks in East Whitehouse with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Seals.

Miss Jennie Gulick, of Gladstone, is at Asbury Park for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Colyer and daughter returned to Peapack yesterday after a visit to Ironia.

The annual fair of the Reformed church at Pottersville will be held in Lindabury's field there Wednesday and Thursday, August 12 and 13. There will be a balloon ascension the second night.

Wallingford In His Prime

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Stock Manipulation.

ON his way out Wallingford stopped at Bessmer's invitation to inspect the plans for the glorious extensions.

"I've dreamed of this for ten years," stated Bessmer happily. "Did you obtain any stock?"

"Not a share," answered Wallingford, much disappointed. "Mr. Daw won't sell."

"I sympathize with you," announced the jubilant Bessmer. "The local papers are full of the extensions we're making. I believe we have Oak Center awakened at last to manufacturing possibilities. This stock will be worth real money by and by."

"I believe it," admitted Wallingford. "I don't mind confessing now that I wished to buy it for another corporation."

"Petey Wilks," read Wallingford from Blackie's list, "the leading sport of the village, and might bet as high as $2. Wears a gray puff tie on Sundays and the other two on week days. Proprietor of father's shoe store and almost real devilish. Ten shares."

Armed with that description, Wallingford had no trouble in picking out Petey in Wilks' Shoe Emporium.

"I believe this is Mr. Wilks?" guessed the stock speculator pleasantly, noting that Petey was a particular dresser and had his trousers pressed.

"That's what they're talking around," assented young Mr. Wilks, who was strong on repartee.

"I understand you have some stock in the Bessmer Malleable Process company."

"Somebody's been telling," was the glib retort.

"Would you care to sell it?"

"Sell anything but my wife, but I ain't married yet," joked Mr. Wilks, and this time he enjoyed a good laugh.

"You're a sly dog," Wallingford complimented him. "What will you take for your ten shares?"

Petey Wilks had the chin of an idiot and the smile of a fool, but he had the eyes of a miser. "Don't reckon I want to sell it," he instantly returned. "The papers are full of how Will Bessmer is making all sorts of improvements."

"It may break him," suggested the coldly businesslike Wallingford, smiling his coldly businesslike smile.

"Will Bessmer ain't a breaker," argued the other. "He's been in business ten years without making any money, but he don't owe anything."

"You paid $50 a share for your stock," stated Wallingford, respecting Petey's shrewdness. "I'm willing to say that it's worth a little more. My firm will pay you $60."

The eyes of Petey narrowed still more. "Who is your firm?" he asked.

"The United States Malleable Merger company," announced Wallingford, creating that mighty corporation with no effort whatsoever; "but, after all, you're not dealing with them. You're dealing with spot cash."

"Do you see anything green?" he demanded, laughing scornfully, and pulling down the lower lid of his right eye. "I know what it means when a monopoly's after anything. You'll have to pay me $75 a share."

"It's bought," accepted Wallingford and counted out four bills, a five hundred, two one-hundreds and a fifty, so promptly that it looked like the throw-off of a printing press. "Where is your stock?"

"I said $85," corrected Petey quickly, glaring accusingly at Wallingford.

"I misunderstood you," and Wallingford, hastily gathering up the money, made as if to start for the door.

"Wait a minute!" called Petey, experiencing pangs as he saw all those warmly tinted engravings disappearing. "I might sell for $80."

"I said $75," insisted Wallingford coldly, but with his pocketbook still in his hand.

Petey, whose spider-like legs interfered with each other when he was in a hurry, single footed back to the safe, produced his certificate, assigned it to Wallingford and took the pay without the waste of a single avoidable motion.

"Anyhow," he exulted as he clamped the money carefully in his fingers, "I make 50 per cent on an investment I thought was dead. I had it five years, and that's 10 per cent a year."

"That's good business," approved Wallingford. "I wonder where I could get some more of this? I understand that Mr. B. F. Croats has a ten share certificate. Do you suppose he would sell it?"

"Binky Croats?" smiled Petey. "Binky would sell his girl's photograph. He needs the money."

"Thanks for the information," replied Wallingford and left the store.

He had scarcely passed through the door when a quite natural idea assailed Petey. "I must put Binky wise," he observed as he hurried to the telephone. "He's too pinched just now to hold out for a good price."

By the time Petey got his number, however, the faculty which lay behind his miserly eyes had evolved another course of action. "You said last night you wanted some money, didn't you, Binky?" he began.

The others in the Wilks' shoe store could hear the sound of Binky's voice like the blast of a trumpet throughout the room.

"Why don't you sell your Bessmer stock?" suggested Petey. "Oh, yes, somebody ought to buy it. Bessmer's stirring around down there, and it ought to be worth pretty near what you paid for it before long. Ah, shucks! Why, I'll buy it myself on speculation. Of course I won't give you quite what it cost you, but I'm willing to gamble $450 on your ten shares. Don't mention it, old horse. Bring it right down and get your money; and say, Binky, come the back way, will you?"

Petey Wilks loved that little deal. He could buy his friend Binky's stock to replace his own out of Wallingford's money and have $300 left.

He need not have hurried, for Wallingford intended to give him at least twenty-four hours to think up the brilliant scheme of buying Binky's stock. Instead, Wallingford went straight to the stockholder whom Blackie had described as follows:

"Thaddeus Putnam, blind in one eye, but can see a dollar at double the distance with the other. Friend of the village mint, who is old Eli Spooger. Fifty shares, but watch Eli and notice the Hennesey marks in front of his name."

Old Thaddeus looked with stern disapproval on Wallingford's offensively clean shirt, and he steadfastly refused to sell his Bessmer stock at any price.

Wallingford, delighted to find him so obdurate, offered him $75, $100 and finally $110. At that figure he paused for fear Thaddeus might sell, but Thaddeus did not invite more urging.

"No, sir!" he hoarsely wheezed. "I never go back on my judgment. I bought my stock from young William Bessmer because I thought he was a coming man, and he is coming. I'll never sell my stock till he proves that I was right, and he's proving it."

"Very well," relinquished Wallingford, with a sigh, and now beginning his campaign on Eli Spooger, whose name Blackie had marked with three stars. "Apparently you won't sell, but at least you will not advise your friends to hold on, will you?"

"I'll make no promises of the kind," wheezed Thaddeus, to whom such an idea had not occurred. "My judgment's safe, and I always advise my friends to follow it. If they don't they can't blame me."

After this Wallingford went home, well satisfied with his day's work. But he had not finished it, for just before dinner Petey Wilks came to him and jubilantly sold him Binky Croats' stock, battling desperately for $85 a share—and winning.

In the morning Wallingford went to see the next ten share man on the report. "Spraddles Martin," Blackie had listed him. "Keeps books in the plow factory and walks like a one legged turtle. Human Billiken and I like him."

Spraddles' face was as awkward as his body, and nothing on it seemed to be quite in the right place. His mind was well located and gracefully active, however.

"My Bessmer stock?" he remarked, poking a pen behind his left ear, which was better suited for the purpose than his right one. "I guess you must be the man Petey Wilks wants to sell it to. He tried to buy it from me last night, at all the way from $40 up to $82.50 a share, but I knew that if Petey was willing to pay $82.50 it was worth $100. I'd 'a' sold it to him for that, but since you're a stranger I'll let you have it for $110."

He chuckled cheerfully as he announced this, but he sobered as Wallingford promptly dealt him out $1,100.

"I'm afraid I didn't charge you enough," he worried.

"This stock is worth almost any price to my firm," admitted Wallingford recklessly.

"Anyhow, I've got it all over Petey Wilks," Spraddles philosophically consoled himself as he produced the stock. "Are you willing to pay $110 for all of this you can get?"

"I'll give you $110 for every share you can bring me to the Eagle hotel. Just inquire for Mr. Wallingford."

"I wouldn't need your name at the Eagle," declared Spraddles. "I could describe you so well that Curly Washburn would turn around to see if you wasn't standing right there. Will you pay $115?"

"I might if you dickered with me hard enough," laughed Wallingford.

"You'll get some of the hardest dickering that was ever done to you," promised Spraddles, reaching an awkward arm for his coat. "I'm going out and buy stock. I can get to where it is quicker than you can."

"I guess so," sighed Wallingford, with the air of an abused person. "But promise me one thing—whether you obtain any stock or not report to me at the hotel this evening, won't you?"

"All right," agreed Spraddles and flipflopped out of the room in earnest haste without waiting for Wallingford to accompany him.

Perfectly contented, Wallingford returned to his hotel and waited. Spraddles, as he had expected, hunted him up at 3 o'clock instead of half past 5.

"You owe me wages, anyhow," he announced, with his oddly shaped grin. "Petey Wilks beat me to it, and even he didn't get any. You'd think Bessmer stock was diamonds, and old Eli Spooger wanted to have me ostracuted because I only offered him $105."

Wallingford felt sweet peace surging through him. Eli Spooger was planted and ripe. He hurried away from that topic.

"Did you try buying any at the factory?" he asked, eager for news of Blackie.

Spraddles exhibited such alarming manifestations of amusement that Wallingford was on the point of calling a doctor.

"Bessmer's got a new partner," the Billiken said when the worst of the symptoms had passed. "He's a long skinny fellow and was playing the sailor's hoe down on a horn like a big gourd pipe when I was down there this noon, and Sandy McClintock was patting a big hole in the cinders with both feet."

"Bessmer's new partner must be eccentric," wondered Wallingford, really anxious to know the prevailing opinion.

"I thought he was a fool, but I happened to say so to Tommy Grail, and I nearly got a licking. The men down there are crazy about him. They say he's the busiest kidder in the United States, but there with the large brain or the straight arm jab or any other game."

Wallingford chuckled to himself as he pictured Blackie in his earnest specialty of having a good time wherever he happened to be. "When does the factory intend to start work again?" he inquired, sympathizing with the proprietor.

"Bessmer says they never lose a stroke. He says they laugh more and work harder than any set of men he ever saw. I think I'll get a job down there myself."

"How about the stock?" asked Wallingford, suddenly remembering that he had serious business on hand.

"There isn't any," declared Spraddles. "When I asked Mr. Daw about it he said that the malleable casting business was his regular ambition. He's learning to make molds."

Eli Spooger looked over his glasses at Wallingford with a benevolent smile and rubbed his bony old knees very, very gently. "Yes, I am Mr. Spooger," he acknowledged to Wallingford's query, and his voice was full of human kindness. "And you are Mr. Wallingford, I am sure."

Wallingford smiled with fully as much benevolence as Mr. Spooger had exhibited. "I seem to have been described accurately," he returned and ceased to study Mr. Spooger with any degree of curiosity. On the door of Mr. Spooger's plain but clean little office in neat script was the golden text, "Eli Spooger, first mortgages." On the walls were bright colored pictures of little children playing with lambs and happy fathers returning from honest toil to vine clad cottages and sweet faced grandparents playing horsy for the babies, and Wallingford knew without looking twice that a benevolent old man who could smile as sweetly as Eli Spooger would foreclose a widow's mortgage on a snowy night and prove it to be an act of mercy.

"Certainly," agreed Mr. Spooger. "Any gentleman endeavoring to buy control in a local concern for the benefit of a trust is sure to be much discussed."

"It's the sad truth," admitted Wallingford, very visibly annoyed by the fact. "The public works a double swivel spotlight on any one connected with a big concern such as I am supposed to represent. Personally, I shrink from publicity, but since I can't, what do you want for the Bessmer stock?"

"We are coming on," approved Mr. Spooger, much gratified. He had been so eager as to be almost impatient. "I have ten shares of my own and twenty-five shares that I yesterday accepted from clients of mine to apply on mortgage payments that were in arrears."

"Thirty-five shares," figured Wallingford in a disappointed tone. "Is that all?"

"That is all for the present," regretfully admitted Mr. Spooger. "The price will be $125."

Some Cookery Suggestions

COOKING CRABS.

AN easy way of serving crab meat in the shells is to shred it and mix it with a dressing made of four tablespoonfuls of oil, two teaspoonfuls of vinegar, salt and white pepper and cayenne. Return the dressed crab meat to the cleaned shells and garnish each with a thin slice of lemon cut in two pieces and two or three green sprigs of parsley.

Crab meat may be prepared in the same way heated, then returned to the shells and eaten hot.

Garnished With Parsley.

Broiled Crabs.—Boil the crabs and pick out the meat. Dice or shred and mix it with nutmeg, salt and pepper. Cut three ounces of butter in small pieces and add it to the crab meat. Then add three tablespoonfuls of vinegar and a quarter of a pound of fine breadcrumbs. Mix all these ingredients, fill the shells with the combination and put them on a hot broiler. Brown them quickly and serve immediately. Parsley and lemon may be used for garnish.

Tempting Luncheon Dish.

Crabs With Pimentos.—Boil hard four eggs, chop the whites, mash the yolks and mix them with two tablespoonfuls of fine white breadcrumbs and one and one-half tablespoonfuls of canned pimentoes chopped fine. Melt, but do not brown, four tablespoonfuls of butter in the dish. Work in the egg mixture and add slowly a cupful of cream and, lastly, a cupful of crab meat. Season with salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of lemon juice and a dash of nutmeg. Let grow smooth and serve at once in little individual dishes or on toast.

Served In the Shells.

Scalloped Crabs.—Boil and pick out the meat from the crabs. Beat an egg light and mix the meat of a dozen crabs. Season to taste with salt and cayenne and a little powdered mace or clove of garlic chopped very fine. Mix thoroughly into the crab meat some fine bread or cracker crumbs—enough to enable you to form the mixture into balls about the size of English walnuts. Dip these in beaten egg and roll in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. Have the crab shells cleaned and heated, put about four of the small balls in each shell with a sprig of parsley stuck in the topmost ball, pour a little cream sauce in the shell and serve very hot.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Goldenrod Family's Guest Of Honor.

Evelyn Loved Them.

THERE hadn't been a rainy day for so long that Jack and Evelyn began to think that there wouldn't be any more at all, but one evening a soft rain fell, and the midsummer flowers opened up, smiled and said, "We're glad to be here again."

Of course Jack and Evelyn had found some of the very first of the goldenrod. Evelyn loves them because they seem to be so bright and appealing. They always look to the little girl as though they had such perfect dispositions too.

Evelyn had put a great many of them in their room, and when daddy came in he said:

"The flowers are not out very long before you have some of them, are they, Evelyn?"

Evelyn laughed and said:

"Well, I never would have been able to have gathered so many without Jack. It would have taken me ages and ages to have picked them, for the stems were so strong, but with his jackknife we had no trouble at all."

"The goldenrod family gave a reception the other day," said daddy.

"Did many go to it?" asked Evelyn immediately.

"Yes," said daddy; "there were quite a number of guests, but they had one very notable guest, and they were very proud of having him too.

"Their noted guest was the sun. He came with all his best clothes on."

"What are his best clothes?" chimed in Evelyn.

"His best clothes," continued daddy, "are the clothes he always wears to a party. Sometimes he wears them to parties where he has never been invited. But that doesn't make very much difference to him, for he is a proud old fellow and has a pretty good idea of himself. Besides, he is quite right, for he is always wanted at a party, especially at a summer party.

"But he was really invited to this party. He wore his bright golden suit, and really it is so bright and dazzling that it takes people or flowers with very strong eyes only who can look at him when he is all dressed up.

"Now, the goldenrod family have very strong eyes, and the little sleepy ones, who could scarcely wake up, peeped forth when they saw that the sun had actually come to their party and woke right up. The tiger lily family had been invited to the party, as well as some lovely wild purple daisies and the sunflowers. They had the most glorious time, for they danced about in the sun, waving their heads so gracefully. They think the art of dancing is to know how to hold the head with a certain air.

"They did have the finest party, and the sun made them all so happy. The little ones were glad indeed that he had awakened them."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

6239

A pleasing, practical feature of this little dress, is the separate sleeveless under-waist to which the skirt is attached. This under-waist allows all the weight of the garment to fall from the shoulders, which is the most sensible thing in the case of growing girls. The long-waisted, low-belted blouse which accompanies this skirt has a one-piece yoke in drop shoulder effect on to which front and back of the blouse are slightly fulled.

Cotton voile or crepe, bastiste or dotted swiss may any of them be used to advantage for this design. When the sheerer stuffs are used, eyelet embroidery is effective for trimming; with an ivory white crepe a touch of colored cross-stitched would offer a pleasing contrast and introduce a bit of color.

For a child of ten years, this design requires 2½ yards of 36-inch material with ½ yard of 36-inch lining for the under-waist.

Pattern comes in five sizes, 6 to 14.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the breast, well up under the arms.

BOY SCOUTS AID IN HUNT FOR LAWYER

Visit Hotels and Hospitals in Search to Find Marshall.

FRIENDS FORM COMMITTEE

Assistance Body to Co-operate With Police of New Jersey and New York In Search—Deeply Stirs People in Montclair—Trustee of Wealthiest Church In Town.

Montclair, N. J., July 27.—Although the search for Elliott Marshall, a lawyer, of 48 Wall street, New York, who strangely dropped out of sight on Thursday afternoon, has been vigorously pushed by his friends in New York and this city, where he had his home, no trace of his whereabouts has been obtained.

Twenty-five or thirty friends, all prominent business and professional men, met at Wilde chapel, this city, with Walter E. Hampton as chairman and organized a general committee of assistance to co-operate with the police of New York and New Jersey in the search for Mr. Marshall.

The boy scouts of New Jersey were employed to visit hotels and hospitals and this particular part of what will be a country wide search had been carried out in most of the principal towns and cities as far south as Atlantic City. The scouts will continue their work today.

No incident has ever stirred the people of this city so deeply as has the mysterious disappearance of Mr. Marshall. He is interested in a banking business here as a stockholder and is a trustee of the First Congregational church, the wealthiest and most influential in the town.

He is identified with the Montclair Children's home and is a trustee of the Whittier Settlement House in Jersey City. His pet hobby was social philanthropic—building model homes and enabling workingmen to acquire title to them at the lowest possible prices or to rent them at actual cost of maintenance.

Residents of High Street, Orange, Object to Property Sale.

Orange, N. J., July 27.—Property owners of High street, Orange, are incensed over the prospect of the purchase of the old A. H. Root residence as a home for the Young Women's Christian Association. It is likely that a number of the wealthy residents of the street will club together and take the property off the hands of the executors "and save the neighborhood."

Among those who live on the street in which the property is situated are Burns D. Caldwell, president of the Wells Fargo Express Company; Mayor Minahan, Dr. John Hammond Brinshaw, Mrs. Florence Hernandez, Assemblyman Coleman E. Kissam, Joseph D. and Francis H. Holmes, Thomas D. Cusack and Isaac H. Blanchard.

Donato's Wife, After Supporting Him Eight Years, Wants Favor Returned.

Orange, N. J., July 27.—Supported for eight years by his wife because he refused to work, Louis Donato of 13 Essex avenue, Orange, was arrested by the police when it was learned he planned to sail for Italy today to claim a fortune of $40,000 left by an uncle, who died a few weeks ago. Donato will have to give a bond guaranteeing to support his wife. This he refuses to do.

"I will stay in jail rather than let her get the best of me," he says. His prospects of being satisfied in this respect are bright, as none of his friends have offered to give the bond. How he will get back to Italy to get the fortune is now the problem that he is trying to solve in his cell in the Orange police station.

STATE NEWS.

Frank Fuerst, a chauffeur of Bayonne, started to fill the tank of his car with gasoline while the side lights were burning. The tank exploded and set fire to the car. Fuerst was burned severely on the hands and arms.

According to reports received from the farmers of Warren county there will be a bumper crop of peaches. Thousands of baskets in excess of last year's crop will be available owing to the increased acreage.

John N. Jameson of Carlstadt went to a moving picture show in Passaic and afterward invited two or three friends to have a drink with him. When he felt in his pocket he discovered that his wallet, containing $70, had been stolen.

Objecting to the presence of a machine strikebreaker in his trolley car, August Thorn, a motorman, refused to run the car. He was arrested for refusing to work and in court in Trenton Judge Naar fined him $10. Not having the price Thorn was put in a cell.

Ernest Napier of East Orange, president of the state board of fish and game commissioners, announced that Charles C. Worthington, the wealthy pump manufacturer and owner of the largest private game preserve in the state, had tendered the use of 8,000 acres of New Jersey mountains, bordering on the Delaware river, to the state of New Jersey as a refuge for all wild life.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THERE'S A LIMIT TO SCOOP'S "PEP" — BY "HOP"

NOVEL TOPIC CHOSEN FOR PRAYER MEETING

The mid-week service at the First Baptist church Wednesday evening, promises to be an unusual one in every way. The topic is novel, carrying no suggestion of the meaning and purpose involved, though assurance is given by the pastor, Rev. Philip B. Strong, that the topic will prove most practical and interesting. The topic is as follows: "A Serious Problem—What Shall We do with the Old General?"

This being the last mid-week service before Dr. Strong's departure for Europe a very large attendance is confidently expected and a cordial invitation is extended the public generally to be present. The deacons are asked to meet at seven forty-five sharp to listen to the experience of those desiring to unite with the church by baptism. The past year has been one of unusual progress and prosperity in this church and pastor and people are looking forward with greatest confidence to even larger results in the future.

MOTHER OF NINE GETS PENSION.

New Brunswick, July 27.—Among the forty-one applications for widows' pensions heard by Judge Peter F. Daly, in the Middlesex County courts was that of Mrs. Anna Langan, of Woodbridge, who testified that she was thirty-eight years old and had had twelve children of whom nine were living. The last one, a boy less than three years old, whom she had in court, she said, was born shortly after the death of her husband. He had been employed in the American Refining and Smelting Company at Perth Amboy, and she had received $1,500 from that concern, but this had been spent. The oldest child is twenty-one and there are five under sixteen. The court allowed her $26 a month.

MRS. MARY O'CONNOR.

Mrs. Mary O'Connor, of Brooklyn, died at South Plainfield, yesterday, in her thirtieth year. The funeral services will be held Wednesday morning in Brooklyn, and the interment will be made at Holy Cross cemetery, Flatbush, Long Island.

ASSESSORS ARE ABOUT THROUGH

Local Board Must File Report With County Board On Tuesday Next.

RATE MAY NOT BE $2.12

Increase In Valuations May Bring Rate Down Below Figure Which Has Been Expected—Over 900 Automobiles In the City.

While the general expectation has been that the local tax rate will be boosted to $2.12 on the $100, or higher, it is said that when the Board of Assessors complete their work, it will be found that such may not be the case. According to law the assessors have to complete their canvass of the property in the city, and file their final report with the County Board of Taxation by Tuesday night of next week. The four members of the Board have been giving conscientious and painstaking effort to their duties, some of them giving up their vacations in order to properly complete the work.

The effort of the Board this year has been to reach as near a true value on all property as it is possible to get. So thorough has been the work, that it is said that by next year every bit of property in the city will be assessed at full value, so that there can be no complaint whatsoever about unjust taxation. The members of the Board have been making personal calls on practically every person in their respective wards, and have tried to get the property owner to tell the truth about the prices for which they hold their real estate and personalty.

For the first time automobiles are being assessed separately from the personal property. In the past it has been the custom to add a fair valuation for these machines to the personal assessment. The taxation of automobiles has been handled in an unusual way. In order to be sure that one was not missed the Board send to Trenton and secured from the Motor Vehicle Department a list of all automobiles registered from this city. It was found that there are over 900 machines owned here, and of these over 400 are in the Second ward. Then, in order to reach an equitable method of assessing the machines, local garage owners were consulted. Then the Board of Assessors decided that the proper figure should be 75 per cent. of the cost the first year, fifty per cent. the second year, and twenty-five per cent. thereafter, unless the car was worthless.

According to report the real estate valuation in the business section has been based largely upon a number of recent sales which have been made, thus in some cases largely increasing the amount. In the residential section the valuations have been equalized, and so far as possible full value has been placed on every piece of property. As a result the total valuation in the city is liable to be very materially increased, and with that increase the expected jump in the tax rate will not be so great.

RATE DECISION CONFERENCE.

Washington, July 28—All seven members of the Interstate Commerce Commission hurried back to the capitol today and immediately went into conference on the completed text of the advance rate decision.

NEW YORK CONCERN GETS SCHOOL BONDS

A. B. Leach & Co. Purchase the Borough's Entire Issue of $50,000 For $100.007.

A. B. Leach & Company, of New York city, purchased the borough's $50,000 school bonds at the adjourned meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education, last night. Two other bidders, the State Trust Company, of this city, and Freeman & Company, of Philadelphia, also made proposals. The entire issue was given to the New York concern. The successful bidders' figures were $100.007.

Considerable time was given at last night's meeting to the discussion of the advisability of making additional repairs to the Somerset street schoolhouse. It was suggested that fire escapes are needed at the public institution, a feature which has long been agitated. In order to bring the standard of fire protection up to a par with the requirements of the State Board of Education it will be necessary for the borough to supply this equipment on the structure.

The consensus of opinion among the Board members was that the municipality did not have the funds to go ahead with this improvement and it was decided to abandon it for the time being at least. Inasmuch as there remains but a little over a month before the opening of the school term in September there would not be time enough to add the fire escapes this summer and it is probable that the matter will rest where it now stands until next year.

A number of small bills, including janitors' salaries, were paid by the Board at the meeting and the session was adjourned to meet again next Monday night.

DANIEL MC NAMARA DIES AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Daniel J. McNamara, aged thirty-five years, of 124 Central avenue, died last night after a long illness. Mr. McNamara was employed at the local postoffice for some time as carrier, and later was an employe of Marshall's laundry. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary McNamara, one sister, Miss Katherine H. McNamara, and four brotkers, Michael, David A., William H. and Thomas F. McNamara, all of this city. Mr. McNamara was well known to many Plainfielders as Danny "Mack." Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

RELEASED UPON PROMISE TO SUPPORT HIS FAMILY

Upon his promise to provide a substantial home for his three children in the future, Asa Willis, of Willever street, who was arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court yesterday, on a non-support charge preferred by the city authorities, was released from custody this morning.

Prior to his re-arraignment today, Miss Mabel Phillips, of the Charity Organization and Chief Kiely conducted an investigation into the conditions surrounding the pitiful case of the destitute children and it was decided to give the man another opportunity to make good.

LIVELY INTEREST BEING SHOWN IN TRADE IN PLAINFIELD CONTEST

Interest is becoming livelier in Trade in Plainfield contest be- conducted by the Daily Press. Answers have begun to come into the office, and numerous inquiries have been made of representatives of the paper about the advantages of getting them in at once, as compared with on the last day of the contest It is urged that they be sent in as early as possible, so that there can be no delay in handling them at the end of the contest.

Yesterday mention was made of the fact that one letter has been received which cannot be admitted in the contest because it did not fully comply with the conditions. Request has been made that the letter be printed, so that some idea can be gained as to the errors made. The letter did not contain a clipping of the advertisement from which the purchase resulted, and it was not stated that it came as the result of an adv. appearing since the contest opened. Here is the letter which cannot be admitted:

Daily Press, Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:—The value of shopping in Plainfield is very far reaching. Some time ago I saw an "ad" in a New York paper of some hosiery, all silk for 39 cents a pair (a nationally advertised make). I sent for a pair to try and when I received same, compared them with a 35 cent silk sock of a local merchant (a Press advertiser). Much to my surprise the ones from my home town were far superior to the ones from the city. I quickly realized that I was getting a 15-cent sock, and 24 cents worth of advertising. I made a resolution to shop first, last and all the time with the merchants who find the home paper the best advertising medium.

Yours truly.
R. K.

Plainfield, July 25, 1192.

Everybody should remember that the contest ends August 12, and that the conditions must be complied with to win the prizes. Prizes will be awarded August 15, right in the midst of the vacation season, when a little extra money will be most acceptable.

Read the advertisements in the Daily Press, and write of your Trade in Plainfield experiences. You can win the $10 gold piece if you try. Conditions will be found in the big advertisement which appears on another page.

LOCAL SOLDIERS IN BLUE FORCES

Company K Members Take Part In Sham Skirmish at Sea Girt Today.

STORM HITS THE CAMP

Range Work Occupied Their Time Yesterday Afternoon, With Captain Peterson and Lieutenant Conklin Acting As Coaches.

Camp Fielder, Sea Girt, July 28.—Information this morning reached the ears of Colonel Horace M. Reading to the effect that a strong force of Red troops had landed early in the morning on the Sea Girt beach theoretically, and that their operations from the point might be harmful to the blue army which is located along Manasquan river three miles south of here.

Accordingly Colonel Reading detailed companies to three different points in the country to reconnoitre against the position of the Reds, to ascertain their probable strength, the nature of their defenses and the value and quality of their supplies.

These companies left camp early this morning, one going to a point near the Manasquan river at Allaire, one west as far as Howell township and one toward New Bedford. Shortly after they departed three Red companies were sent to positions in the vicinity of those occupied by the Blues reconnoitring parties. While the Blues have been instructed to secure all information concerning the invading forces the Reds will exert themselves to prevent them securing any news. In this way it is planned to bring the three opposing reconnoitring parties together in company combats before they return this afternoon.

The problem which the guardsmen are working out today is a little tactical instruction opportunity which Colonel Reading determined to utilize instead of confining the day's work to bayonet exercises and the ordinary drills which were scheduled for today.

During the execution of the problem Majors William B. Martin, John H. McCullough and Conrad Hall are with them acting as umpires in the tactical work. The company captains have been given their orders and their abilities will be judged from the success with which they meet. Companies L, K and A represent the Blue parties and Companies M, F and C are working as the Red details.

They will return in time to parade late in the afternoon. The Second regiment will parade today and tomorrow owing to the fact that the Fourth regiment is out on a two days tactical hike.

The troops of the Fourth regiment are gradually drawing near to one another although the commanding officers even are not aware of their respective positions. The Fourth left the encampment reservation yesterday afternoon and when several miles out of camp they divided into the hostile armies, Lieutenant Colonel George T. Vickers taking command of the Blue Army composed of two battalions while Major Henry Lohmann, Jr., with his battalion represents to the Reds.

Although they anticipated a midnight attack last night none occurred to mar their rest but this morning the marching order was issued and the troops again got under way. It is expected that they will clash in combat this afternoon.

The maneuvres in the country this year are primarily for the purpose of giving the troops instruction in practical outpost and sentry duty at night and the duties of rear and advance guards, during the march.

Companies B, D, E, of the Second battalion of the Second regiment and Companies G and H of the Third, are on the rifle ranges today shooting for qualification.

Troops of the Second regiment who are long in the service were pleased last night at a visit from General Quincy O'M. Gilmore, for many years the commanding officer of the regiment and later at the head of the Second Brigade. General Gilmore was here as the guest of Colonel Horace M. Reading and renewed acquaintances among the guardsmen who have been in the service since his activities in the New Jersey National Guard.

Governor Fielder last night entertained the officers of the Second regiment at dinner in the Little White House, following the custom of years. Officers from the regiment who attended beside the members of the executive's personal staff were Colonel Horace M. Reading, Lieutenant Colonel George L. Forman, Major William B. Martin, Major John H. McCullough, Major Conrad Hall, Major Elston H. Bergen and Captain William E. Pedrick.

Members of Company K, of Plainfield, are taking a prominent part in the camp work and were busy on the rifle range yesterday afternoon. A

HOPE COLLINS WILL NOT RUN

Democrats Seek His Elimination As Mayoralty Candidate of Elizabeth.

LEADERS ARE AT ODDS

Cannot Unite On a Congressional Candidate—The Contest For County Clerkship Also Attracting Attention.

Elizabeth, July 28.—The dissention in the ranks of Union county Democrats which has assumed some proportions, is believed to centre about General Dennis F. Collins, who it is said, will seek the nomination for Mayor of this city. Some of the Democrats believe that the elimination of Collins from this race will go a long way in patching up some of this trouble. Collins and the members of the city committee seem to be at odds as to who shall be the Congressional candidate. The General is said to favor Congressman Tuttle, while others are booming former Freeholder Pierson. This division of political sentiment has also spread to other parts of the county.

The report that Republican leaders are advocating the nomination of George C. Otto for sheriff, has served to stir up the friends of Joseph Neil, who declare that the latter is entitled to the nomination because of unkept party pledges a year ago.

The county clerkship race is now attracting unusual attention. It was reported yesterday that Sheriff W. H. Wright, a candidate for the clerkship nomination, is gaining strength in the county over County Clerk James C. Calvert, who is after a renomination. Friends of Calvert claim that the sheriff has emissaries in all parts of the county looking after his interests with a view of killing off Calvert sentiment. However, it is admitted that Calvert has been making substantial progress in his candidacy and has been promised the support of many Republicans.

As for the race between former Congressman Charles N. Fowler and Rev. W. T. Stucheli for the Congressional nomination, politicians feel confident that the Elizabeth man will win easily. They recall his run in the last campaign.

EAST SIDE CITIZENS TO HOLD MASS MEETING

A mass meeting of the people in the eastern section of the city will be held this evening, at the Netherwood Reformed church, corner of Leland and Midway avenues, to consider the immediate and urgent need of that section for improved school facilities and for a new and centrally located school building. All men and women who are interested in this question of schools for the many children of this rapidly growing part of the city are invited to attend and give expression to their wishes in the matter.

The Mayor and members of the committee on school estimate and apportionment have been invited to attend the meeting, and share in the deliberations. It is expected that steps may also be taken for the organization of an East Side Citizens' Association. Rev. Edward S. Ralston, pastor of the church, will act as chairman of the meeting.

INTOXICATED DRIVER GETS INTO A MIXUP

While driving a horse and wagon on Park avenue near Front street this morning in an intoxicated condition, N. B. Parks, of South Plainfield, crashed into a vehicle driven by Joseph Kiederling and a serious accident was narrowly averted. Parks was thrown from his seat to the brick pavement and the locking of the wheels of the two wagons was the only thing that saved him from being trampled on by the horses.

Patrolman Neylon placed Parks under arrest and he was remanded to a cell to sober up. The horse has been placed in charge of a local livery until the owner's case is disposed of. Both equines were thrown to the ground when the vehicles collided, but were uninjured.

WOMEN IN TROUBLE.

Charged by Gertrude Johnson with the alleation of her husband's affections, Stella Green colored, was arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court this morning. After being warned to keep away from the other woman's husband she was allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

James Weaver, of Rutherford, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowley, of Grove street.

WAR AGAINST SERVIA DECLARED

Advices From Austrian Border State That Troops Are Moving to Frontier.

DEMANDS ACCEPTED

German Admiralty Has Ordered Concentration of Fleet at Home—War News Affects New York Wheat Market.

London, July 28 (Central News Cable.)—A dispatch from Vienna says that Austria today declared war against Servia.

Advices from the Austrian border this evening said that the transport of the eighth and ninth army corps from Bohemia toward the Servian frontier began yesterday and that there was no other traffic on the Bohemian railroads except troop trains. Telegraph service between Berlin and Vienna was demoralized and on some lines was completely interrupted. The two army corps in Bohemia consist of 32 battalions of infantry with a large number of quick firing machine guns, six regiments of cavalry, two regiments of field artillery and two regiments of army service corps.

A newspaper dispatch from the town of Semlin ,on the Danube river, says that after a prolonged debate the Servian Parliament is reported to have accepted all the demands made by Austria. In Berlin the admilarity has ordered the concentration of the German fleet in home waters.

In its reply to the British proposal the German government says that the suggestion of British Foreign Secretary Grey was well met and in good principal, but that it was not feasible in practice and therefore not possible to carry it out.

Washington, July 28—While refusing to give out the text of cable reports from American diplomatic and consular offices in Servia, Austria, Russia and other European countries concerned in the general disturbances, State department officials said today that reports indicated brighter prospects for peace than was apparent in previous reports. The part to be played by the United States in the general war threatened in Europe was discussed by President Wilson and his advisers at today's cabinet meeting. It is understood that the cabinet was unanimous in upholding the policy of complete neutrality.

New York, July 28.—The announcement that Austria had declared war against Servia caused the wheat market to become frantic. Trading was on an enormous scale and it was practically impossible to follow transactions. Within a few minutes prices soared six cents a bushel.

New York, July 28.—Count Alexander Salm-Hoogstraeten, a young Austrian nobleman and a first lieutenant in the Austrian army, who has been traveling in this country for some time and who recently arrived in New York, has received a cablegram calling him home to join his regiment. He will sail Saturday noon on the Vaterland.

Havana, July 28.—Advertisements have been inserted in all Havana newspapers by the Austrian consul to the effect that deserters from the Austrian army will be pardoned and their transportation paid to Bremen or Hamburg if they return to Austria.

London, July 28.—The British fleets have been mobilized. The first and second battle squadrons have full war stores aboard and are ready to sail at a moment's notice.

Belgrade, July 28.—An order was issued today for all Serbs between the ages of 18 and 60 years, capable of bearing arms, to mobilize at the Government headquarters.

CHOIR BOYS IN CAMP.

The choir boys of Bethel chapel, are still enjoying camp life on Staten Island, where they have been spending the past two weeks under the direction of Charles E. VanHorn. The boys gave a concert last Friday evening when they were greeted by a large audience. Among those who have visited the camp are Mrs. Vaughn, of Westfield, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, of Perth Amboy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. William Jeter and William Smith, of Plainfield. The boys will break camp on Thursday or Friday of this week.

SWAM OVER A MILE.

Irving Manley, of East Ninth srteet, who is one of the choir boys of Grace church, enjoying an outing at Manasquan, performed a rather difficult feat yesterday, when he swam across the Metedekonk River, a distance of over a mile. On his return he was given several hearty cheers.

TAIL END OF STORM SWEPT ACROSS CITY

Hail and Wind Do Large Amount of Damage In Low Sections.

Accompanied by a terrific gale, one of the worst storms of the season swept across Plainfield shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, leaving in its wake minor damage in all sections of the city. During the short time the deluge lasted a large amount of hail fell and this was the cause of most of the damage. Crops in outlying sections of the town and some of the roads were torn up by the heavy downpour and many pedestrian were caught unprepared for the cloudburst which came with short warning.

In other parts of the State trees were uprooted and traffic blocked but Plainfield was exceedingly fortunate in this respect. Lowering clouds gave warning of an approaching storm shortly before 3 o'clock and when the rain began to fall it soon took the shape of a good sized cloudburst.

Thunder and lightning accompanied the heavy downfall and several minor injuries were attributed to these elements. In South Plainfield one man sustained a severe shock while using the telephone and two horses in a field in Watchung were stunned. In the Valley the rain and wind played havoc with the crops and farmers are busy today repairing the damage.

PUT UP A FIGHT WHEN ARRESTED BY PATROLMAN

Cornelius Loughlin, of 347 East Third street, was arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. After a promise to drink more moderately in the future the accused was allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

Loughlin was arrested by Patrolman Charles Wicht on Park avenue yesterday afternoon and when the blue-coat was locking him up he put up a battle. The officer and prisoner engaged in a scuffle at headquarters that for a time looked serious. Loughlin was finally subdued, however, and placed in a cell to sober up from his "fighting jag."

EFFORTS TO ELUDE LAW COST THIS SPEEDER $25

Failure to stop when hailed by Patrolman Wicht, while driving a motorcycle at an excessive rate of speed on Park avenue, Sunday afternoon, July 12, cost Edgar Johnson, of Perth Amboy, $25 when he was arraigned in the city court before City Judge W. G. DeMeza, this morning. If he cannot raise the necessary amount of money he will be committed to the Union county jail this afternoon to serve twenty-five days.

When caught speeding along that thoroughfare, Johnson was in company with Joseph Herbert, also of Perth Amboy, and the latter gave himself up, paying a fine of $10. Information furnished by the latter led to the arrest of Johnson at the latter place yesterday, by Patrolman Martin Flatley who was at that place with the patrolmen's baseball team. A notice had previously been sent to Johnson to appear in the local court but he ignored it.

REPRIMANDED FOR DRIVING HIS HORSES RECKLESSLY

John Dawson, of this city, an employe of the Public Service Corporation, was arraigned in the borough court, this morning, before Recorder Fred Hand on the charge of reckless driving of horses. It appears that Dawson has been in the habit of taking the horses of the company to and from a horse-shoer in the borough to be shod, driving them at a rate of speed that made it dangerous for pedestrians.

Several complaints had been made to the police department of North Plainfield during the course of the past few weeks, and Dawson was told to appear before the recorder. When arraigned this morning he was reprimanded.

AUTO RIDE OF "KIDDIES."

One of the features which the children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, has been the automobile rides that residents of this city have been giving them this summer. W. E. Hobbie, of Watchung avenue, recently took three hundred of the "kiddies" out for a ride over the mountains and through town. He used a large automobile truck and made three runs.

MOFFET GIRL RETURNS HOME

Search Instituted By Accused Man's Counsel Terminated Yesterday.

RELATES HER STORY

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Representing Frank Weigman, Secures Complete Corroboration of His Client's Statement.

As predicted in the Daily Press, yesterday afternoon, Miss Genevieve Moffett, the seventeen-year-old Westfield girl who disappeared under mysterious conditions on July 7, was restored to her parents, last night, and related a story that corroborated in most details that told by Frank Weigman, of 681 West Front street, who is alleged to have abducted her. Although Union county detectives have been working on clues for the past week in the hopes of learning her whereabouts, she walked into the office of Chief Prosecutor's Detective John Galatian, in Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, unaccompanied and made known her identity.

Her mother was immediately notified and took the girl to her home in Westfield, where she is at the present time. The girl's story, told to Galatian, substantiates in the main points the one related by Weigman and published in detail in the Daily Press, yesterday. The principal features exonerate the local young man from the charges made against him by the girl's father, but under what environments the girl had been living until her return yesterday, were unknown, prior to her statement made to Galatian.

Miss Moffet, who is an attractive brunette, says that the quarrel between herself and parents, Tuesday night, July 7, was instigated by her announced intentions of marrying Weigman. After returning from the party with him on that night she decided not to return home and walked the streets and sat in the park in his company during the remainder of the night. The next morning he allowed her to go with him to New York and she remained in a restaurant until he finished work Wednesday afternoon, returning to the Weigman home with her escort that night. After a night spent in the Plainfield home she was admonished by Weigman's mother for her stand against her parents and left there under the pretense of going back to her mother Thursday morning. Boarding the 10:26 train at the Plainfield station, ostensibly for the purpose of going to Westfield, she remained on the train until it reached Elizabeth. She returned to Westfield the same day and, according to her own story, she stayed with a friend at that place for ten days, or until Sunday, July 19. Supplied with clothing and other necessities by her friend in Westfield, she then went to Newark, where she lived until yesterday in a boarding-house on Plane street.

When she left the young man's home on the morning of July 8 it was with the understanding that she should meet him that evening and they would be married, Weigman having secured the license. His statement was to the same effect, declaring that he was there at the appointed hour, but that the girl failed to show up. She claims that he did not appear at the place although she waited for a long time. Thinking that he had forsaken her, she says she went to Newark, where she defrayed her living expenses by receiving remittances from friends in Westfield.

Those intimate with the couple both here and in Westfield are of the opinion that an early wedding will conclude their eventful courtship.

HOUSE STRUCK BY BOLT DURING HEAVY STORM

The home of Samuel Harlin, at Duer street and Dupont place, was truck by lightening during the storm, yesterday afternoon and the bolt ripped three holes in the shingles and knocked half of the chimney off. The lightening entered the north side of the dwelling and tore a large hole in the side. The roof was also opened up and several shingles in the rear of the building were taken off, leaving three holes. Mr. Harlin stated yesterday that enough rain entered the top floor to flood it during the shower that immediately followed the first one.

The only occupants of the house at the time of the accident were a young girl and a year and a half old baby which was on the second floor. The damage was small. Mr. Harlin was away at the time of the storm and was detained there until it had passed over.

DUNELLEN

HOW MANY PEOPLE ARE THERE IN DUNELLEN

So much has been said about the rapid growth of Dunellen, Plainfield's hustling suburb, that the Plainfield Daily Press has decided to try to answer the question.

In order to create local interest while the canvass is being made by representatives of this newspaper, the Plainfield Press Company will offer a prize of $5.00 in Gold to the Person Who Makes the Closest Guess as to the Actual Population.

There are absolutely no strings to the offer. The canvass of the borough is now being made, and will take several days. If you want to try to win five dollars, wait for the coupon which will be printed in Friday's paper and write the number of people you think there are in the borough limits, men, women and children, with your name and address, and forward to the Daily Press in a sealed envelope, plainly marked "Dunellen Population Contest."

The canvass of the town will be completed Saturday, August 1, and the result, with the name of the winner, and his or her guess, will be published on Monday, August 3. In case of tie the amount will be equally divided between those who make the same guess. Only one guess will be accepted from each person.

Miss Mamie Gary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Gary, of Jackson avenue, has returned from a three weeks' visit with her uncle, Anson McRea, at Pattenburg.

Archibald LaRue, son of Tax Collector and Mrs. W. B. LaRue, is taking violin lessons with one of America's most noted players, Professor Ovide, of New York city.

CONDITION IS SERIOUS.

Mrs. Martha Parkinson, who fell down the back stairs of the Reiss residence on North avenue, on Thursday night of last week, fracturing two arms and sustaining injuries about the head, was removed by ambulance to St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, yesterday. Mrs. Parkinson's condition is critical, practically no hopes, on account of her age, being entertained for her recovery.

Mrs. Roger L. Cooley continues to improve.

Mrs. W. H. Fuller and daughter, Miss Margaret, of Third street, departed yesterday for Elmira, N. Y., where they will spend two weeks.

Mrs. L. D. Trickler, of Fourth street, is entertaining her sister and brother, Miss Mabel France and Arthur France, of Philadelphia.

ENJOYED FISHING TRIP.

George Voehl and Harry Dreier, the Plainfield sporting goods man, were motored to Barnegat by Gustav Barfuss early Monday morning, where they passed the day in fishing. They left the Barfuss garage at 2 o'clock in the morning and when they returned at 8 o'clock last night, they had fish enough with them to start a fish market.

INSTALLED OFFICERS.

Colonel Humphrey, of Nutley, was present at the regular weekly meeting of Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., at Friendship Hall, New Market, last evening, and installed the members of that council as a uniform rank. The council made application for installation as a uniform rank shortly after the Junion convention at Atlantic City, about a year ago.

Miss Iva Dayton, of New Market road, continues to improve.

Mrs. Mahlon R. Dayton and children, of Center street, have returned from Asbury Park, where they spent a week.

LIBRARIAN ON VACATION.

Miss Jacinthia Frescolm, the librarian of the local Public Library, leaves on Monday for Reading, Pa., where she will enjoy a month's vacation with relatives. During Miss Frescolm's absence Miss Katherine VanderVeer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. VanderVeer, of Prospect avenue, will act as librarian.

Borough Engineer Churchill and force were in Garwood all day yesterday.

SEE PLAINFIELD FIRST.

Brief reference has been made in these columns to the fact that when traveling many of us stop and gaze in rapture upon the beauty spots in other places, and absolutely ignore similar attractions at home. Isn't it true that hundreds of Plainfielders are woefully lacking in knowledge of the natural attractions offered in and about the city? Do YOU know which are the most attractive bits of woodland; where the broadest view can be obtained from a nearby point; about the country roads and the city's most beautiful avenues? Perhaps those fortunate enough to own automobiles can answer the questions, but for the pedestrians there is just as great an opportunity to become entranced with Nature right here at home, as is offered anywhere in this part of the country.

The beauty of the landscape about the Watchung hills, which Dr. Charles A. Eaton once termed the "Switzerland of America," the wonderful trees forming natural archways over scores of streets; the view from the Plainfield Country Club house; from Washington Rock, and looking over into the Passaic Valley from the highest point in the road leading to Stirling, are unequaled in their class in the country. And the beauty of it all is that none of these spots is too far away for the pedestrian to reach. We think it is safe to say that there are handsome homes surrounded by beautiful miniature parks, which many residents of the city have never taken the trouble to see, and yet the poorest of us are afforded that opportunity.

To the average American, there is no more attractive idea right now than to "See America First." By this slogan, there has been built up a new national pride, there has been an increase of American tourists at home and there has been new inspiration in the preserving, conserving and beautifying of American scenery. "Get America Ready to Be Seen" has been a new slogan derived from the old.

To "See Plainfield First" must arouse a similar local pride, develop home touring and inspire local conservation and beautification of things attractive. Then, too, there will be greater consideration of the "Get Plainfield Ready to Be Seen and Enjoyed" idea. There will be development not only of more city parks so much needed here, but of recreation sites outside, but in touch with the city, such as are being fitted for the public's benefit by a number of American communities which are alert to their opportunity.

Let us not forget that here at home, we have the opportunity for summer recreation and for nature invasion. For the majority of citizens, the city is an abode throughout the summer vacation season. Their "vacation" must be snatched on the weekly "days off." They cannot go far away; give them something and make it worth their whole to "See Plainfield First!" and thereby render a service to the men, women and children who need an outing most.

By all means, let us "See Plainfield First!" Let us make the home recreation spots, the parks, the fields and woods worth seeing. Let us make them available to the public. By systematic efforts, let us promote this idea and accept our opportunities and responsibilities and, besides putting our beauty spots in shape to be seen, make them accessible.

The police have tackled a mighty big job in their efforts to get after the auto speeders, and Judge DeMeza is backing them up in the right way. It is evident that the work will have to continue until it becomes known far and wide that Plainfield is not a good place to try out the possibilities of machines. Literal interpretation of the law may be hard on the fellows who are caught, but the good work must go on. It's too bad the money cannot come to the city, instead of being turned over to the State authorities.

"Gasoline, 13 cents a gallon," says a headline. That may be all well enough to reduce the cost of high living for the automobilists, but it is little compensation for the poor man who would like to see the price of beefsteak go down.

Perhaps it was the irony of fate that caused an exchange to put the head "Automobiles" over several columns of church notices. Certainly nothing has done more to keep people away from church these days than the self-propellers.

Week-end visitors are usually welcome, but the army of mosquitoes who called in Plainfield on Saturday and Sunday would make people just as happy if they remained elsewhere.

Judging from the list of officers it is evident that the local organization of the "Sons of Ireland" was never formed to aid the Ulsterites.

Looks good when a local firm advertises for fifty more operatives. Certainly the hard times have not hit everybody.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press.—

Calling attention to the contributed editorial in the Daily Press of July 18th, we wish to refute the statement that several of our local merchants were summoned into court and had to plead guilty to the charge of exposing potatoes, onions and bananas to the dust. The writer apparently had not read the health laws before submitting the editorial.

For the benefit of the public spirited citizens who wish to see the common sense interpretation of this law carried out, we will quote the rules and regulations as compiled by the State Board of Health, under authority contained in Section 31 of Chapter 217 of the laws of 1907 and Section 11 of Chapter 231 of the laws of 1909:

Rule 1. Fruits, vegetables, meats and other food products shall not be displayed or exposed on the sidewalk, or outside of places of business, unless such foods are securely covered by cases of glass, wood or metal, or unless they are inclosed in tight barrels, bags or boxes; provided, however, that this rule shall not apply to fruits or vegetables which must necessarily be peeled before use, but such foods, when displayed outdoors, must be supported on platforms at least eighteen inches above the surface of the sidewalk or ground.

Rule 2. Prepared foodstuffs, such as bakers' goods, confectionery, shelled nuts, etc.; dried fruits, such as dates, figs, peaches, prunes, apricots etc.; cereal products, such as tapioca breakfast food, etc.; pickled products such as pickles, chili sauce, etc.; fruit products, such as apple butter, jellies, jams, etc.; meat products, such as dried, salted or smoked fish, veal loaf, pickled pigs' feet, chipped beef, boiled ham, mincemeat or other foods prepared for eating, or subject to the attacks of worms or flies, shall not be displayed for sale unless protected from flies, dust and dirt and all other foreign and injurious contamination by suitable coverings of glass, wood or metal.

You will note that such fruits, vegetables, etc., as peaches, apricots, plums, tomatoes, lettuce, cabbage, small top onions, celery, etc., are not to be exposed to dust, dirt and flies. Potatoes, dry onions, bananas and the like fruit and vegetables are allowed to be exposed without covering so long as they are on a stand 18 inches above the sidewalk so that dogs and other animals cannot contaminate them in passing.

The Department of Health emphatically calls the attention of those citizens who value public health that the prime business of this department is to protect the health of the community and to enforce the State laws as it finds them.

N. J. R. CHANDLER,
Health Officer.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

Kindly print this in Tuesday night's Daily Press and give it all the room you can for we have got to look to you to help the people of Netherwood to get a much needed school. Tonight is a big night for Netherwood for it marks the beginning of a good fight for a school which is very badly needed, in fact, I don't believe there is a section in Plainfield as bad off as we are here in Netherwood for a school. Our superintendent reports Plainfield has not better advertisement than its public schools. Surely he must have meant before Netherwood was part of Plainfield, for I have traveled quite a little but I never saw such school conditions as now exist here in the section in which I live, Netherwood. I will only state my own case, but, remember there are similar ones all around and some worse. I have three children, all small. The youngest only six years cant' go to school on account of the distance. One leaves the house at 8 o'clock in the morning and the other one doesn't get home until after five at night. Part of the year it's dark, they have no time to play with each other, for when one is home the others are in school, to say nothing of the extra work on the mothers. This is a condition now at the Lincoln School. The child has this to contend with for five years or up to the fifth grade, then it becomes harder. They must go down town to the very heart of the city for the sixth grade and after that they not only have to go to the heart of the city, but must change cars and ride again almost to the outskirts of our new High School. Just think of it, are we getting a square deal, are we right in making a kick?

Help us, that's what your newspaper is for; give the public the news, all the news, and I am sure there is no better news than to read what benefits our children, for what's dearer to man or woman than the welfare of their children. Once more think, here is a little church that represents only a part of this section. They have to build a larger one so the little ones will have room. The children are coming in such numbers that they can't accommodate them and the way new buildings are going up here surely does not look like hard times. Stand on the corner of Leland avenue and Second street, you can see no less than ten new houses under construction, which all goes to show the urgent need of a school. What we want and must have is a school started soon as possible and our case is so bad we can't even wait for that to be finished, we must have some place in the section of Leland avenue where we can send the smaller children this September. There will be plenty to fill such a place for in a small area we have over 400 children. Now with a closing word let me tell you people of Netherwood to come out tonight, show yourselves, show your Board of Education show your Board of Estimates show your member of the Council how much we are interested and how badly we need the new school and if they are fair-minded men, which we have every reason to believe they are, we surely will get that school.

Respectfully,
E. W. HUGHES,
1218 Columbia Ave., City.

POLITICAL NOTES.

July 30—Union County Progressive Committee meets.

August 4—County Board of Elections meets to organize.

August 15—Union County Republican outing.

August 19—Elizabeth Democratic City Committee outing.

August 28—Last day for filing county petitions.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

United States Senators James E. Martine and William Hughes will be unable to accept the invitation of Governor Fielder to attend a luncheon and reception to be given by the latter at Sea Girt on Friday. They will be obliged to remain in Washington to maintain a badly needed Senate quorum for the transaction of the business of the Administration. It is expected that the attendance at the second of the "Governor's Day" gatherings, for which invitations have been sent to several hundred well-known men in the central counties of the State, will be as large as was that of last Friday.

While John H. Capstick, of Morris county, was devoting some attention to Union county, last week, in his candidacy for the Republican Congressional nomination, ex-Congressman Charles N. Fowler was looking after his interests in Mr. Capstick's home section. Mr. Fowler is declared to be awaiting for the hot weather to abate before getting into action in earnest.

The compaign committee of the Union County Democratic Committee, which has held a series of Friday night conferences outlining a program for the approaching campaign, has postponed convening next Friday night. As that is Governor's Day at Sea Girt for Union county and Morris county, however, the leaders will have plenty of opportunity to talk things over without convening in stated session at 21 Broad street, Elizabeth.

Earlier predictions that the Republican outing August 15 would be a record-breaker, still hold good. The friendly rivalry for county nominations has increased interest in the party's affairs, and candidates and petitions will be plentiful. Delegations are expected to go on the outing from all sections of the county.

Much commendation has been given the new Commission in Orange for its placing qualifications over politics in naming an assistant comptroller. A Republican was named, although the Commission majority is Democratic. The Commission was unanimous for the man selected, although Mayor Minahan hesitated at first.

Governor Fielder will take no part whatever in the primary campaign in any county, according to his secretary. In this, he is declared to be following out the custom set recently by the State committee.

Councilman Francis J. Blatz, of the Fourth Ward, it is expected will seek a renomination this fall, although in conversation with a reporter for the Daily Press, yesterday, he said that he had not reached a decision. Mr. Blatz is a busy man these days with his law practice, and there is no doubt but that being a councilman brings many added duties and they are not always pleasant duties, either. However, Mr. Blatz has found work in the Council rather pleasant and as his friends are urging him to try for a second term, it is expected that he will get his petition out soon.

Trade In Plainfield Contest

HOW TO ENTER THE CONTEST

Write a letter of not more than 500 words telling, in the simplest way possible, of the advantages you have gained in making a purchase in response to some particular advertisement of a local merchant in the Plainfield Daily Press.

Letters must be in the Daily Press office not later than August 12, and prizes will be awarded not later than August 15.

HERE ARE THE PRIZES!

First—$10.00 in gold.

Second—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $6.00.

Third—Year's Subscription to Daily Press ($5.00).

Fourth—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $3.00.

Conditions of the Competition.

1. The instance related in your letter must be bona fide, contain a description of the purchase, the name of the store in which it was made and be accompanied by a clipping of the advertisement. The amount of the sale will have no effect in determining the winner.

2. The advertisement must be from a copy of the Plainfield Daily Press issued within the dates of the contest, i. e. July 22 to August 12. Whether the letters win prizes or not the right is reserved to publish same in the columns of the Daily Press, without payment being made for their use.

BOY BURGLAR SENT TO HOME FOR BOYS

Dunellen Youth Arraigned In Middlesex County Court Today.

Arraigned before Judge Peter F. Daley, in the Middlesex County Juvenile Court at New Brunswick, this morning, George Urisco, fourteen years old, of Dunellen, was sentenced to the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg, and his eleven-year-old brother, John, was sent back to the parental home for punishment. The two boys were arrested in Dunellen by Chief Marshal Tarpey last Friday, on a charge of breaking and entering the home of Mrs. Ernest Keppler, of Second street, that place, and taking a gold watch, a revolver and a bank containing $2.50.

Entrance was effected through a cellar door which the pair pried open. George Urisco, who has served time in a protectory in Philadelphia, was apprehended while on his way home to get something to eat, after the two brothers had established a hiding place in the woods nearby. The stolen goods were recovered in a hiding place revealed by John. Arraigned in Dunellen before Judge Von-Minden, Saturday, the boys were held for the Middlesex County Court. The father of the wayward youths was in court this morning and Judge Daley took occasion to reprimand him from the bench on his negligence to properly supervise the conduct of his children.

TROLLEYMEN DECIDE TO POSTPONE THEIR PICNIC

Because of the continued rainy weather, the Public Service Athletic and Social Club has decided to postpone its annual picnic announced for tomorrow, until Thursday. The picnic will be held at Wayside Park, and it is expected that it will be the biggest affair in the history of the organization.

The picnic will be held all-day and in the evening. In the afternoon there will be a program of athletic events with prizes for the winners. Arrangements have been made for serving an elaborate dinner.

BICYCLE RIDER'S CLOSE CALL ON MOUNTAIN ROAD

While riding his bicycle on Washington avenue, Dunellen, near the mountains, this morning, Walter Elliott, of Center street, that place, had a narrow escape from serious, if not fatal injuries, when he was thrown from his wheel to the jagged roadbed. While rounding a turn at high speed near the stone crusher his front wheel swerved to one side of the road throwing the driver over the handle bars.

He landed on his shoulder against a rock, the edge of the rough obstacle narrowly missing his skull. Fred von Minden and George Nelson, of New Market, who were with him at the time, ran to his assistance, but found that their companion was able to get up again without aid. He escaped with minor scratches, but the front wheel of the bcycle was demolished.

WILL STOP PRACTICE.

Orders have been issued to the police of Dunellen to rigidly enforce the ordinance against riding bicycles on the sidewalks and the first victim was taken into custody this morning. He was Peter Zobrouski, of Greenbrook road, and when arraigned before Recorder Campbell in the borough court he was ordered to pay a fine of $2.

FREEHOLDERS MEET HERE.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met this morning at Watchung and inspected the bridge recently constructed at that place. After the inspection, the Board held a business session at Hotel Chatham, the borough, where several matters of a routine nature were considered. Dinner was served by Hillaire Blatz, following the meeting.

TRINITY CHURCH EXCURSION.

The annual excursion of the Reformed churches of this city and the Mt. Pleasant chapel to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will go next Thursday, July 30. The train will leave the North Avenue station at 8:15 a. m. and will return at 7:10. The Trinity, Netherwood and Marconnier Reformed schools will be represented.

PERSONAL.

Miss Edna Smith, of Allen place, the borough, is spending her vacation at Asbury Park.

Edna Cardner, of Orange place, has returned home after spending sometime in Connecticut.

COMMITTEE GETS CLEW TO LAWYER

Saw Missing Attorney Apparently on Way Home.

PLAN NATIONAL STRIKE.

Committee to Cover All Parts of Country In Effort to Find Montclair Lawyer—Boy Scouts Continue Their Search—Wife Confident His Mind Is Only Under Temporary Cloud.

Montclair, N. J., July 28.—The first definite clew as to the movements of Elliott Marshall, a wealthy lawyer with offices in New York, after he left the office Thursday afternoon, apparently with the intention of going to his home in this city, was furnished by a young Montclair man. The man said that at 4 p. m. on Thursday he saw Mr. Marshall walking east along Cortlandt street, between Broadway and Church street, New York, evidently on his way to the tube station. Mr. Marshall generally went to the Lackawanna station in Hoboken by way of the Barclay street ferry, although sometimes he took a tube train.

The young man is well acquainted with the missing lawyer, but did not speak to him. He assured members of the committee, organized by twenty-five personal friends of Mr. Marshall on Sunday for a country wide search, that he was confident the lawyer was then on his way home.

This evidence that Mr. Marshall was headed Jerseyward two hours after he dropped out of sight caused Walter E. Hampton, a lawyer, the chairman, and other members of the search committee to continue the search in New Jersey with great vigor.

Boy scouts, whose services were obtained through H. G. Gray, the commandant in New Jersey, and personal friends, scoured the woods in the Essex county reservation back of Montclair for a distance of ten miles. All the territory from Orange to Great Notch was explored and many hospitals and morgues from Atlantic City north were visited.

The committee plans to make a nation wide search for him.

Mrs. Marshall, who was critically ill following the birth a few weeks ago of her child that died, and Miss Alice Marshall, the missing lawyer's sister, are confident that his mind is under a temporary cloud and that when he becomes normal his first thought will be of home.

MARDI GRAS AT RED BANK.

Queen Was Crowned and Today Will See a Big Baby Parade.

Red Bank, N. J., July 28.—The annual fete under the auspices of the Keyport Carnival association began last night with the crowning of Miss Ola Sandman at the coronation ceremonies held in the Surf theatre. The coronation song composed by Miss Lillian Cambell was sung by a large chorus of young women. Following the exercises, a reception at the Hotel Raritan was given for the queen and her attendants. Then came a court ball.

Today the baby parade, in which there are more than 1,000 entries, and the firemen's parade will be held. The mardi gras will be given on the boardwalk at night following an open air concert on the Hotel Raritan lawn. Mayor Rufus of Walling will preside.

ANTIS AT SUFFRAGE TOURNEY.

Women Debate Question of Votes at Asbury Park.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 28.—Suffragists and "antis" sat side by side in the Asbury Park auditorium and heard women leaders debate.

The chief tilt was between Miss Eva Ward, an English suffragist of non-militant tendencies, and Mrs. Annie Riley Hall, a Tennessee woman, with old fashioned southern ideas.

BRIEF STATE ITEMS.

Edwin Megill, who was arrested charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was sentenced to thirty days in jail at Long Branch.

Secret service men cleared up several instances in Hoboken of the circulation of half dollars that looked sound, but had no ring, by finding that good coins had been cracked in a way to effect their metallic ring.

Two men were sent to the county jail at Hackensack for having robbed the Carlstadt station of the New York and New Jersey railroad on July 9. They are Henry Carry, eighteen, of Carlstadt, and Joseph Ecochard, twenty-two, of Rutherford.

A threatened invasion by negroes of Bergenfield's exclusive section materalized when the house of Frederick J. G. Hardy on Ralph street was occupied by a negro family. This followed a dispute between the owner and lessee over a matter of water pipes.

While starting for his summer home ex-Assemblyman H. Stacy Smith of South Orange, father of the automobile laws in New Jersey, lost control of his automobile in Newton and backed it into the lake. The former assemblyman had to swim ashore.

WILLIAM V. CLEARY.

Politician Who Killed Son-in-law Snapped on Way to Court.

Photos by American Press Association.

William V. Cleary, clerk of Rockland county, N. Y., who on Thursday last shot and killed his nineteen-year-old son-in-law, Eugene M. Newman in Haverstraw, waived examination when arraigned for a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Michael McCabe and was ordered held for the grand jury which meets in September.

CLEARY IS HELD AS SLAYER OF YOUTH

Gazes In Apathy as He Is Arraigned.

Haverstraw, N. Y., July 28.—For scarcely more than five minutes William V. Cleary, who killed his boy son-in-law of a week for outwitting him by marrying his daughter, Anna, sat in the village courtroom a few feet away from the town clerk's office which he had occupied for fourteen years, while being arraigned on a charge of murder in the first degree, and waiving examination through his counsel, Frank Comesky of Nyack, was held without bail for the grand jury which meets in the latter part of September. Police Justice Michael McCabe held the remarkably brief formal hearing and a large part of the town populace watched the proceedings from all sorts of vantage points in and out of the small room.

The courtroom adjoins the rear of Cleary's private office, which has been locked since Eugene M. Newman, the victim, fell with four bullet wounds in his body and his marriage license in his pocket. Cleary sat with hands resting idly in his lap. He apparently took slight interest in the hearing.

A little nervousness was evident, but not one-tenth as much as the sheriff displayed while he sat by his prisoner friend. The only thing that seemed to bother the man was the staring eyes of his neighbors, political and personal friends. He looked absolutely sane and sound, but he was impatient for the ordeal to end. Bernard Fox, his political lieutenant, stood near him, but only one of the villagers shook his hand and the politician evinced surprise at that.

"If your honor pleases," began Mr. Comesky, when the district attorney declared himself ready to proceed, "Mr. Wyre and myself appear for the defendant and waive examination. We shall not oppose a motion for an order of the court committing him to jail without bail to await the action of the grand jury on the charge on which he has been arraigned." This was granted.

IRELAND AROUSED BY SHOOTING

Grave Results of Troops Shooting Into Mob.

REPARATION IS DEMANDED

Police Kept Busy Dispersing Marching Crowds, Who Were Seeking Soldiers of the King's Own Scottish Borderers—Inquiry In House of Commons.

London, July 28.—The killing of four persons in the streets of Dublin by a battalion of Scottish Borderers caused great excitement among the Irish members of parliament who are here and greatly increased the difficulties of the government in its effort to bring about a settlement of the Irish question. Premier Asquith heard of the Dublin affair while he was in the country and hurried to London by automobile.

The matter came up in the house of commons immediately after its meeting. John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, arose and demanded information as to "the shocking occurrences in Ireland yesterday." The information he received was so unsatisfactory that Mr. Redmond resorted to a parliamentary procedure and moved the adjournment of the house in order to prevent a postponement of the debate and to bring the question before the house at once

Political Official Suspended.

Augustine Birrell, the chief secretary for Ireland, said that the blame for the entire affair rested on the assistant police commissioner of Dublin, who had made a requisition for the troops entirely on his own responsibility. This official, he said, had been suspended pending an inquiry into the unfortunate affair. The Irish members interrupted with shouts of:

"He ought to be hanged."

Mr. Birrell, continuing, said the major commanding the battalion of Scotch Borderers denied that he gave orders to fire on the people.

Dublin, July 28.—The city of Dublin and the greater part of Catholic Ireland is greatly excited over the conflict between regular troops of the British army and Irish Nationalists, which resulted in the killing of four persons and the wounding of many others, forty of whom were still in hospitals in a serious condition. Day had dawned before the police succeeded in dispersing the crowds marching through the streets singing patriotic songs and looking for soldiers of the Second battalion of the King's Own Scottish borderers on whom to inflict vengeance for the fatal events of Sunday, when the borderers were ordered out to prevent the landing of arms and ammunition for the Irish Nationalist volunteers.

The crowd, finding that the soldiers had been ordered to remain in barracks, attacked the royal barracks, where the borderers were stationed, and clamored for the soldiers to come out. Finally the mob kicked down a gate of the barracks and fired a couple of shots, upon which bugles were sounded, the police came on the scene, and the crowd was dispersed.

The lord mayor of Dublin demanded in the interests of the peace of the city that the battalion of the Scottish borderers be removed. Movements in the barracks indicated that preparations were being made to send the regiment elsewhere.

The Nationalist leaders take the most serious view of the affair and will demand reparation from the government.

The landing of arms for the Nationalists was carried out in a more daring manner than similar feats achieved by the Ulster Unionist volunteers, as it was effected in daylight. The yacht from which the arms and ammunition were brought ashore already had landed 2,500 rifles and 125,000 rounds of ammunition at isolated points along the coast, and these had been successfully distributed by motor-cars among the Nationalist volunteers. The attempt was undertaken to show that the Nationalists could do what the Ulster Unionists had done.

United States Must Pay For Death.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

We wonder just how long George Townley will continue to run in the hard luck streak that he now seems to be rutted in. Saturday's contest showed that he was not one of the kind who makes good on his first appearance and then is walloped all over the lot in every other game until he is fired. George pitched the same kind of ball in the last game that he did against Westfield when he shut them out. It looks as though George was in fast company to stay.

One of the players who played a prominent part in the Saurer lineup was heard to say that Townley "wasn't there." The speaker said that he went into the game with horseshoes tied all over him and got away with it. Now that's pretty hard on a young fellow in the boroughite's position, but it's a safe bet that very few people are of this opinion. We might also state that Townley struck out the speaker in a very exciting moment before there was any score and the bases were full. And he is supposed to be a man who hits "once in a while."

Parker Field was in poor condition for such a game as the one last Saturday. Of course that's a matter that cannot be helped and there is no kick coming now.

The First Baptist team must have played a "come-back" role against Monroe, Saturday, to make that team go fifteen innings. The Front street team out-hit its opponents by six safeties, but the things they call errors proved fatal to them. The Monroe team fielded better and are now hot after the leaders.

That the VanDeventer brothers should be defeated by the same team twice is quite a coincidence. The Rahway pair defeated them in the final round at Elizabeth on the Fourth of July for the Union county title and then eliminated them in the semi-final round of the Westfield night tournament last week.

It looks good to see the names of some of Plainfield's old "vets" playing stellar ball with other teams in this vicinity. Four of the Central New Jersey champions played Saturday with Hackettstown and were in the limelight in a no-score game.

FITZSIMMONS' AT HOME

(By George McAdam. Copyright by the New York Evening Post.)

I have strolled through a big college town with "Prexie," I have motored up Broadway with a police commissioner while tall men in blue halted traffic and came to salute and the populace gazed, I have sauntered on Fifth avenue with a multi-millionaire world-famous for his philanthropies, I have ridden at the head of the elephant herd in the annual Barnum and Bailey moving from Manhattan to Brooklyn (to mention only a few of the things which have allowed me to bask fortuitously in the outer rays of the limelight), but ever had I known what real, 18-karat glory was until I walked arm in arm with an ex-champion heavyweight pugilist of the world.

This honor came to me when I journeyed to Plainfield, N. J., to get a eugenic story from Mr. Robert Fitzsimmons, of whom some of my readers may have heard as a former luminary in the fistic firmament.

Out of Dunellen, suburb of Plainfield, N. J., had come the tidings that Mr. Robert Fitzsimmons, Jr., eldest son of the ex-champion and his wife, Rose Julian, gave excellent promise of becoming a heavyweight star of the first magnitude. For those who have forgot and for those who never knew the memoirs of Rose Julian, let it be retold here that before becoming Mrs. Robert Fitzsimmons II (there is now a Mrs. Robert Fitzsimmons III.), Rose Julian was a professional strong woman with contortionist tendencies.

Strong Father—Strong Mother—Strong Son—1 Eugenic Story.

It was in pursuit of this story that I climbed to the top floor of the Plainfield Theatre, equipped as training quarters. From there I pursued the story to a Turkish bath, and thence to the ex-champion's suburban home in Dunellen, whither I accompanied him to dinner.

Yes, I was with Bob all the time (Turkish bath steam room excepted—not for lack of invitation, however), and Bob talked all the time. But the truth is that in matters of race culture Bob's interest is short in the reach; one may try to force the conversation with stiff eugenic leads, but Bob always counters fluently with a succession of personal anecdotes.

And so it was that it took me those six or more hours of practically uninterrupted talk to extract from him the eugenic facts that are scattered somewhat sparsely through the following veracious account.

My arrival at the training quarters was ill-timed; the day's work of father and son was done; they had punched the bag, tossed the medicine ball, and boxed their daily bout of six three-minute rounds. I stated the purpose of my visit. The elder Bob pulled on a turtle-back sweater, thrust his massive shoulders into an ulster, pulled on a golf cap with an overhang bow.

"Wait for me," he said, "I've got a little errand up street. I'll 'oller up the stairs to you when I'm ready." And disappeared.

"How did you come out in this afternoon's bout?" I ventured to ask.

Bob, Jr., contemplatively wagged his left shoe. A moment of silence. Then.

"I'm stronger, but the old man's there with the punch."

"Could he hold you off?"

"Sure."

Having in mind his mother's career, I suggested:

"I suppose your mother put you through some athletic stunts when you were a youngster?"

Bob, Jr., continued to contemplate his left shoe, and chewed gum assiduously.

"She was a pretty good athlete, herself, wasn't she?" I persisted.

"Yes. She was a contortionist."

More assiduous chewing of gum.

"I suppose you had quite a few school fights?"

"No."

"Street fights?"

"No."

"What do you suppose prevented them? Your size?"

"I don't know."

"Whatever championships Bob, Jr., may acquire in the future, at the present time he is certainly the champion monosyliabic conversationalist of the world.

"Are you anxious to go into the fighting game?" I asked, driven back to my last line of queries.

"It's a living. If I'm good enough to make two or three hundred thousand dollars at it, I'd be a fool not to go into it."

"You talk to the old man. He'll give you a good story."

And so saying, he arose and went his way.

I was still lost in awestricken thought of what the son of an ex-champion heavyweight pugilist of the world considers "a living," when Bob, Sr., "'ollered" up the stairway.

Down on the sidewalk, Mr. Fitzsimmons hooked his arm through mine, and thus linked we started for the trolley. Everybody seemed to know Bob. Sidewalk gatherings parted to let us pass; street traffic halted to give us "gangway." Men nodded, women stared, children followed.

"That's the Mayor of Plainfield," explained Bob, as we passed one crowd, from the midst of which came a good-natured josh. "That's the chief of police," he added a few moments later, when we passed another group, from which emanated a similar greeting.

Bob's enjoyment of this wayside idolatry is so naive that one loses one's sense of proportion and is swept along on Bob's self-congratulatory wave of emotion.

However, the great man was not an idol merely. "Bobbie certainly landed a good one on me today," he said presently. "Caught me full on the ear." Paternal admiration was in the voice.

The proud father then demonstrated the exact merit of the blow by placing his fist on my left ear, flapping my head sidewise. Thrice during the afternoon did he speak of that blow and thrice did he demonstrate it—on me.

"Tell me something about his mother."

"Ah, Rose Julian, beautiful Rose." Bob was silent—just for a moment. "The finest wife ever, the finest mother, the finest looker on the stage, and"—pause for emphasis here—"and absolutely the finest contortionist ever! Why, say, she could lean over backwards and put her head between her ankles and look at you!"

More salutations here interrupted the conversation. When it got under way again it had somehow or other got switched to the relative measurements of father and son. In order to report these accurately, I produced pencil and paper. These material evidences that he was being interviewed stirred Bob as follows:

"Most people that write me up have me saying 'dese' and 'dose' and 'dem.' They think a pugilist has got to be a tough guy, the kind that talks: 'I smashed 'im in de lamp and den I swung muh right on his mug, see?' They seem to think that a man who earns his living in the prize ring can't talk the English language. I know I drop my h's, but I'm pretty careful, and I don't do it much."

In fact, Bob uses and disuses h's with an impartiality that would be commendable in any other cause. When some subject that interests him gets under full conversational sail, he drops into picturesque vernacular. When he remembers that he may be quoted in print, he stiffens into a copy-book exactness of speech.

"I always tell my children," continued Bob, still vindicating his English, "that there is no such word in the dictionary as 'ain't.' I tell them to say 'there is not.' If they say 'There is no sugar in the sugar bowl,' I ask them 'How can there be no sugar in the sugar bowl?' Say 'There is not any sugar in the sugar bowl.'"

The arrival of our trolley car here interrupted the recital of English as it is paternally prescribed by a pugilist.

The ride in the car was enlivened by tales of a big red automobile that Bob had owned for a time. It was the car with which some daredevil racer—I forgot his name—had performed marvelous feats of record-smashing. Bob gleefully recounted some of his own skyrocket flights through the streets of Plainfield.

"It's a wonder you were not locked up," said I, thinking of New Jersey's reputation for the strict enforcement of speed laws.

"Oh no, everybody knows me. But one night when I was over in New York my chauffeur took the car out and tried to hit only the high spots in the road—just the way he did when he was driving me. And I got back here to Plainfield to find him arrested."

Our street car carried us to a Turkish bath, and about an hour later Bob emerged, his face a trifle more ruddy than usual.

"Now you've got to come home and have dinner with me." He hooked his arm through mine again. "We're going to have a fine cut of beef. I ordered it myself this morning. And I've got a fine bottle of rye. A millionaire friend of mine from Boston sent it to me. He sent me a smoking-jacket, too. It's lined with silk and has velvet cuffs, mottled velvet It's something fine."

This was the second millionaire friend of his that Bob had mentioned. A few moments later I heard of another.

"A millionaire friend of mine from Chicago was walking in the corridors of the White House with Roosevelt.

"'Mr. President,' said he, 'I've had the honor that you have never had.'

"'What was that?' asked Roosevelt.

"'I've boxed four rounds with Bob Fitzsimmons.'

"'Bully,' cried Roosevelt. 'Come back and tell the boys about it.'

"And he led that Chicago millionaire friend of mine back and made him tell the admirals and the generals and ambassadors all about those four rounds that he'd boxed with me."

This was interesting, but not eugenical.

By this time the car had filled up with homeward bound Dunellenites. In the crush Bob and I became separated, and so about twenty minutes of his conversation is forever lost to print.

"'Ere's where we get off," said Bob. The conductor, without sign from Bob, had already signaled the motorman to stop.

The dinner-table talk was exclusively of matters "appertainin' to and touchin' on" prize-ring history. Such details as the exact rib upon which an historic blow had been landed, the exact number of seconds that some Goliath of the mitt had taken to stagger to his feet—all these matters were at the finger tips of Bob Senior and Junior.

Dinner over, Bob sang out: "Turn the cabaret on," and we had about fifteen minutes of harmony from a music box.

Time was going, New York was a long way off, and I still was very shy of eugenic material.

"Now, Bob, sit down and let me ask you a few questions. First, about your grandparents."

"I don't know anything about my grandparents, but I've had my ancestry traced back two or three hundred years. Cromwell—you know, the great English fighter—was one of my ancestors."

Bob told about his father—"a big husky gentleman"—who for a time was constable in the Cornish Village of Helston. Also, he told about his mother—"'er 'air black as jet when she died, ninety-nine years old"—who was the "only woman nurse on the job in Helston when the smallpox 'ad the black flag up everywhere back in '77.

"After the smallpox was over," continued Bob, "the village was going to give her a testimonial. Did she get it? There was a change in politics. Over there they have the Tories and the Liberals, the same as we have the Democrats and Republicans over here. The party that my father belonged to went out of office, and my father lost his job and my mother her testimonial. I don't remember which party it was my father belonged to."

A neighbor who had dropped in explained: "Why, Bob, you know the Tories are the aristocrats and the Liberals are the friends of the people."

"My father must have been a Liberal, then. When he was a policeman, if he came across a poor fellow who was drunk he wouldn't lock him up, he'd put him in a wheelbarrow and wheel him home. He was always a friend of the people."

"How about Rose Julian's parents?" I asked.

"Her father was an acrobat, a very powerful man. Her mother was an acrobat, too. Rose began acrobatic work when she was five years old."

Bob here fell into a sentimental streak.

"Rose worked at Tony Pastor's Saturday night. Sunday she came over to Newark with a two-by-four satchel that carried her bridal outfit. We went to the minister's house. Captain Glory, of the Fourth Precinct, Newark, stood up for me. Miss Hennessy—I was boarding with her mother—stood up for Rose.

"What year was I married?" Bob thought for a moment or two. "I think it was about 1895. I tell you, if you can find out what year I fought Joe Choynski you can find out what year I was married.

"Rose never worked after she married me, except when she went in the drama business. She took part in my play 'The Honest Blacksmith'."

"If you don't make a fighter out of Bobbie, what do you think he will become?"

"I guess I'll have to make an actor out of him." A pause. "I'll take him on the road in a sparring act with me."

I had no more questions to ask.

BASEBALL STOPS PANIC.

Convicts Hurried Into Game While Fire Destroys Storehouses.

Concord, N. H., July 28.—When fire raged in the storehouses of the state prison here the prisoners were hurried into the yard, where the guards started a game of baseball.

The excitement of the game prevented a panic, the men taking more interest in the contest than in the fire. When the last man was put out in the game the city firemen were leaving the grounds.

Amos Turner, a fireman, was killed and two others seriously wounded. Three storehouses were destroyed.

TRYOUT FOR BEHR.

The Davis Cup committee, after conferring with M.S. Charlock, chairman of the Crescent A. C., of New York, has arranged to try out Karl H. Behr as the doubles partner of M. E. McLoughlin. Behr and the other American defenders will reach New York from Longwood, Thursday. The rest of the week will be devoted to doubles practice, Behr holding the court with McLoughlin.

GIANTS SIGN COLLEGE PITCHER.

The Giants yesterday signed one new pitcher and clinched the services of another for three years. The new man is S. W. Royce, the Hamilton College pitcher, who set the college world on fire last spring by striking out everybody in sight. He will soon get a chance to show his wares to Manager McGraw.

LOCAL COPS LEAD IN THIRD INNING

The Score Was 2 to 1 at Perth Amboy, Yesterday, When Jup Pluvius Interfered.

The Plainfield coppers went to Perth Amboy yesterday and played for three innings until rain interfered with the game and forced it to be called. The locals had the best of the argument in the part of the battle that was played and were leading by a score of 2 to 1, when hostilities were brought to an end by the heavy downpour. Bien, the home twirler, was no puzzle for the local swatters and they landed on him in the first round with two down and counted twice.

Fritts was the whole show in the first stanza for the home men and they never had a chance to look at the plate from third base. Perth Amboy reaped one tally in the second spasm but was unable to overcome the locals lead. Brokaw caught in place of McCarthy, who has a broken finger and Flatley took McIntyre's place on first base. Martin and Kellar were also out of the lineup.

The summary:

PERTH AMBOY	PLAINFIELD
Harhnan, ss	ss, McGinley
Sibosh, c	1b, Flatley
Romer, 1b	3b, Howe
Calveri, lf	p, Fritts
Baundick, 2b	c, Brokaw

MOTORCYCLE SPARKS

The Plainfield Motorcycle Club will take its weekly run this Sunday to Midland Beach. An early start will be made so that ten hours will be enjoyed at the shore.

Paul Meyers, of New Market, has placed an order with Jack Horner for a new twin cylinder Harley-Davidson.

Elmer Gale is anxiously waiting for his new "80-mile-an-hour" Harley which has been shipped from the factory. Elmer expects to lower some of the speed records unless he gets pinched before. Yea Bo!

Jim Guttridge missed the run on Sunday because he had too much carnival at Rahway on Saturday. Whaddayamean, Uncle Josh?

The members of the club will attend the Flemington fair in a body during the opening week. A Plainfield day for the farmers.

"Sparks" Philips has been absent lately as he can not get around the carbon he recently got out of his motor.

Herb. Alberts is doing the Rip Van Winkle stunt since the Sea Girt run.

The next meeting of the club will be held the first Thursday in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kunner, of Somerville, are visiting here for a few days.

Al. Bowlby was seen speeding down East Seventh street in all the rain yesterday, on a 1905 Indian. It was too wet for the cops.

A number of the boys will make a run to Hugenot tomorrow and spend the day fishing.

Alex Curley, of New Market, reported yesterday after an absence of several weeks. Where's that hiding place, Alex?

Ralph Auerbach, president of the local motorcycle club, is the wonder of the age with a side car. Who is she Ralph? Quit your kidding.

Archie Thompson rode all day yesterday without breaking a pedal. How did he do it?

Editor's note—That's nothing, little Archie shot all day today on the Sea Girt range without breaking a target. But nobody asks how he did it.

PERTH AMBOY NEXT SUNDAY.

The Plainfield A. A. baseball team, which was defeated at Newark last Sunday by one run, will play its weekly game at Perth Amboy next Sunday afternoon. The trip will be made by automobile. This team has played some good games so far this year, having lost two ten inning contests by the score of 2 to 1 and taking a decisive victory from the South Plainfield nine.

PARKS LEASE OVAL.

The Park Avenue Baptist and First Baptist baseball teams will meet for the first time this season on Crescent Oval Saturday. This will be a good game as both teams are putting up a fine article of ball. The Park Avenue Club has leased Crescent Oval and will use it as their home grounds every Saturday.

TELLURIDE SWEPT BY BIG CLOUDBURST

Many Children Are Believed to Be Drowned.

Denver, July 28.—A despatch to the News from Telluride says that a cloudburst on top of the range north of the city sent a torrent down the Cornet canyon, which swept the central and eastern part of Telluride.

Many children are believed to have been drowned, according to the despatch, and the city streets are filled with mud and debris from ten to twenty feet deep.

Telegraphic communication with Telluride has been interrupted.

DOCTORS AND COPS WILL BATTLE FOR CITY TITLE

The doctors' hold on the city amateur baseball title will be in great danger on Thursday afternoon when the cops go after them on Parker Field for the championship of the city. The doctors easily won their game from the lawyers some time ago and are confident that the coppers are not their equals along baseball lines.

They have not played a game since the "slaughter" while the policemen have been winning and losing ball all season.

BALLOU'S DEATH SAID TO BE DUE TO CRIMINAL ACT

Stamford, Conn., July 82—Coroner John J. Phalan in his decision in the inquest into the death of Waldo R. Ballou made public today, finds that Waldo R. Ballou came to his death as the result of the criminal act of Helen M. Angle.

COLONEL RESUMES REST CURE

Political Visitors Absent, and Libel Case In Counsel's Hands.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 28.—With the gubernatorial matter disposed of and the preparation of his answer to the $50,000 libel suit instituted by William Barnes intrusted to his lawyers, Colonel Roosevelt has resumed his rest cure." No political visitors have been received at Sagamore Hill for four or five days.

The colonel will go into New York on Wednesday, but may not visit Progressive headquarters. He will spend most of the day with his publishers, the Scribners, preparing for the appearance of his new book on his Brazilian trip.

BORO HOME DAMAGED.

Among the results of the storm nearby was the damaging of the home of Hugo Klotz, on Greenbrook road, the borough. The bolt of lightning struck one of the posts on the deck of the house, shattering it to pieces, crossing over to the other side of the structure, tearing a large hole in the roof and passed through the house to the basement. The damage amounted to about $150.

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

FEDS LOSING FORTUNES, BUT WILL STAY IN GAME.

New York, July 82—Organized baseball men have data to prove that since June 5 the Federal League games in St. Louis have shown a daily average of not more than 100 paid admissions, including Saturdays and Sundays. Otto Stifel, chief promoter of the St. Louis Feds, admits that $100,000 has been lost in that city, but he denies the report that he has decided to throw up the sponge. The organized baseball men also are responsible for the story that one of the Fed clubs in the East was prepared to close the gates next Wednesday, until the reversal of the Chief Johnson case in the Illinois Appellate Court was handed down. Since Justice Bissel, in Buffalo, decided the Hal Chase injunction proceedings in favor of that player, it is admitted that the Fed promoters have been encouraged to stick it out a while longer.

Watchung.

The terrific electric and hail storm which visited this section, yesterday afternoon, resulted in a great deal of damage to the truck farms and fruit. The rain fell in torrents for a half hour and hail stones as large as marbles fell in great quantities. The roads were flooded for a considerable distance, although reports show that the storm did not reach either South Sterling nor Scotch Plains, but was confined to a strip two miles in width from Watchung to Gillette.

E. H. Burd, of Ocean City, was chosen principal of the Watchung School, at a special meeting of the Board of Education, last night. He will succeed William M. McClelland, who has planned to enter the University of Pennsylvania this fall. Mr. Burd is a native of Hunterdon county, but has been teaching at Ocean City.

Harold W. Schenck will have charge of the prayer meeting at the Mary E. Wilson Union Memorial church this evening.

The Watchung Athletic Association will hold its second annual festival on Friday night, August 14.

Charles E. Miles has finished his contract for the wiring of the Watchung School for electric lights. The lights were used last night for the first.

Miss Anna Moldenke has returned to her home, "Castle Epsinore," on the Valley road, after spending two weeks at Northfield, Mass.

Mrs. Anna Ogilbee, of New Brighton, S. I., is spending a few days as the guest of Mrs. Anna Underhill, of Lakeside Cottage, on Sterling Boulevard.

NAVIGATION FORBIDDEN.

Helsigfors, Finland, July 28—An order was issued today to all commanders of light ships along the coast of Finland not to light their lamps at night. Instructions also were given to all the keepers of lighthouses along the coast to extinguish all lights not absolutely necessary. Navigation in the Finnish harbors at night has been forbidden.

OFFERS STATE 8,000 ACRES AS WILD ANIMALS' REFUGE

Trenton, July 28.—A tract of 8,000 acres in the New Jersey mountains bordering on the Delaware River has been offered to the State by Charles C. Worthington, owner of the largest game preserve in this State, as a refuge for all kinds of game. The only stipulations are that the tract be posted against hunting and shooting and that it be surrounded by a single wire strand that will not prevent the game from coming and going.

The offer was made recently by Mr. Worthington to Ernest Napier, president of the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners, while the latter was visiting at the Worthington country estate, Shawnee-on-Deleware, in Pennsylvania. The estate is directly across the river from the tract offered to the State, which is part of a tract of 20,000 acres owned by Mr. Worthington.

The two men were inspecting the private preserve of Mr. Worthington, when the latter made the offer of the tract. By the aid of a telescope, Mr. Napier says, he saw at least ten deer across the river among the heavily timbered mountains. The section is perhaps the best in the State for the purpose. It affords natural environment for all kinds of game. At present the owner uses it as a haven for wild animals, posting and guarding it for this purpose.

Along the river on the New Jersey side extends what is known as the Mine road, built by the Dutch in the seventeenth century and then used to convey copper ore from the Buckwood Mountain to Europe, on the Hudson River. This road is now little traveled. Deer and other game frequent it.

Mr. Worthington told Commissioner Napier that he had often seen deer swim the Delaware to get to the mountainous tract and escape from hunters and dogs. If the State should decide to accept the land for the purpose offered and comply with the stipulations, Mr. Worthington will dedicate it outright.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Complaint is made that there are 2,500 lawyers in New Jersey and that thirty-six out of the eighty-one members of the Legislature are of that profession. This, it is claimed, is much too great a representation; wholly disproportionate to the number allowed other professions and vocations. The proper objection is not to the number, but the quality of the lawyers sent to the Legislature, and the fault is not with the lawyers, but with the people who elect them. Nearly half of the legislators are lawyers, but that doesn't prevent the most ridiculous blunders in the way of drafting bills and creating new statutes. The truth is that often young, inexperienced attorneys are elected not so much because of their personal capabilities as to give them a start in their professions. Many of them are makers of law before they become counselors at law. Logically a lawyer is better qualified to draft and enact laws than any other class of citizens, but the rule doesn't always apply to youngsters who have recently been admitted to the bar. Old, experienced, successful lawyers are usually very valuable members of the Legislature, but not many of this kind want the job.—Newark Evening News.

CHAPTER XXIX.

The Gentle Art of Being Done.

"MURDER!" exclaimed Wallingford, pleased and yet shocked that his plans had worked so extremely well. "Why, you are trying to take advantage of what you consider to be my necessity."

Mr. Spooger was not indignant, merely hurt in his tenderest feelings. "You are most unjust," he complained. "I am only correctly gauging the market value of the stock to your monopoly. I have labored to obtain it for you, and the laborer is worthy of his hire."

"A hundred and twenty-five isn't laborer's profit; it's robbery," protested Wallingford.

"Tut, tut!" chided Mr. Spooger, with angelic forgiveness of that harsh charge. "You offered my friend Putnam as high as $110, and young Mr. Martin, who was anxious to buy my stock to sell to you at a profit, offered me $105. The price, Mr. Wallingford, is $125. At that quotation I am really conferring a benefit upon you."

"I appreciate it," conceded Wallingford dryly. "How much is thirty-five times $125?"

"Four thousand three hundred and seventy-five dollars," replied Mr. Spooger promptly, glancing at some figures on his desk. "Here is the stock." And he drew forward the neat little pile that had reposed just before his eyes.

Wallingford opened his obese pocketbook, and the mild eyes of Mr. Spooger took on the passing expression of twin needles.

"Of course they will not sell stock to you at the factory," he conjectured, watching hungrily as Wallingford counted out the money and noticing thirstingly that the subtraction of this amount made almost no impression upon the sum total.

"Not a share," laughed Wallingford. "They know who I am and what I want. Moreover, I don't imagine the new assistant manager would sell to any one who would sell to me."

"Possibly not," mused Mr. Spooger. "I have heard that Mr. Daw is a very curious person."

He paused now as his fingers touched the money, and nothing more was breathed by either gentleman until he had counted it three times and felt each bill and held it to the light.

"If I should obtain some of his stock I suppose you would be in the immediate market for it," he suggested after he had deposited the money in his safe and twirled the knob about nine times.

"At the present moment," declared Mr. Wallingford, with a trace of vindictiveness, "there is nothing I desire so much as to have every share of the Bessmer stock taken away from Mr. Daw."

"I have understood that there was a deplorable personal feeling in this matter," commented Mr. Spooger, grieving over the selfish passions of men. "Jim Hodders, who has the brick contract for the new Bessmer building, told me that you were bitter business rivals."

"We are even more than that," stated Wallingford, with every appearance of truthfulness.

Blackie Daw, who had in perfection what is known as the healer's touch, was extracting with a huge magnet an iron filing from the eye of a fellow workman when Eli Spooger called, and he positively refused to talk business in the emergency hospital, which he had fitted up in the neglected pattern room back of his desk. The workman came out with him by and by, bandaged and smiling gratefully.

"Mr. Spooger's still waiting to see you, Blackie," observed Bessmer. "He's outside in the grinding room."

"The grinding room," replied Blackie softly, "is exactly the place for Mr. Spooger." And Bessmer, thinking he understood that joke, gave it full acknowledgment.

"I wish to talk with you quite in private, just by our two selves," began Mr. Spooger, with kind playfulness, drawing Blackie off into a corner.

"Come over here then," invited Blackie, solemnly leading him into another corner that was no particle more secretive. "Now, what can we do for each other?"

"You might enable me to increase my little investment in this establishment—that is, if you made the price of the stock low enough," suggested Mr. Spooger, with the air of one conferring a favor.

"I haven't much to sell," Blackie told him, looking decidedly uncomfortable. "I couldn't possibly let go of enough to weaken Mr. Bessmer's control of the company."

Mr. Spooger was shocked that he should even conceive such an idea. "No one, I am sure, would wish to injure Mr. Bessmer, who is a very honest, hard working business man. He has the respect and even affection of the entire community, including myself. If you chose to sell any of the stock, how much would you want for it."

"Par," announced Blackie affably.

"My dear young man," expostulated Mr. Spooger in stern but kindly tones, "the stock has never been worth more than 50 per cent, and I'll guarantee that you paid even less than that for it."

"Par is the price," Blackie patiently explained. "I have always said that if I ever owned stock in anything I wouldn't sell it for anything but par. I like the sound of the word."

"It doesn't sound half so well as, say, $75 cash," insinuated Mr. Spooger, laughing like one giving away groceries.

"Par," repeated Blackie gently, but firmly, and lighted a cigarette. "At that I'll only sell you fifty shares. I understand that Jim Wallingford's buying up this stock, and I wouldn't run the risk of much of it falling into his hands. He'd put my friend Bessmer right out of his own shop and turn it over to the trust."

"I am not an agent nor emissary for any one," stated Mr. Spooger, much outraged. "I am investing or speculating, if you wish to call it so, for my own benefit entirely."

Blackie had particular reasons of his own for doubting that, but he did not think it wise to say so.

"Fifty shares or nothing, and at par," he asserted stoutly. "If I sell more than that I'll sell all. If I have to weaken my majority of stock I want to get out entirely."

Mr. Spooger stilled the pea-like thumping of his heart. "Would you seriously contemplate selling all?" he asked quietly.

"Well, you see," hesitated Blackie, looking mournfully about the shop and over at Bessmer's office. "I like this business, and Bessmer, and the men, but I'm a poor person, and to sell out at par would mean a big profit on my investment. I wouldn't sell to Jim Wallingford, though. I don't think he'd even come to me to buy it."

This being the strict truth, Blackie had a perfectly clean conscience when he said it.

"I'll take those fifty shares at par," Mr. Spooger slowly observed, after thinking a long, long time. "If I were you I would not say anything to Mr. Bessmer about it just now. Suppose I come over tonight and see you at your hotel."

"Make it tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock," amended Blackie. "I am not coming to the shop tomorrow forenoon."

Mr. Spooger was busy writing him out a check. "Here is $5,000 for your fifty shares," he stated, holding it with both hands for impressiveness. "Just think how little those fifty shares cost you and how much profit I am giving you! Multiply that by the balance of your stock and think it over!"

"I don't like to leave this place," mourned Blackie. "I'm teaching two of the boys over in the shipping room to dance the double clog."

Mr. Spooger returned to Wallingford's hotel triumphantly.

"I can get fifty shares of that stock," he announced, delighted to give Wallingford so much pleasure, "but you'll have to raise the price to $135."

Wallingford eyed him with a secret sorrow that he was doing the man no harm. "It's extortion!" he protested.

"I can't get it for you for less," declared Mr. Spooger, seemingly sad that such was the case.

"I don't believe I want it at all," suddenly decided Wallingford.

"Why not?" demanded Spooger in breathless fright.

"Because you have only fifty shares of it. My instructions are to obtain control, and I'm beginning to be discouraged about it."

"You buy this fifty shares at the price I named, and I'll tell you some good news," promised Eli, with exultant playfulness.

"Do you mean that you can get all of it?" asked Wallingford eagerly.

"I believe that I can," jubilated Eli and rubbed his hands over and over each other.

"Then I'll pay you $135 for this fifty with pleasure," and Wallingford jerked out his pocketbook.

Mr. Spooger was sorry he had said that he could obtain merely the fifty shares, for he had the certificate in his pocket. However, he had made it an early motto that if he could not entirely avoid evil he would avoid all appearance of evil.

"I'll be back in ten minutes," he stated. "You'll be right here, won't you?" And he eyed Wallingford's pocketbook anxiously.

"Right here," Wallingford assured him.

Mr. Spooger was back in nine minutes and a half. "If I can obtain the remainder of that stock I don't think it will be necessary to raise the price above $135," he suggested, being quite certain that this was the limit that Wallingford would pay.

"I should say you would not raise the price!" retorted Wallingford. "I may be careless, but I don't mean any harm to myself."

"Will you pay $135?" Spooger wanted to be assured.

"I will pay $135 a share for every share of Bessmer stock that you sell me from now on," Wallingford truthfully answered.

Mr. Spooger waited until sharp 10 o'clock the next morning, when he was ushered into Mr. Daw's rooms. He found that gentleman freshly shaved and completely dressed, except for his silk hat, and sitting behind a table studiously poring over a handbook on the art of molding and casting.

There ensued a most wily conversation, in which Mr. Spooger pointed out to the young man that he must not fly in the face of Providence by refusing the handsome fortune that lay at his door.

On his part Mr. Daw had conscientious scruples about allowing the controlling stock to pass into any ownership that might be inimical to the interests of Mr. Bessmer, but in the end he fell. He stifled his conscience and sold to Mr. Spooger at $100 a share his entire interest in the Bessmer Malleable Process company.

"But I didn't know you had so much stock," protested Mr. Spooger. "Bessmer only had 1,250 shares to dispose of in the first place. I bought fifty of those from you, and here you are offering me 1,315."

"I acquired a few more," explained Blackie. "The certificates are all here, new issues made out to me last night and duly signed by the president and secretary."

(To be continued.)

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

This long draped tunic makes one of the latest developments of the overskirt idea. It is exceedingly graceful and attractive as well as in the height of style, and since tunics are made both to match the underskirt and in contrasting material it becomes exceedingly practical.

As shown here the entire skirt is of taffeta, with a frill of the same.

DRAPED SKIRT.

How easy it would be to use the draped tunic over any foundation, and such a long tunic as this one means practically a new skirt, for it is certain to cover all evidence of wear. Figured, striped and checked materials are liked over plain, and plain is used over fancy material.

One of the newest fancies is for the use of faille silk both for entire gowns and in combination with serge, gabardine and the like. The foundation skirt is made in three pieces, the tunic in one.

For the medium size the plain skirt will require three and three-quarter yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with one and a half yards twenty-seven inches wide for the plaiting.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 24 to 32 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8325, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

THE odds and ends of lettuce left over when a salad is made may be utilized in making soup.

French Soups.

Lettuce Soup With Stock.—Take one head of lettuce and cut fine strips. This may be done with the kitchen shears or with a knife. Cook until tender in three or four tablespoonfuls of butter, seasoning with salt and pepper. Have one and one-half quarts of veal or chicken stock heating, and to this add one cupful of cream. Thicken with the beaten yolks of two eggs, seasoning with salt and pepper and a tiny dash of grated nutmeg. Add the lettuce to this, blend thoroughly and serve very hot with toast.

Dainty and Nourishing.

Lettuce Puree.—Take about a dozen lettuces (if you have a garden, you can use those which are going to seed), pick apart, cleanse and throw into boiling salted water till they are quite tender. Then drain carefully and pass through a sieve. Dissolve in an enameled lined saucepan two ounces of fresh butter; stir into it one ounce of flour without letting it color. Then by degrees add the puree of lettuce and stir very slowly while cooking for about twenty minutes. Dilute by degrees with good, rich stock till of the right thickness. Season with red pepper and salt and serve with fried croutons of bread.

Season Well.

Plain Lettuce Soup.—Take four heads of lettuce, wash thoroughly and place in boiling salted water. Boil, uncovered, for ten minutes; drain and throw into a dish of cold water. Allow it to remain a few minutes, then drain, chop fine and rub through sieve. Have one quart of hot milk; rub one tablespoonful of butter and two of flour to a paste; add to the hot milk and stir until it thickens. Mix a few spoonfuls of this with the lettuce pulp, stir until blended, and add to the soup. Season to taste with salt and pepper, let simmer about five minutes, uncover and serve with croutons.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Canoe Race Between The Frogs.

They Painted Them a Pretty Red.

DADDY had seen such a funny thing that day that really he could hardly wait to get home to tell Jack and Evelyn about it.

"The frogs had a canoe race," he began just as soon as he got into the children's room.

"They did?" shouted the children excitedly. "Oh, do tell us all about it, daddy!"

"Well, they made their own canoes in the first place out of birch bark. They were very fine looking canoes, for they had painted them as well. An old fisherman had been by their pond for several days painting his boat, and he had left behind him just enough paint for them to paint their newly made canoes with. They painted them a very pretty shade of red.

"And then they planned for their races. There were to be ten canoes in the race, and each canoe was to have two frogs paddling it. They had made their own paddles, too, but they were all exactly the same length and the same weight, so that the race would be perfectly fair.

"But when the ten canoes lined up there was scarcely any room in the pond for their paddles. They clashed with their paddles, and the ends of the canoes frequently banged.

"Still they managed to get along somehow, and the frogs who were looking on thought it was the most expert race they had ever seen.

"They waved flags, they sang songs, and the cheered.

"Those in the race were so excited that they really did not show at all how well they could paddle, and they had become very good paddlers through the constant practice they had had of late.

"Just as the two leading canoes were rounding the goal their paddles caught, and the canoes upset, dropping the frogs into the water, of course.

"Then the same thing happened to all the rest of the boats except the two that had been at the tail end all the time. You see, the goal was at the end of a little curve which led into the cove, and that was so difficult to get around. The boat next to the very last go around the little cove, but as the two frogs inside thought that they were the winners they tried to hurry too much, and they also upset.

"Such laughter as there was among the frogs, for they thought it was a great joke that all the fine canoeists should upset.

"But the two in the very last boat took their time, for, of course, there was not left a single boat to get ahead of them. Slowly they paddled around the curve and into the cove.

"And the ones who had been behind all through the race finally won."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

A very comfortable and popular garment is illustrated here. This combination (No. 8272) shows corset cover and drawers; it is shaped to the figure by several little tucks in front and back. The garment is loose, giving the effect of a petticoat. It may be buttoned in front or back and is very easy to make, being composed of only two pieces, together with the shoulder strap. Batiste, nainsook or cotton crepe are very suitable together with an all-over embroidery, lace or eyelet embroidery for the top of the corset cover and edging the drawers. One yard of 36-inch material, 3⅜ yards of 9-inch flouncing, and three yards of ribbon are required for size 36.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing fifteen cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG
Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

SPICER OUTING TO BE HELD ON AUGUST 15

Arrangements are about complete for the fourth annual outing of the Spicer Mutual Aid Society to Highland Beach, on Saturday, August 15. The train will leave Plainfield at 7:30 in the morning, rain or shine, and returning leave Highland Beach at 9 o'clock in the evening. There will be refreshments on the train both going and coming. A fine course dinner will be served at the beach. This will include everything from clam chowder to coffee, with roast chicken, blue fish, vegetables, etc.

Highland Beach is now considered one of the most popular summer resorts within easy reach of Plainfield and because of the many attractions, which include boating, swimming, fishing, etc., it is considered an ideal place by the Spicer Mutual Aid Society for its outing.

Comfort in Ironing

During the hot weather use the TRIANGLE LEKTRICK IRON, the best Electric Iron made, price with cord and plug, ready for use, $2.75, and if you do not have the electricity use ASBESTOS SAD IRONS, which when the hood is placed on the iron the heat is bottled up. The dead-air space in addition to the asbestos lining prevents radiation of heat from the iron and keeps the temperature of the wood handle below blood heat. No holder needed.

EAST END WILL MAKE DEMANDS

Committee From That Section of City to Visit Board of Education.

WANT GRADED SCHOOL

Heated Discussion at Enthusiastic Gathering In Netherwood Reformed Church Last Night—Suggest Rental of Church Building.

As the result of an enthusiastic meeting of East End residents in the Netherwood Reformed church, last night, the Plainfield Board of Education will be visited by a committee composed of the Rev. Edward S. Ralston, Captain William Hand and Edward W. Hughes at its meeting in the High School tonight, who will present resolutions adopted by the gathering at the Netherwood meeting place. It was the unanimous opinion among those in attendance that the particular section of the city represented, last night, was in urgent and immediate need of a new graded school and various suggestions were received concerning the course to follow in order to reap the best results. Prominent among the speakers at the session were Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, Horace G. Adams, former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, the Rev. Edward S. Ralston, Edward W. Hughes and James C. Hansen.

It was the consensus of opinion that a temporary institution of learning for the younger children should be established prior to the opening of the September term and several temporary quarters were suggested. It was contended that it is impossible for the kindergarten children, to attend the Lincoln School in bad weather, because of the long walk necessitated from points east of Leland avenue. One of the speakers expressed considerable indignation over the fact that the residents in the vicinity of Evergreen avenue had been granted a new school building when, in his estimation, the section in which he lived demanded one more urgently. According to figures presented last night there are 392 children of the graded school age in the section bounded by Johnston avenue and Terrill road and South avenue and the city line.

So strong was the sentiment for a new school building that certain fathers present advocated stringent measures as a means of forcing the educational authorities to grant their demands. It was said that in the event of a refusal some parents would keep their children at home and demand that the Board show cause why they be compelled to make their children tramp a mile in all kinds of weather to the nearest school building.

None of the members of the Board of Education attended the meeting, last night, but Councilman Claybrook who is also a member of the Board of School Estimate, consented to address the assemblage. In his remarks Mr. Claybrook contended that there were not sufficient grounds for the East End residents to demand an appropriation of $100 000 for the erection of a new school. He classed such action as "frenzied finance" and deplored the steps being taken to boost the bonded indebtedness of the city to the "sky limit." During his talk the city official declared himself as being of the opinion that the East End needed a new school, but, that the present financial status of the city would not warrant its erection inside of two years. He said that at the time the $100,000 was recently set aside for the Evergreen Avenue School it was agreed that further demands of this nature would be delayed for at least two years. He advocated a compromise by suggesting to the Board that an omnibus line be provided for the transportation of the children living near the city line. He also stated that, in his opinion, too much time is being given to High School education and not enough to the graded schools, or the fundamentals. Mr. Claybrook commented favorably upon the idea of renting some small building in the East End and demanding that the Board provide teachers for the same.

Many questions concerning the financial standing of the city and the feasibility of the East End residents' demands were answered by Mr. Claybrook and he became the object for a volley of pointed attacks during the meeting. He answered all of the queries from an executive's point of view and was given a vote of thanks at the conclusion of his talk.

Should the Board of Education see fit to turn down the petition which will be presented to them at the meeting tonight the East End committee will suggest that the Netherwood Reformed church be rented by the school authorities for a school building. The ecclesiastical institution is used only on Sundays and during the remainder of the week the students think that it could be utilized to good advantage for educational purposes. It was stated at the meeting that the appropriation set aside

NAMES ELIGIBLE LIST FOR ELECTION BOARDS

Civil Service Commission Makes Certification to Union Co. Board Today.

Trenton, July 29—The Civil Service Commission, through its election division, today, certified to the Union County Board of Elections the list of the voters in the county who are eligible for appointment to the several local Boards of Registry and Election throughout the county. The list includes the names of those whose terms expire this year and who are eligible for re-appointment; those who are eligible for having passed the Civil Service tests in 1911, 1912 and 1913, but who were not appointed and who have made application for appointment this year in accordance with the provisions of the Geran election act, together with those who passed the examination recently conducted in Union county for this purpose. The list of those eligible in Plainfield is as follows:

Republicans—First Ward, Harry E. Hicks, Alfred E. Noel; Second Ward, Augustus C. Nash, George B. Zimmer, Robert Guttridge; Third Ward, Thad Doane, Jr., John F. Phillips, Alfred P. White; Fourth Ward, George H. Cole, James E. Huntington, Garret Dunham, Joel Pennington, Gilbert J. Johnson, Edward E. Brown.

Democrats—First Ward, John B. Motley; Second Ward, F. L. Cregar, Charles A. Case; Third Ward, John J. McCaffrey; Fourth Ward, Frank M. Wagner, Robert T. Skinner, Nathan Hollander, John D. Scott, Richard D. Scott; Frank Laskoski, Peter McClucky, Aaron D. Newman.

BOTH SEXES INVITED TO JOIN CIVIC BODY

Netherwood Organization Will Be Composed of Women As Well As Men.

Tentative plans for the organization of an East End Civic Association were made at the meeting of the Netherwood residents in the Netherwood Reformed church, last night, and a committee composed of former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, Horace Adams, Edward Hughes, Arthur R. Humble and M. R. Myrtle was appointed to take charge of the preliminary plans. At the suggestion of Mr. Randolph it was decided to open the association to women as well as men. All woman interested in the welfare of the East End are invited to join the organization in response to a general call which will be sent out in the near future.

It is planned to hold the meetings of the body in the Netherwood Reformed church on dates to be announced later. Thirty Netherwood residents present at the school mass meeting last night, signified their willingness to assist in the organization and also registered as charter members. The objects will be to promote the civic welfare of that part of the city and to form a body that will advance the various needs of the East End along proper lines. This move was prompted by the agitation over the school question when the need for organization was cearly demonstrated.

Many of those who were interested in the Netherwood Taxpayers' Association will become interested in the plans for the new civic body and will abandon the first named one to give their entire time to pushing the work in the newer association. The taxpayers' society has now become extinct, the reason for its failure being assigned to the fact that the meetings were held in members' homes, a different gathering place being assigned on each occasion. This difficulty and drawback has been overcome by the selection of the church edifice as meeting quarters.

FOUR AUTOMOBILISTS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

An automobile party consisting of two men and two women in a large touring car met with an accident near Dog Watch Hollow, Sunday afternoon, that might have proven fatal had not Charles H. Mundy, of that place, been an eye witness. Mr. Mundy saw the big car crash over the side of an embankment and pin the four occupants underneath.

He made a hurried canvass of the neighborhood and gathered a group of residents who lifted the car off the imprisoned people. One man and a woman suffered painful injuries, but they were all able to proceed on their way after a short delay. Mr. Mundy suffered a painful burn about the hand sustained while attempting to right the vehicle.

GOV. INDIGNANT OVER SUGGESTION

Resents Anderson's Inference That Someone Has Been Misusing His Office.

LETTER WAS MISLAID

State Executive Tells Former Assemblyman He Does Not Want Him to Repeat Statement—Latter Makes Humble Apology.

Resenting the inference that someone has been misusing his office and purposely withholding his correspondence from him, Governor James F. Fielder, in a letter to William de La R. Anderson, chairman of the North Plainfield Township Committee, requests the latter not to repeat this suggestion to him again. The matter referred to was the copy of the resolution of the Township Committee touching upon the work of the Somerset County Tax Board in its assessment of property owned by Mt St. Mary College.

The Township Committee took the matter up with Governor Fielder for review, it being the desire that the County Tax Board be impeached for alleged failure of duty. For some reason or other the copy of the resolutions did not reach the Governor on time, and Mr. Anderson in a letter to Mr. Fielder inferred that someone was misusing the Governor's office. The latter in his letter states that the resolutions were mislaid and that he objects emphatically to Mr. Anderson's suggestion. The Governor's letter and Mr. Anderson's reply follow:

State of New Jersey,
Executive Department,
Sea Girt, N. J.
July 22, 1914.

My dear Assemblyman:

The copy of the resolutions of your Township Committee touching the County Tax Board now in my hands is the original copy sent and not the duplicate. The duplicate has not been received at the office I explained to you in a previous letter that the reason the original did not reach my hands was that it had been mislaid and I object most emphatically to your suggestion that someone is misusing my office and purposely withholding your correspondence from me. Please do not repeat this suggestion again.

I shall give the matter referred to in the resolutions my early attention.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES F. FIELDER.

William de La Roche Anderson,
Watchung, N. J.

My dear Governor:

The duplicate was received at your office by your personal attendant on June 30 at 9 o'clock in the morning. This you can verify by consulting the record at the Trenton postoffice. My excuse for delay in answering yours of the 22d inst., is that I have been getting the above. I humbly apologize for suggesting that someone was misusing your office if it was not so, and, we who are interested in this matter will be glad to hear from you, after you have looked into the strange coincidence, that I am wrong. I beg to remain, with utmost respect for the Governor of New Jersey and for you personally,

Very truly yours,
WILLIAM DE LA R. ANDERSON.

Hon. James F. Fielder,
Sea Girt, N. J.

ALLEGED WIFE DESERTER ARRESTED IN THIS CITY

William Walters, of 261 East Third street, was arrested last night by Sergeant Higgins on a warrant charging him with desertion. He is wanted by the police of Philadelphia as a fugitive from justice and was held in $500 bail for hearing before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, Monday.

At that time Walters will be formally held to await the drawing up of requisition papers and it is likely that he will be committed to the Union county jail at Elizabeth pending extradition.

A WATERMELON SOCIAL.

A watermelon dime social will be held at the home of George Mobus, at Watchung, Saturday evening, under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, D. of A. A stage will leave Front street and Watchung avenue at 7:45 to convey those wishing to attend.

LOCAL CONCERN BIDS.

Burke and Bonhan, local contractors, were the lowest bidders for the work of constructing three and half miles of roadway in northern Delaware. The contracts have not been awarded as yet. This concern has several out of town contracts on hand.

CITY OFFICIALS TO REVIEW THE PARADE

Many Responses Received for Labor Day Demonstration In This City.

Plans for the parade to be held in this city, Labor Day, Monday, September 6, under the auspices of the Allied Trades of Plainfield, are being completed, under the direction of the committee representing all of the trade unions. Word has been received from the Iron Workers' Union and the United Hatters' Union, both of Newark, that they will take part, a large number of the members being expected to be in the line of march. Responses have also been received from unions of Jersey City and Elizabeth, indicating that they plan to come to this city to take part in the demonstration. William H. Lunger, business agent of the local Building Trades Council, has been appointed as marshal of the day.

The committee has been approached on the subject of various fraternities and lodges taking part in the parade, and have asked the Daily Press to state that as the day is one set aside for the representatives of labor, they have deemed it wise to keep the parade distinctively labor and industrial in nature. This matter has been thoroughly discussed, and it has been pointed out that many of the lodges will have members in the line of march with the unions, and for that reason the turnout for secret lodges would be small.

The committee also plans to request Mayor Percy H. Stewart to permit representatives of the police and fire departments to take part. A reviewing stand will be erected sufficiently large to accommodate the Mayors and members of the Common Councils of this city and the borough. It is expected the parade will start about 10 o'clock in the morning, and that there will be about 5,000 union labor men in line, representing practically every craft in this section of the State.

The picnic, which is being planned for the afternoon and early evening, is to be an enjoyable event. A large dancing stand is to be erected at the grounds to be designated later. One or two of the dozen bands engaged for the parade in the morning are to be held for the afternoon events, and a good time is being planned for those who attend this monster out-of-door function.

The question of the various merchants entering floats representing local industries has been discussed to some extent, and will be taken up with the Business Men's Association at their next meeting.

NEW RULES PROPOSED FOR POLICE DEPARTMENT

The Councilmanic Police Board has decided that some new and up-to-date rules are needed for the government of the police department, and steps have already been taken to draft rules which will meet the present-day needs. Departments in other cities will be communicated with for the purpose of getting copies of rules and regulations which will serve as a guide to the board in its work. The matter will not be brought before the Common Council until fall when all of the members have returned from their vacations.

For sometime there appears to have been considerable misunderstanding as to the proper interpretation of the present rules and it is said that as the result there has been more or less friction among members of the department. With a new set of rules clearly defining the duties of the officers and men it is believed that there will be no trouble in the future, and the possibility of friction will consequently be removed.

GETS A JAIL SENTENCE.

Valentine Smith, who was picked up along the tracks of the Central Railroad at Fanwood, a few weeks ago and found guilty of carrying concealed weapons when he was tried at the county court, was sentenced this morning by Judge Connolly, in the Court of Quarter Sessions, to a term of five months in the county jail.

PREPARATORY SERVICE.

Preparatory services will be held at Warren chapel at 8 o'clock this evening, in charge of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, and the Lord's supper will be celebrated Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

CO. K DID GOOD WORK ON RANGE

Local Soldiers Set Up Some Excellent Scores During the Day's Practice.

"ROOKIES" INITIATED

Two Day Bivouack Started Today—Plenty of Work For the Boys Since Their Enlistment at the Encampment—Lot of Wet Weather.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Sea Girt, July 29.—Monday was spent on the rifle range by Company K, and some unusually good scores were made. A large part of the men got through the shooting with excellent marks but as some of the men have yet to finish shooting the scores cannot be reported at the present time.

Tuesday morning was ushered in with a breakfast of potatoes, bacon, bread and coffee. It commenced to rain and all the boys were feeling fine as they all thought, "here's a good day off." Everyone was settling themselves for a long sleep when first Sergeant Apgar came in and ordered everyone out for a hike. Sergeant Apgar always manages to spoil everybody's pleasant anticipations some way or other.

Orders have to be obeyed, therefore the boys got ready for a day in the wet woods without a whimper like all good soldiers should. The company started with sealed orders, which were to be opened at 11 o'clock, at Manasquan River. Going out we acted independently and marched in extended order, the point being in command of Lieutenant Conklin and the support being under Captain Peterson.

The Manasquan river reached orders were opened and it was found that a force of the enemy had landed at Sea Girt and were coming toward us. We were to act as the advance guard of a battalion and march toward Sea Girt to ascertain the strength and business of the enemy. The company was making its way slowly through some very dense woods when they found the enemy and the meeting resulted in a battle at 50 yards range, which fire, had we used bullets, would have killed nearly every man of the opposing force.

In the opinion of many Company K completely won the battle but the official report has not been received.

The "rookies" are suffering as usual, perhaps a little more, because we have "Al" Tranchand back in the company, and if anybody can think of better initiations to give new men he has yet to be discovered. For instance, a young chap who answers to the name of Donald Patterson, was found trying to swim in the middle of the parade grounds about 9 p. m. in 6 inches of muddy water with a union suit for a bathing suit.

Another fellow named Raymond Lant, was found quite by accident, tied fast to the flag pole in the rain Monday night. Of course nobody does these things but somehow they seem to do themselves.

Last night the company participated in a dress parade at 5 o'clock, and today the Second regiment started on a practical march and sham battled which will probably last two days. The men will carry shelter tents and regular equipment for use on the hike and will have all they want to keep them busy.

Tired, wet and muddy the troops of the Fourth Regiment N. G. N. J. returned this morning to the State after two days' tactical hike into the country. Forced to sleep under the little shelter tents which are carried as a part of their marching pack, the soldiers of the Jersey City regiment were unable to keep dry in the torrents of rain that fell almost without cessation since they left here on Monday afternoon.

Their tactical maneuvres actually came to a close yesterday afternoon when the Red army and the Blue army met in a terrific battle north of Allenwood. Throughout the entire time the troops were out on the hike the opposing forces were gradually bearing down upon one another and when the orders for battle were issued the troops went into the spirit of the mimic warfare with a gusto. For an hour their rifles spit out imaginary bullets by the hundreds until the order to cease firing was given and the battle was officially called a draw.

The Blue army which was composed of the battalions commanded by Majors William Robertson, Jr., and William A. Higgins, was commanded during the maneuvre by Lieutenant Colonel George T. Vickers. The battalion commanded by Major Henry Lohmann, Jr., of Hoboken, represented the Red force and Major Lohmann retained command of these troops throughout the hike.

This afternoon two companies to be designated by the commanding officer will go to the rifle ranges for their rifle practice and during the remaining days of the encampment

ALL EUROPE GREAT ARMED CAMP, WATCHING NEXT MOVE BY RUSSIA

Czar Expected to Start Trouble From the Moment Servia Is Invaded—German Army Orders Ready to Be Issued at First Sign of Trouble.

(Special from Central News.)

London, July 29.—All Europe today is an armed camp, that may at any moment suddenly resolve itself into a seething cauldron of war, the like of which the world has never witnessed.

All eyes are turned anxiously toward Russia, hoping that the Czar will withhold the word that will start the general conflagration.

While the Kaiser has expressed a desire for peace, Germany will mobilize her forces instantly upon the first hostile move on the part of Russia. The latter country, it is said, will refuse to keep her hands off if Servia is invaded.

Berlin, July 29—Orders for the mobilization of the German army are already signed. They will be promulgated the instant official information is received that the Russian army is on the move.

German diplomatic representatives at St. Petersburg are in almost constant communication with the foreign office here. It is also known that the Czar and Emperor William have been in direct communication.

London, July 29—King George is following the alarming developments in the European situation with the closest attention. He is known to be much perturbed over the possibilities of a general conflict involving England. This afternoon His Majesty sent for Winston Churchill, first Lord of the Admiralty, in order to learn from him exactly what steps have been taken for the mobilization of the British fleet in preparation for eventualities. Mr. Churchill was closeted with the King for some time.

There is some talk of King George making a strong personal appeal to the Kaiser and to the Czar with the object of preventing the calamity of a general clash between the two great groups of European powers.

London, July 29.—A dispatch received here this evening from Gibralter, states that the Spanish fleet has been ordered to concentrate immediately at the Balearic Islands.

Paris, July 29.—The St. Petersburg Correspondent of LaTemps, today reports that Russia has received official information from Austria that the latter country would respect territorial integrity of Servia and does not desire to occupy Belgrade, the Servian capital.

Berlin, July 29.—The following appared today in the North German Gazette, the official organ of the German government.

"The peaceful tone of the official Russian communications received today finds a lively echo. The Imperial German government shares the wish of Russia for the maintenance of peaceful relations, and it is hoped the German people will support it by maintaining a modern attitude."

It is considered probable that following the meeting of the committee of the Imperial Bank of Germany tomorrow, the rate of discount will be advanced to five per cent. The four per cent. rate was started on Feb. 5 last.

Paris, July 29.—The Temps today, in referring to the Russian mobilization of 14 army corps says this represents 400,000 men reservists. During the last eight or ten days 300,000 have been mobilized, and as soon as the 14 copps are completed, Russia will await further developments.

The Temps also says that although the declaration of war will probably end negotiations it will not necessarily lead to a diplomatic rupture between Austria and Russia.

Berlin, July 29—The Zeitung Amnittag reports today that withdrawals from the various savings banks on Monday amounted to $189,000, and on Tuesday $173,000.

Salonica, Greece, July 29—Reports received here today state that 3,000 Bulgarians are menacing all the villages on the Greek and Servian frontiers, near Petrich, and that the population are in a state of panic.

Rome, July 29.—The greater portion of the press is strongly against Italy involving herself in the threatened conflict. It was unofficially stated today that Italy's communications to the Austrian government have been misrepresented by the Vienna newspapers. The communications did not contain, as these papers alleged a promise to aid Austria. On the contrary it is said, Italy is determined to remain neutral. Public opinion, especially of Socialists and advanced Radicals, is that Italy should show enmity towards Austria rather than extent aid to her.

L. F. BENNETT WEDS MISS TERRINGTON

Rev. J. Y. Broek Performs the Ceremony at Home of Groom's Parents.

Miss Gertrude Terrington, of Yorkshire, England, became the bride, last evening, of Leonard F. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett, of South avenue, at the home of the groom's parents, the ceremony being witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends, many of whom were from out of town. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church of which Mr. Bennett is an active member, officiated.

The bride was gowned in white messaline, trimmed with lace and pearls, while the bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Bennett, wore a gown of pink messaline. Both carried bouquets, the bride one of bridal roses. The groom was attended by John Corfield, of Lowell, Mass., who was best man. A. Broadbent and George H. Bennett acted as ushers. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Alfred Sutliffe, of Philadelphia.

The couple were the recipients of a large number of beautiful gifts, among which was a rocker presented to them by the Dutch Arms Band of Trinity church, Mr. Bennett being a member of that organization. The entire band was in attendance, giving a popular program. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will spend their honeymoon trip at Asbury Park, after which they will reside for a time with the groom's parents on South avenue, this city. Mr. Bennett, who has resided in this city all his life, is well known through his associations with Trinity church. He is employed at one of the local shops.

SUMMER FUND IS GROWING STEADILY

Mrs. Julia M. VanBuren Contributes $10 to the King's Daughters' Work.

Another contribution of $10 was received today for the City Union King's Daughters summer fund, Mrs. Julia M. VanBuren being the contributor. Friends of this worthy charity are again reminded that a considerable sum of money is still needed to meet the expenses for maintaining a diet kitchen and employing a trained nurse who visits the homes, giving mothers instruction as to the proper way of preparing food for children and also gives her services to sick children.

No matter how small the contribution it will be gladly received and appreciated by the officers of the King's Daughters, and the donor will have the satisfaction of knowing that the money has done a great amount of good. The contributions received to date are as follows:

Somerville

On account of the rain yesterday morning, the union excursion from Raritan and this place to Asbury Park was only about half what it otherwise would have been. There were about eight cars full when the excursion started, and there was more or less rain at intervals during the day at the shore. While the weather prevented many from taking advantage of the bathing, the many attractions of the beach were fully patronized, if for no other reason than to keep out of the rain. The trip there and the return trip were both made in good time.

DUNELLEN

HOW MANY PEOPLE ARE THERE IN DUNELLEN

So much has been said about the rapid growth of Dunellen, Plainfield's hustling suburb, that the Plainfield Daily Press has decided to try to answer the question.

In order to create local interest while the canvass is being made by representatives of this newspaper, the Plainfield Press Company will offer a prize of $5.00 in Gold to the Person Who Makes the Closest Guess as to the Actual Population.

There are absolutely no strings to the offer. The canvass of the borough is now being made, and will take several days. If you want to try to win five dollars, wait for the coupon which will be printed in Friday's paper and write the number of people you think there are in the borough limits, men, women and children, with your name and address, and forward to the Daily Press in a sealed envelope, plainly marked "Dunellen Population Contest."

The canvass of the town will be completed Saturday, August 1, and the result, with the name of the winner, and his or her guess, will be published on Monday, August 3. In case of tie the amount will be equally divided between those who make the same guess. Only one guess will be accepted from each person.

Although the trolleymen's annual picnic has been postponed from today until tomorrow, Manager T. Walter Sisty, of Wayside Park, has arranged to hold a dance at the park pavilion this evening. Naylor's orchestra will furnish music for all who care to dance.

William Connolly, of Glen Gardner, a former resident, was a visitor in the borough, yesterday.

Township Committeeman and Mrs. Abram G. Nelson, have returned from a visit since Saturday, at Asbury Park.

Mrs. John P. Fenner and children, of Washington avenue, are spending two weeks at Califon.

Rev. E. R. Brown and family leave the first of August for Isle Heights on Tome River, where they will spend the month of August.

George Rinehart, of North avenue, is making arrangements to leave on Sept. 16th for a three weeks' trip to Buffalo and Montreal.

Postmaster and Mrs. Henry S. Garretson entertained Mr. and Mrs. Peter Garretson of New York city on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Manahan, of Second street, entertained Mrs. Monahan's sister, Miss Biegan, of New York city, over the week-end.

Miss Mabel Bennett is visiting Miss Gladys Rentschler, at Ringstown, Pa.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Platt, Jr., departed yesterday for a visit until the first of September, at Vineland.

James Parkinson, of Brooklyn who has been staying at the home of Mrs. John Reiss on North avenue since the accident sustained by his mother, Mrs. Martha Parkinson, last Thursday night, returned home yesterday.

BOWLING TOURNEY.

The account of the games of the Women's Two Team Bowling Tournament on the Presbyterian alleys, last evening will be found on the sporting page. In tomorrow evening's games it will be Mrs. H. B. Arnold and Mrs. J. Newton Apgar vs. Mrs. J. G. Kelly and Mrs. Robert Craig vs. Miss Alice Apgar and Miss Florence Smalley.

CYCLIST'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Coasting down the roadway of the neighboring mountain from Washington Rock on his bicycle at noon yesterday, came within an ace of causing Walter Elliott, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott, of Center street, New Market, serious, if not fatal injury, when he was thrown off of his wheel while endeavoring to take a curve at full speed. Young Elliott and two of his New Market chums, Fred von Minden and George Nelson, had spent the morning at the Rock. When the young fellows decided to go home Nelson suggested coasting down the mountain. He had no more than made the suggestion than he was on his wheel and off. Elliott was next to follow suit and von Minden, not to be bested, did likewise. Just above the stone crusher there is a very sharp turn in the roadway. Nelson applied his coaster brake and made it successfully. Elliott, who endeavored to take it at full speed, failed to round it, his wheel shooting across the roadway hitting a stone and throwing him over the handlebars. von Minden coming in the rear witnessed the accident and was appalled supposing that his companion must surely have been killed or seriously injured. Elliott lay prostrated at the side of the roadway for a second or two. To the amazement of von Minden, he then arose and greeted him with a smile as he Von Minden, stopped his wheel. Elliott appeared to be none the worse for the accident and was able to ride home on the handlebars of Nelson's wheel with the frame of his damaged bicycle over his shoulders.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ayers, of Second street, are entertaining visitors from out of town.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS.

The executive committee of the recently formed council of the local Boy Scouts of America movement met in the borough hall last evening. Scout Commissioner Beals, of Plainfield, was present and gave an instructive and pleasant talk of an hour's duration about scout matters. The committee reports that the roll of the Boy Scouts has been increased by six scouts since Saturday afternoon's meeting of the organization and also that progress is being made in the matter of forming other troops.

Mrs. C. Wesley Bush, of Dunellen avenue, who has been ill for the past ten days, is slowly recovering.

"MOONLIGHT CHARLIE."

"Moonlight Charlie" Dowd, who wanders from farm to farm performing odd jobs and thus obtaining enough revenue to find "solace in the cup," and Martin Kravarik, who works in the brickyard of Albert Rajotte, were arraigned in the borough hall this morning before Recorder David S. Campbell on charge of being drunk and disorderly and fined $2 and $3 respectively. "Moonlight Charlie" had his slumbers abruptly disturbed by Marshals Mohan and Smalley at 8:30 o'clock last evening, while reclining on the lawn in front of the residence of Harry S. Titsworth on New Market road and incidently scaring all the women who passed with his snoring.

Kravarik was arrested by Marshal Patrick Tarpey while conducting himself in an unseemly manner at the Grove street crossing of the Central Railroad at six o'clock last evening.

Mrs. Edwin G. Lewis of Front street who was overcome with the heat while at luncheon about two weeks ago, has about fully recovered from the effects of the incident.

William and Philip Thompson, of Prospect avenue, have returned from a ten days' automobile trip through the New England States.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Ritcher, of Prospect avenue, were visitors at Mauch Chunk on Sunday.

Local Taximan and Mrs. H. E. Nelson and Earl Ising motored to South Orange on Sunday afternoon and passed the afternoon with Mr. Nelson's brother, Frank Nelson, who is the proprietor of one of the large hotels there.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley, of Main and Center streets, are entertaining Mrs. Bradley's parents from the city.

A Merchandise Gamble

You know the men who are in business in this community. You have known them for a number of years. You know them as being honorable and upright in every dealing you have had with them.

Knowing them in this way, are you willing to go to their stores and pay to them money for merchandise of which they can show you only a picture, and for which you must wait from one week to a month after they have received your money?

OF COURSE YOU ARE NOT!

But you are doing that very same thing with people you do not know when you send your money to the mail-order firms of the cities. You have only a picture or a brief description of an article from which to determine its value. After you have sent your money you must trust to the intelligence of a poorly paid boy or girl to send in return the merchandise you want.

The people of Plainfield who persist in dealing with the mail-order houses are doing themselves and this city an injustice.

PLANNING FOR C. E. CONVENTION

Noted Speakers Will Address Gathering to Be Held In Jersey City.

THREE DAYS' PROGRAM

Tentative Outline of Services Arranged By Special Committee—Annual Address By Rev. Dr. Clark, Founder of Society.

A program that it is believed will attract a large number of young people of New Jersey churches to the State Christian Endeavor convention that will be held in Jersey City in October has just been completed. The president of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, John T. Sproull, and Rev. A. W. Sonne, chairman of the program committee, have sought to secure good speakers for the convention and also to emphasize the regular departmental work of the State union.

Rev. Francis D. Clark, D. D., founder and president of the Christian Endeavor movement, will make the address at the closing session of the convention. His associate, who is also the superintendent of the United Society's temperance and Christian citizenship department, will be the speaker at the Wednesday evening session, and he will also assist in the workers' conference on Wednesday afternoon. Karl Lehmann, the field secretary of the United Society, and, who like Mr. Poling, has dedicated his life to the service of young people, will conduct a conference and will also give an address, speaking on Thursday afternoon and again on Friday.

The two United Society trustees who will have part in the program are John T. Sproull, of Arlington, the State president of the New Jersey Endeavorers, who will conduct the sunrise meetings, and Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins, S. T. D., of Philadelphia, rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity there, and one of the most prominent among American speakers and writers on devotional subjects. For a number of year, Dr. Tomkins has conducted the Quiet Hour services at nearly every convention of the New Jersey Endeavorers, and the young people would feel that the convention was incomplete without him.

Besides these men identified with the general organization there will be other speakers of prominence, among them Rev. C. R. Ardman, D. D., of Princeton Theological Seminary; John R. Clements, of Binghamton, N. Y., president of the New York State C. E. Union; Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D. D., of Brooklyn, one of the most noted divines of the country; Rev. Charles A. Killie, a missionary to China whose addresses since his return on furlough have attracted wide attention, and Rev Walter B. Greenway, formerly of New Jersey, but now pastor of a Philadelphia church and singularly successful in work among young people.

The convention will be held in the Bergen Reformed church, Jersey City, of which Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, is pastor. The dates will be October 7, 8 and 9. All local organizations are in the care of the Hudson County Christian Endeavor Union, whose president, Willard L. Randall, is the general chairman.

The general theme of the convention will be "Efficiency." The first session will be held on Wednesday, October 7. From 2 to 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon there will be a workers' conference in charge of the State secretary, Miss Nellie K. Foote, who will be assisted by Daniel A. Poling, of the United Society. The State executive committee will meet at 6:30 p. m., following a banquet tendered to its members by the Christian Endeavor Society of the convention church. At 7:30 there will be a musical service, followed by the evening session, with address by Mr. Poling.

Thursday morning from 6:45 to 7:30 o'clock there will be a sunrise prayer service led by President Sproull. The morning session of the convention will begin at 9:30 o'clock with devotional service and greetings by the hosts. Rev. Dr. J J. Adams, of Red Bank, will speak on work among the colored people, Dr. Adams being superintendent of that department in the State union. The quiet hour, led by Dr. Tomkins, will follow, from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock. Three department chairmen wil then address the convention —Rev. Adelbert Chapman, of Hackensack, evangelistic, on "Personal Work"; Frederick L. Mintel, of Rahway, press, on "Printer's Ink;" Percy R. Nuessle, of Newark, introduction, on "The Stranger Within Thy Gates." Shop meetings will follow the morning session.

Thursday afternoon will be devoted largely to the program of the intermediate department, Mrs. G. D. Baker and Miss Emilie Edwards in charge. The varied program by the boys and the girls will be preceded by addresses by Rev. Dr. J. W. Rogan, of Red Bank, superintendent of Bible study; Rev. Dr. Erdman, Mr. Clements and probably Mr. Lehmann.

In the evening, following a song service on the porch, there will be the reports of the secretary and the treasurer, the address by Dr. Cadman, whose topic will be "The Outlook for the Kingdom of God," and an illustrated address on fresh air work by H. A. Marshall, State superintendent of that department. The views shown will picture the work that Endeavorers are doing in New Jersey.

The sunrise meditations on Friday morning will be held at the same time as on Thursday, with Mr. Sproull in charge. The first address at the morning session will be by Rev. Dr. Frederick W. Johnson, of Rahway, the superintendent of the Christian Citizenship and Sabbath Observance Department, whose topic will be "Keep the Day Holy." Rev. Herbert K. England, of Roselle, superintendent of the missionary department, will follow with an address on missions. Rev. Mr. Greenway and Dr. Tomkins will be the other speakers of the morning.

At 11:30 o'clock there will be study periods for workers especially interested in some particular phase of the work. These will be on prayer meeting, lookout, social, missionary, Sabbath observance, Bible study and personal work methods, the last three mentioned being in charge of the superintendents of these branches. Walter O. Anderson, of Jersey City, will have in charge the prayer meeting hour; Miss H. O. Parsons, the lookout, and Miss Edna M. Horner, the social. There will be shop meetings and open-air services at noon.

Friday afternoon an open parliament will be conducted by Mr. Lehmann, and Dr. Killies will give his illustrated lecture on China. The juniors will have their rally, with the State superintendent, Miss Mae Hice, of Flemington, in charge.

The closing session Friday night will be of much interest. As on Thursday evening there will be a song service on the porch of the church. Reports of committees on resolutions and nominations will be submitted, and new officers will be introduced. Dr. Clark will give his address, the roll of counties will be called, and there will be closing words and adjournment.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Frederic L. Greene, of West Fifth street, pastor of Hope chapel, who has been spending the past month at Sabael, in the Adirondacks, New York, will return to this city Saturday, and occupy his pulpit both morning and evening Sunday. The service preparatory to communion will be held next Wednesday evening, while the communion service and reception of new members will be held the following Sunday evening, August 9.

Services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home are now being held regularly on Tuesday and Friday evenings, as well as Sunday afternoons. Social evenings are held during the week. The general public are invited to the religious services.

Rev. Evarts C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, will occupy his pulpit Sunday for the last time previous to leaving on his vacation. "Home Sunday" will be observed at the Sunday-school of this church at their session of next Sunday morning.

The Congregational church will be closed the last three Sundays of August, the First Presbyterian church the last two, and Trinity Reformed church the last Sunday, August 30. Supplies will occupy the pulpits of these churches during the remainder of the month.

The ways and means committee of Hope chapel will meet next Monday evening, at which time several matters of importance will be considered.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel will hold their monthly consecration service Sunday evening, the services of the remainder of the month being omitted.

The service tonight at the First Baptist church will be, as previously stated, one of great interest and importance. It is hoped that every member of the church now in the city will, as far as possible, be present. The officers of the church, trustees, deacons and others, are specially asked to attend. A special invitation also is extended young men.

K. OF C. EXCURSION.

The annual excursion of the Knights of Columbus to Asbury Park on August 6, promises to be one of the biggest of the season. The Knights are famous as entertainers and hundreds of people are anxiously awaiting the day of the outing, being assured of a great day at the shore. The children whom the Knights take with them free of charge are the greatest shouters for the excursion The utmost care for their safety is taken by those in charge.

SAYS HE IS A CANDIDATE.

John Caulfield, chairman of the City Democratic Committee, officially announced today that John P. Owens is a prospective candidate for the county clerkship nomination on the Democratic ticket and that his petitions are now in circulation throughout the county. Mr. Caulfield also states that Mr. Owens has received assurances of support from Democrats in all parts of the county.

BARNES ANSWERS HINMAN CHARGE

Leader Asserts That Candidate Tells Falsehood.

DENIES HE'S MURPHY ALLY

Says He Has Never Been In a Political Combination With Any Leaders of Tammany Hall, Nor Is He Party to "Bipartisan Combine."

New York, July 29.—That phrase, "absolutely and unqualifiedly false," was flung at Harvey D. Hinman by William Barnes. The Republican state chairman made use of it in meeting Mr. Hinman's assertion of Monday night that when he was in the state senate he saw good bills defeated by a combination of Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy of Tammany. Mr. Barnes says:

"It is with great regret that I am compelled, through a sense of personal honor, to speak of myself.

"But the statement made by Mr. Hinman demands this. Appealing to the Republican and Progressive primaries for the nomination of those parties for governor, he states in effect that I am a party to 'a bipartisan combine.' This is absolutely and unqualifiedly false.

"I have not been at any time in my life in political combination, deal, dicker or association, either directly or through any representative with Mr. Murphy or any of the 'leaders' of Tammany Hall or their predecessors.

"In June, 1910, before I was elected chairman of the Republican state committee and in accordance with the last Republican platform, which called for the freest action at the primaries on the part of the voters of each political party, as a citizen of this state in the exercise of my rights I opposed, as Mr. Hinman says, amendments to the primary law of the state proposed by him as crude legislation, ineffective to accomplish the purpose for which they apparently were designed.

"The principle involved in his measure was that of 'committee designation,' with preferential position on the party ballot for the candidates designated by the party committees—virtually placing with these committees absolute power of nomination, a legislative indorsement and conservation of the influence of party leaders.

"I opposed this bill in the columns of the Albany Evening Journal and used whatever other proper influence I might for its defeat.

Hinman Voted "No."

"In the following year the Democratic legislature passed, with every Republican in the legislature voting 'No,' including Mr. Hinman, the primary law of 1911, which contained the foregoing essential principle of the Hinman measure of 1910.

"The experience of the state with that law was of such a nature that it met with unanimous condemnation and has been repealed through the power of public sentiment.

"During the administration of Governor Hughes, Mr. Timothy L. Woodruff, and not I, was chairman of the Republican state committee.

"Under the administrations of Governors Dix, Sulzer and Glynn, thanks to Mr. Roosevelt, the Republican party has not been in control of any administrative branch of the government of this state. During that period, however, I have been chairman of the Republican state committee, and whatever influence I have been able to exert in a proper manner has been in opposition to all legislation of the character which Mr. Hinman has very properly denounced, the only difference in this respect between Mr. Hinman and myself being that I have been consistently at work in opposition to these measures every day of the year since 1911."

SEWER BLOWS UP; 12 HURT.

Four Seriously Injured In Accident at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, July 29.—Twelve men were injured, four seriously, when a new sewer being constructed in Thirty-third street blew up, ripping the thoroughfare from Penn avenue to the Allegheny river, with loss estimated at more than $150,000.

The sewer was being built to replace one that exploded last fall, injuring several persons and causing loss of more than $250,000. In the explosion today the sewer blew up in three different places, one of them beneath the Carnegie Steel works.

NON-SUPPORT CASES.

One of the most perplexing questions brought to the attention of the city judge of this and other municipalities in New Jersey is the disposition of non-support cases. Charges of this nature are frequent in the local court and although temporary relief is provided in many instances the offenders take various means of evading the law after their appearance in court. To send a man to jail on this charge means that his family will become a public charge. If he is committed to jail he remains there for a time until released by the Board of Freeholders and after his liberation he is out of the jurisdiction of the courts. After he has served time for this offense he cannot be compelled to provide support for those formerly dependent upon him.

Rather than send the defendants to jail, City Judge DeMeza has tried various experiments. One of these has been to place those accused under bonds to provide a certain sum each week for maintenance of his family. This has worked well in some instances but more often the defendant has broken faith and finally landed in jail. What the State needs is some provision whereby the defendants in these cases may be committed to the county jails and made to work on the county roads, their earnings being turned over to the city for the support of their families. This would soon break up the practise and at the same time relieve the city of the responsibility at present imposed.

In a majority of cases the accused parties have been foreigners. After coming to Plainfield they find it is easier to throw the responsibility for the support of their families on the city authorities, and when the Charity Organization gets tired of providing sustenance the offenders are brought into court. It is a peculiar fact that almost all of the defendants are willing to go to jail rather than agree to support those dependent upon them. They all appear to be aware of the fact that a term at Elizabeth will place them out of reach of the jurisdiction of the courts and that their families will be taken care of by the city.

A NETHERWOOD SCHOOL.

There is no disputing the contention that the people of the Netherwood section should have a school, conveniently located and large enough to provide for the growth which is sure to come in that section. Residents there have been agitating the question for a long time, but last night's meeting was the first united effort that has been made to secure the building. That the next school building erected should be placed in that section of the city is beyond contradiction.

The Board of Education has been confronted by a great problem for several years. The enormous increase from year to year in children of school age has been one that has kept the heads of the educational department busy trying to find seating accommodations. The new building which has been authorized for Evergreen avenue will relieve the congestion to a certain extent, but as has been pointed out by the Netherwood people, will not be of any great benefit to them. With the increasing tax rate from year to year, it has been with reluctance that the Board of Education has asked for new buildings, but they have realized the demand fully, even though unable to supply the needed class rooms.

It is sincerely to be hoped that readjustments in other departments of the city government will be such during the coming year that their demands will not be so great, and the money can be arranged for, to give the people of the Netherwood section the school which they need.

If the North Plainfield Board of Education intends to make suggested alterations in the Somerset street school building this summer it is pretty nearly time some definite action was taken in the matter. The State Board has ordered improvements to be made, and until these recommendations are complied with, the borough's school system will not be recognized as coming up to the standard. Last fall the pupils and teachers in the institution were subjected to considerable inconvenience because laborers worked on the structure during school hours. At times the annoyance was intolerable and it was hoped this year that the proposed improvements would be made during the summer recess.

The agitation for the work was started early enough to have it completed by September, but present conditions indicate that it will not be started before that time. Because of the big expense entailed there is some question as to whether or not the work will be done at all, and certain members of the Borough Board are said to be in favor of defying the State Board's demands. It is contended that making regulations of this kind, the expense of which is out of proportion to the community's resources, is placing a hardship on the borough and ignorance of the higher body's orders may bring about some understanding that will benefit North Plainfield.

Some idea of the wealth of the community can be gained from the fact that the assessors have over 900 automobiles upon which to place valuations. There are probably over $1,000,000 worth in the city.

Certainly there is no scarcity of candidates for State and county offices this fall. The direct primary can never be accused of keeping good men from seeking office.

Company K, Plainfield's representatives in the citizen soldiery of the State, are as usual covering themselves with glory at the annual encampment at Sea Girt.

We have a sneaking suspicion that the greatest howl that has ever gone up in Plainfield will be heard when the tax bills appear.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

I was much surprised to read in your editorial of the 23d inst., a criticism of President Wilson based upon a prejudiced report of a reception granted by him to a delegation of woman Suffragists. An examination of recent files of any of the large newspapers will show that the President did not lose his temper, nor behave in an undignified manner. You say that he stalked from the room, "the door of which he banged as he disappeared." Do you think that the President of the United States goes unattended to receptions, and that he opens the door on his entrance and closes it when he withdraws? That bang of the door is pure imagination, wherever the idea of it originated. If there was an absence of dignity, it was on the part of members of the delegation, who violated the proprieties of the occasion by abusing the courtesy which the President had extended to them.

He believes that the proper field in which those advocating suffrage for women should pursue their activities is in the several States, and not in the Federal Congress, and he told the delegation so. It was not compatable with his dignity as Chief Executive to submit to a cross-examination at the hands of some over zealous delegates.

It is, of course, open to you to believe that "in this problem of woman suffrage is interwoven the vital principle of democracy," and it is open to others to see in this collection of words mere vertiage without any significance. But your advocacy of a cause which has very many opponents should lead you to a rather intemperate and wholly unjustified slur upon a man, like President Wilson, who has always shown himself honest in his convictions and in his readiness to avow them.

EDWARD C. PEARSON.

July 26, 1914.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

I read with interest and amazement the article describing the newly organized Irish society which has the laudable purpose of uniting the sons of Ireland irrespective of their religious beliefs. Is it possible that Messrs. McDonough, Kiely, et. al., have conceived the notion that they can unite all Irish residents irrespective of religious affiliations and at the same time expect them to be pleased with Home Rule in Ireland and laud Ireland's "triumph" in obtaining it?

Either the organizers have a poor opinion of the knowledge the public has of conditions in Ireland, or else they are throwing a tremendous "bluff." Protestant Ulster and Catholic Ireland have nothing in common in this country, insofar as Home Rule is concerned, any more than they have in Ireland itself.

It will be interesting to learn how the Protestant Irish join in the new movement.

When all is said and done, Home Rule means Home Rule; nothing more, nothing less, and the dividing line is evident to all who can read.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Edward S. Gray, former secretary of the Republican State Committee and secretary to Governor Stokes, during the later's term, filed his petition as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Eighth District, with the Secretary of State today. The Eighth District is composed of parts of Hudson and part of Essex counties. It is now represented by Congressman Eugene S. Kinkead, who is a candidate for sheriff of Hudson county. Mr. Gray names himself as treasurer of his campaign fund.

The first meeting of the season of the First Ward Republican Club has been called for Tuesday evening, August 11. The election of officers will take place at that time, and preliminary plans for the campaign discussed at length.

Plans are being made by the Republican executive committee for the organization of clubs in the Second and Fourth Wards, clubs already existing in the First and Third Wards.

STATE MASTER BUILDERS' ASS'N TO MEET HERE

The State Master Builders' Association will meet in annual session tomorrow at Reform Hall, about 100 delegates being expected from various parts of the State. William C. Smith, L. B. Woolston and Albert Pangborn compose the local committee of arrangements.

A banquet will follow the business sessions. It is expected that Mayor Percy H. Stewart will address the convention. This is the first time that the association has met in this city, the organization always making it a habit to meet at one of the shore resorts.

CLEAR SKIES PROMISED FOR TRINITY'S EXCURSION

After almost a week of rain, the weather prophet promises clear skies for tomorrow when Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, accompanied by the Netherwood and Marconnier Reformed churches and Mt. Pleasant chapel will take its annual trip to Asbury Park. The committee in charge has arranged every detail and all who go on the outing are assured of the best kind of a time at the shore.

The bathing is now at its best and many other attractions are offered which will make the day one of real pleasure for the excursionists. The committee has engaged a sufficient number of coaches to provide plenty of room for everyone and if you do not plan to go you will have cause to regret the fact.

PICTURES OF CREATION.

Those in charge of the "Photo Drama of Creation," being shown at Reform Hall, announced today that part two will be exhibited tonight and parts three and four in succession with a grand finale on Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening. On Sunday there will be moving pictures and an able speaker. The pictures are marvels of art, giving a faithful portrayal of the subject. All seats are free and no collection is taken.

DECIDES NOT TO BUILD.

Jacob Sachar, who had plans out for the erection of several dwellings on Sachar place, near Giraud avenue, stated today that owing to the declaration of war by Austria, he had decided not to build because of the stringency of the money market which he believes is sure to follow.

RECREATION NOTES

The Washington Musical and Dramatic Club which meets every Tuesday night in the Washington School, under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee, held a very interesting meeting last night. The club has decided to give the two short plays "My Lord in Livery" and "Sarahs Young Man," at the opening of the New High School Auditorium and have asked H. C. White, of this city, to coach them. Mr. White is a coach of experience and is very popular with the club.

The Folk Dancing class will meet tonight in the Bryant School, at 8:15. The class has a good membership but there is still room for a few more girls in the club. Any new members will be made welcome tonight. Miss Morris has the class work in charge and this class is proving quite popular with the Plainfield young couple

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

"The World Do Move."

Sixty years ago this month the world's first Woman Rights Convention was held. The scene was the Methodist church at Seneca Falls, N. Y., and the prime movers were Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott. The little church was crowded to the doors during the two days of the convention. Some of the country's most notable men were present and cheered when the "Declaration of Woman's Rights," drawn up along the lines of the Declaration of Independence of the American Colonies, was promulgated. The document set forth the condition of women at that time. The feminine speakers pointed out that "colleges and High Schools are closed to women; man monopolizes the remunerative employments; women are not permitted to speak in public; married women cannot hold property, are not entitled to their own earnings, cannot conduct a business in their names, cannot make a contract or will, or bring suits in court; nor are they considered as competent guardians of their own children, and nowhere in the civilized world is woman permitted to have her say in government." The revolt amazed the world and brought ridicule and sarcasm down upon the pioneers.

Today American women theoretically have sufficient votes to decide who shall be the President of the United States. Ten States have granted full suffrage to their 3,500,000 or more women, and others are now debating whether to extend full suffrage. This question will be decided before the next Presidential election is held. In several of the States women today are filling important civic and State political offices, and are candidates for others. Woman suffrage has become a world-wide movement. The subject of woman suffrage has been presented before every national legislative body in the world, with the single exception of Turkey, during the past two years. The women of twenty-six nations are banded together in an alliance and are struggling for political recognition in their respective countries. In the field of "remunerative employments" today in the United States there is one woman to every four men engaged in gainful occupations. Five per cent. of these women are married, and their vocations range from blacksmiths and roof shinglers to bank presidents, architects and lawyers.

Why Suffragists Want Federal Action.

On the last day of June, President Wilson told a delegation of women who called upon him that in his opinion the question of woman suffrage is entirely a matter for the individual States to decide.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, replies: "Presiden Wilson is right. The question of woman suffrage is certainly one for the States to decide. But in what manner shall the States decide it? How shall the question be presented to them? If Congress takes no action each State will have to amend its own constitution in order to provide for the enfranchisement of its women.

"Vermont can do this only by a constitutional convention, and its next convention will be in 1920.

"New Hampshire must wait for a constitutional convention, which will be in 1919 if a majority of the voters approve.

"In New Mexico a suffrage amendment must have three-fourths vote in each House; and, when submitted to the electors, must be approved by three-fourths of all those voting in the whole State and at least two thirds of all voting in each county.

"In Illinois an amendment must have a two-thirds vote in each House Only one amendment may be submitted at a time, and the same one not oftener than once in four years

"One can go down the list of States citing constitutional difficulties in the way of expressing popular sentiment in favor of suffrage.

"To those who are opposed or indifferent to woman suffrage, it may seem to be coming with amazing rapidity. To the women who mother a bill through two legislatures and wage a State-wide campaign for a referendum, all the time facing the fact that if the amendment is lost they must begin over again, progress by this kind of State action is not swift, though it may be amazing that anything is ever accomplished at all.

"Two other methods of State action are proposed by Suffragists. One method—provided for in the Bristol-Mondell Resolution now before Congress—is the passing by Congress of an amendment, providing that no citizen of the United States shall be deprived of the franchise because of sex, and the ratification of this amendment by the legislatures of thirty-six States. Ratification is State action. But surely it is far easier to get a favorable vote ratifying congressional action from a legislature than to get a State constitutional amendment through two successive legislatures, and then get a three-fifths or two-thirds or even majority vote at the polls.

"The other method—provided for in the Shafroth-Palmer Resolution—is the passing by Congress of an amendment providing for the submission of an equal suffrage amendment in any State after the filing of initiative petitions signed by eight per cent. of the voters of the State There again it is State action—action by the voters of the State, but action unimpeded by the difficult provisions of the State Constitution."

"In 1912, Oregon and Arizona granted equal suffrage to women In both States the amendment was submitted by initiative petition. In November, 1914, Nebraska, Missouri and possibly Ohio will vote on equal suffrage amendments submitted by initiative petition. But in many States it is as difficut to pass an amendment providing for legislation by initiative petition as to pass a suffrage amendment.

"Federal action is needed to enable many of out States to take State action on woman suffrage within a reasonable time after a reasonable amount of public opinion is known to be in favor of such action."

Dr. Davis' First Report.

Dr. Katharine Bement Davis, Commissioner of Corrections in New York city, has issued a report on the first six months' work of her department under her administration. Not even the most reactionary organ of opinion but has joined in a chorus of commendation on the splendid showing of the commissioner. Her most important work of the past week is the enforcement of the Boylan anti-drug law in the institutions of New York city.

Under the heading, "A Real Department for Correction," the New York Tribune says of Miss Davis' plans for building a boys' reformatory, an industrial prison and establishing a farm on Riker's Island: "This is an ambitious program, and of course it will cost money. * * * Miss Davis can be relied on to get her money's worth. It will pay the city to grant her these appropriations. She has outlined a comprehensive scheme of institutional reorganization which will bring the city up to date in its manner of handling correctional problems."

Of how many New York politicians of the old school before women came into public life was it said that they could be relied upon to use public money to get full worth for the public good?

Suffrage and Chivalry.

At the first session of the first legislature elected by equal suffrage in Kansas, the following resolution was carried:

"Whereas, the voters of this State have conferred upon the women of Kansas the right of suffrage and the right of citizenship so long denied them; and whereas, there are matters of grave importance for this legislature to determine, and we need the counsel, advice and co-operation of all good citizens:

"Therefore, Be it resolved by the Senate, the House concurring, that the congratulations of the legislature are hereby extended to the women of the State, and they are welcome to that full citizenship now given and guaranteed by the constitution; and they are most cordially and sincerely invited and urged to give to this legislature, by petition, remonstrance or otherwise, the benefit of their advice and counsel on all measures which may come up for consideration affecting the interests of our State, assuring them that the same will receive due and careful consideration."

This does not look as if the men of Kansas had lost their respect for women citizens.

When the Light Came.

"Since the suffrage convention met in our town," said a factory worker in a certain county in New York State, "great things have happened in our factory."

"What was that?"

"The morning after the convention when we went to work we found 'Votes for Women' written on a window that hadn't been washed for twenty years. The foreman was mad and he washed it off. The next morning we found 'Votes for Women' written in the dust on another window. The foreman was madder than ever and again washed it off. The third morning when we went to work we found someone had written 'Victory—November, 1915!' The foreman was so furious that he ordered all the windows washed."

"Well, what happened?"

"Then the light streamed in."

Suffrage and the School Teachers.

The greatest interest has been aroused in the carrying by the National Education Association, representing as it does the whole educational system of the country, of a resolution endorsing the principles of political equality of the sexes and of equal pay for equal work.

"The most wonderful part of the convention to me," said a teacher who was a delegate, "was the quiet way in which that suffrage resolution was adopted. The time was ripe. A few years ago it was a great innovation when Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt spoke from the platform of the N. E. A. and gave her message of enfranchisement to the women teachers. But progress has been made rapidly the past year."

The following is the comment of Ella Flagg Young:

"Isn't it significant, and one of the glowing signs of the times, that the academic thought of this glorious land of ours should be in harmony on this great issue of justice and equality, the foundation on which our country was built? And the principle of justice and equality mean 'Votes for Women.'"

Dr. David Starr Jordan, the new president of the National Educational Association, is a pronounced Suffragist. He was elected because, in addition to his being a distinguished educator, he did more than any other one person in getting the ballot for the women of California. He has watched the working out of suffrage from the academic standpoint in his own State, and knows it to be a success.

"A Democratic system of education recognizes merit and fitness,' said Dr. Jordan, "as the supreme test for public service."

The Books in the Circulating Library That Circulate.

The University of Wisconsin, which has a department of debating and public discussion, and sends out packages of books all over the State, announces that during the past six months woman suffrage was the most popular of the 1167 subects asked for.

Women Suffragists Received in the House of Commons.

A deputation of Suffragists representing the International Woman Suffrage Alliance in committee in London, and led by the president, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, visited the House of Commons on the 14th instant; and were entertained at tea on the terrace.

Francis Dyke-Ackland, under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs said to the ladies that "the next government, whatever its political complexion might be, would be obliged to deal with the woman suffrage question as a party measure in some shape or form."

Mrs. Catt in returning thanks on behalf of the visitors, said they were pleased to find themselves within the walls of the House of Commons which seemed to be the storm centre of the world-wide suffrage movement.

A Suffrage Exhibit.

A permanent International Suffrage Exhibit is proposed for the future to become a feature of all great expositions, notably beginning with the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915. This will include statistical matter, posters and cartoons and the literature connected with the movement. There are 83 woman suffrage publications throughout the world. Every country in Europe has a suffrage paper as also have South America, South Africa, Asia, Egypt, India, China Australia, and many in the United States.

Bryan Follows Champ Clark's Example.

Secretary Bryan has come out for suffrage and in familiar phrasing told why he is in favor of "Votes for Women," and why he will support the amendment in his own State, Nebraska, next November.

Col. Roosevelt, a Guest of Women Representing the Progressive Party of New York.

For the first time women interested in politics in New York State, have ever held conference with a national leader, who is an ex-President as well.

In speaking of the constitutional convention, delegates for which are to be elected this fall, Colonel Roosevelt said:

"I shall hope to see that constitutional convention provide for woman suffrage. At any rate, I feel that the Progressive party should put up and insist upon having among the candidates whom it favors, a certain proportion of women."

Miss Catherine Hooker, of California, one of the four women delegates to the national convention of the Progressive party, was a guest of honor. The colonel greeted her with the statement that she represented a condition of affairs in her State which we New Yorkers were bound to have.

The "Movies" to Teach the Voters.

The "movies" are arranging to teach all new voters how to mark a ballot, especially all the women voters who will want to know exactly how it is done after November 1915, in New York State. This is to be a feature previous to Election Day, and in order to familiarize women with the situation, there will be moving figures of women casting their ballots in States where women already vote.

The Approaching Conventions.

The Empire State Campaign Committee is taking every care to ensure that the bill for submitting woman suffrage shall be carried as enthusiastically by the support of all parties in the legislature of 1915 as it was in 1913. Delegates are meeting the platform committees, and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman Empire State Campaign Committee; Mrs. Raymond Brown, president New York State Woman Suffrage Association, and many other leading Suffragists will attend the conventions at Saratoga. The resolutions for the Democratic and Republican platforms are worded as follows:

Resolution for Democratic Platform.

We reaffirm the Democratic plank of 1912 favoring the submission to the voters of the State of a woman suffrage constitutional amendment, and in further fulfillment of this promise we agree to support the bill passed in 1913 through its final passage to the people by the legislature of 1915. Moreover, we pledge our support to the ratification by the constitutional convention of the same measure in order to ensure its submission to the voters.

We further urge Democratic voters to remember that our great leader, Thomas Jefferson, gave to the world the principle that "just governments are based upon the consent of the governed," and that as women are "governed," justice and consistency demand that opportunity be afforded them to express their consent by votes.

Resolution for Republican Platform.

We reaffirm the Republican pledge of 1912 supporting the submission to the voters of the State of a woman suffrage amendment to the constitution, and in order to give effect to this pledge, we agree to support the bill of 1913 through its final passage to the people by the legislature of 1915. Further, we pledge our support to the ratification of the same measure by the constitutional convention.

We further urge Republican voters to bear in mind that in the words of Abraham Lincoln, ours is "a government of the people, by the people and for the people," and that as women are people, consistency obviously demands that they shall be granted an equal voice in all matters of common welfare.

New Jersey Women Watchful.

(From a Newark daily.)

Trenton, N. J., July 12—Determined to avert a repetition of last year's fiasco to properly advertise the suffrage amendment, a delegation of five members of the Women's Political Union, of New Jersey, today called on Governor Fielder. Mrs. R. T. Newton, president of the Nutley branch of the union, spoke for the party.

She impressed upon the executive the necessity of giving careful attention to the advertisement of the proposed amendment this year, and the Governor listened attentively.

After leaving the Governor's office the women expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with their audience and the arrangements made for the printing of the amendment in the newspapers. The delegation included Mrs. F. H. Stokes, of Freehold; Mrs. F. E. Sturgis, of Westfield; Mrs. F. H. Sommer, of Newark, and Mrs. M. F. Strickler, of Summit.

Iowa Republicans in Line.

The Iowa State Republican Convention at Des Moines, last week, adopted a plank commending the legislature for submitting to the voters of Iowa the suffrage amendment. Since the amendment has to pass another legislature before going to the voters in 1916, the plank adds: "We further urge the next legislature to secure submission of the question to the vote of the people."

WARBURG AGREES TO MEET THE SENATORS

Senator Hitchcock Has Long Talk With Banker.

New York, July 29.—Paul M. Warburg has agreed to confer with the members of the senate committee on banking and currency respecting his nomination by the president as a member of the federal reserve board, and in all likelihood the committee will recommend that his nomination be confirmed.

Mr. Warburg and Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who was acting chairman of the committee until the return of Senator Owen from Europe a few days ago, talked the matter over here and Senator Hitchcock left for Washington fully convinced that the talk has disposed of all the differences.

"I had a very pleasant and satisfactory talk with Mr. Warburg," said the senator. "I found him very frank and I have hopes, as Senator O'Gorman has, that through a conference between Mr. Warburg and the committee the result will be satisfactory.

"I gathered from his talk that a general misunderstanding has arisen on the part of Mr. Warburg regarding the committee's attitude. It frequently happens that two parties, looking at the same question from different angles, will see different sides and arrive at misunderstandings.

"The committee, in inviting him to appear, had no intention of getting other information than it thought it ought to have in order to reach an intelligent conclusion."

GRADE COMMISSION BILL UP

Senate Spends Another Day In Discussing the Measure.

Washington, July 29.—The senate spent another day in discussing the federal trade commission bill. Senators Sutherland and Brandgee, Republicans, discussed it and dissected it, and Senator Thomas of Colorado, Democrat, pronounced it an un-Democratic bill because of the extraordinary powers conferred on the trade commission. Senator Thomas' attack on the bill was unusually vigorous and gave his Democratic colleagues considerable concern.

Sporting Editor:

Query.—How many times has the New York team won the pennant in the National League and in what years? A. B. C.

Answer.—The New York team has been seven times winner in the following years: 1888; 1889, 1904, 1905; 1911; 1912; 1913.

Sporting Editor:

Query.—If the Federal League is losing money why does it not disband instead of losing more. R. P.

Answer.—The Federal League is not losing money but is merely spending a large amount. It takes lots of cash and time to launch a new big league and the outlaw officials are spending plenty of money in an endeavor to get their league on a solid and permanent basis and then they will get all their money back and then some.

ROD AND REEL

Fluke are the main run these days around Sandy Hook and many fishermen are getting big results. One man caught a fluke that weighed two and three-quarters pounds.

Weakfish and bluefish are keeping the anglers busy at Forked River. Many anglers visit that place and report large catches.

Crabbing is popular at Newark Bay. Several parties are out for this sport every day and catch large sacks full of them.

An extraordinary catch was made at Morgan Station, yesterday, when two men in a boat landed a sea turtle weighing 170 pounds. It is the biggest one that has ever been seen at that place and while on the water one of the men had to sit on the animal to keep it from climbing over the boat. They also had good luck with weakfish.

Crabs are plentiful in the Shrewsbury river, as they always have been and are very easy to get.

Everybody is catching fish at the Highlands these days. It seemed that there was a very large school of porpoise in the bay between Atlantic Highlands and the point off Sandy Hook and they frightened the weakfish away. During the evening several large sharks came in and away went the porpoise and now the fishermen are wishing that a few whales would come in and drive the sharks away.

The best of the fishing in Raritan Bay, Sunday, was east of Keyport Harbor and there the flood tide in the morning was the only time to spend at the work, as the fish seemed to scatter on the ebb. It was a case of the early bird getting the fish.

Croakers, or silver bass, are in the lower bays and some of the fishermen are catching quite a few of them. The fish have been caught off the Seidler net stakes on the Jersey shore and no further north than Lemon Creek on the Staten Island shore. Running from a pound to two and a half in weight they make good fishing with a light rod.

Fluke by the thousands are along the shore, especially at the Highlands, where the surf fishermen are catching them every day.

Catches of from fifteen to twenty sea bass were about the ordinary on the steamer Taurus last week, as most of the fishing was done at the Cholera Banks. The boat was stopped on the Jersey shore one day to let the people on board catch some fluke, and if the captain hadn't pulled up anchor, the fishermen would have swamped the boat with the catch.

The weakfish still keep the anglers at Seawaren very busy. A local man picked up sixteen big ones in a short time. The fish are all tide runners that are being caught at Sewaren, and furnish lots of fun for the fishermen.

LOCAL BOYS BATTED AGAINST PITCHER SIGNED BY GIANTS

S. W. Royce, the Hamilton College pitcher, who has been signed by Manager McGraw, of the New York Giants, has pitched against "Hub" Stine and George Townley when the latter two were playing with the Springfield Training School team. Royce is claimed to be the greatest college "strikeout artist" in the game and the New York boss liked his looks.

When playing against the Training School he had a sore arm and lost to that team. Stine pounded out one safety off his delivery. Royce is a southpaw and is also noted for his hitting ability. He batted .900 last year and in the game against Springfield was credited with four hits out of as many times at the bat.

GOOD PLAYER LOST TO N. P. H. S. FIVE

Addison Newkirk, Guard On Basketball Team, Will Not Return to School.

North Plainfield High School basketball stock was given a great setback this morning when it was announced that Addison Newkirk, of Willow avenue, will not take up his studies as a Junior next September. This statement, which comes from good authority, also is a surprise to all of Newkirk's friends. Newkirk was down for a regular position as guard on the representative five of the school next year and was one of the best substitutes that the champions had last season.

The team next year was to be composed of two of last year's players and all three of the extra men that were kept in uniform last year and came in for the championship honors. All three of these men had been trained with the team under the same coach and a regular machine had been developed that hung up the best record in the history of the school. When three of the players left school last June there were still great hopes of again copping the cup this year, and another record expected. Newkirk was a strong man on the defense and it will be hard to replace him. The team will, however, have four players and another will have to be trained into form hurriedly before the first game with Plainfield. Although the outlook has been darkened a little there are always some new "white hopes" who are brought out during the preliminary practice each year, and probably a good guard will respond to the call this year.

When interviewed this morning Captain Abrams said, "I am sorry that "Newkie" won't be with us on the floor this year and he will be missed in the guard position. We will have to get another man for that position and then go right after that title again." Newkirk will probably start in business in the fall.

LOCAL CLUB WANTS LOOK-IN FOR TITLE

Plainfield A. A. Are After the Pets and Other Local Teams of Like Strength.

The management of the Plainfield A. A. baseball team, which has been playing a fine article of ball this year is anxious to arrange a game for some holiday with Dorflinger's Pets. They expect to import a semi-pro battery from the city and use their present battery in the outfield. This aggregation held the strong North Ends, of Newark, down to a 2 to 1 ten inning score at that place last Sunday and they had to play ball to do that as the Newarkers are considered one of the fastest amateur teams in that section.

The local team is composed mostly of High School players and a good combination has been formed. O'Leary on second is an experienced man who has played around that bag for two years on the city High School team. Rosenson is perfectly at home between second and third, and Victorsen can take care of the difficult corner, although he belongs on first. Hirsh is playing the latter position and in the field are Klye, H. Rosenson and Pollock. Maiden and Moulton form the battery. The management would like to hear from the Pets and also out of town teams who can offer a fair guarantee.

BEN LAVERE WILL CHAPERONE NEWARK NEWSPAPER SCRIBES

Ben LaVere, the Queen City Isaac Walton, has fallen into the clutches of some Newark newspaper scribes and has agreed to pilot the pencil pushers on a fishing trip to the banks Saturday morning. Ben is well known for his familiarity with the best "holes" where the finny tribe abound and the scribes expect to land big catches with him in the party. A representative of the Newark newspaper aggregation came to Plainfield Sunday to sign up the local fisherman and complete arrangements have been made for the excursion.

The start will be made under La Vere's supervision early Saturday morning and recuperation will be in order Sunday. The local angle is an adept at the salt water sport and has a complete understanding of all the essentials that go to make a fishing trip what it should be.

MADE CLEAN SWEEP IN FINAL CONTEST

The Dice-Latham Duo, In Last Match of Schedule, Took Four Games Last Night.

In their last night's play of the Women's Two-team Bowling Tournament, which has been in progress on the Phesbyterian alleys, Dunellen, for the past three months, the Dice-Latham combination celebrated and took all four games that they played, raising them in the team standing from sixth to fourth place, with a final average of .650. Both members of this team were at their best and had an easy time disposing of the two other couples that figured. These two teams each won two games and lost a brace. The second game of the winners' play was the best all-around one of the night. The Dice-Latham duo made the evening's high score mark, toppling 225 pins, and Mrs. Latham, at her best, made three strikes and three spares in this game, for a total of 130, in individual high score of the night's play.

The Stryker-Eckerson team dropped one place in the team standing and the Parker-Strickland combination raised from an average of .167 to .250. Miss Helen Shively took the place of Miss Edythe Strickland. Mrs. Dice, leader of the individual standing, went down two points, from 111 to 109, but still has a lead of seven points over her nearest rival. Miss Luella Stryker jumped three points, from 79 to 82. The others who took part, last night, remain practically the same. The scores of last night's play and the official standing follow:

FRED MARTIN ON LONG CANOE TRIP

Two Young Men Engaged In 150 Mile Tour to Points of Interest.

Former Borough Clerk Frederick A. Martin, and G. Harold Whitney, formerly of this city, but now of Westfield, started last Saturday on a novel canoe trip to cover 150 miles. They shipped their canoe from Plainfield to Kenvil, where it was placed in the Morris Canal, and from which place the pair paddled to Lake Hopatcong. They camped on Halsey Island, Saturday night, and left early Sunday morning, by way of the canal for Phillipsburg, which place was reached yesterday. The route from this point will be down the Delaware River to Bordentown, thence through the Raritan Canal to Bound Brook.

The young men carry a complete camping outfit with them and will enjoy the outdoor life and in typical nomad fashion.

Both have had considerable experience in canoeing ventures, but this is the longest trip they have ever attempted. According to their schedule, they will return to Plainfield the coming Friday.

PLAINFIELD VS. ELIZABETH, NEXT BILL AT PARKER FIELD

Manager Dorflinger has signed up the Elizabeth team to play the Pets on Parker Field, Saturday. This team has a good reputation and will make a strong bid for the game. George Townley will be on the mound for the locals and Stine will again be in the right garden, after a layoff because of a bad knee.

Several men who have played in Plainfield uniforms will appear with the Elizabeth aggregation and among them will be Washburn, Ortlieb and Bill Seery. The former player was a member of the Central Jersey championship team two years ago and played shortstop. Ortlieb has pitched several times.

SAURERS WILL PLAY SUNDAY BASEBALL

The Sunday Baseball Club Will Disband and Martin Will Work Saurer Team.

It was announced this morning that the Plainfield Sunday Baseball Club would disband and that Manager Brit Martin, of the Saurer Club, has taken over the franchise and will have his team play Sunday ball at Woodland Park. Several of the Saurer men played on the Sunday team and it was thought best to make the change.

The Saurer aggregation will put up a good article of ball, Martin has a fine schedule and some of the fastest teams of this vicinity will appear here. All fans who have been going to these games should go out next Sunday when the new team plays the strong Sewaren A. A. team and give the locals the "once over."

Everybody knows what kind of ball the Saurer team plays and their record will show them to rank with the highest in these parts. They have only lost one game this season and have won several notable victories. Martin has such teams on his schedule as the Marconi B. B. C. team and the South River A. C.

THESE ARE SOME BATTERS.

Latest reports from the New England League show that "Flick" Luyster, who formerly played on the Plainfield team, leads that league in two base hits and home runs. Frank Bruggy, another former Pet, who is a team-mate of Luyster, is batting at a .323 gait, which is three points above "Flick." Albin Carlstrom, who once wore a local uniform, but who is now the proud possessor of a Buffalo International suit, is batting .264. He has made seventy-one hits and fifty-one runs so far this season.

DOCTORS vs. COPPERS.

The doctors and policemen will battle on Parker Field tomorrow afternoon for the amateur championship of the city. Both aggregations are confident of winning the game, but the dope points toward the coppers. The medical men have not played since they trounced the lawyers and if they think they don't need the practice they had better guess again. The game will start at 3:30.

MANY YOUNGSTERS BEING TAUGHT SWIMMING ART

During the months of July and August the local Y. M. C. A. is making a feature of swimming for both boys and men. Because of the attractiveness of pool and showers during the heated term, large numbers of new members are taking advantage of this privilege. Among the several classes being conducted, the "beginners" has been particularly successful. During the past few weeks sixteen boys have been taught to swim.

Beginning on Saturday morning, and continuing through August, a new class for beginners will be conducted. This group will meet at 9 o'clock on Saturday mornings and in the afternoons at 2:30 on other days. It will be taught by Henry Welle, the association's instructor. Every boy will receive a half hour's instruction a day. Mr. Welle will continue to use the water wing system of instruction, teaching the crawl stroke from the start. By this method he has taught one hundred boys to swim in the past two years.

MME. CAILLAUX IS ACQUITTED

Absolved of Guilt In Shooting Editor.

VERDICT REACHED QUICKLY

Took Jury Little Less Than an Hour to Reach Its Decision — Accused Showers Kisses on Her Defender When Verdict Is Announced.

Paris, July 29.—Mme. Caillaux, who has been on trial for the murder of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro, was acquitted when the foreman of the jury announced a negative answer to the two formal questions submitted by the court at the opening of the trial:

The questions were:

Did Mme. Caillaux voluntarily kill M. Gaston Calmette?

Did she premeditate the crime?

Presiding Judge Albanel added nothing to these questions, although it had been expected that he would put in some question which would afford a loophole for an acquittal, such as whether or not Mme. Caillaux inflicted the wounds which caused M. Calmette's death without intending to do so.

It took the jury only fifty-seven minutes to reach a verdict. After they had been out twenty minutes the jurors sent for the judges and lawyers for a consultation. This lasted ten minutes. It is not known just what the conference was about, but the jury doubtless asked for information as to the sentences which would be imposed under various verdicts. If Mme. Caillaux were adjudged guilty of voluntary but unpremeditated homicide with extenuating circumstances it would mean a minimum sentence of five years at hard labor.

Hugs and Kisses Defender.

As M. Labori leaned over the side of the dock Mme. Caillaux, hatless, her hair dishevelled, seemingly on the point of fainting, flung herself frantically into the arms of her lawyer, her body hanging limply over the bar. She threw both arms around her defender's neck and kissed him on both cheeks. M. Labori hastened to disengage himself from the woman's embrace, and the court attendants pulled Mme. Caillaux back to the rear of the dock.

M. Labori then rushed to meet M. Chenu, attorney for the partie civile, who extended a congratulatory embrace, the crowd cheering M. Chenu as frantically as it had M. Labori.

By far the most sensational feature of the trial was the production by Mme. Gueydan of two additional letters written by Caillaux to his present wife, before their marriage, which were filled with terms of adoration and descriptions of the political situation. As a result of the reading of one of these letters in court Mme. Caillaux fainted.

Mr. Caillaux accused Calmette of conducting the Figaro in the interests of Germany, told of a reported offer to act for Hungary and declared that Calmette had enriched himself by similar method.

As Mr. Chenu, attorney for the heirs of Gaston Calmette, launched into a speech against Mme. Henrietta Caillaux, lashing her with fierce invective for the slaying of Mr. Calmette, she uttered a loud cry and swooned. As the result of her fainting, which caused a tumult in the courtroom, Judge Albanel again suspended the sitting of the court.

DUDLEY FIELD MALONE.

New York Democrats, principally representatives in congress, in meeting President Wilson to ask where "they were at" objected strongly to what they termed distribution of patronage by Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York. The representatives wanted to know if they were to have any voice in giving out positions. Beneficial results are expected to accrue from the conference.

GREAT ARMED CAMP

New York, July 29—Concerning the reports that the New York Stock Exchange would close, one of the governors of that institution, is quoted today as saying:

"There is not the slightest foundation for this wild yarn. There has never been any suggestion that it would be advisable to close the Stock Exchange.

"The Exchange remained open during the panic of 1907, when money was lending at 150 per cent. and chaotic conditions prevailed in Wall street. There is therefor, no occasion for the institution closing now, when money is lending at 2 per cent. and the financial situation was never more thoroughly sound. The money situation is one of the strongest in years."

Boston, July 29—If the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente become involved as a result of the Austrian-Servian conflict it will throw 20,000,000 men into the field and the affair will result in one of the bloodiest wars in all history and the last great conflict according to Lieut. Nelson A. Miles, who passed through the city enroute to the celebration of the opening of the Cape Cod Canal.

*New York, July 29—The possi*bility that Germany may suddenly and within a few days be involved in war with some European power as a result of the war between Austria and Servia, has directed attention to the fact that the German steamship Kronprincessin Cecilie, which sailed yesterday for Bremen, carrying $10,600,000 in gold for European bankers, might be in danger of capture before she could reach some German or a neutral port.

The rate of insurance on the gold carried by the Kronprinzessin Cecilie was $600 per $1,000,000. This was placed early in the day, but in the afternoon the rate had jumped to $1,250 per $1,000,000, while in some instances the possibility of capture was not covered in the policies.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 29.—Hungarians in Syracuse are bitterly opposed to the Servian war and will not return to fight for the fatherland according to an official of the Austrian-American Society. "We expect to become citizens of the United States and don't see why we should return he said. "The men look with disfavor on the causes of the conflict and it is only the younger element that has expressed a desire to do."

The Hague, July 29.—All preparations are completed for the mobolization of the army of Holland. Every railroad bridge has been placed under a military guard and the garrisons at frontier posts have been strengthened.

San Francisco, July 29.—Representatives of Servian Crotian Societies of this city will meet this week with a view to organizing a committee for the collection of funds to aid Servia in the war.

St Petersburg, July 29.—The Bourse was closed today.

Amsterdam, July 29.—(Central News Cable)—The Bourse was closed today.

London, July 29.—(Central News Cable)—It was understood this morning that some banks had requested the Stock Exchange to permit formal dealings today.

Havre, July 29.—Business was suspended on the Coffee Exchange today. There was no call.

WAR BULLETINS.

London, July 29.—Advices from the Austrian border said that the transportation of the Eighth and Ninth Army corps from Bohemia toward the Servian frontier began yesterday and that there was no other traffic on the Bohemian railroads except troop trains.

The two army corps in Bohemia consist of thirty-two battalions of infantry with a large number of quick firing machine guns, six regiments of cavalry, two regiments of field artillery and two regiments of the army service corps.

British Fleet Mobilizes.

London, July 29.—The British fleets have been mobilized. The first and second battle squadrons have full war stores aboard and are ready to sail at a moment's notice.

Berlin, July 29.—The admiralty has ordered the concentration of the German fleet in home waters.

Russian Coast Lights Out.

Helsingfors, Finland, July 29.—An order was issued to all the commanders of lightships along the coast of Finland not to light their lamps at night. Instructions also were given to all the keepers of lighthouses along the coast to extinguish all lights not absolutely necessary. Navigation in the Finnish harbors at night has been forbidden.

Servian Steamships Seized.

Nish, Servia, July 29.—The Servian steamships Deligrad and Morava were captured by the Austrians according to an announcement by the government. The captors hauled down the Servian flag and ran up the Austrian colors in its place. The passengers were made prisoners.

London, July 29.—Austria's formal declaration of war against Servia cannot be said to have disappointed expectations, although it shattered some oversanguine hopes.

Rumors of the occupation of Belgrade and the invasion of Servia via Mitrovitza are not confirmed, but official confirmation has been received of the seizure of Servian ships on the Danube.

As regards the general international situation it may be said that hope of restricting the quarrel to Austria and Servia has not yet been lost.

Germany and Austria's courteous rejection of Sir Edward Grey's efforts to prevent an international struggle has banished the idea of an ambassadorial conference, but this has been superseded by direct negotiations at St. Petersburg between Russia and Austria.

ADVOCATES BOTH LOCAL OPTION AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE

The petitions of Arthur E. Warner, a newspaperman, of Elizabeth, who announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Assembly this fall, have been circulated through this city, being signed by many local voters. Mr. Warner has announced that he will stand on the issues of local option and women suffrage, being an advocate of both.

Mr. Warner was for some time the head of the Elizabeth Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Union, and was instrumental in arranging the anti-saloon mass meeting that caused so much comment at the county seat a few weeks ago. He has also declared himself as favoring a stringent enforcement of the excise laws or their repeal, as in many sections the enforcement of these laws are somewhat lax. He has been an interested worker in civic matters at Elizabeth for some time and is well known throughout the county because of his connection with the Christian Endeavor movement. Mr. Warner is possibly the first candidate for the Assembly from this county to make a stand for both local option and women suffrage.

different companies will be detailed for practice until all have gone through their qualification rounds.

The remainder of the soldiers of the Fourth following their return to the camp were put through a series of drills in close and extended order and bayonet exercises. These drills will be continued the remainder of the week until all of the troops have been thoroughly trained in such formations. The Fourth regiment will do the honors at parade this afternoon. Over roads that were soft with mud troops of the Second regiment hiked off today to start their tactical work which is to be extended until Friday morning.

After marching in a solid formation to a point three miles west of here the regiment will be split into two divisions, the Reds and the Blues and will separate for their opposing maneuvres. The Blues will probably be commanded by Lieutenant Colonel George L. Forman while the battalion commander of the single battalion will command it throughout the tactical work.

The work which has been planned for the hike is being kept secret by Colonel Horace M. Reading, commanding the regiment. It is believed, however, that tonight's work will include an attack upon the Blues by a detachment of the Red army under cover of darkness.

It is the object of the maneuvre to give the men practical experience in outpost and sentry duty and the activities of the men in acting as reat and advanced guards for an army.

Tonight they will lie in bivouac and strong outposts will be placed about the rival camps to guard agains possible surprise attacks. The men will sleep under their shelter tents with their arms stacked in the camp streets preparatory to leave for battle at a moment's notice.

Wallingford In His Prime

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"The more the better," granted Spooger after a little thought, and added twice more to make sure the total shares represented by the certificates. He produced his checkbook.

"You'll have to come across with genuine money," observed Blackie before the purchaser started to write.

"You'll have to come across with genuine money," observed Blackie.

"I had to be identified to cash that other check of yours, and I don't like to have bankers look at me as if they think me a suspicious character."

"You don't want cash for this amount!" protested Mr. Spooger. "It's entirely irregular. Why, man, it's $131,500.

"I can carry that much," Blackie boastfully assured him. "Feel my muscle."

"I know, but the banks won't like it," worried Mr. Spooger, who was as well acquainted as any man on earth with the reluctance of real money to be moved about.

"If we do it the other way I won't like it," Blackie serenely argued. "I'd like to accommodate the bankers well enough—they're nice men—but they never seem to want to accommodate me. No; it'll have to be cash, Mr. Spooger."

"Well, I'll see if I can get them to honor the checks," reluctantly granted Mr. Spooger. "But we have to go to all three banks."

"As many as you like," consented Blackie most amiably. "I'll assign you these certificates before we go."

"I don't know about that," hesitated Mr. Spooger, but Blackie was already writing the assignments upon the backs of the certificates as carelessly as if he were inscribing his room number on a bar check.

"You keep the certificates awhile, then," Spooger cautiously directed, and when they were down in the lobby he called up Bessmer.

"Is Mr. Daw all right?" he wanted to know.

"I'll vote for him," stated Bessmer, "and I know all the men in the shop will back him."

"He wants to sell me 1,315 shares of stock in your corporation."

"I am sorry," replied Bessmer, with genuine regret, "but they're his shares. He paid cash for them, and he may do with them as he likes."

"But how did he get so many?"

"Bought them."

Mr. Spooger considered. "Then I can't get stung if I do business with him?" he ventured.

"I didn't, and I don't see how you can," Bessmer emphatically assured him. "Those shares are worth $100 apiece."

"I'll carry those certificates now, Mr. Daw," Mr. Spooger kindly offered.

Blackie took them out of a little wooden box, and Mr. Spooger leafed through them to see that they were all there. They bulged his inside coat pocket frightfully, but he did not mind.

He went with Blackie to the three banks and persuaded the much pained gentlemen in charge to relinquish, collectively, $131,500 in genuine United States currency; then he and Mr. Daw parted.

The latter gentleman dashed into the express office, next to his hotel, and inquired how soon they would put packages in a car headed for New York.

"In just thirty-five minutes, Blackie," replied the express agent. "What's in this box?"

"Oh, a lot of souvenir junk I'm sending home," answered Blackie carelessly. "Regular valuation; not to exceed $50."

Meanwhile Mr. Spooger, with an ashen face, was being informed that Mr. Wallingford had left the city. Mr. Spooger's first thought was swift, direct and natural to his mind. "The swindler!" he gasped.

"Who said so?" demanded Curly Washburn. "I'll tell him that when he comes back."

"Is he—is he coming back?" begged Spooger, breathing with renewed hope.

"Of course he is!" stated Curly indignantly. "He has a trunkful of clothes here that I wish he'd leave behind, and there's so much of his money in that safe I dodge every time I pass it. He only took a hand-bag with him. Did he swindle you out of anything?"

"Well, no," admitted Mr. Spooger reluctantly.

"Then don't go around saying it," ordered Curly, and walked away in silent contempt.

The merriment in the festively lighted yard of the Bessmer Malleable Process company was at its height when Eli Spooger, learning that Wallingford had gone straight there from the 9 o'clock train, repaired to the scene of the festivities.

A big table, built in the form of a hollow square, spread with a snowy cloth and decorated with carnations, champagne pails and whole roast pigs, to say nothing of chickens and such minor articles of inner comfort, filled the yard, and at the center of the head table, flanked by Wallingford on one side and Bessmer on the other, stood Blackie Daw in his blackest Prince Albert, making a farewell speech to his many friends in and out of the factory and inviting them, one and all, to move to Tarryville, so that they could vote for him for mayor on the reform ticket in the coming fall.

It was all very reassuring to the only man in Oak Center who could command over $100,000 cash, and when the final applause had subsided the three starred one bent with an ingratiating smile over the back of Wallingford's chair.

"I have that stock for you," he happily confided, "right here," and he tapped his bulging breast pocket.

"Oh, yes, the stock!" returned Wallingford pleasantly. "Why, Mr. Spooger, my firm has decided not to bother with the Bessmer company." He paused placidly to watch Mr. Spooger clutching at his Adam's apple. "So last night before I went away I sold what I had purchased from you and from others to Mr. Daw."

Mr. Spooger gripped his cuffs wildly in both hands and pulled them out arm's length. "And you sold it to me!" he hotly charged Blackie. "You never said a word about buying the extra shares from Wallingford."

"Tut, tut!" remonstrated Blackie kindly. "You didn't tell me you intended to sell to Wallingford."

"You fooled me!" frothed Eli, turning to the representative of the trust "I don't want this stock."

"Throw it away, then," advised Wallingford. "I'd suggest that you keep it, though. By a resolution adopted almost unanimously last night Mr. Bessmer has the right at any time within the next ten years to purchase it at par, and I think he's going to make some money."

"That stock's worth all it cost you," sternly declared Bessmer, who did not yet understand how it had all happened and never would. "It may not pay dividends for five years to come, but I will bring it to par value before then."

"Did you help get me into this, Will Bessmer?" half shrieked Spooger. "I'll make it hot for you! Remember, I hold a majority of stock!"

"You can help vote to repaper the office or to adopt pink stationery, but that's about all," Blackie informed him. "The constitution of Mr. Bessmer's company, amended at our regular stockholders' meeting last night, when you owned no stock, gives him the final say in the management and direction of the concern for the next ten years."

"That's one of the reasons my monopoly did not care for the stock," suavely explained Wallingford, chuckling about something or other.

"It's a swindle!" yelled Spooger, purple with rage.

Blackie Daw arose and confronted him, pale with outraged indignation. "A repetition of that charge and I shall sue you for libel!" he warned.

"Put him out!" shouted the expressman indignantly.

Seven men arose to their feet, and then the whole crowd got up. Spooger did not wait.

"Gentlemen," said Blackie Daw, bowing his thanks, "will some one kindly hand me my saxophone?"

Some Cookery Suggestions

HUCKLEBERRIES.

SUPPER MENU.
Sardines.
Potato Salad With Chopped Beets.
Brown Bread and Butter.
Huckleberry Shortcake.
Tea.

HUCKLEBERRIES or blueberries, as they are called in New England, may be served in many ways. Huckleberry pie is the most generally popular. Ways of serving these tempting berries are suggested here. These are simple and delicious methods of serving them:

Layer Cake.

Huckleberry Shortcake.—Make a nice shortcake dough. Bake in a sheet as for any shortcake. When done pull apart, butter each part and pour real maple sirup over all of it. Be generous with your butter and sirup. Then cover one part with nice ripe huckleberries, then put on the other part and butter top. Pour over the berries, then more maple sirup and serve with or without whipped cream, according to taste.

Rich Batter Cakes.

Huckleberry Pancakes.—Beat two eggs separately, add the yolks to two cupfuls of sweet milk, then add two cupfuls of flour into which has been sifted two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a little salt. Beat this batter smooth, then add the beaten whites and two cupfuls of well floured huckleberries. It may be necessary to add a little more flour. Bake on a hot, well greased griddle.

Steamed or Baked.

Huckleberry Dumplings. — Roll out rich crust, cut into six inch squares, dust with flour, heap half a cupful of blueberries in the center, sprinkle with flour, add a tablespoonful of sugar and a bit of butter. Pick up the four corners of the crust and pinch together, then moisten and close each of the openings. Stick a sharp pointed knife into each division near the top to let out the steam and bake.

Single Layer Cake.

Huckleberry Cake.—Take two and a half cupfuls of flour, one-third cupful of sugar, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one egg, one-half a teaspoonful of salt, one and one-third cupfuls of milk, one-fourth cupful of butter, one cupful of huckleberries. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder, rub in the butter and add the sugar and the berries. Beat the egg until light and use with the milk to moisten the dry ingredients. Pour into a greased shallow pan and bake in a moderate oven about half an hour.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—A Fashionable Tournament In Animal Land

They Were Interesting Players.

THE children had been to see a tennis tournament during the afternoon, and they were full of the wonderful playing they had seen. Of course they had to tell daddy all about it, but daddy thought that he had a much nicer tournament to tell them about.

"What sort of a tournament was it?" asked Jack.

"It was a tennis tournament, just like the one you saw this afternoon, but I think the players in the tournament I saw were more interesting."

"Who played in the tournament you saw, daddy? Children?" asked Evelyn.

"Oh, no!" said daddy. "You certainly wouldn't call children interesting players, would you?"

Both the children laughed heartily at that, for they knew daddy thought children were quite the nicest and most interesting things that ever happened.

"My players were real players," continued daddy, "and I don't believe you will ever guess who they were."

"Rabbits," said Jack. "They ought to be good players, as they are so quick."

"My players were hardly what you might call good players, but they were interesting players. No; I don't believe you could possibly guess, so I will have to tell you. The toads played against the frogs.

"In the first place, there was a large audience present. The frogs and toads had heard that tennis tournaments were the fashion in the summer.

"Really you probably are surprised at such unfashionable looking creatures caring so much for fashion, but then that often is the way. They love to do the right thing at the right time, and they had a special place for the tournament, with a grand stand of nice, big, round logs.

"All the onlookers were dressed in their best. The frogs were principally dressed in emerald green, for that is a color which they consider very becoming. The toads wore shaded brown costumes for the most part, though some of them wore very fine speckled black suits.

"The players were two toads and two frogs. They played doubles, you see, for they had heard that every fine player always had a special partner. They went straight into the finals, too, for they said that they must have the excitement right away.

"During the game the players stopped to drink lemonade, and the onlookers had refreshments all the time. Somehow they thought it was very appetizing to watch tennis, and they kept nibbling at the things to eat and sipping the lemonade steadily.

"The toads won the tournament and received fine stone cups for prizes."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

7921

A novel and attractive separate skirt design, suitable for serge, linen or one of the heavy cottons is shown in No. 7921. It is a five-piece design with slightly raised waist-line and a panel effect in back. Taffeta or moire could be used to advantage with this design if it were intended for afternoon wear with contrasting blouses. These materials, as well as those mentioned before average 40 inches in width and range in price from $1.25 a yard and up.

For size 24 this design requires 3⅞ yards of 42-inch material.

Pattern comes in six sizes, 22 to 32.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give the right size, passing the tape tightly around the smallest part of the waist and loosely around the widest part of the hips.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Plainfield People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Plainfield who suffer with weak kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. Doan's Kidney Pills is a medicine for the kidneys only, and one that is backed by willing testimony of Plainfield people Here's a case:

Mrs. Cecelia Rosseter, 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I am only too pleased to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and I hope that all kidney sufferers who read my statement will profit by my experience. I have had a world of good from this remedy, backache, headache, dizzy spells and trouble with the kidney secretions being corrected by its use. I don't know what I would have done without Doan's Kidney Pills and I am certain that there is no kidney medicine that can be compared with them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Rosseter had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS
We Eat too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

SEVEN LOCAL JOY-HUNTERS WILL CAMP FOR TEN DAYS

A party of seven men of this city will leave Saturday for a ten days' outing at Keensburg. They will establish a Y. M. H. A. camp and live in absolute seclusion for over a week. The trip will be made in "Hymie" Abrams automobile and he will remain with the campers. They have secured a fine site for a camp and will be conveniently located to fish, swim and enjoy other forms of camp life. The fishing at Keensburg is reported as being very good now.

Those who will enjoy the outing are Herman Schrager, Jack Stierer Mike Stierer, Eddie Myers, Phil Moskowitz, Manuel Block and Hyman Abrams.

NIGHT ATTACK ON THE OUTPOST

DRIVE THE BLUES BACK

Hard Battle Fought Between the Opposing Forces In Mimic Warfare at State Camp—Local Company Doing Good Work.

Camp Fielder, Sea Girt, July 30—The Second Regiment, of Trenton, is today taking its turn at the country tactical work. A night attack on the outposts of the Blue army by the second battalion commanded by Major John H. McCullough, which represents the Red army, opened the day auspiciously. It followed a combat which took place late yesterday afternoon after the troops had been away from the State encampment reservation for about three hours.

According to the mimic warfare which has been declared by Colonel Horace M. Reading, commanding the Second Regiment, New Jersey and Pennsylvania are at war. By strength of superior numbers the Pennsylvanians, which are represented by Major McCullough's battalion, have invaded the New Jersey territory, driving the Blues toward the Atlantic Ocean.

Yesterday afternoon an advance detail of the Red army which had been sent to Sea Girt to intercept and capture valuable supplies which were being prepared there for shipment to the base of the Blue army at South Amboy, was attacked by a detachment of the Blue army under command of Major William B. Martin and consisting of the First and Third battalions. A hard battle was fought and the Reds were finally repulsed in their attack upon the Blues near Allenwood.

Determined to reach Sea Girt before this afternoon, when it is believed the Blue forces will try to move the supplies, Major McCullough, this morning, hurled his entire force of Reds upon the outposts of Blue army which was in bivouac near Allaire. Taken by surprise the Blues were handicapped for a few moments, but a shouting of orders was heard and the men crawled from their little shelter tents, seized their rifles and fell in ready for battle. The fight lasted until after daylight when both armies withdrew without either having won decisive advantage in the second fray.

Showers last night made conditions unpleasant for the Second Regiment troops who are experiencing some of the hardships through which the Fourth Regiment passed while they were out on their tactical work.

The Fourth Regiment, this morning, started in with a course of close and extended order drills and bayonet exercises. Five companies are on the rifle ranges shooting for qualification and these will be supplanted tomorrow morning by five more.

Brigadier General Albert L. Mills will be here tomorrow and with Governor Fielder will review the two regiments. He will arrive here shortly before noon, accompanied by Mrs Mills. It is likely that he will attend the luncheon which will be held as a part of the Governor's Day celebration. General Mills' arrival will be announced by the customary salute. He will remain over the week-end with Mrs. Mills as the guests of Governor and Mrs. Fielder.

PLAINFIELDERS PLAN TO SPEND SUMMER ABROAD

Frank J. Day and daughter, Miss Alice Day, of this city, are among the cabin passengers sailing on the White Star Liner Oceanic, August 1. They will spend the balance of the summer with relatives in and around London. Mrs. George Dobson and child will be passengers on the same steamer going across to visit Mrs. Dobson's mother.

Mrs. Albertina Jargensen, of Copenhagen, Denmark, sailed today on the steamer Helig Olaf, returning from a visit with her son, Carl Jargensen. Miss Palma Martenson, of this city, a passenger of the same steamer, will visit relatives in Denmark this summer. Passage was secured by the tourists through Estil's steamship agency, established thirty years, of which Will F. Williams is the agent.

Theodore Day, of Dunellen, will lead the prayer meeting at Evona chapel this evening.

NEW PLAY CENTER IS OPEN EVENINGS

Recreation Field at Fifth and Liberty Streets Equipped With Lights.

Another playground has been added to those now in use in Plainfield and the new center has additional features which make it the most valuable of any of those now in use. The yard of the old Washington School, at Fifth and Liberty streets, has been turned over to the public by the Rev. B. M. Bogan, acting for St. Mary's church, which now owns that piece of property. The new center will be open evenings and has been equipped with powerful electric lights so that recreative games can be played at night.

Large numbers of people have taken advantage of the opportunities offered for outdoor recreation and the center has already popularized itself among the people living in a wide radius of that place. Quiots and other games are supplied for the frequenters of the place and resting places have been provided for those who desire them. The project is a non-sectarian one and all working people are invited to participate in the features offered.

F. C. KREWSON DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Was Former Councilman and Well Known Borough Resident.

Frank C. Krewson, former Councilman of North Plainfield, died at 1 o'clock this afternoon, at his home at Watchung avenue and Regent street, the borough, following a long illness with tuberculosis. Recently, Mr. Krewson's condition was such that he was unable to leave the house and after that he failed rapidly.

Mr. Krewson had been a resident of the borough the greater part of his life. For the past thirty years he was employed by A. M. Griffen, the hardware merchant, being in charge of the stove department. He was a faithful employe and was held in esteem by his employer. He had a great many friends, both in a business and social way.

There survives three children by a first marriage, Mrs. Clifford Brokaw, and Malcolm Krewson, of New York, and Miss Dorothy Krewson, of Mountain avenue, the borough. He also leaves a wife by a second marriage and two sisters, Mrs. Isaac N. Shepherd, of Somerset street, the borough; Mrs. Harry Lachol, of Pennsylvania, and four brothers, Joseph H. Krewson, of Plainfield avenue; Charles F. Krewson, of Jackson avenue, the borough; William Krewson, of Manning avenue, the borough and Kingsley Krewson, of Newark. The announcement of funeral will be made later.

BOSCH MAGNETO COMPANY ACQUIRES MORE PROPERTY

The plant of the Manufacturer's Brass Company, located on Berckman street, was sold today to the Bosch Magneto Company, which recently acquired the Rushmore Dynamo Works, and will use the building for the manufacture of the company's goods. The deal was made by Edmund Rushmore, real estate broker.

Mr. Rushmore has also rented James Manning's house on Evergreen avenue to Mr. Grandy, of Washington, Conn., son-in-law of Robert McCutcheon, a former resident here, and William F. Tallamy's house on East Sixth street, adjoining his residence, to J. R. McClintock, a partner of G. W. Fuller.

WATERMELON DISAPPEARS LIKE ICE IN SUMMER

Mr. and Mrs. Millard W. Bellis, of East Second street, gave a watermelon party to a number of friends at their home, last night. The lawn was illuminated with electric lights, in the centre of which the guests sat down to a feast of watermelon. George W. Cole, Jr., won the prize for eating the most watermelon.

After the contest, the guests enjoyed music and dancing on the veranda until a late hour. Those who participated in the melon eating contest were the Misses Gussie Boylan, Beulah Boylan, Gertrude Barry, Jessie Hummer, Ethel Neal and Mrs. Bellis and Walter Sharkey, Joseph McCullough, William Cooper, Howard Firstbrook, George W. Cole, Jr., and Millard Bellis.

BOARD TO PROVIDE FOR SCHOOL NEED

East End Committee Exacts Promise of Relief From Educational Authorities.

THE DEMAND IS URGENT

Temporary Quarters For Graded School May Be Established in the Netherwood Section Prior to the Opening of the Fall Term.

Considerable discussion grew out of the presentation of the Netherwood residents' petition for a new graded school in the East End to the Plainfield Board of Education at its meeting, last night, when a committee from that section visited the body. This committee, composed of the Rev. Edward S. Ralston, Captain William Hand and Edward W. Hughes presented the petition signed by 250 citizens, and was urgent in its demands for immediate decision in the matter.

The application was discussed at length by the Board, both with the committee and after they had retired, and while realizing the legal and financial difficulties in the way of putting another school at Netherwood at the present time, the Board is disposed to do whatever is possible to relieve the congested condition.

Between now and Fall, a full investigation of the conditions will be made and while it is by no means certain that there are any buildings at Netherwood which are at all adaptable for school purposes, or whether under the existing rulings of the State Department of Education it will be possible to lease them temporarily, it is expected that in some way the residents of this growing district will be given the school accommodations, which they request.

The remainder of the midsummer meeting was occupied with routine matters, and the reports covering the work of the office for the past year.

The next meeting of the Board will probably be held September 8. Before that date Messrs. Wilder & White will submit plans for the Evergreen avenue school building for immediate approval of the Trenton authorities, and as soon as this is done advertisement will be made for bids. Several local contractors are planning to compete for the opportunity to build this new school, and the Board have been besieged with applications from all over the State requesting opportunity to bid on specifications when ready.

SEEK PROTECTION OF SHADE TREES

Steps to Be Taken to Prevent Damage By Electric Wires.

The practise of the Public Service Corporation in stringingelectric light wires through shade trees has had a rather disastrous effect in some parts of the city,and some of the residents plan to take steps to put a stop to it, unless the company provides proper insulation for the wires. Two instances of where considerable damage resulted are found on Westervelt avenue and Orange place. On the former street, trees on the property of former Councilman Ralph I. Tolles suffered recently, large limbs being ruined.

The same thing occurred in trees on the property of William Addis, of Orange place, where several wires run through the branches. About a week ago several limbs were damaged, spoiling the looks of the trees and impairing their usefulness for shade.

In some cities lighting corporations use a patent arrangement for the insulation of wires which absolutely prevents any damage to trees, where it is found necessary to string the wires, and residents believe that the same thing can be used here to advantage.

Mr. Addis is quite indignant that his trees should have been damaged in this way and he says that he intends to take steps to prevent a repetition of the occurrence. In various parts of the city similar reports have been received and it is quite likely that something will be done to more fully protect electric wires where they pass through trees.

MISS MARY L. HOTCHKISS.

Miss Mary Lucinda Hotchkiss, aged eighty-two years, a resident of this city for the past thirty years, died last evening at the home of Mrs. M. T. West, of 120 Crescent avenue. Miss Hotchkiss was an attendant at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. She leaves no relatives in this city, but several reside in Waterbury, Conn., where the funeral services and interment will take place tomorrow.

COLORED THIEF CAPTURED HERE

Captain Flynn Makes Good Catch In Madison Avenue Pool Room, Last Night.

WANTED FOR BURGLARY

James Green Cleverly Eluded Police of Westfield When Caught Robbing a Store There Tuesday Night—Arraigned Here Today.

Furnished with a description of an alleged burglar shortly after 6 o'clock last night, Captain John J. Flynn, of the local police department, did some sleuthing among the colored "hang-outs" in the central part of the city which landed the much sought quarry, James Green, aged twenty-five years, a negro giving his address as Kenilworth. Arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, as a fugitive from justice, he was remanded to await the arrival of the Westfield authorities by whom he is wanted and was taken to that town this morning for formal arraignment.

According to information furnished by the police, Green is classed as one of the cleverest crooks in the country and is suspected of having "pulled" several jobs in this section of New Jersey recently.

Three places were entered in Westfield, Tuesday night, and two negroes were seen in the shoe store of Samuel Silverstein on Broad street by Sergeant Caulfield. Entrance had been gained by breaking open a window. The policeman's attention was attracted by the crashing of glass. He arrived on the scene in time to see one man beating a hasty retreat down the shaded street and captured his accomplice. The latter now known to be Green, executed a clever trick at the expense of the bluecoat which gained for him his temporary liberty. With wonderful agility he slipped out of his coat, the sleeve of which was held by Caufield and streaked up the thoroughfare like a scared rabbit. Caufield sent several shots from his revolver after the culprit, but none of them found their mark.

A telephone message from Police Chief O'Neil, of Westfield, brought a description of the man to the local police headquarters and Flynn immediately set out to bag the fugitive. He was rounded up in Pete Simmons' pool parlor on Madison avenue and in a statement made to Chief Kiely, this morning, admitted his culpability. He formerly lived in this city and has a police record The second man escaped and no trace of him has been found.

The shoe store proprietor said yesterday, five pairs of shoes had been stolen. Duffy Brothers' grocery store in South avenue, was one of the other places entered. Entrance was gained through a rear window the glass of which was broken. The cash drawer was rifled of about $2 in pennies. Nothing else was disturbed.

At the North Avenue Hotel the men tried to jimmy a front window. It was fastened securely, and frustrated their efforts, but they broke a pane of glass in the upper sash. The crash made so much noise they were frightened away without going inside.

ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF DISTURBING THE PEACE

Carmen Ritizen, of North Plainfield, who was placed under arrest yesterday, under a warrant charging him with disturbing the peace on Jefferson avenue, was arraigned before Recorder Fred Hand this morning and released under a suspended sentence. The warrant was sworn out by Mrs. Catherine Arsnite his mother-in-law, who stated that Ritizen had visited her home on Tuesday evening and started the trouble. She alleges he went so far as to strike her.

Through her counsel, Francis J. Blatz, Mrs. Arsnite explained that she did not want to push the case against her son-in-law, but that he be instructed by the court to stay away from her home.

PLAINFIELDER FINED $5.

Walter Brown, of 1139 South Second street, employed as driver for the International Motor Company,of this city, was arrested in Elizabeth, last night, charged with driving an auto truck without a license. He was arraigned before Acting Judge James F. Brown and fined $5. He was accompanied by Victor Clementz, of 14 Stonybrook place.

A. V. D. Honeyman Cables that His Parties Are In No Danger at Present.

AT WARSAW TODAY

Several Plainfielders Now Travelling In Europe Will Have Opportunity to See the Military Preparations Going On.

The fact that there are two Honeyman tourists parties in Europe at the present time and both include Plainfielders, has given rise to some anxiety on the part of their friends and relatives, following the declaration of war by Austria, especially as the largest party is due to arrive at Warsaw today, where the time was to be spent sightseeing. Fears for the safety of the Plainfielders was somewhat relieved this morning when a cable was received here from Mr. Honeyman stating that no attempt would be made to enter the territory now involved in the trouble between the European nations. According to the schedule this party is due to leave tomorrow for Vienna.

The other tour is due in Florence Italy, tomorrow, where a stop of four days will be made. It is thought that both parties will have an apportunity of witnessing some of the military preparations now being made in that section of the world in which they are traveling. The tourists will continue their travels over all of Europe before sailing for home the fore part of September. They are due to arrive in New York on September 8 on the Prinz Frederick Wilhelm.

Those who are traveling in Mr. Honeyman's personal party are: Mrs. John T. Baker, Miss Margaret Cranswick, Mrs. S. V. Edgar, Mrs. Frederick Sanford and Mrs. William M. Sanford, of this city; Mrs. Emma G. Allen, of Hartford, Conn.; Miss Frances W. Corwin, of New York city; William DeCamp Johnson and wife, of Morristown; Mrs. Samuel F. Kimball, of New York city; Mrs. Anna R. Moffat, of Scranton, Pa.; Miss Ella Pierson, of Morristown; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Roberson and daughter, Miss Elinor, of Bayonne, and Mrs. Mary B. Sanborn, of Somerville. The Plainfield people included in the second party are: Miss Florence G. Burt and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Sanford, Jr., and daughter, Miss Pauline Sanford.

DID NOT MAKE APOLOGY TO GOVERNOR

W. de la R. Anderson Takes Exception to the Inference That He Did.

William de la R. Anderson, chairman of the North Plainfield Township Committee, whose correspondence with Governor James F. Fielder was published in The Daily Press of yesterday, takes exception to the inference that he "humbly apologized" to the State Executive, adding that if it is found that he is wrong he will be only too glad to apologize, but he is not willing to admit at present that he is wrong. He asserts that according to the evidence he is right in his contention that there has been a misuse of the Governor's office in withholding correspondence.

In speaking of the question of the assessment of property owned by Mt. St. Mary College, Mr. Anderson said today that the contention of the North Plainfield Township Committee was fully sustained, in that the State Board of Taxation decided that the college should be taxed for fifty-five acres of land adjoining the property on which the college building stands.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR DANIEL MC NAMARA HELD

The funeral services of Daniel McNamara, who died Tuesday night at his home on Central avenue, were held this morning from St. Mary's R. C. church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated.

Father Bogan officiated, with Father McDonald acting as deacon and Father Sciola as sub-deacon. The bearers were James P. Conway, Jr., John Kilbride, Daniel Galbraith, Daniel Shea, Daniel Guinee and John Walden. Interment was made at St. Mary's cemetery.

FANWOOD'S TAX RETURNS.

Fanwood Borough made its tax return to the Union County Tax Board, today, the figures being as follows: Land values, $744,585; improvements, $11,700; personal property, $69,500 a total of $625,785.

HEARING IN DREIER CASE SEPTEMBER 8

Vice-Ordinary Backes Fixes That Date For Argument On Appeal.

Elizabeth, July 30.—Vice-Ordinary Backes has fixed September 8 as the date for hearing the appeal of Mrs. Bertha M. Senger from the decision of the Union County Orphans Court in approving the accounting of Garret Dreier, of New Brunswick, and Harry Dreier, of Plainfield, as executors of the estate of the late Samuel Dreier, of Plainfield.

The accounting was filed several months ago and was approved by Judge Connolly, after long litigation, when the court dismissed all of the sixty exceptions filed against the account. Appeal was taken to the Prerogative Court and Chancellor Walker referred the matter to Vice Ordinary Backes.

The estate, originally worth more than $80,000 has been in the courts for more than three years. Former Prosecutor W. R. Wilson, of this city, represents Mrs. Senger, and former Judge William Newcorn, of Plainfield, represents the executors. The hearing will be held in the chancery chambers at Trenton.

SAFFRON BAGS FIVE AS CRAP SHOOTERS

Youths Taken Into Custody Made Examples of By the Court This Morning.

Another aggregation of "crapshooters," this squad totaling five, was rounded up by Roundsman Andrew Saffron in front of the Jefferson Democratic Club's headquarters on Prescott place at 7 o'clock last night, and in a determined effort to put a stop to this deplorable habit City Judge W. G. DeMeza dealt severely with the offenders in the City Court this morning. Fines of $5, with the option of spending twenty days in the county jail, were imposed on Mathew Ward, Edward Hamilton and Patrick Finnerty, Edward Daniels will have to pay $3 or spend ten days in jail, and Thomas McNeill drew a suspended sentence.

The boys have been creating a general disturbance in the vicinity of the clubhouse for some time and seven complaints have been made against the practise of loitering by young men in that section. Saffron swooped down on the gang while they were engaged in a crap game last night but all but one managed to fly to shelter. He forced a confession from the captured youth, however, and apprehended the remaining quartet in short order.

The four defendants fined by the court have police records and McNeill was given a suspended sentence because of his previous good behavior, this being his first appearance before the bar of justice.

DEFENDANT GIVEN VERDICT IN DISTRICT COURT CASE

The case of Spencer against Wilson, which was tried in the District Court, Somerville, yesterday, before Judge Isaac P. Runyon, resultd in a verdict for the defendant. A. Gibby Spencer, of this city, the plaintiff, was represented by George W. Anderson, assisted by A. M. Beekman, while Mr. Wilson was represented by S. S. Swackhamer.

Wilson owned a farm in Warren township, which he placed in Spencer's hands for sale. The latter took a prospective buyer to see the farm and Wilson later sold the farm to this man for $6,300, but through another agent, paying him a commission of $300. Spencer also claimed a commission of $300, which Wilson refused to pay.

ALLEGED WIFE DESERTER WILL FIGHT EXTRADITION

Application has been made by Robert Newton Crane counsel for William Waters, who is wanted by the police of Philadelphia, on a charge of desertion, for a hearing before Governor Fielder. Waters was arrested by Sergeant Maurice Higgins at a West Third street address Tuesday night and is out on $500 bail for arraignment Monday morning.

Preparations are being made by counsel for the defense to fight extradition and when Waters is arraigned Monday it is understood that Governor Fielder's reply will be ready.

MIRACLE ONLY CAN AVERT WAR

Russia Shows Not the Slightest Intention of Backing Down.

CZAR HEADS HIS ARMY

Military Preparations Going On Through All Europe—Several Minor Engagements Reported—Washington Awaits Developments.

Washington, July 30—Official despatches to the State Department today were to the general effect that Europe had practically given up hope of preventing Russian interference in the Austro-Servian dispute. Until Russia's attitude becomes known no declaration of the neutrality of the United States will be issued. Acting Secretary of State Lansing today stated at present this is unnecessary as Servia is without a seacoast or navy and international usage and law does not demand a statement from this government under existing circumstances.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—It is believed here that nothing short of a miracle can prevent war. The government shows not the slightest intention of backing down from its determination to support Servia the moment that country is invaded by Austria and in keeping with this determination a partial mobolization has been ordered. There is also every indication that the entire Russian military establishment will be mobolized.

London, July 30.—In spite of peace rumors military preparations are going on throughout Europe on a scale never before known. While in every quarter this activity is described as being merely precautionary, the fact remains that the situation is fraught with the gravest danger and the least spark in the shape of a hostile move on the part of Russia will set all Europe ablaze and launch the greatest conflict of all time.

London, July 30 (Central News)—Despatches received at the Servian legation today, report that a great artillery engagement is proceeding between the Austrian and Servian forces about 20 miles east of Belgrade. Up to the present time the Servians have succeeded in preventing the Austrians from crossing the river.

Rome, July 30.—(Central News Cable)—The Messaggero today published the following from Servian headquarters: "The Austrian invasion comprises 150,000 soldiers from Semlin and 100,000 from Svornik on the Drina river, and 150,000 at Servajedo and 100,00 at Milanovatz on the Danube.

Liverpool, July 30.—It was reported here today that Germany had purchased over night twelve full cargoes of wheat for government account. There was an urgent demand for corn.

London, July 30.—(Central News Cable)—The crews of the British navy's sixth torpedo boat destroyer flotilla have been ordered summoned from shore-leave to report at once to their vessels at Dover. The order was veiled in secrecy.

Paris, July 30.—No confirmation has yet been received here of the fall of the Servian capital, and it is believed that the story of the capture of Belgrade by the Austrians is a Berlin fake.

Reports that the French government is calling up the reservists and that an army corps is to be despatched to the eastern frontier was officially denied today, after a cabinet meeting when no decision to mobilize was arrived at.

London, July 30 (Central News)—Generally speaking the international outlook gauged by financial experts was considered blacker than it was on Wednesday. Much anxiety was manifested, but was not reflected in superficial excitement. The advance to 4 per cent. in the minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England was considered satisfactory. The tone of the markets as a whole was heavier today, but only nominal value was attached to quotations.

Paris, July 30.—(Central News Cable)—The French Cabinet met again today. There was a long meeting of the Cabinet last night. President Poincare presided. President Poincare has held long secret conferences with many influential personages including Theophile Delcasse, former special Envoy from France to St. Petersburg..

London, July 30.—(Central News Cable)—The First Lord of the Admiralty, the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill

WESTFIELD BOARD OF HEALTH CAN PROCEED

Authorized to Take Action for Failure to Report Contagious Disease Case.

Trenton July 30.—The State Board of Health notified the Westfield Board of Health today that it could proceed against Hugh M. Smith of 222 Clark street Westfield, for failing to report that his sister was ill with diphtheria. The sister, Miss Marguerite Smith, aged 22 years, was first treated by Mrs. William M. Sperry, a Christian Science healer, of Cranford. The notice is based on the opinion of Attorney-General Wescott.

Dr. L. G. Newman of Westfield, it is reported, being called to treat a maid in the Smith family, discovered that Miss Smith had diphtheria and informed the local Board of Health. The house was quarantined until June 20. Mrs. Sperry treated the woman from June 14-20.

DUNELLEN

HOW MANY PEOPLE ARE THERE IN DUNELLEN

So much has been said about the rapid growth of Dunellen, Plainfield's hustling suburb, that the Plainfield Daily Press has decided to try to answer the question.

In order to create local interest while the canvass is being made by representatives of this newspaper, the Plainfield Press Company will offer a prize of

$5.00 in Gold to the Person Who Makes the Closest Guess as to the Actual Population.

There are absolutely no strings to the offer. The canvass of the borough is now being made, and will take several days. If you want to try to win five dollars, wait for the coupon which will be printed in Friday's paper and write the number of people you think there are in the borough limits, men, women and children, with your name and address, and forward to the Daily Press in a sealed envelope, plainly marked "Dunellen Population Contest."

The canvass of the town will be completed Saturday, August 1, and the result, with the name of the winner, and his or her guess, will be published on Monday, August 3. In case of tie the amount will be equally divided between those who make the same guess. Only one guess will be accepted from each person.

Miss Mary Hartpence, of New Market road, is visiting Mrs. Robert Anderson, of Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Marx, of Dunellen avenue, have returned from a two days' automobile trip to Delaware Water Gap.

MR. AND MRS. DAY RETURN.

Mr and Mrs. Theodore W. Day, Jr., of North avenue, have returned from a stay at Spring Lake, where they went with the hope that the change would result in Mr. Day's convalescing more rapidly from a severe and protracted siege of rheumatism. Such did not prove to be the case, however, as Mr. Day suffered a relapse and their sojourn there instead of being at the most not more than three weeks was more than five. While still quite ill Mr. Day comes back looking very well and his many friends hope that he is at last on the right road to good health.

IN THE POULTRY BUSINESS.

Raymond Huff, a former resident of this place, was a visitor in the borough yesterday afternoon. Mr. Huff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Huff, are still residing at Raritan, but he is not living with them any more. He and a partner have leased the Dr. Kark farm at South Branch and have gone into the poultry business with the slaughtering and sale of calves as a side line. They have two vehicles, a wagon and a large auto truck. Their trade is mostly made up of the retail butchers in towns along the Central Railroad from Somerville to Elizabeth. Mr. Huff is much improved in health the outdoor life having resulted in his gaining fully fifteen pounds since he last favored the borough with a visit.

James Ryan, of Second street, is planning to motor to Atlantic City in his Cadillac on Sunday.

Charles Terry has accepted a position with the Smith Auto Express Company.

Miss Nellie Millard, of Center street, is making friends a six weeks visit at Brighton.

Miss Margaret Richards, who has been making her home with her aunt, Mrs. George K. Post, of New Market road, during the past four years, has returned to Newark to live with her mother, Mrs. Dudley Richards.

Borough Engineer Lewis T. Churchill was a visitor in Garwood yesterday.

The household effects of Mr. and Mrs. George Coleman, of Elizabeth, were moved today by the Smith Auto Express Company into the house on Columbia street which they recently purchased from Mrs. Georgiana Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Chamberlain, of Bayonne, are spending the latter part of the week with Mr. Chamberlain's mother, Mrs. M. P. Chamberlain, of Center street. Mr. Chamberlain is a prominent members of the New Jersey bar and has an extensive practice in his home town.

JUNIORS PLAN A TRIP.

The past councilors of Friendship council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Market, have chartered the large Humphrey truck of the Smith Auto Express Company to convey them to Spotswood next Wednesday evening, where they will attend the meeting of the Middlesex Past Councilors Association.

John W. Moynihan was a visitor at Hampton, yesterday.

The games of the Women's Two-team Bowling Tournament will be continued on the Presbyterian alleys, this evening.

Isaac Bernkopf, of Prospect avenue, who has been making his temporary abode at Beaver, Pa., where his wife died on July 1, for a little over a year, has returned to the borough.

DISPOSE OF PROPERTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley B. Parker, who recently sold their property on Columbia street to George S. Coleman, of Elizabeth, were moved on Tuesday by the Smith Auto Express Company to Springfield, Mass.

Paul Ratti, the North avenue fruit dealer, entertained his brother, Peter Ratti, of Cranford, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Todd, of Front street, had as their guests yesterday Mrs. Joseph Humble and daughter, Miss Matilda, of Plainfield.

Julius and Mary Prince, of Brooklyn, are spending two weeks with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Victorson, of First street.

WILL PAY OFF MORTGAGE.

At the meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian church after prayer service last evening, it was voted to pay off the mortgage of $1,500 on the church and to continue the sinking fund.

CAPTURE THREE CYCLISTS.

Three bicyclists on their way from Brooklyn to San Francisco had their progress temporarily checked as they passed through the borough this morning. One of the trio presumed on account of the muddy condition of the borough's main thoroughfare to ride on the sidewalk and he was arrested by Marshal I. V. Smalley in front of the postoffice. When arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell in the Borough Hall he gave his name and address as Abram Schonkin, of 185 Grester street, Brooklyn. As the total capital in the possession of the trio did not amount to more than 53 cents, the court disliked to break up the expedition by sending the offender to the county jail and made an exception in Schonkin's case by taking the muddy condition of the street into consideration and letting him go with a severe reprimand. The trio did not have the least idea as to how long it is going to take them to make the trip to San Francisco. They were well stocked with provisions, which when exhausted will be replenished in exchange for toil on the various farms along the way.

SALMAGUNDI PARTY.

There were fifteen couples present at the Salmagundi party given last evening by Miss Margaret Ryan at the home of her parents, Councilman and Mrs. Richard M. Ryan. There were eight tables of progressive games. Many of the games were old fashioned and caused much merriment. They were played from 9:30 to 12 o'clock when a light luncheon was served, after which the porch which was prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns and bunting, and the front room were cleared and all the latest dances were indulged in to the strains of a Victrola until 2 o'clock. The guests then departed

TO DECIDE CLAIMS OF "SMALL BOARD"

County Attorney W. R. Codington to Give Opinion August 6.

The appropriation committee of the Board of Freeholders will submit a report and recommendation August 6 relative to the claims presented by the members and appointees of the "small Board." County Attorney Codington's opinion as to their legality was received some time ago, but will not be made public prior to the meeting. The committee feels that a matter of its importance should be officially transmitted to the members first.

Payment of the bills was held up pending the outcome of the test suit brought by Director Lyons, of the Morris county "small Board." The action was decided in his favor in the Supreme Court and was sustained on an appeal taken to the Court of Errors and Appeals. The circumstances on which the suit was fought, however, are not considered a parallel of the Union county situation.

The large Board in Morris county did not contest the seating of the small Board members, but co-operated with them during the proceedings to establish the constitutionality of the small Board members' election. This, it is claimed, is also true of the appointees to a certain extent. In this county the two bodies worked independently of each other and, aside from the county attorneys and county physicians, no co-operating was done by the appointees.

The decision is silent as to the appointees' compensation. It specifies that the members shall be paid pro rata for the time they were in office and also for the expense incurred in being elected. But for the fact that they were to a certain extent recognized, the case would be parallel with Union and the other counties where the small Board election was contested.

Bergen county has disposed of the case by paying the small Board members, their clerk, county attorney and engineer.

In the event of County Attorney Codington's opinion being adverse to the payment of the members and appointees on the ground that the decision does not cover the situation here, it is possible that other test suits will be instituted. The report and recommendation of the appropriation committee, being based on the opinion, will either include an appropriation for payment of the bills or otherwise, according to the advice presented. There is no necessity for making the appropriation at this time if the opinion is adverse to the payment, as a year would probably be consumed in getting the matter through the courts again for a ruling on the phase in which it is now presented.

Question of Candidates Results In Lively Debate at State Committee Meeting—Roosevelt May Speak at Ocean Grove, August 25.

INSIDE oC

Asbury Park, July 30—Prime interest at the meeting of State Progressives, held here Tuesday night in the New Monterey Hotel, centered on an impromptu speech delivered by former Governor Fort in response to a suggestion made by Chairman Frank B. Jess of the State committee. Mr. Fort's talk gave the impression that he advocated outright the election of such men as State Senators Pierce, Smalley and Colgate by virtue of their independence of mind in public affairs. These specifications brought a storm of criticism on Mr. Fort, the critics including Everett Colby, after which Mr. Fort made the explanation that he did not intend to advise support of them as Republicans, but only on condition that they accepted the Progressive platform and ran in Progressive primaries.

This qualification was accepted at the meeting at which it was made—a general one for State committee men and county chairman—but the State committee at a subsequent session gave unanimous indorsement to a resolution indorsing the candidacy of George W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, for State Senator from Union county. This is the county Mr. Pierce now represents and the one in which Mr. Pierce is seeking renomination and re-election. This would seem to bar Senator Pierce from the privilege of at least running in the Progressive party primaries irrespective of what his attitude might be on the question of accepting a Progressive platform.

During the controversy his talk generated, Mr. Fort made the declaration that Senator Pierce is the ablest man in public life in the State at present.

Mr Colby will go to New York today to try to induce former President Roosevelt to consent to deliver a speech at Ocean Grove, August 25. In this he will represent the State committee under specific instructions from the general committee. He will be accompanied by George W. Perkins. It was through Mr. Perkins that the date for next month was secured tentatively.

After this and other minor business had been concluded, Mr. Jess called on Mr. Fort, with whom, while in the Legislature, Mr. Jess had been associated. Mr. Fort complimented the committee on the proof given during the evening that it had been working hard. He said he had gotten out of touch of things politically recently because his time was taken up in work.

"This is the first time since I resigned as chairman of the committee," Mr. Fort remarked, "that I have received an invitation to attend a meeting."

Reverting later on to his lack of recent activity in the party, the former executive explained:

"It was not because I am out of sympathy with the ideas of the Progressive party, but I can say that I am not in sympathy with all the views of all the Progressive in the State. In saying that, I do not refer to any of those present here.

"I do not know the manner in which we should exactly proceed now, because of having been out of touch with affairs, but I do want to say that I thoroughly like the course which Colonel Roosevelt has set in New York State, where he has backed Hinman's candidacy. I would like to see the same course followed in New Jersey.

"I am just as strongly for Progressve principles as I was in 1912—and I liked the platform then with one possible exception—and I am willing to give my time and work and money, as heretofore. I don't want to say that a great many Progressives have become strong friends of Wilson, but some have. No one in the Progressive party is fond of some of the leadership in the Republican party, of such men as Penrose and Barnes.

"But men like Senators Pierce and Smalley and Colgate should be supported. There are no better men in the State than Senator Pierce and Senator Smalley. And are we to oppose men like them and to help men opposed to their principles?"

After Colonel Howard had made some comments about affairs political, Chairman Jess called upon Mr. Colby, who, he said, should now be the Governor of the State. Mr. Colby said he had listened with great interest to Mr. Fort, and then proceeded to express briefly how his views varied from those of the former Governor.

"As to indorsing good Republicans," the former Essex Senator proceeded, "there are two sides to the question. As to Senator Pierce and Senator Smalley, the logic of the situation should impel them to support our men rather than ask us to support them."

"Senator Pierce and Senator Smalley and Senator Colgate think the Republican party is becoming progressive, but none of us have heard any of those three Senators raise their voices to protest against the leadership of such men as Penrose and Barnes. They must know that those bosses are not progressive."

Charles C. Wheeler, of Somerset county, said the question of indorsing Senator Smalley had been talked over by the Progressive executive committee Monday night in the county, but the result was that the committee was not inclined to support any man who would not pledge himself to Progressive doctrines.

By this time Mr. Fort considered it advisable to make the further explanation of his views.

"I do not mean in my remarks to imply," said Mr. Fort, "that the Progressive party should indorse a candidate of another party. What I meant was that he could be indorsed only if he would run in the Progressive primaries and upon a Progressive platform."

Then Mr. Jess got into the discussion.

"Perhaps, like Governor Fort, because of association in legislative work with the men mentioned," Mr. Jess said, "I am prejudiced strongly in favor of Senators Pierce and Smalley. I believe it would be impossible for any Progressive to render more real public service than they have rendered.

"I feel so strongly on this that I can say I would consider it a calamity to the State if Mr. Pierce was defeated, but, of course, I cannot advise the Progressives in his county not to nominate a man against him."

"I," said Edgar Knapp, of Union county, "do not know that Mr. Pierce ever did anything for the Progressive party, and I do not think we should indorse him when he have men like Mayor Moy, of Plainfield, available as our candidate. If Mr. Pierce did anything at all, it was against the Progressive party."

"How?" demanded Mr. Fort.

"Well," answered Mr. Knapp, "he didn't do anything for Theodore Roosevelt in 1912."

"How do you know that?" persisted Mr. Fort.

"He never did anything openly to show any support," replied Mr. Knapp. "I haven't anything against Mr. Pierce, but I think it would be foolish to indorse him."

Edward Leach, of Union county, said it was news to him to hear from Governor Fort the good qualities possessed by Senator Pierce. He said it was a question whether he could win in his own party.

"Probably he won't win," assented Mr. Fort, "but he's a man who got through the bank tax, the railroad tax and jury reform, and—mark this statement—I consider him the ablest man now in public life in New Jersey."

REPRIEVED BOY MURDERER MAY BE MENTALLY UNSOUND

Trenton, July 30.—Governor Fielder's action, pending consideration of the case by the Board of Pardons, in granting a reprieve until October 19 to Stefano Ruggieri, seventeen years old, under sentence of death for murder, was due to the youth's declaration that he was hired to kill another than Pasquale Falzarano, his friend, whom he fatally wounded, and to the possibility that the boy may be mentally unsound.

Application for the reprieve was made by Speaker Azariah M. Beekman of the Assembly, counsel for Ruggieri, upon the ground that the boy was mentally irresponsible and that in killing Falzarano he acted as the tool of James Falzarano, who had induced him to attempt to murder Luigi Dogestini. James Falbarano is now under indictment for his part in the murder, and Ruggieri may be used as a witness against him.

The murder of Falzarano took place at Lyon's Station, May 17. According to statements made in behalf of Ruggieri, the boy, acting under instructions from James Falzarano, started out with a shotgun to kill Dogestini. He found his intended victim participating in a card game, and opened fire. Instead of injuring Dogestini he shot and killed Pasqual Falzarano, a close friend of Ruggieri, and blinded Giacomo Vitagliano for life.

The jury which convicted Ruggieri recommended him to the mercy of the court, but the verdict being for murder in the first degree, the court had no alternative but to impose the death penalty.

SECOND CONCERT PLANS COMPLETE

Large Attendance Expected at Civic Association's Project Tomorrow Night.

NEED ADDITIONAL FUNDS

Whether or Not the Innovation Will Be Continued Remains With the Music Lovers—Grounds Easily Accessible From All Points.

The second of the open air concerts by the Dutch Arms Band, under the auspices of the West End Civic Association, will be given tomorrow evening, weather permitting, at Monroe avenue and West Fifth street. It is the hope of the committee in charge that the second concert will prove even more popular than that of last week when upwards of 5,000 persons from all parts of the city gathered to enjoy an evening of music. The program for this week's concert, it is said, will be both attractive and varied, including not only many classics but a rich assortment of lighter and popular airs.

While greatly encouraged by the attendance at the initial concert the committee in charge ardently hopes that the interest of the public will be so sustained that they might look forward to making this a fixture for one evening each week for the remainder of this summer, and the next as well. Should the public manifest sufficient interest, it is the purpose of the committee to so arrange the programs that vocalists can be brought from New York to present the newest and most melodious song hits. Plans for this are already under way, and their consummation alone depends upon the temper of the music lovers of the city.

It was exceedingly gratifying to those in charge of last Friday's affair to note that the attendance included residents from every section of the city. Not only did Plainfield proper turn out most loyally, but a number of persons came by street cars and motor cars from Fanwood, Westfield, Dunellen and Bound Brook. The accessibility of the grounds makes it possible for patrons from a distance to ride direct to the place. The wide open streets surrounding the park where the concerts are held afford ample parking space for automobiles, as was proven by the scores of cars that surrounded the grounds while the last concert was in progress.

It might be well to mention that while the West End Civic Association has fathered these concerts, actuated solely by a desire to furnish pleasure and diversion for those living in the West End, as well as to all who care to come from afar, it is not in a position to continue them unless the public does its share. The Association has gone to considerable expense in arranging these features, but it does not seek to make money. It does expect, however, that sufficient revenue will accrue to pay current expenses and leave a sufficient sum over to reimburse the band for the treat it affords all music lovers. To this end a minimum change of five cents has been fixed for the seats within the roped enclosure. Then, too, the refreshment booth is deserving of patronage, for not only is it there for the comfort and accommodation of the public, but a share of the net receipts from this source go to the band.

While there were in the neighborhood of 5,000 persons at last Friday's concert only a small percentage of those present occupied the seats, and not a few who remained without the enclosure refused point blank to contribute their nickle towards the support of the band. Such a spirit is not conducive to encouraging the committee and it is earnestly hoped that all who attend will volunteer their mite towards reimbursing this most excellent musical organization.

There are few cities the size of Plainfield that can boast a band composed entirely of home talent of such proficiency and merit as the Dutch Arms Band. So, when attending the next concert, it is hoped this will be borne in mind and the band will be accorded the financial support it so richly deserves.

MRS. EMILY VAN D. APGAR DIES AT COLUMBIA, PA.

The funeral of Mrs. Emily Van-Doren Apgar, aged eighty years, mother of Mrs. Harry L. Terry, of 714 West Eighth street, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the latter. The burial will be private. Mrs. Apgar, who was a resident of Dunellen for twenty-one years, died Tuesday at the home of her son, Albert R. Apgar, at Columbia, Pa., after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Apgar was a member of the Dunellen Methodist church and was widely known in that place. There survives three daughters, Mrs. Harry L. Terry, of this city; Miss May Apgar, of Westfield, and Mrs. Sherman Kelly, of Flemington, and two sons, Albert Apgar, of Columbia, Pa., and Charles Apgar, of Westfield.

WORK FOR CIVIC BODIES.

Very often the older residents of the city are heard to comment on the passing of the older shade trees which are cut down from time to time, to make room for new buildings, or because of the ravages of time. Trees that have been landmarks for years, either in the near-business or residential sections, have developed warm spots in the hearts of the thousands of inhabitants of the city, because of their beauty and magnificence which affords shade along otherwise barren streets. But as the trees are disappearing, in one section and another of the city let us pause for a moment and consider what is being done, and what should be done to replace these silent friends of humanity.

The Shade Tree Commissions of Plainfield and other cities are created for the purpose of advising the general public in the preservation of trees, in the destruction or taking down of trees that should be removed, and the planting of new trees. Our city is fortunate in having on its Shade Tree Commission three representative men in Miles Roberts, Philip S. Suffern, and Andrew J. Gavett, and while they have other duties to which they must give a good portion of their time, they are glad to give proper attention and care to the trees.

The average citizen gives little or no attention to this problem, mainly because they feel that interest on their part is entirely out of place. There are those, too, who fear they may be termed sentimental if they should so much as notice the passing of a tree that has been a landmark as they passed year in and year out. Citizens should look upon these questions, not merely from a sentimental viewpoint, but from a practical viewpoint as well. If they would become informed as to the value of shade trees to the community, they would soon loose sight of what they might term a "womanish" view of the situation, and take an interest in co-operating with the Commission offering a suggestion occasionally as to just what might be done in the replacing of dead trees.

Properly shaded streets appeal to the strangers in the same manner that they appeal to our citizens while on a visit to a strange city. If this is true would it not be advisable for our civic organizations to give this matter a little attention at one or two of their meetings in the course of the year, especially those bodies which represent sections of the city which are partially or wholly residential in nature. Just look over your territory and see if you can help the Commission along in its work, thereby helping the city, your organization, and yourselves.

According to news dispatches from Washington, the "spoils" clause of the Moon Omnibus Postoffice bill has been eliminated. This clause would open up the way for the appointment of 2,500 political healers as assistant postmasters in the first and second-class postoffices of the country. While we have no great objection to Democrats holding these offices, we wonder what would have happened to the local Democracy, if they had an assistant as well as a postmaster to appoint. The citizens of this city, members of all parties, were disgusted with the way the local postmastership appointment was handled. We believe that Mr. Hoagland will make as good an official as any one who was suggested, and better than many, but the juggling of the job for months prior to the making of the appointment showed up the bad points in the system of filling the offices. It would be well for the powers that be to consider the wisdom of taking the office entirely out of politics and out of the "spoils" and putting it under civil service where it properly belongs. If it is essential for the carriers, clerks, and other postal employees to undergo tests and be protected by the civil service laws, how much more important is it that a good postmaster should be protected from the ravages of the political winds. Under the civil service system, a good official is almost positive, while the shifting of the power to make appointment keeps the people in a state of uncertainty.

The general public of this city and vicinity are anxiously waiting the decision of the Public Utilities Commission relative to the South Plainfield trolley line. The conditions along the proposed route are changing, slowly, but nevertheless surely, toward that state when the line will become an absolute necessity. The Public Service Railway Company might as well sit up and take notice of the trend of the times at the village, and lay the line before independent capital is induced to take the matter up. Meanwhile, we await the decision of the commission.

The Building Trades Council are expected to take some action at their next meeting relative to the proposed line. No doubt that body will throw their strength with that of other civic organizations who have united in seeking this much needed improvement. The time is ripe for action one way or the other on this question which interests the working men as well as the merchants in Plainfield and South Plainfield alike.

With the building at South Plainfield already started, the wide-awake citizens of that town are coming to realize that the borough form of government will soon become a necessity in the proper development of the place. The enlarging of the Spicer plant, and the prospect of another manufacturing concern locating there in the near future means that various improvements must be considered in the near future. A movement for the borough form of government has been twice defeated, and there are those who would oppose it today for political reasons. But the movement for this political re-arrangement of the government at South Plainfield will eventually be a realized fact, if those public spirited citizens of the village grow not weary in well doing.

"Some are born to fame, some achieve fame, while others have fame thrust upon them." Plainfield is in the achieving class

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

LeRoy J. Ellis, who, at the recent meeting of the Plainfield Democratic Club, was named chairman of the committee to further the interest of Commission Government in this city, has found that his business affairs will not permit him to give as much time to the work as he expected, and while he will serve on the committee, former Councilman Fred Endress, another member, will be the acting chairman. It is the purpose of the committee to secure signatures to petitions with a view to holding a special election.

Westfield Republicans will have their first look at William T. Stuchell, one of the Republican Congressional candidates, Saturday night. He will be the principal speaker at an open-air rally to be held at Broad and Elm streets. The necessary permit has been obtained from Mayor Evans and other arrangements are now being made. They will consist of red fire, music, a suitable person to preside, and some other speakers. The Congressional candidate will be accompanied by Sheriff Wright, who will tell the people of his candidacy for the Republican county clerkship nomination.

After leaving Elizabeth, Monday, where he did some effective campaigning, William T. Stuchell and Sheriff Wright made a circuit of Hillside, Union, Mountainside and Springfield. Dinner was taken at the Baltusrol Golf Club, where both candidates were well received. It is the purpose of these candidates, who frankly admit "plugging together," to keep up a vigorous campaign until the votes are counted on primary day. They say things look very bright.

Independent Journalism

The Chicago Herald prints the following as "An Independent Newspaper's Creed:"

Every newspaper prints each day letters from readers—fault-finding, often jeering, letters of commendation, advice and protest. The number of commendations is gauged by the spirit in the newspaper. So far as the Herald is concerned this is not a protest against them. They are welcome. They are interesting and also consoling. Both in the variety of their fault-finding and in the uniformity of their protest they strengthen conviction and confirm faith.

There are some that are uniform in denying the Herald's description of itself as "an independent newspaper." Their variety is in the grounds on which they base this denial. For example:

Here is one which declares that the Herald is not independent but "Democratic" because it commended the President of the United States for an official act both well-intentioned and patriotic—and Mr. Wilson sees fit to wear the label "Democrat."

Here is another which declares that the Herald is not independent but Republican because it publishes fiscal statistics which show that the Democratic tariff isn't working as its framers thought it would.

Still another declares that the Herald is not independent but a "Progressive organ," and playing the part of "assistant Democrat," because it printed Mr. Roosevelt's Pittsburgh speech in full.

Yet another is in the same key, but varies the sequence of accusation by terming the Herald an "assistant Republican" for printing Mr. Roosevelt's indictment of the Wilson Administration in that same speech.

When we set them side by side we perceive that these accusers answer one another. In reality their definition of an independent newspaper is "one which gives our side the best of it." Unconsciously they confess "Orthodoxy is my doxy; heterodoxy is your doxy."

Now and then one sincerely asks, "What is an 'independent' newspaper?" The question is pertinent. Here is the Herald's answer:

An independent newspaper is one that realizes that no party or other combination of men has a monopoly of all the fruitful ideas and high principles.

It is a newspaper that deliberately preserves its freedom to stand for what it conceives to be the right wherever it finds it—no matter what label it may bear.

It is a newspaper that insists on finding its opinions in the mental processes of its makers, in contact with the realities of life, instead of having them cast in the molds of the official pronouncements of partisan chiefs.

It is a newspaper that makes no pretense of infallibility; that shirks no issue where it believes a vital issue exists; that declines to be drawn into personal, partisan or political controversy on the mere assertion of interested parties that a great issue is involved.

But over and above all this the independent newspaper seeks the "higher ground" of agreement between opposing factions that are sincerely struggling for the public good.

A good French priest once said substantially this—we quote from memory: "I care not to argue with my opponents. I care only to be united with them in a higher synthesis."

Always to seek the "higher synthesis" that will unite all those who stand for the public good in a common effort;

Always to try to perceive amid the fret and fury and inconsequentiality of faction some higher ground that embraces all that is vital and patriotic in the views of all parties;

Always to proclaim this higher ground when once it is clearly perceived and to endeavor to rally good citizens to it by all the means within its power—

That is the real independent newspaper—the only newspaper that can make the title a true badge of honor.

HERE AND THERE

Henry Eggerding one of the pioneer business men of the city, is completing his thirty-ninth year in business in Plainfield, having been engaged all that time in the manufacture of cigars on Park avenue. He enjoys the distinction of being the oldest merchant in the city. Mr. Eggerding was born in Germany, coming to Plainfield in 1875. For a time he was located in North Plainfield and a little later on West Front street, from which place he removed to Park avenue. He is about the only man in this city or vicinity that is engaged in making hand-made cigars, a rare thing these days. Mr. Eggerding is a member of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., and other local organizations.

PARENTS ARE SEVERELY REPRIMANDED BY RECORDER

Emil Hersh, aged 14 years, when arraigned before Recorder Anderson at Watchung, last night, on a charge of stealing a bicycle belonging to an Italian, of North Plainfield, was released, after which the recorder took the opportunity to severely reprimand the parents for their laxity in the care and training of the boy. He suspended sentence in their case with a warning that if they failed to look after their boy properly they would be severely dealt with when brought before him again.

The Hersh boy was found with the wheel in Somerville by Constable Henry Allen, who was called there on business. The bicycle was stolen last Sunday, the lad snapping the lock and chain. He was on his way home when discovered by the constable. Hersh was arrested at his home by George Cooper, of Watchung, on information furnished by Allen. The boy admitted the theft of the wheel.

Hersh has two brothers, one of whom is serving time in Rahway Reformatory, and the other is at the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg. The father is employed in a bakery in this city. He and his wife promised to take better care of their boy.

TRADE-IN-PLAINFIELD CONTEST

Will have fully as much pleasure from the prize procured.

$10 IN GOLD FOR THE BEST LETTER

Three Other Prizes

HOW TO ENTER THE CONTEST

Write a letter of not more than 500 words telling, in the simplest way possible, of the advantages you have gained in making a purchase in response to some particular advertisement of a local merchant in the Plainfield Daily Press.

Letters must be in the Daily Press office not later than August 12, and prizes will be awarded not later than August 15.

HERE ARE THE PRIZES

First—$10.00 in gold.

Second—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $6.00.

Third—Year's Subscription to Daily Press ($5.00).

Fourth—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $3.00.

CONDITIONS OF THE COMPETITION

1. The instance related in your letter must be bona fide, contain a description of the purchase, the name of the store in which it was made and be accompanied by a clipping of the advertisement. The amount of the sale will have no effect in determining the winner.

2. The advertisement must be from a copy of the Plainfield Daily Press issued within the dates of the contest, i. e. July 22 to August 12. Whether the letters win prizes or not the right is reserved to publish same in the columns of the Daily Press, without payment being made for their use.

3. No person will be considered as a competitor, who is in any way connected with the Plainfield Daily Press.

4. Winners of the second and fourth prizes will designate on what stores the Press due bills are to be issued, but they will only be issued upon Plainfield stores which advertise in the Plainfield Daily Press.

THESE POINTS WILL COUNT IN THE ANSWER:

The best illustrations of the advantages gained by buying at Plainfield stores in response to Daily Press advertisements.

The best illustrations showing the advantages of buying in Plainfield over buying out of town, especially from mail order houses.

Brevity, simplicity and an intelligent handling of the subject.

N. Y. CONGRESSMEN CONFER WITH WILSON

Discuss the Political Situation in the State.

Washington, July 30.—Behind closed doors Representative Fitzgerald and members of the New York city congressional delegation discussed with President Wilson the muddled New York political situation.

After the conference Representative Fitzgerald said:

"We had a most pleasant and profitable visit and a most cordial reception at the hands of the president."

Mr. Fitzgerald indicated that the president would clearly define his attitude toward the New Yorkers who are candidates for re-election regarding the fight made against them by a certain Democratic faction.

"The conference was taken up by a very full and frank expression of opinion about the political situation in New York and the prospects of the party there in the congressional elections. The conference was welcomed by the president. No plans were discussed. It was understood to be a conference for information. The conference was characterized by a spirit of cordiality on both sides."

Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York, telegraphed Fitzgerald denying reported charges by Fitzgerald that he had slandered the New York delegation and demanding the right to be present at the conference. Mr. Malone failed to make any such request of the White House and no invitation was volunteered him.

Although the conferences were secret, it is known that the subject which occupied their time was the movements of the British fleets.

Belgrade, July 30 (Central News)—In the bombardment by the Austrian gunboats stationed in the Danube the main Servian fortress here was destroyed, but the remainder of the capitol was not damaged, owing to the fact that the white flag was hoisted. Only a few Servians were wounded.

Belgrade, July 30 (Central News)—A big battle is expected today at Valjevo, southwest of Belgrade.

Berlin, July 30—While the Imperial Bank of Germany decided not to mark up its rate of discount today, it is believed that the decision was intended solely to avoid further alarm. An advance in the rate is expected any day.

London, July 30.—Fighting between Austrian and Montenegrin troops has been going on for some time, according to a report here.

Athens, July 30.—The following telegram from Nish, date July 29, has been received by the Servian Legation here.

"During the night Belgrade was bombarded. Shells fell in various quarters of the town, causing great damage. Several fell on the Franco-Servian and the Androvitch banks. M. Androvitch, of the banking firm was wounded. Both banks have lodged a protest at the German Legation.

"An artillery duel is proceeding at Vichmitza, about 3 1-2 miles down the river from Belgrade."

London, July 30.—(Central News Cable)—In the House of Commons this afternoon, Sir Edward Grey, minister of foreign affairs in answer to a question, said he extremely regretted to have to admit that the European situation as yet shows no improvement. The government, however, had not abandoned hope and was zealously continuing its efforts in the interests of peace.

Berlin, July 30.—A despatch to the Tags Zeitung reports a severe Servian defeat at Foca. Austrians drove back two Servian divisions. One division was surrounded and captured. The Servians lost 800 killed and the Austrians 200 killed. The Kaiser held a conference at the New Palace at Potsdam late last night. It was attended by Imperial Chancellor Jagon, Minister; Admiral Von Tirpitz, General Moltke, Admiral Von Pohl and several other high military and naval officials. The meeting was followed by a council of the Cabinet, which lasted for some time. No announcement of what took place at either meeting was made.

Lisbon, July 30.—(Central News Cable)—Premier Mchado today authorized the Central News to state that in the event of a general European war Portugal would use her best efforts to preserve friendly relations with all the Powers, but that she stood ready in the event of an emergency to discharge all the obligations of her alliance with Great Britain.

London, July 30.—The Austrian Lloyd Steamship service from the Adriatic is completely interrupted according to a dispatch received here from Durazzo.

IDENTIFY BODY OF MISSING LAWYER

Accidental Drowning Given as Cause of Death.

FOUND FLOATING IN BAY

Red Bank, N. J., July 30.—The body found floating in Raritan bay, opposite Carroll's hotel at Port Monmouth, has been positively identified as that of Elliott Marshall of 74 Porter place, Montclair, N. J., by his law partner, Mr. Harry L. Pangborn of 18 Wall street, New York. Fishermen employed by E. H. Jones of Belford were after bait when they picked up the floating body. It was fully clothed, but the body and face were so far gone that identification was made by the name of Thomas H. Graham & Co., Nassau street, tailors, on the inside pocket of his dark blue serge coat.

The finding of a ticket on the Sandy Hook route boat from New York to Atlantic Highlands gives rise to belief that he may have taken the boat and jumped off before it landed at Atlantic Highlands. Where the body was found floating is only about three miles from the pier. A pair of gold cuff buttons with initials E. M., two bunches of keys, pair of eyeglasses and an envelope addressed to Marshall's father-in-law, R. H. Floyd Jones of St. Louis, who had been visiting at Marshall's home, were the only other things found in his clothes.

The body was taken to Undertaker Melvin Yard's morgue at Belford. Coroner Henry C. Fay of Red Bank was called and notified Mr. Pangborn, the dead man's partner, who arrived here with a representative of the Burns detective agency and identified the body. Mr. Pangborn said the identification is complete except his teeth, which have not yet been examined.

Coroner Fay gives the cause of death as accidental drowning, stating there were no indication of foul play, but only bruises about the face and head caused by being battered while floating several days in the rough water. The body was shipped to Montclair today.

Mrs. Marshall is reported as seriously ill. She gave birth to an infant about two weeks ago, and its death was a great shock to the parents.

RAIN SPOILS BABY PARADE.

But Keyport, N. J., Enjoys Two Other Carnival Features.

Red Bank, N. J., July 30.—Rain spoiled the baby parade at Keyport. Scores of little boys and girls had been decked out and their carriages had been transformed with flowers and flags. Their fathers and mothers lined the sidewalks to see them, and even those not so directly concerned were delighted with the spectacle. But as the march began the rain began, and in a few minutes the torrents drenched the decorations and reduced the children's costumes to bedraggled rags.

Before the rain the parade of floats and automobiles was held, and the Mardi Gras with its march of firemen and Red Men proved a great success.

To Reinstate Captain Gibbons.

Washington, July 30.—The house naval affairs committee reported favorably a bill to reinstate Captain John H. Gibbons, who commanded the Utah at Vera Cruz, retired recently by the naval "plucking board."

MASTER BUILDERS' ASS'N MEETS HERE

Mayor Percy H. Stewart Opens Session With Address of Welcome.

The forty-fourth annual conference of the State Master Builders' Association opened this afternoon at Reform Hall, J. S. Anderson, of Orange, president of the organization, presiding. Mayor Percy H. Stewart addressed the seventy-five delegates present, extending to them a hearty welcome to the city. Routine business followed the address of the Mayor, with reports from the following committees: Industrial, education, manufacturers and material, arbitration and conciliation, resolutions, time and place of next conference, legislation, standard plans and specifications, uniform contracts, membership and nominations. The delegates present were from all sections of the State. It is not to discuss any legislative problems today's session, although there are several matters of this nature of importance which will be taken under consideration at a later conference.

A banquet will be given the delegates at the conclusion of the session this afternoon at the hall, the preparations for that event being in charge of a local committee. This is the first time the association has met in this city, and several of the delegates spoke in appreciation of the reception tendered them, as well as complimentary words concerning the appearance of the city. The committee composed of local contractors who have had charge of arrangements for the gathering and the banquet was composed of William C. Smith, L. B. Woolston and Albert Pangborn. Should it become necessary, an evening session will be held to complete the business of the gathering.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Organized baseball, and especially the major leagues, will not look back on 1914 as a year of golden harvests. With midsummer rapidly approaching, reports from all parts of the country are to the effect that attendance figures are not up to the usual standard. The reasons assigned for this unusual state of gate receipts are extremely varied. The advent of the Federal League is not generally given as a contributing cause, and it is known that the new organization is not any better supported than the older organizations. One authority, who, owing to his position, has access to the returns, said recently:

"I attribute the falling off of attendance to the general dullness in business. Baseball is like any other attraction that depends upon the public for support. It feels business depression, and its receipts are an accurate barometer of financial conditions. I was recently told during a trip around the circuit that one city supporting a major league club had more than 17,000 untenanted houses, due to the fact that many of the working class had left in search of other employment. Conditions I found to be the same to some extent in other cities."

The situation is one which readily tends itself to pessimistic and sensational reports, but there is no thought on the part of those who have made baseball a life business of putting up the shutters. If it is found that a readjustment of certain circuits is necessary such changes will be made in due time. There is no tendency, however, to act on snap judgment. President Edward Barrow, of the International League, voiced the general sentiment when he said:

"I am not prepared to say what future developments may arise or whether conditions may not ultimately demand a revision of the circuit. But this I will say, and say most positively, no change is contemplated this season. And if any change is made in future it will be by the unanimous consent of the club presidents. Our constitution demands that courtesy. Baseball generally this season is not in as flourishing a condition as it has been the last several seasons. But the International League has been hit no harder than any of the other leagues."

There's a little brown-skinned youngster in New Jersey who is worthy of big league scouts' attention. He's a Cuban who hearkens to the call of Jose Acosta. He's toiling with the Long Branch club.

One of the specialties of this club is playing exhibition games on Sundays with major league outfits. Several weeks ago it played the Giants with Acosta in the box. The Cuban won handily. Next came the Browns. Again the Cuban won.

More persistent than the Giants, the Browns returned for revenge just a few Sundays ago. They got it—yes, right where Marion cuts her bathing suits low. Acosta not only won, but he shut Rickey's men out without a hit.

It has been announced that the First Baptist baseball club has launched out on an independent basis. And yet we have been given to understand that it will continue in the Sunday-school League, whether or not the performers spend their regular period of time in a Sunday-school class-room on the seventh day of the week. Now we think it's about time someone came to the fore and offered an alibi for the Sunday-school League. Possibly A NEW name.

"Walt" Brown proved himself to be a real Sunday-school Leaguer, Saturday afternoon, by turning out fully charged with base hits against his former pals, the Monroe Avenue team. Brown filled in at backstop for the Baptist boys and took occasion to paste the offerings of the opposing twirler to the four corners of the lot.

Just another evidence of the slide baseball is taking in all parts of the country this season—Manager McDonough, of the South Plainfield aggregation, announces that he is ready to throw up the sponge. And that missile has been pretty well soaked during the past couple of weeks on Sunday afternoons.

Britt Martin, the dean of baseball celebrities in these parts, has thrown his hat into the arena as a Sunday ball magnate. The second sack veteran has announced that he will captain a team of frolicking youngsters on the Woodland Park field next Sunday afternoon.

Another evidence of hard times—Joe Harter, Dave Driscoll and a few other noble representatives of the same gang, have been forced to beat it to Hackettstown in order to get their weekly dose of pastiming this summer. Well, the farmers down that way are not particular what kind of baseball comes their direction anyway.

We anticipate a real revival in the National sport hereabouts along about the time when the frost king makes his appearance. The Royal Giants now harbor the idea that they can swamp the Saurer crew and it is not unlikely that they will be given an opportunity to attempt the stunt within the next few "years."

BASEBALL NOTES

After a brilliant winning streak at home, the Chicago White Sox cracked badly on their eastern trip.

Caldwell, of the New York Americans, and Steele, of the St. Louis Cardinals, are the only pitchers in the major leagues batting for .300 or better.

Pitcher Jim Vaughn, of the Cubs, seems to have the Giants' number for fair. He has picked the McGraw squad four times so far this season.

"Home Run" Baker, of the Athletics, is living up to his reputation as a star walloper. He is leading the American League in batting and going strong.

In the Western Canada League they have a Pitcher, Beer, the players can't down. Working for Saskatoon, Beer has won 12 games with nary a loss.

Sheldon LeJeune, who has been tried out in major league company several times, is leading the Western League is batting. He is playing with Sioux City.

The Boston Braves have been coming fast of late. Stallings has declared time and again that he had a regular ball team and all that was needed was a start in the right direction.

Pete Falsey, the Yale outfielder, has reported to Manager Clarke of the Pittsburgh Pirates. It is said that while Pete is a true Falsey he is far from being a false alarm.

Sherwood Magee has quit short-stopping for the Phillies and returned to his old place in the outfield. While playing in the infield, Magee drove in more runs than any other shortstop in the National or Amerian League.

It looks as though Hank O'Day picked the right person to shortstop for the Cubs when he grabbed Claude Derrick from the Baltimore Orioles. Claudius certainly has performed well since his arrival in Chicago.

The close race in the National League upsets McGraw's baseball dope about as fast as he can write it. John first picked the Pirates to make it warm for his Giants. Later he picked the Cubs and now he figures the Cardinals as the strongest opponents of the Giants.

WITH THE BOXERS

Harry Lewis, the Philadelphia welter, who has been forced to quit the game, has started his brother Gus in the sport.

Willie Beecher has signed for two bouts in September. He is to meet Joe Azevedo in San Francisco, and Charley White in Milwaukee.

Carl Morris is going to England after bouts. Well, Carl ought to do as well as the other "hopes" who have been performing over there recently.

Dan Morgan, manager for Jack Britton, claims that Britton is the one American boxer entitled to a clash with Freddie Welsh, the new lightweight champion.

ROD AND REEL

Weakfish are running fine in Raritan Bay and they are caught on the ebb tide. Shedder crabs prove to be the best bait and the catches are made without chumming. Should chum be used to keep the fish around the boat it is safe to say that the results would be better. Off Keyport Cove one party caught eighty-three fish and another man landed forty-five weaks and a croaker.

Perch and bass of good size are plentiful at Fix Hill Lakes.

The weakfish are still being caught in large numbers at Morgan Station. As many as forty-five have been taken in one day and they top the scales at about three pounds.

Weequahic Lake and Branch Brook Lake are very popular with fishermen just now. Bass, pickerel, perch, eels, catfish and sunfish can be caught there in large numbers. Boats can be hired there for fishing purposes.

Reports from Water Witch say that the weakfishing there is the best ever. The anglers get large catches and all of the fish weigh over two pounds.

The unsettled state of the weather is responsible for the poor fresh water fishing. In the rivers the rains keep the water muddy so that the fish can't see the bait and in the lakes the fish stick to the bottom so as to avoid the cyclones that have prevailed quite often recently. Lawn tennis is more attractive these days at Lake Hoptacong and Greenwood Lake than fishing.

There is an unusual run of big weakfish at Barnegat that the average fisherman misses because he looks for quantity instead of quality. In the small streams that are feeders for the bay these fish gather in about six feet of water and the only way to get at them is to hire a man that knows the haunts of the fish to row you where they are and then if only a few six-pounders are caught they must be considered.

Staten Island fishermen report a big school of fish along their shore from South Beach to Tottenville. Bluefish were making the squid along Huguenot, Monday, and the Seabright fishermen were after them with their nets. It seems a shame that a few fish can't come into the bay where the rod and line fishermen get a little pleasure without a swarm of net fishermen coming after them.

Three men went out to the fishing banks and after fishing three hours they had enough fluke and sea bass to fill a barrel, so they returned home. Some of the fluke weighed three pounds, while the sea bass averaged a pound in weight.

LAURELS AND RED STARS BATTLE FOURTEEN INNINGS

The Red Stars and Laurels fought a fourteen inning tie game on Crescent Oval yesterday, ending with a score of 2 to 2. The Laurels put a run across the pan in the fourth inning by a walk to Deady who stole second and third and scored on an infield out. The Red Stars took the lead in the fifth by two successive hits and two errors made by Venable dropping easy fly balls which scored two runs. The Laurels evened matters up in the seventh. From the seventh to the fourteenth it was a pitcher's battle between Butler and Stites. Both pitchers received great support. The Laurels came near scoring in the twelfth when Corey opened with a walk and stole second. Deady hit the ball hard over second base but Kennedy nabbed the sphere with one hand and doubled Carey off second base, cutting off a rally. The game was called in the fourteenth inning by agreement to allow the Red Stars to catch a trolley for Samptown where they were supposed to play the Samptown Colored Giants. The score:

SOMERVILLE GOLF CLUB MAY RUN TOURNAMENT

Open golf tournaments are becoming more popular. The Somerville Country Club is now planning a competition of this kind for some time in October.

The club officials believe that more tournaments for professionals would lend a stimulas to American golf, and to this end they are working out a plan for competition extending over a period of two or three days Whether or not Somerville will follow the lead of Shawnee and hold a tournament at seventy-two holes of medal play remains to be seen.

It is probable, however, that something different will be tried. With ample prizes for those who reach the semi-final round, a tournament along the lines of the regulation invitation affairs for amateurs could be run off. Two sixteens might be provided, which would extend the competition over three days and still allow all except eight professionals to return to their own links after two days.

The Somerville course is much improved over last year, and such an authority as John J. McDermott, a former national open champion, says that in time it will be among the best in this section of the country.

WILLIE RITCHIE RETURNS.

Willie Ritchie, shorn of his world's lightweight championship title, returned to this country from England, where he lost his crown to Freddie Welsh, aboard the Vaterland yesterday. Ritchie expressed the hope that Welsh would give him a return bout, but would prefer that the contest be held in this country.

NEW BRUNSWICKS WILL TRY AGAIN

Middlesex Coppers Have Invited Local Team to Play There Monday.

Negotiations were completed last night between Manager Bader of the local policemen's baseball club, and the booker of the New Brunswick aggregation for a return game to be played at that place next Monday afternoon. The New Brunswick team has not played since the locals trounced them on Parker Field some time ago but have decided to get back in the game long enough to revenge themselves for the defeat. They are confident of victory this time and have been practising for the past week to get into shape for this contest.

The local team, which has been playing a good article of ball all the time, is not worrying about getting defeated as their opponents had enough of their slugging in seven innings the first time they met. The locals will have their regular lineup for this game and the Middlesex bluecoats will present practically the same men that they had on Parker Field but they may spring that great pitcher on the locals that they were going to last time but he failed to appear here and we will recall it they used two men in the box to stop the onslaught. Plainfield used two pitchers also but not for the same reason as their opponents did.

Should the New Brunswick cops win the game they will probably go after the Elizabeth and Newark teams that battle for the State championship next Thursday and have the game postponed, claiming a chance to be one of the contenders in that series. The locals will probably go to New Brunswick by automobile.

FOOTBALL STARS TO JUMP LOCAL ELEVEN

Webster and Manning Have Decided to Play Game With the Dexters This Fall.

When the Holy Cross football team takes the field this fall they will be without the services of two old "vets" and also two of the best players that the eleven has ever had. The two men are "Turk" Webster and Jerry Manning, the former, a crack end and the latter a star half-back. These two gridiron men have announced their intention of playing with the Dexters of Perth Amboy, who have held the State title twice and who have appeared here against the local team.

Webster and Manning have been members of the Holy Cross team since its organization and have always been prominent in the battles against out-of-town teams. Webster, in an end proposition, will be hard to duplicate as he could break up any formation and could rush the ball for large gains. Manning, in the blackfield was also a valuable man and he made many of the teams touchdowns last year. He was an excellent line plunger and was a good man to form interference.

The Dexter club, which is the representative team of Perth Amboy, is one of the strongest in the State and has played some good games with the locals in this city. The local men were given an offer from this club and decided to acept it, announcing their intention recently. They will be greatly missed by the red and white team although there are several good substitutes to take their places.

PERTH AMBOY CANCELLS; LOCALS SIGN NEWARKERS

The Plainfield A. A. baseball club made a good impression with teams in the vicinity of Newark last Sunday when it played the North Ends and lost a ten inning game. They have been signed up for next Sunday with the Meadowbrook A. C. team, of that place. The game will be played in the afternoon on the Newark League diamond. The local team originally had this date taken with a Perth Amboy club but this team cancelled and the locals took this chance. The Newark team is considered one of the fastest in that city and plays all the semi-pro teams of this section and New York. The manager of this club witnessed the ten inning game last Sunday on the Roseville diamond and was well pleased with the showing of the locals.

The Plainfield team will use the same lineup as before and Maiden will be on the firing line. Moulton will receive him. Should the team win the game they will take another crack at the North Ends and other strong Newark teams. The team will lineup as follows: Moulton, catcher; Maiden pitcher; Hirsh, first base; O'Leary, second base; Victorsen, third base; Robenson, shortstop; Kyle, left field; H. Rosenson, center field; Pollock, right field.

FOREIGN TEAMS START IN DAVIS CUP MATCHES

Pittsburgh, July 30—The drawings for the Davis Cup matches at the Allegheny Country Club, Sewickley Heights, between the Australasians and the Germans, which starts today, were made shortly before noon yesterday. In the singles this afternoon Capt. Norman E. Brookes, of the Antipodeans, will meet Capt. Otto Froitzheim, of the Teutons.

In the second match this afternoon Anthony F. Wilding will play Oscar Kreuzer. In the doubles tomorrow, Brookes and Wilding will represent the Australasians in their match against Froitzheim and Kreuzer.

On Saturday afternoon Wilding will meet Froitzheim in the first singles and this match should prove another highly interesting match. Brookes will play Kreuzer in the second singles match, which will be the final contest of the matches here.

"Plug" Higgins has a new tandem attachment on his motorcycle. He's elected.

Gus Johnson had his magneto repaired, and when he saw the bill they had to hold him. Here's another "White Hope."

Roamy Moore has a new Yale twin. Twin what?

Paul Phillips was in town last night, after an absence of several days. He got lost in the wilds of Fanwood. Where's that place, anyhow?

Herman Mulford, after smashing his motorcycle, made an all around job of it by busting his wheel. It never rains, but it pours. Cheer up, Mulford, old boy, better times are coming.

Henry Scarlett is spending most of his time in Hoboken these days. Who is she, Henry?

Harry Uhler is at Lake Placid a few days trying to make a mash. Get a rich one, Harry.

ELIZABETH TEAM HAS GOOD RECORD

Opponents of Pets Next Saturday Will Present a Lineup of Stars.

"Germany" George Ortlieb, Westfield's pitcher, will face the Plainfield batters in the game against Elizabeth on Parker Field next Saturday. The manager of the Elizabeth club has signed up a fine team that will give the Pets a good run for the game. The Betsytown team has made a fine reputation in that city, having won sixteen out of twenty games played, some of the wins being from the fastest teams in and around New York.

Several other men who are not unknown in Plainfield will appear against their former teammates, and Joe Alberts, the Scotch Plains player, who played on Parker Field last Saturday, will play in the outfield position. "Bill" Seery, who has played for the Pets this year, will probably do the catching, and Washburn, shortstop on the local team when it won its last Central League pennant, will pick them up between second and third base. He was given a tryout with the Worcester club, of the New England League, but would not sign a contract. Exelben, the star T. A. B. S. performer, will cover the initial bag. The remainder of the lineup is made up of players of the same calibre as these.

The locals will not pad, however, and expect to win with their regular men behind George Townley. Townlew and Ortlieb have opposed each other once before this year, in which the former came out a winner over the Westfield crew, but that was no fault of Ortlieb's, because he pitched fine ball and was given ragged support, which accounted for the defeat.

NEW "FED" RECORD.

The Brooklyn and St. Louis teams, of the Federal League, made a record for the league, yesterday, when they played for eighteen innings before the Tip Tops finally drew away from the Minors, with a score of 4 to 2. St. Louis used two pitchers and the Brooklyns four. St. Louis made their three runs before the seventh inning and the home club did not score until the last three innings of the regular game, when they made one run in each. There was eight innings of scoreless play after the ninth.

BRUGGY, FORMER PET, CHASED BY SCOUTS

New England League Player Attracts Attention of Several Major League Clubs.

Plainfield seems to have a reputation for being a baseball kindergarten for players who have big league aspirations and they come to this city to learn how to play and get there. Jack Martin, Eugene Lidgate and other good players are examples of that and now there is another man who has played ball for the Plainfield team that major league scouts are after with a contract in their pockets. That man is Frank Bruggy, who played with the Pets several years ago, during the Central New Jersey series, and who is now the whole show on the Lawrence team of the New England League.

Bruggy has improved wonderfully in the last year in every respect and is now leading the team in batting, with an average of .320, which is the fifth best in the league. He can play in any position and has been doing some backstop work for his team. Many close games have come to an abrupt end as a result of Bruggy's bat and batting eye and he has a fine fielding record. Scouts from the Pittsburg and St. Louis Nationals and the Chicago White Sox are on the trail of the Lawrence team in an effort to get the Elizabeth boy to sign a contract. There is another player on that team who the scouts can well watch and he is "Flick" Luyster, who formerly played for the local team, and who is at present pressing Bruggy for the team's batting honors, being only two points behind him.

PEACH CROP WILL BE BIG THIS YEAR

Growers Will Have to Find Their Own Market, It Is Said.

The reports from Hunterdon county and other peach-growing sections of the State indicate that the crop this year will be the largest in many years. It is said to be so large that retail and wholesale dealers from this section will not visit the peach exchanges as formerly, as it will be possible to get the fruit at practically their own prices. The present indications are that there will be buyers from Philadelphia, New York, Boston and a few other large cities, as the supply in those places is said to be limited.

Several local dealers will depend on nearby crops for their trade, in fact, some have already bought up the entire crop in certain orchards near Plainfield, and will be thus able to save considerable on freight and express charges. One local dealer remarked this week that he thought the growers in Hunterdon county would be obliged this year to seek a market for their fruit, instead of being sought by dealers as heretofore.

Among other produce that will be plentiful this season is tomatoes, and it is predicted that within a week or so the market will be flooded and that it will be possible to purchase tomatoes as cheap as fifteen or twenty cents a basket.

The recent rains has been a great benefit to gardens and truck patches and all kinds of vegetables are said to be plentiful and of fine quality. Potatoes, which have been so high are now coming into market in large quantities and the price is about due to drop.

LIST OF PULPIT SUPPLIES FOR THE SUNDAY SERVICES

The following supplies have been announced for local pulpits for Sunday: Congregational, Rev. William A. Rice, of New York; First Baptist church, Rev. John A. Chambliss, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Park Avenue Baptist church, Rev. A. E. Finn, of Rochester, Pa.; Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Rev. Charles A. Eaton, of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York; First M. E. church, Rev. Dr. Charles R. Barnes of Hoboken; First Presbyterian church, Rev. Robert W. Marks, of Woodbridge; Monroe Avenue M. E. church, Rev. D. W. C. Ramsey, of Dunellen; Trinity Reformed church Rev. Edward S. Ralston, of the Netherwood Reformed church.

RECREATION NOTES

The Lincoln School will be open tonight under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee for the benefit and use of the people of that section of the city who want to organize for social and dramatic activities. There was a large number out last Thursday night, and it is hoped all those will be there again tonight and any others who may be interested in this kind of work. There is every reason to believe that this Thursday Night Club will be successful and an enjoyable one, as several of the men have already taken parts in Italian plays, and it is due to their interest in such work that this club is being organized. Musical talent is also to be encouraged in the club and will no doubt be a prominent feature of the entertainment.

OUTING AT SOUTH BEACH.

The Sunday-school of the Mt. Olive Baptist church is enjoying its annual outing at South Beach, today. Two trolley cars were engaged to carry the excursionists from this city to the beach.

TEACHING CHILDREN MANNERS.

Julia A. Hidden, in a short article of this title in Home Progress for April, makes some good suggestions. She quotes the kindergartner who said, "Bennie, what would you do with a boy who had been as noisy as you have been all day?" With the repeating of the question, the smile faded from his face; after a moment's thought he replied, "I'd put him in the other room." The kindergartner said, gravely, "Put yourself in the other room, Bennie; I don't want to do it." This suggestion might be followed out by a mother.

"If mother be the bloom of courtesy herself, her 'Thank you' will come with her smile when baby for the first time puts his rattle in her hand. From this time on mother loses no opportunity to call out the kind impulse of helpfulness." The writer recommends strongly the phrase "you may" instead of "you must" as a gentle method of suggestion. The matter may be put in this way. "Who can remember to get father's paper when he comes home?" "Mother has come down stairs without thimble; which one of you can find out where it is first and get it for her?" Many a wilful child has been brought to himself by being given a task which, in his eyes, is a big one. "Says the wise mother to her little girl, 'You may come in and greet mother's friends this afternoon, and you may help mother at the tea table; can my little girl be careful and not drop anything to the floor?'"

SUMMER PLANS FOR MOTHER.

Mabel Borton Beebe, in American Motherhood for April, gives some very practical suggestions for making the best of the city home in the summer time. She urges that even in the flat, a roomy porch that may be shaded during the morning hours should be reserved for the children. "Suspend your broom, oil can and porch paraphernalia from the ceiling, if need be, but give that porch to your children." In the shadiest corner she would put the largest sand box possible and have the children play in it, either wet or dry. Opposite the sand pile, she would have a box of Hennessy blocks. There would also be a little water in a shallow tub, and she would stimulate the children in the construction of a fleet of English walnut shell boats with tiny paper sails upon pin masts. "Let your children tea-party to their hearts' content on this porch." If there is a yard, get an old drygoods box. Children who have playhouses constructed by carpenters at considerable expense do not care as much for them as for material like this with which they can hammer and saw and nail. "Give a boy twenty-five feet of rope and he will become an expert with the lasso. Add to this two good pulleys and see the amazing results."

Miss Bushnell classifies outdoor play into two kinds—that for the morning when rompers or overalls are the proper custom and that which comes after the afternoon bath when clean clothes must be kept fresh. She believes in keeping little girls in overalls as long as possible. For the afternoon, she suggests tents made out of old shawls and portieres and the clothes horse. "Give both boys and girls good bows and arrows. Teach them target practice. It trains for steady nerves, is a clean game and very interesting." She also suggests the tether ball, tennis, kite making in the playhouse, parachutes made out of squares of thin silk with small tobacco bags of sand tied to the four corners by strings of equal length. "When thrown into the air it is great fun to see them sail down." Give the children roller skates, velocipedes, wagons or coasters for sidewalk play. As the boys and girls outgrow yard play, send them to the Y. M. C. A. or Y. W. C. A. for the swimming pool. Six dollars, she says, for the child from the age of five to twelve, will supply all the needful things for home play.

Mabel Hill, in Home Progress for April, urges that groups of homes engage young college men and women to be their playfellows through the summer. "The colleges and normal schools are turning out hundreds every year of young men and women who are eager to be of service well equipped with information and endowed with the kind of leadership which carries young children along with them. That is what education means today."

In the Mother's Magazine for April, Carolyn Cherwin Bailey emphasizes the necessity of giving the children a chance in the summer to "play into usefulness," as she calls it.

Provide the small daughter with adequate toys for playing at keeping house on a small but intensive scale. A large toy washing set, including water-tight tubs, miniature pulley lines clothespins, small flatirones, clothes basket and ironing board, ought to find its place—not in the play room, but in every home laundry, kitchen, or on the back piazza. Here the small girl may have her weekly washing and ironing days when she washes, rinses, dries and sprinkles and smooths the doll's clothes. Never mind if this play does cause your washerwoman to leave. Of course you will not mind the slight inconvenience of having a dolls' washing done under the nose of the family laundry. It will mean that your child will know the A B C of this homely, beautiful cleansing process, and whether she had to do it when she grows up or pays a hireling to do it for her, she will appreciate its dignity and the labor of Toast, custards apply sauce, thimble biscuit, gingerbread, plain sponge cake and sugar cookies may all be made by the little cook as an addition to the dolls' larder or her own afternoon tea-party when some of the neighbors' children are invited to share the feast. Preparation of fruits and vegetables for cooking and serving, the making of simple salads, and how to set a table may also be taught by this daily play in the kitchen and with toy dishes and miniature sets of pewter knives, forks and spoons. Most of all will this play develop a child's domestic instinct and, while brain cells are active and plastic, "make a cook of her," which every girl, whether she is rich or poor, ought to be.

The small boy may have his share in this household play, as well. Provide him with a tool chest, equipped and arranged for "tinkering" about the house—putting in nails, hooks, adjusting pictures, mending broken locks, and nailing in places loose boards. One small boy whose mother tried this plan with him discovered, to her delight, that not only was the little lad doing the household "tinkering," but he was inventing household helps and labor-saving devices as well. Using pieces of kindling wood he whittled out four even blocks which he nailed to the legs of the chair, making it a comfortable, convenient height. He also made a rough stool from a section of a log, using kindling wood for legs, for this same kitchen chair—an addition to his mother's comfort.

One mother who believed in establishing the habit of being useful in her children while they were young and through the medium of play, gave some slight responsibility to each in regard to the care of the different rooms of the house. The grandmother's room was Dorothy's care and it was her happy duty to see that the curtains were always drawn sufficiently to let in all the sunshine that was possible. She kept grandmother's workbasket in order, picked up pins and sewing scraps from the floor, and watered the geraniums that stood upon the window sill.

Tasks carried out in the spirit of adventure are clothed with the fine raiment of romance.

THE COMING SILHOUETTE.

Vogue in the current issue shows many models suggesting the coming mode. In the new French gowns, the straight silhouette is most conspicuous, and a tight waist or a narrow girdle, today, looks hopelessly old-fashioned. In making over our gowns or in making new ones, the waist-line should be kept loose and straight, for the smartly dressed woman with a bust measure of thirty-six inches now unblushingly confesses to a waist measure of twenty-six inches—or sometimes more. When clothes are made at home, or the work of a small dressmaker is superintended, the general silhouette should be most carefully studied, for although women are taking a bit more care of their figures than last year, and are wearing corsets with an added bone or two, it is to be remembered that they do this in order to retain a good natural figure rather than to pull in the waist.

A Homemade Toy.

Did you ever see boys walk on stilts? It looks like dangerous sport, but it is not after you have a little practice. In fact, you can take rapid strides with them, as do the shepherds in the desert of Laudes, in the south of France. They can run, jump, hop and dance on them with ease and security. When they stand on the stilts they can watch their flock, their feet being protected from the water during the winter and the hot sands in summer. In addition to the stilts, they use a long staff, which they carry in their hands. This forms the third leg when they require rest.

To make stilts procure two poles about six or seven feet long and nail on a strap of leather about one-third from the bottom of each. Into these the feet are placed, the poles being kept in a proper position by the hands and moved forward by the action of the legs. Some American boys nail on wooden supports for the feet to rest upon instead of the leather straps.

Growing Things.

Oh, I am a child of the country, and I love not the cities grim!
My heart is akin to the wild things and the woodlands vast and dim,
Where the winds and the brook make music and, faint from his cool retreat, Comes the voice of the thrush at even in a madrigal wild and sweet.

Oh, I am a child of the country, and the orchard knows my tread
When the boughs shine white with blossoms and the buds lie pink and red!
And hand in hand in the moonlight go my soul's beloved and I,
And we need no words to question, no words to make reply.

Oh, I am a child of the country, and I love
the fields at morn,
Where the air comes fresh and fragrant and the joy of the day is born,
Loud carols the cheerful robin to the linnet over the way,
And the growing things and the birds and
I welcome the dawn of day.

Some Cookery Suggestions

MADE WITH PEACHES.

DINNER MENU.
Baked Chopped Beef With Tomato Sauce.
Browned New Potatoes.
Lettuce or Cucumbers.
Peach Pie.
Coffee.

In peach time the housewife is fortunate, for there are so many dainty desserts which may be made with this wholesome fruit.

Peach Pie.—Cover a pie plate with good, tender pie crust and cut enough fresh peaches in halves to cover it. Pour in a little of the juice, and then fill up with sour cream and sprinkle sugar over it generously. Lay strips of the pie crust across it as in cranberry pie or tarts, and bake slowly.

With Cream Sauce.

Peach Pudding.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of flour thoroughly with one cupful of sugar. Pare good, ripe peaches, cut into halves, leaving in a few stones. Put a layer in a deep pudding dish and cover with half of the prepared sugar. Add a second layer of peaches. Cover with rest of the sugar. Dot with bits of butter. Pour in one cupful of water. Cover with a rich biscuit dough. Make incisions in three or four places, so the juice will not run out if the dish is deep enough. Bake in quick oven. No sauce is needed, but cream may be used.

Nice For Children.

Rice With Peaches.—Wash one cupful of rice, put it in a double boiler with one quart of scalded milk, cook half an hour, add one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-half cupful of sugar and cook until tender and the liquid absorbed. Turn into a mold wet with cold water, press down firmly and set away in a cold place until needed. Make a sirup of one pint of sugar, one pint of water and the juice of two lemons and boil until clear. Peel and cut in halves one dozen fine peaches. Turn the rice out on a serving dish, arrange the fruit around it and pour the sauce over the whole. Serve cold.

Delicious Iced Dessert.

Peach Mousse.—Take one cupful of cream, one cupful of mashed peaches, one-half cupful of sugar and one teaspoonful of almond extract. Whip the cream and squeeze the peaches through a wire potato masher or food chopper. Mix all together well; then put in a small pail or pound coffee can or even a quart glass jar will do. Cover and stand inside a large kettle so there will be about three inches all around between inner and outer receptacle. Then pack all around with the usual mixture of ice and salt. Cover with an old rug and let stand about two hours.

He Grasped the Little Girl.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How Arthur Saved the Little Girl.

DADDY had promised Jack that when he was a great big boy he was to have a sailing boat.

So in the meantime Jack read about boats, he studied pictures of boats, he talked about boats, he tried to make toy boats, and he used to want a boat story almost every evening. One evening he said:

"A boat story, please, daddy."

Both Evelyn and daddy looked at each other with a knowing expression, and then daddy began:

"There was once a boy who was very fond of all things pertaining to the water. He loved to swim, to dive, to paddle a canoe, to sail a boat—in fact, he loved everything that was on or in the water.

"A number of people would say that they were sure he spent too much time in the water; that, of course, it must be very bad for him (although he always looked very well) and that anyway they thought he wasted too much time.

"But his mother and daddy always allowed him to spend just as much time as he wanted to on the water. They knew that it made him fine and strong, and they were glad that he was so fond of it. Besides, he worked very hard in school all winter and made splendid marks, so his family thought that he deserved the rest and the outdoor exercise.

"One day one of the lake schooners was making its daily trip. This boy had paddled in his canoe to the head of the lake and was coming back home on the boat, for that had just made a nice length paddle.

"The boat was crowded with passengers. Many of them knew this boy, whose name, by the way, was Arthur, very well, and many of them were the ones who had said that Arthur spent too much time on the water.

"Suddenly some one gave a cry:

"'Somebody overboard! Oh, oh!'

"And then every one became very much excited and cried and screamed. Arthur had not seen the person go overboard, but he rushed to the end of the boat where all the people had hurried and saw in the water just going under a little child in a white dress.

"'She has been under twice now,' said some one.

"Arthur didn't say a word, nor did he scream, but in one dive he was in the water and had grabbed hold of the little girl. They were soon hauled in.

"And the people who had thought Arthur spent too much time in the water looked on, ashamed that all they had done was to scream, while Arthur had gone in the water and had saved the child's life."

8201

The separate skirt is another convenient thing in the wardrobe. This skirt No. 8201 is appropriate for business wear as well as for the afternoon if developed in one of the new silks, moire or taffeta and worn with a waist of sheer material, such as crepe de Chine or one of the flowered silks. This design is in two gores, with a slightly raised waistline and drapery in front which is formed by two crosswise plaits. The hem of the skirt is slightly slashed and rounded in the front and may be made with or without the inset section. This skirt may be made of silk, satin, brocaded materials, etc., while for more practical wear, serge, cheviot or a broadcloth may be used. These silks may be purchased from about $1.25 a yard and up. Size 24 requires 2⅞ yards of 36-inch material. Pattern comes in five sizes, 22 to 30.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size passing the tape tightly around the smallest part of the waist and loosely around the fullest part of the hips. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing fifteen cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DAR

Try Grandmother's Old Fa orite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, stre ed or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling h Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at ho which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a big bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray. Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darken your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

What a prominent banker has to say about

SUCCESS

"Success is more than money, but one must save money and have money to gain success."

"N. W. HARRIS."

Thousands of thrifty people who realize the truth of this statement are saving their money and depositing it systematically in our Special Department at 4% compound interest. Why not take your place in the ranks of the successful?

A Merchandise Gamble

You know the men who are in business in this community. You have known them for a number of years. You know them as being honorable and upright in every dealing you have had with them.

Knowing them in this way, are you willing to go to their stores and pay to them money for merchandise of which they can show you only a picture, and for which you must wait from one week to a month after they have received your money?

OF COURSE YOU ARE NOT!

But you are doing that very same thing with people you do not know when you send your money to the mail-order firms of the cities. You have only a picture or a brief description of an article from which to determine its value. After you have sent your money you must trust to the intelligence of a poorly paid boy or girl to send in return the merchandise you want.

The people of Plainfield who persist in dealing with the mail-order houses are doing themselves and this city an injustice.

GOVERNOR'S DAY AT STATE CAMP

Plainfield Soldiers Much In Evidence at Sea Girt During Banner Event.

MANY FAMOUS GUESTS

General and Mrs. Albert L. Mills the Guests of Honor—Hikers Return Rainsoaked and Weary—Five Companies On the Ranges.

Camp Fielder, Sea Girt, July 31.—Hudson countyites and the favored sons of four central New Jersey counties are mingled today in the crowd that is here for the second Governor's Day celebration of the year. Union, Somerset, Middlesex and Mercer have sent large crowds here at the invitation of Governor James F. Fielder who sent for them to come and eat an open air luncheon and talk shop according to their own inclinations.

The Governor's Day celebration is made the more notable by the presence here of Brigadier General Albert L. Mills, head of the department of militia affairs of the War Department, who came here today with Mrs. Mills as the week-end guests of Governor and Mrs. Fielder. Few of the guests arrived at the executive cottage today until noon or later and the political gossip was confined to inconsequential chat at the outset.

Incidentally the throngs of visitors, the luncheon on the lawn near the Little White House and the presence of General Mills have added materially to the military activities of the New Jersey National Guardsmen in camp here. The staff and line officers were included in the large crowd that enjoyed the luncheon about 1 o'clock and their uniforms were seen among the crowds, many of them taking an active part in the political discussions, it proving a relief from the arduous work of the camp.

Among the Hudson county aggregation the Kinkead subject was the principal morsel for gossip and it developed many heated discussions among the early vanguard of Jersey City and Hoboken Democrats. They were gathered in little groups about the lawn and in sequestered spots and the question will doubtlessly prove the one big political subject of the day.

Late in the afternoon Governor Fielder will take the review of the Second and Fourth regiments. He will be accompanied by General Mills who will be here in an official capacity also. Governor and Mrs. Fielder and General and Mrs. Mills will tonight be the dinner guests of the officers of Governor Fielder's staff. The dinner will be served in the headquarters of Quartermaster-General C. Edward Murray.

The troops of the Second regiment this morning returned from their tactical hike into the surrounding country districts. It was a mud be-spattered, road-tired aggregation of guardsmen that wended their way to their tents at the close of the manoeuvres. They remained out in the country last night sleeping under their shelter tents despite the fact that their clothing and accountrments have been wet almost continuously since they left camp on Wednesday afternoon.

The Blues yesterday, by frustrating an attempt to get past them, succeeded in holding the Red army in check long enough to insure the safety of the shipment of valuable supplies from Sea Girt to Perth Amboy yesterday afternoon. It was around this shipment of goods that the mimic battles were waged during their hike. The Blues were detailed to prevent the Reds from intercepting the shipment, which they did. Three bloody battles were fought, however, entailing great losses on both sides, before the goods were safely hauled from Sea Girt.

The time between their return and the call for the dress parade and review is being utilized for much needed rest by the tired troops of the Trenton regiment.

The Fiurth regiment spent the morning in a series of company and battalion drills in close and extended order and bayonet exercises. Five companies were on the ranges today. Officers and men who wish to make a second attempt at qualification will be permitted to shoot tomorrow morning while the remainder of the troops will prepare to strike camp.

GUESTS OF GOVERNOR AT THE STATE CAMP

Mayor Percy H. Stewart Will Address Members of Company K.

Governor's Day which is being observed at Camp Fielder, Sea Girt, today, is marked by the presence of prominent men from all parts of the State, including Democrats as well as those of other parties. Of course, Democrats are in the majority, the opportunity being accepted to talk over the political situations in various parts of the State. No doubt petty differences existing between factions will be "ironed out" when the Governor's opinions are given.

Union county, and especially Plainfield and vicinity, will be well represented at the reception. Among those present from this city are Mayor Percy H. Stewart, John P. Owens, candidate for county clerk; John Coyle, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Coddington, Newton B. Smalley, Edward Lynch, John Caulfield, Jeremiah Callahan and Leslie R. Fort.

Mayor Stewart is scheduled to visit Co. K, of this city, now in camp, and address the local soldiery. No doubt the boys will give the city executive a hearty reception and will not lose the opportunity to show their loyalty to the city's Mayor.

STRICT CENSORSHIP HOLDS UP MESSAGES

Latest Word Concerning Plainfielders, However, Gives No Cause For Alarm.

Through a misunderstanding in securing the information yesterday, the Daily Press was led to believe that a cable had been received from A. V. D. Honeyman, of this city, who is abroad with a touring party, to the effect that his personal party as well as a second one which went abroad under his direction, was reported safe. The information referred to was contained on a postal card which was written about July 17 and which reached Plainfield yesterday.

No word has been received from Mr. Honeyman since the later developments in the European war situation, although their is every reason to believe that both parties are safe. Mr. Honeyman's personal party was scheduled to arrive in Warsaw yesterday and leave today for Vienna, but owing to the war situation there is some doubt as to whether it will be able to proceed as the governments have taken charge of the railroads as well as all other transportation lines and the chances are that the party now in Russia will be compelled to remain there for the present at least, but being American subjects there is every reason to believe that full protection will be granted.

The second party is now in Italy and is not likely to be subjected to any great inconvenience there, it is thought. Those from Plainfield in Mr. Honeyman's personal party are Mrs. John T. Baker, Miss Margaret Cranswick, Mrs. S. V. Edgar, Mrs. Frederick Sanford and Mrs. William M. Sanford. These Plainfielders are in the second party: Miss Florence G. Burt, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Sanford, Jr., and Miss Pauline Sanford.

It will probably be several days before it will be possible to get any word from the parties as all messages are censored and all lines of communication are being carefully guarded by the several governments affected by the war trouble.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, left this morning on the St. Louis for Europe, but was advised beforehand by the steamship company that they would only book passage for him to England, and in consequence his travel abroad will necessarily be limited to that country.

WOMAN IN FIGHT FOR RECOGNITION

Disowned By Husband In Will She Is Making Effort to Establish Her Rights.

ESTATE LEFT TO FRIEND

Mrs. Josephine Robson, Discharged From State Hospital at Trenton, Returns to Rahway to Find That She Has Been Cut Off In Will.

Appearing before the New Jersey State Lunacy Commission in Elizabeth today, Mrs. Josephine Robson of Rahway, through her counsel and guardian appointed by Judge James C. Connolly, of the Orphans' Court, to look after her interests, is making efforts to gain recognizance in the will of her late husband, Joseph Robson, who left his entire estate to one John Flomerfelt, a friend. The bequests left by the testator amounted to approximately $20,000 and the name of his wife, who survived him, was not mentioned in the bill.

At the time of Joseph Robson's death his wife was confined in the New Jersey State Hospital at Trenton where she had been placed for temporary insanity. The woman was discharged from that institution as cured July 11, and learned for the first time the terms of her husband's will. Inasmuch as the Flomerfelt mentioned was no relative of the deceased she started a fight for her rights and the beneficiary in the will took action to defend his title. He claims that Robson represented himself as being a single man and declares that the Mrs. Robson in the case is an imposter. Letters written by the testator to Mrs. Robson while she was in Trenton bear the name of Mrs. Josephine Robson Bollard, and these were offered as evidence today in the inquiry. This is the name registered at the State Hospital at the time of her committment and indications are that at the time he was making an effort to disclaim relationship.

After her discharge from the institution Mrs. Robson appealed to old friends in Rahway and she was welcomed with open arms, being recognized as the husband of the late Robson, who was well known in that place. Several pieces of property in Rahway under the name of Joseph Robson are claimed by the woman, inasmuch as she agreed while living with the deceased to have her husband take entire charge of the family's business transactions. This property, together with the residue from the estate, is left to Flomerfelt.

Among the witnesses in the case today are Chief of Police Kiely, of this city, Dr. Norman W. Currie, and several others who knew the Union county woman. The decision of the lunacy commission is expected late this afternoon.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM FOR TONIGHT'S BAND CONCERT

The second of the series of weekly concerts by the Dutch Arms Band will be given at Monroe avenue and West Fifth street, tonight, under the auspices of the West End Civic Association. The program will be as follows:

March, Waldmer; Reverie, Wayside Chapel; I'm On My Way to Mandalay, In the Shadow of the Pine, with male chorus; march, Washington Post; Mazurka, The Lily; march, Billboard; C'est si leger l'Amour; march, Royal Ensign; serenade, Midnight Moonbeams. This Is the Life, Colonel Miner's March, Columbia the Gem of the Ocean.

POLISH FALCONS WILL VOLUNTEER FOR WAR

The local organization of Polish Falcons have arranged for a meeting Sunday afternoon at their hall on East Second street, at which time the question of returning to the old country and taking up arms with Austria against Russia will be discussed at some length. This secret organization has a military organization throughout this country to the extent of approximately 100,000 strong. The gathering on Sunday will be manly to ascertain as to the number of the local members who would be willing to return to the old country should volunteers be called for.

ARRESTED FOR LOITERING.

Charged with loitering on West Front street, last night, Alfred Sanderson, colored, was arrested by Patrolman John Hendershott and arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning. After being given a reprimand by the court and upon his promise to do better in the future he was given a suspended sentence.

MAYOR STEWART WILL BE A CANDIDATE

Announces That He Will Seek State Senatorial Nomination.

Camp Fielder, Sea Girt, July 31.—Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield, will positively run in the Democratic primaries for the State senatorship nomination. That was decided finally here this morning after a conference between the Mayor and a number of Democratic leaders of Union county. The Mayor has been receiving congratulations on all sides because of his decision. It is confidently predicted by Union county Democrats here as guests of Gov. Fielder, that the announcement of his candidacy is equivalent to nomination and election because of the presence of former Mayor G. W. V. Moy in the campaign as the Progressive candidate.

General Dennis F. Collins expressed himself as well pleased with Mayor Stewart's decision when seen by a representative of the Press. He feels very confident that Democrats all over the county will unite to support him and that he will get the strong support from all parties in Plainfield.

Among the Plainfielders here today besides the Mayor, are Frank H. Smith, Andrew E. Kenney, David T. Kenney, Dr. P. B. Cregar, Dr. Frederick Hughes, Dr. Richard Moldenke and Francis E. Bodin. A large number of Somerville people members of the Somerset County Automobile Club, made the run in their machines. Senator W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, is also a guest.

DOBBINS IN PRIMARY FIGHT TO A FINISH

Camp Fielder, Sea Girt, July 31—Assemblyman Francis V. Dobbins, who is attending the Governor's reception here today, said that he intended to remain in the primary fight for the Senatorial nomination and to make every effort to defeat Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield. He declared that no influence could be brought to bear which would make him withdraw. This statement indicates that there will be a hot primary fight, for it is now believed that Mayor Stewart will enter the Senatorial contest.

RUNAWAY HORSE AND AUTO IN COLLISION

Scrap-Iron Is Strewn About Park Avenue As Junk Wagon Hits Heavy Truck.

Rounding the corner of Park avenue at West Fourth street at 1:30 this afternoon, a horse and junk wagon owned by F. W. Pinn, of 681 West Third street, collided with an automobile truck owned by R. B. VanArsdale and the lighter vehicle was considerably damaged. The auto truck was standing in front of Mr. VanArsdale's place of business when the accident occurred and the heavy machine was pushed onto the sidewalk by the force of the impact.

The horse, which was driven by a small boy, "jumped" its bridle on West Fourth street and became unmanageable. As the animal, running at breakneck speed, neared Park avenue the frenzied driver shouted to it to stop and in order to avoid a collision with another vehicle pulled the equine into Park avenue. The wagon swerved to one side of the road, hitting the VanArsdale truck with great force. A quantity of scrap iron was strewn about the avenue.

When the impact came the animal was brought to a standstill and was soon quieted by passersby. The driver was badly frightened, but suffered no injury. Mr. VanArsdale's truck was badly scratched and the lighter vehicle had a wheel and pair of shafts broken.

SLIPPERY NEGRO AGAIN AT LARGE

James Green, Arrested Here, Escapes From a Cell in Westfield Headquarters.

WANTED FOR BURGLARY

In Ten Minutes' Time He Manages to Make His Way From Steel Cage to Liberty—Made Confession of His Work Carried On Near Here.

Breaking away from the Westfield police authorities twice within forty-eight hours, James Green, an artful colored law dodger, is once more at large and the energies of the department in that town, as well as those of other departments in the immediate vicinity, are extended in an effort to once more apprehend the much sought prey. Wanted by the Westfield authorities for burglary being accused of having participated in three entires there last Tuesday night, Green was arrested in Pete Simmons' pool parlor on Madison avenue, Wednesday night, by Captain John Flynn, of the local force, and lodged in a cell here. Confronted by Chief Kiely with the circumstances surrounding his arrest Green made a confession yesterday in which he admitted committing the burglaries for which he is wanted. He was removed to the Westfield headquarters yesterday and was being held to await arraignment today.

The jail keepers gave Green his supper at 7 o'clock last night and returned ten minutes later to find that the "bird had flown." During the short time that elapsed between the two visits the colored prisoner had worked his way out of his steel cage and climbed through the skylight. The theory advanced by the Westfield police for the escape of the burglar is that he picked the lock on the cell door. Information received today from those familiar with the calibre of lock used in the Westfield station house indicate that this would be an impossibility in such a short time and it is believed that the cell door was insecurely locked by the warden after delivering the supper to the inmate. The locks in use at that place are of the heavy steel variety similar to those which have been installed here and considerable time would be needed by even an expert to pick the mechanism.

Green and a companion were detected in the act of robbing Samuel Silverstein's shoe store on Broad street, Westfield, Tuesday night, having gained entrance through a rear window which they pried open. At the sight of the cop Green's accomplice beat a hasty retreat and has not been seen since, but the policeman managed to "collar" Green, leading him down the street with a hold on his sleeve the minion of the law was suddenly aroused to action when the apparently docile negro offered resistance.

A struggle followed and the colored man slipped out of his coat and streaked it down the thoroughfare, leaving Sergeant Caufield in possession of his coat, still retaining the hold on the sleeve. He spent all day Wednesday in the woods back of Westfield and returned to his old haunts in this city Wednesday night. A 'phone call to the local headquarters at 9 o'clock Wednesday night informed Captain Flynn that the man had not been apprehended and he set out to search for the negro whom he knew. Flynn swooped down on the culprit in the Madison avenue pool parlor and had little trouble in landing him in a cell.

This is the third time that Green has fallen into Flynn's clutches. His first arrest came in July, 1912, just two years to a day from the time he was arrested here for the Westfield police Wednesday. At that time he was taken in a raid along with a number of other crap shooters and sentenced to pay a fine of $2 or spend ten days in the county jail. He paid the fine. In March, 1913, he was again arrested by Flynn, assisted by Patrolman McIntyre, when wanted by the Roselle police. He was turned over to the authorities of that place who tried him for larceny but managed to wriggle out of the law's grasp.

F. C. KREWSON'S FUNERAL.

The funeral service of Frank C. Krewson, aged 56 years, former councilman of North Plainfield, who died yesterday afternoon, at his home at Watchung avenue and Regent street, will be held at the late residence, Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace M. E. church, will officiate at the house, and Royal Council, Sr. O. U. A. M., of which Mr. Krewson was a member, will have charge of the service at Hillside cemetery, the place of burial.

—Among the table delicacies which will be offered tomorrow by Neuman Brothers at their Watchung avenue market are Jersey peaches, pears, fancy plums, blackberries, huckleberries and fancy melons.—Adv. ***

LATE REPORTS INDICATE THAT WAR OF EUROPEAN POWERS IS INEVITABLE

World of Finance Closes Its Doors—Hamburg-American Line Steamers Recalled—Telephonic Communications Between Germany and France Discontinued—Servian Losses In Fight Have Been Insignificant.

Late reports received up to 3:30 o'clock this afternoon indicate that the war situation is growing more serious every minute and a conflict between Austria-Hungary and Russia seems inevitable. In fact, the official declaration is expected at any minute and the troops are ready to enter into battle at a moment's notice. Austria and Germany are reported to be in pact to have the former begin hostilities against the Czar's forces. The decision in yesterday's fight between the Serbs and Austrians is not known, but both claim the early victory.

The effect of the uprising has been felt throughout the world. The New York and Consolidated Stock Exchanges are closed and curb markets have shut down. Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia markets are also closed and the run for gold on the Bank of England started when the discount rate jumped to 8 per cent.

The placing of Germany under military rule was announced today and the war now seems to be up to the Czar of Russia. Although it has not as yet been received the reply of the Czar to the ultimatum of Germany is expected to be evasive. France still hangs on to its last hope of peace, while the German Empire is in a state of conflict.

VAN VECHTEN IS AGAIN TURNED DOWN

Denied the Privileges of Taking State Qualification Test.

Atlantic City, July 30.—On the grounds that he had not served the required apprenticeship of three years, Samuel A. Van Vechten, of New Brunswick, was yesterday denied the privilege of taking the tests to qualify for an embalmer's certificate by the State Board of Embalming Examiners. The board held a postponed meeting at the Marlborough-Blenheim.

Van Vechten was among the candidates who appeared to take the tests which were held in Newark on July 15. Members of the Middlesex and Somerset Funeral Directors' Association went before the board at that time and urged that he be debarred from the examinations, holding that he had not qualified. The board continued the case and Van Vechten was given a hearing in Elizabeth last week.

He maintained that he had served three years as assistant to his brother-in-law, Thomas A. Moore, an undertaker of Plainfield, but this was denied by the Middlesex and somerset funeral directors who were represented at the hearing. Through the decision rendered by the board today their objection is sustained.

It was learned that VanVechten made a similar attempt to get a license two years ago. His application at that time was signed by three New Brunswick physicians, who withdrew their signatures at the last minute. They had believed that they were attesting as to Van Vechten's reputation and not to his experience as a practical embalmer.

At the meeting today it was announced that of the twenty-one applicants who took the last tests in Newark twelve were successful and nine failed to reach a passing average. The names of those who were granted certificates were not made public.

Those who attended the meeting were: John A. Maxwell, of Somerville, president of the Board; John F. Martin, of Elizabeth, the secretary, Herbert B. Margerum, of Trenton, and Bernard F. Schroeder, of Camden.

SALE OF CARNEY ESTATE NETTED ABOUT $1,400

The administrator's sale of the printing machinery and equipment belonging to the estate of David J. Carney, held yesterday in the Depew building at Park and North avenues, netted about $1,400, which included $50 which Fred C. Lounsbury paid for the published rights of The Review, a weekly newspaper which was published by Mr. Carney. The bidding was spirited and fairly good prices were secured by Auctioneer William A. Schorb on the various articles.

The sale attracted printers and publishers and job men from all points in Central Jersey, and in many cases they obtained bargains in the sale of printing presses and equipment. Many articles were purchased by residents of the city and borough. W. A. Coddington was the attorney, and Jacob Shurts the administrator.

New York, July 31—The New York Stock Exchange is closed today. Action to this effect was taken following a conference between bankers, representatives of the exchange and the Clearing House.

No definite period for the closing of the exchange has apparently been determined.

Stock exchange houses have notified their offices not to make deliveries for received stock until further notice.

A committee will be appointed to take up the question of the delivery of stock purchased yesterday.

A conference of bankers will be held during the day to endeavor to arrive at a basis of values for securities now pledged as collateral for loans with the banks.

New York, July 31—The Consolidated Stock Exchange closed today. The following statement was issued by the board of governors:

"Bowing to the combined wisdom of the banking and financial world, the governors of the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York, voted to close for the time being believing that a spirit of co-operation is essential to the well being of the 'Street'."

Berlin, July 31.—The Kaiser today issued a decree declaring a state of war. The following statement was issued in conformity with paragraph 68 of the Constitution of the German Empire, Baveria being excluded. The Kaiser has issued a decree declaring a state of war. A similar decree for Bavaria will be issued.

The Socialist paper Vorwaerts today says that Russia would be responsible if a general war broke out and to prevent this calamity Germany must endeavor to obtain from Austria a clear understanding that Servian integrity shall not be menaced. France must also bring her utmost influence to bear upon Russia, the paper says to prevent herself from being dragged into war.

London, July 31 (Central News)—Premier Asquith after a lengthy conference with the King at Buckingham Palace proceeded to the House of Commons, and in an extremely grave tone of voice, informed Parliament that it was with regret that he had no good news to impart. The premier stated that Russia had proclaimed a general mobilization of her army and navy and that in consequence of this the German government had proclaimed the establishment of martial law throughout the German Empire. The understanding is that the general mobilization of the German army and navy will follow immediately.

Berlin, July 31.—(Central News Cable).—It is reported that if the negotiations between Russia and Germany collapse, the Bundesrat Reichstag will be immediately summoned to permit the chancellor to explain to the world to what extent Germany has gone in order to prevent a European upheaval.

The Socialist paper "Vorwaerts" today comments significantly on the situation saying that Russia would be responsible if a world's war broke out, and to prevent this calamity Germany must endeavor to secure from Austria a clear undertaking that Servian integrity shall not be menaced. France must also bring her utmost influence to bear upon Russia to prevent herself being drawn into the imbroglio.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Since a motorcycle policeman was placed on South avenue, in Plainfield, there has been a noticeable decrease in the speed of autos through this place.

Wallace Cattelle, of the borough, who was run into by a motorcycle several weeks ago when riding in his auto, is seeking damages from the rider of the motorcycle, who comes from Newark. The damage claimed is about $150, but as both assert that they were in the right and as there were no witnesses to verify either, it is hard to say who will pay the bill.

A new schedule of days for the distribution of books at the Scotch Plains Public Library has been made and it is an improvement over the old one. Books may now be handed in or taken out Monday afternoon and evening, Wednesday evening and Saturday afternoon and evening Librarian Anson has also secured a number of the up-to-date books which are ready for circulation.

Miss May Weller has returned to her home in the 'Plains after a two months' visit with her aunt, Mrs. Walter Decker, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Her sister, Miss Jessie Weller, is now visiting relatives at the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Squire Stevens have returned to their home in Flatbush L. I., after visiting Mr. Stevens' sister, Mrs. J. A. Schenck, of the borough.

Clarence Slocum has returned to his home in the borough after spending a several weeks' vacation at Lew Beach, N. Y.

P. M. Schenck, of Martine avenue is at Lew Beach, N. Y., for his vacation.

Mrs. Henry Ripley, of the township, is visiting Mrs. Samuel Jackson, of Newark.

There are several pieces of property in Scotch Plains on which the taxes have not been paid and Tax Collector John Z. Hateld will hold a sale in the town hall for disposal of same about the last of September

DUNELLEN

HOW MANY PEOPLE ARE THERE IN DUNELLEN

So much has been said about the rapid growth of Dunellen, Plainfield's hustling suburb, that the Plainfield Daily Press has decided to try to answer the question.

In order to create local interest while the canvass is being made by representatives of this newspaper, the Plainfield Press Company will offer a prize of

$5.00 in Gold to the Person Who Makes the Closest Guess as to the Actual Population.

There are absolutely no strings to the offer. The canvass of the borough is now being made, and will take several days. If you want to try to win five dollars, fill in the coupon which is printed on this page today, and write the number of people you think there are in the borough limits, men, women and children, with your name and address, and forward to the Daily Press in a sealed envelope, plainly marked "Dunellen Population Contest."

The canvass of the town will be completed Saturday, August 1, and the result, with the name of the winner, and his or her guess, will be published on Monday, August 3. In case of tie the amount will be equally divided between those who make the same guess. Only one guess will be accepted from each person.

HERE IS THE COUPON—MAKE YOUR GUESS.

DUNELLEN'S population, in my opinion, is .....

Name .....

Address .....

This coupon must be filled in and mailed or left at the Daily Press office not later than midnight, Saturday, August 1. A postmark on the envelope before that time will be considered the same as delivered.

DECIDE TO KEEP THE STOCK MARKET OPEN

Not Necessary to Close Exchange, Say Bankers.

New York, July 31.—Some of the most important bankers in the financial district were summoned to a significant meeting at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. It was at the behest of the late J. P. Morgan that similar meetings were held in the Morgan building during the 1907 crisis.

The bankers were in session for about three hours, the two Stock Exchange representatives entering when the meeting was nearly over.

When the conference broke up it was stated that it had been called primarily for an exchange of views and the comparison of cables received by the various bankers. It was informal and not designed to take action. Apparently all of the conferees were convinced that the situation did not call for the closing of the New York Stock Exchange. One of the biggest bankers, who spoke for the others after asking that his name not be used, said:

"We think the exchange should not be closed on account of the heavy European liquidation so long as there are buyers in the market willing to take the securities. That is my belief, and I can state that none of the banking interests represented here today favored closing under present conditions. So long as there are buyers there is a market. In London, as you are aware, the exchange has been nominally open, but there have been no buyers, and hence no official list of quotations.

"Those conditions do not exist here. We have had a very active market and plenty of purchasers. The question of closing shop must only be considered when there are no buyers."

AUSTRIA ORDERS STEEL HERE

Asks 100,000 Pounds For Arms From Pittsburgh Company.

Pittsburgh, July 31.—The Austro-Hungarian government has placed an order for 100,000 pounds of bayonet and scabbard steel with a Pittsburgh company.

The order is believed to have been given to the Crucible Steel Company of America, but officials of that company refuse either to affirm or deny the report.

AUSTRO-SERVIAN BATTLE.

Riots In Los Angeles When Serbs Invade Austrian Quarters.

Los Angeles, July 31.—Two hundred Servians invaded the Austrian quarter here and as a result of the fight which followed two Austrians were probably fatally injured. The invaders began stoning Austrian houses and shooting at persons in the streets. A riot followed when the Austrians resisted desperately.

England to Protect Holdings.

Cape Town, South Africa, July 31.—The British government is preparing to protect her possessions in South Africa in case of a European war. Orders were received from London cancanceling the maneuvers of the troops here and ordering them to return to their regular stations. Preparations are being made for the protection of the naval station at Simonstown and the ports of the colony.

Weather Forecast.

Partly cloudly today and tomorrow, with moderate northeast winds.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHILDREN ENJOY LAWN PARTY

Under the direction of the superintendent, Mrs. E. C. Conover, and her teachers, Mrs. Frank Stewart, Mrs. Harry Bouton, Mrs. William Crow and Miss Helen Smith, the children of the primary department of the Temple Baptist Bible School, enjoyed a pleasant time yesterday afternoon on the lawn in the rear of the church. Long before the appointed time, the little folks began to gather and it was not long before the grounds were filled with both young and old.

The lawn made an ideal place for the games which the children, with their teachers, played until the rain drove them inside and they then continued their play there. Just before refreshments were served there was a hunt in and around the church for souvenirs, which had been placed for them, each child hunting until one had been found. Ice cream and cake were served and a small favor given to each child. The children went home tired, but happy, and looking forward to the next occasion to be arranged for them. The invited guests were Mrs. Edward Baker, Jr., superintendent of the junior department; L. W. Randolph, superintendent of the school; George E. Hall, superintendent of methods, and Rev. E. C. Conover, pastor of the church.

FURTHERING THE PLANS FOR LABOR DAY PARADE

The Labor Day committee of the Allied Building Trades held an important meeting, last night, when many details for the Labor Day demonstration were completed. Uniform badges for all union labor men who are to take part in the parade was decided upon, and it was announced that several bands have been engaged. Details for the picnic have also been attended to by the committee. Prominent labor speakers will be heard at the picnic. It is proposed to entertain the visitors and the cooperation of all union labor men and other citizens is sought. It is believed that the local civic associations will aid in this respect.

The following organizations have informed the central committee of their intention to take part in the parade: Local. No. 480, Painters' Union; Local Union, No. 167, International Association of Machinists; Local Union, No. 103, United Association of Plumbers; Local Union of Lathers; Local Union, No. 162, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Local Union, No. 155, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Local Typographical Union, No. 399; together with the local organizations of the Amalgamated Sheet Metal and Tinners' Workers, Pattern Makers Association, National Association of Stationary Engineers, United Association of Drop Forgers and Die Sinkers, and the local union of journeymen barbers.

TAPS FROM THE GAVEL.

Old Glory Council, No. 62, D. of L., will hold an important business session tomorrow evening at the Babcock building at which time the recently elected officers will be installed. Plans will be made for the annual lodge picnic to be held in the course of the coming month. Several other important matters will be presened to the meeting. A large attendance is desired.

The social club composed of Members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. of this city, the preliminary gathering of which was held last Monday evening, will meet again tomorrow night at the rooms on East Front street, at which time it is expected that definite steps will be taken to organize.

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

By the provisions of the Constitution of the State of New Jersey, that document can only be amended once in five years, and in case of the failure of any amendment to pass, no effort can again be made for another five years. It has been fifteen years since a change has been made in the basic law of the State, and now the job is attempted again. The amendments are now being advertised in each county in the State, an Elizabeth paper being chosen in Union. They must be passed by the 1915 Legislature before being submitted to the popular vote.

The proposed amendments are all important. They provide for the establishment of woman suffrage; election of Assemblymen by districts; home rule for municipalities; for the permission of excess condemnation of property in connection with public improvements, and finally for an easier method than now prevails for the making of changes in the Constitution. The very fact that it has been impossible to make a change in the instrument in fifteen years because of the red tape surrounding the task at present, is argument enough in favor of the change.

Of the present group, one was submitted to the people five years ago and failed. That is the provision for assembly districts in the various counties. It was thought that it would be passed in 1909, but the slaughtering of half a dozen other amendments carried that to defeat.

In view of the experiences in the past it is hard to predict what will be done when these amendments are submitted to the people. As an exchange says, the one restoring assembly districts, will naturally appeal less strongly to a new generation of voters, who have become accustomed to the present system and many of whom have known no other, than it would to those who had been bred and accustomed to the earlier one.

The woman suffrage amendment probably has the best chance of all, as it will undoubtedly have the most energetic and effective organization behind it. And this means a great deal. Still, it must not be forgotten that if this amendment goes to the people, as it is practically certain to do, the decision will have to be made by the male voters. And no one can guess how the majority of men would vote upon it. It is also obvious that the organization of New Jersey women opposed to woman suffrage for their sex is daily growing in strength and is likely to put up a strenuous resistance to the movement in which they will also have the power of organization behind it.

All of these facts, taken in connection with the important one that an election affecting constitutional amendments has never yet called out more than a fraction of the enrolled vote, make the fate of all the pending amendments entirely conjectural

THE ART OF SAVING.

There is an old saying which has been handed down for many generations to the effect that any fool can earn money, but it takes a wise man to spend it, and it contains much truth, lightly as we may look upon it. A fool may get his wages, or salary, as the case may be, but the fact that the money passes hands is not always an indication that that which the pay envelopes contain has been fully or rightfully earned. The point we desire to raise, however, lays in the second clause of this old adage. In modern days, it surely takes a wise man to spend money with such care that it will cover a multitude of necessities. With the high cost of living soaring to the skies, and apparently finding not the briefest resting place, the problem of saving money, no matter what inducements the banks and building and loan associations may offer, is no longer child's play.

But better days are coming, if indications do not belie themselves, and the oncoming generations should be prepared to some degree in having the fundamental lessons in the art of savin. School children are receiving instructions along these lines, not from the text books, nor yet from the theory as expounded from the desk by teachers. They are securing this type of education through experience afforded them by school banks. Would this question be a proper one for the Public Recreation Committee to take up with the various clubs which are being conducted under their auspices? Certainly education in this line is much needed in this generation.

Speaking of trading at home, do you realize that a good portion of the money you spend with local merchants comes back to you, while practically no return is made on the purchases made at the Newark or New York stores, or through the mail order houses? Just give this the "once over," and see if this theory is not very close to the truth.

Wanted—1,000 good citizens to join the boosting campaign. Applications may be addressed to the secretaries of either of the civic organizations of the city. Enough jobs are open to all who apply. Only good workers are needed. Re-imbursement for real service rendered guaranteed.

Dunellen drops baseball because of an influx of outside professional talent. In other words, the fans wanted to patronize home ball players. Evidently they have the proper guage of the situation in the hustling little burg, whose residents believe that the theory of patronizing home talent is proper.

Virtues are as plentiful as faults if you would but see them. If, by chance, yau fail to behold the much neglected virtues of Plainfield, there are a number of stores hereabouts that make a specialty of selling spectacles.

W. de LaR. Anderson will be the contributing editor of tomorraw's Daily Press.

Why trade in Plainfield? Mainly because it is your home town.

RECREATION NOTES

A large and enthusiastic crowd of young men and women met together last night in the Lincoln School and organized themselves into a club for social, musical, and dramatic purposes. Before the election of officers, A. B. Jones, chairman of the Public Recreation Committee, talked to the young people of the benefits and pleasures to be gotten out of such an organization and the many ways in which they could help each other by the right kind of co-operation and taking up work along the lines of their various interests. A committee was appointed by the new president, Charles Murro, for the drawing up of a constitution. The club will meet on Monday night at 8 o'clock.

The Dunbar Social and Educational Club will meet tonight in the Washington School Auditorium at 8:15. The evening's entertainment will be dancing, but as a variety the club has decided to have a prize waltz with first and second prizes for both ladies and gentlemen. John Gates, the president of the club, has secured the following to act as the judges: W. M. Douglas, Charles Mann, William Mayse, Seymour Van Blake, and Joe Lewis, Jr.

REPORTS INDICATE WAR

tions between Germany and France stopped at four o'clock this afternoon. A message from Warsaw to Berlin, says that the Russian troops have blown up the bridge on the Warsaw and Vienna Railroad.

Berlin, Junly 31 —It was announced at a conference here that there is a mobolization of a considerable portion of the Russian army. It was decided that the situation is so threatening as to render the application of martial law in Germany absolutely necessary.

The Emperor left Potsdam for Berlin this afternoon.

Belgrade, July 31.—An official communication declares that all attempts on the part of Austrian forces to cross the Danube into Servian territory have failed and that the Servian losses in the fighting have been insignificant. A number of Austrian aeroplanes are reported to have passed over the Servian position.

London, July 31.—Conversations between the Austrian and Russian governments have been resumed according to an announcement made here officially today.

These conversations are being carried on in St. Petersburg and Vienna, and the fact has aroused another flicker of hope in London that the opportunity for mutual explanation may form a starting point for an improvement in the situation.

A report stating that Prince Henry of Russia, had gone to St. Petersburg was regarded as a strongly favorable sign as Emperor William's brother is believed to have more influence than anyone else over the czar of Russia.

Berlin, July 31.—A decree prohibiting exports of grain, animal products, automobile trucks, motorcycles, petroleum, coal tar and coal oil was issued today by the German Federal Commandery. This takes effect immediately.

Keensigsburg, Germany, July 31.—The military authorities have posted notices that the railroad station has been placed under military guard. No one is allowed to approach nearer than a distance of one hundred yards from the tracks. The order says that expose themselves to the danger of being shot.

Allenstein, Germany, July 31.—A Russian spy was arrested here today. He is said to belong to the St. Petersburg military intelligence department.

London, July 31.—The European crisis is having a very bad effect upon business and today the stock exchanges, not only of London, but of Edinburgh, Liverpool and Manchester are closed. So grave has become the situation that Premier Asquith has been compelled to cancel his intended visit to the ancient city of Chester.

Myslowitz, Russian Poland, July 31.—Special editions of the Polish papers today publish very outspoken anti-Russian editorials. They declare that after the many years of Russian oppression they have been compelled to bear with, the Polish people cannot be expected to have any love for the Russian. They assert there will be no mobilization in Poland.

Glasgow, Scotland, July 31.—(Central News Cable).—The Exchange was closed here today owing to the grave situation. Everything in the markets has advanced in price, especially on such articles of food as floor, sugar, ham and beef.

London, July 31.—The German Cabinet, presided over by the Emperor, was in session at Potsdam until midnight last night, according to a telegram received here. A censorship over all telegraph lines has been established at Berlin.

London, July 31.—Owing to the seriousness of the situation, the stock market here was closed today and will so remain until further notice. The press will be notified the day before the re-opening.

Southampton, Eng., July 31.—Announcement was made today by the Hamburg-American Steamship Company that the liner "Imperator," which is due at Southampton from New York today, will not make the outward journey according to schedule owing to the European situation. It is believed the German government will make use of the ship for transport services, in the event of Germany becoming involved in the European struggle.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 31—Immense orders for steel for bayonets and scabbards have been placed in this market by Austria and Servia according to a report current here. Austria is said to have ordered 10,000 tons from the Crucible Steel Co., but which refuses to deny or confirm the report.

New York, July 31.—The American Line steamship St. Paul, which sailed for Europe this morning, carried the largest amount of gold ever taken from any part of the world on a single vessel. The total value of the cargo was $11,025,000. The previous record shipment was $10,600,000. The total on this movement of gold in five days aggregates $42,935,000. The previous total of exports for the year was $78,400,000. The grand total of the outflow of the precious metal from January 1 to date is accordingly $121,335,000.

London, July 31.—The Bank of England today advanced its minimum rate of discount 4 per cent. to 8 per cent. Yesterday the rate was marked up 1 per cent. Prior to yesterday the bank had maintained a rate of 3 per cent. since January 29 last.

Chicago, July 31.—It is reported here that Armour is lending assistance to all grain houses with weekly margin accounts who need assistance.

New York, July 31.—The report is confirmed that the steamer Vaterland will not sail tomorrow.

New York, July 31.—This morning the Hamburg-American Steamship Company recalled by wireless the steamship President Grant, which left this port on Thursday, directing that it return here immediately. The steamer is expected to arrive at noon tomorrow.

Baltimore, July 31—The Baltimore Stock Echange has closed until further notice.

New York, July 31—The Hamburg-American line, this morning, issued the following: "In view of the present European situation, we have decided to postpone the sailings of the steamship Vaterland from New York and the Amerika from Boston, tomorrow. The sailing of the Imperator today, for Hamburg, is also postponed. Due notice will be given the eventual sailing dates."

Washington, July 31—Efforts are being made by the State Department to get in communication with its representatives abroad. Only the most meagre reports are drifting in over the cables. Secretary Bryan was absent when the European storm broke, but Acting Secretary Lansing refused to become excited over the presence in all Europe of a great army of Americans. They, he said, would be cared for and returned to the United Stateswithout much delay.

Washington, July 31—President Wilson after a conference with Secretary McAdoo, last night, has decided to rush the organization of the Federal Reserve Board as quickly as possible to protect the country's finance in case of the European struggle.

New York, July 31.—J. P. Morgan and Company have issued the following, alarming as the news is from Europe: I am still hoping that there will not be a general war. While the gravity of the present situation can hardly be exaggerated there is still the opportunity for the sober second thought of the people of Europe to prevail over their first impulses. The delicate situation can be held in abeyance for a few days. I should expect a rising tide of protest from the people who are to pay for war with their blood and their property. The situation of the American security market during the past two days has been a splendid illustration of the inherent soundness of financial conditions in this country, while we all earnestly hoped that the New York Stock Exchange might be kept open. The situation is fraught with so much uncertainty that it seemed necessary in the interest of the whole world to close the Exchange.

It is essentially a time for the owners of American securities to keep their head. Bear in mind that the actual properties represented by American securities will not suffer greatly by a European war. During the last few days the American people have been buying back American securities at low prices. It is idle to say that America will not be hurt by a general European war. The wholesale waste of capital involved in such a catastrophe would result in a distribution of losses the world over.

R. G. JOLLY TO EXPLAIN PASTOR RUSSELL'S TEACHINGS

R. Grant Jolly, of New York city, in closing the "Photo Drama of Creation" in the Reform Hall, Sunday afternoon, will compare Pastor Russell's writings with the teachings of the Holy Scriptures. Whether Pastor Russell is popular or not, one thing goes without gainsaying and that is he is without exception the foremost religious writer of the day His books have a wide circulation.

Even though Mr. Jolly's conclusions should not be accepted by some it will be a source of satisfaction to learn just what are the fundamental points in Mr. Russell's teachings, what Scriptures he uses to support his position and what is the difference in his views from those generally held by professing Christians. The local class of Bible students extends a cordial invitation to the public to hear the lecture which will be accompanied by films selected from the drama. Services begin at 3 o'clock and 8 p. m. Admission will be free. No collection will be taken.

CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF NEW YORK CONCERN

S. G. Van Hoesen Now Head of R. S. Downing & Company (Inc.).

Stephen G. Van Hoesen, of Fanwood, who has been associated with the New York concern of R. S. Downing & Co., (Inc.), for more than twenty-six years, has just been made president of the company by reason of the death of T. H. Downing, who occupied that position for many years. It was the wish of the latter, expressed before his death that Mr. Van Hosen should succeed him as a reward for faithful and efficient service and the other members of the company heartily agreed to the suggestion.

R. S. Downing & Co., is one of the largest Custom House brokerage concerns and forwarding agents in the country, having offices in Liverpool, London, Paris, Berlin, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and New York, which practically cover the globe. Mr. Downing, the former head, died recently, after a long service. Mr. Van Hoesen has been a resident of Fanwood for a number of years and he is being congratulated upon his recent advancement. He began his new duties today.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY AT BRINK OF WAR AS BIG BATTLE IS IN PROGRESS

Austria May Now Act Against Czar.

BELGRADE IS IN FLAMES

Austrians Advancing After a Fierce Resistance.

ALL POWERS ARE PREPARING

Heavy Fighting Near the Servian Frontier — Hundreds Said to Have Been Killed.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN EUROPEAN CRISIS.

The czar has practically defied the ultimatum and Russia continues to mobilize her troops.

Russia and Germany at brink of war.

Austria may also declare war on Russia.

All powers are prepared to act.

Reports of battles along the northern Servian border are conflicting, the Austrian officials claiming a victory at Semendria, east of Belgrade, where both sides lost heavily, and at Fotcha, on the Drina river. The Serbs report that they resisted the Austrians at Losnitza. They also assert they repulsed the Austrians at Semendria. The losses on both sides in these battles are said to have been heavy.

It is reported that the Austrians are bombarding Mount Lovchen, near Antivari. A Russian report from Nish tells of artillery fighting near Kloznico and Smedervo.

St. Petersburg, July 31.—Although diplomatic conversations continue and the diplomats doing their utmost to preserve peace, nothing has occurred to encourage the hope that their efforts will be successful.

It is anticipated that Austria will declare war on Russia any minute. Official confirmation of this view, however, is not obtainable.

It is declared officially that Russia does not wish war and that the partial mobilization of her forces is merely a precautionary measure taken with a view of preserving the independence of Servia. The belief increases that the present mobilization as planned is not partial, but absolute and general.

There is considerable war enthusiasm here.

The news that the British fleet had sailed from Portland was interpreted here as having the utmost significance and made a great impression.

Business in St. Petersburg is greatly interfered with by the patriotic demonstrations. The bourse remains closed. No bills are discounted, and cash payments on government securities has been suspended.

The recent prohibition against Jews participating in joint stock companies has been rescinded temporarily. The gold reserve has been withdrawn from Warsaw, where the military authorities have taken over control of the bank.

There is great military activity in the neighborhood of Warsaw. Troops are being dispatched in all directions and the railroads are monopolized for the military operations.

If war is declared the czar probably will go to Moscow and make public declaration of Russia's position from the Uspenskiy cathedral.

Captured Belgrade Easily.

London, July 31.—Official reports from Vienna (and these are declared to be the only authentic ones) deal only with the operations at Belgrade and along the Danube and Save. These briefly record the bombardment of the city, which is said to be in flames. They say nothing of Austrian occupation of the Servian capital.

Another Austrian force which invaded Servia at Semendria is advancing toward the Oispaniea, which is on the road to Nish.

The occupation of the Servian capital was not difficult. The troops crossed by the remnants of the bridge across the Save, which was blown up by the Servians several days ago, and pontoons. They met with resistance which they soon overcame.

The invaders advanced up a steep hill, driving the Servians, who retreated, towards Groca and Popovitch. The losses on both sides were comparatively slight. A majority of the population fled before the occupation of the city.

The invasion of Servia via Semendria is reported to have been much more difficult. The Austrians landed on an island in the Danube 200 yards from the Servian shore.

A Rome dispatch gives a telegram purporting to have come from Nish, which says that the losses at Semendria were severe. Many hundreds on both sides were killed. The same dispatch records fights at Losnitza, where it is said the Austrians lost severely, and at Ratza, where the losses were slight.

There is an unconfirmed report that the Austrians are bombarding Mount Lovchen with fire from warships.

There is a Russian report from Nish of artillery fighting near Kiozico and Smedervo.

All the foregoing reports were without details, and there were perhaps reports of engagements which the Austrian official report dismissed as "unimportant skirmishes."

Newspaper dispatches from Nish, by way of Salonika and Rome, say that small detachments of Servian troops left behind by the main Servian army for that purpose are offering sharp resistance to the Austrians advance from the northwest.

The Servian legation in London, received a number of dispatches yesterday giving the Servian side of the fighting. One told of an important military engagement that was in progress twenty miles east of Belgrade. The dispatch said the Austrian troops attempted to cross the Danube at that point and were repulsed by the Servians. Both sides then resorted to artillery firing.

Another legation dispatch said the Servian troops had resisted successfully the Austria advance at Losnitza. The Servians had taken up a position which they were able to hold throughout the day, causing heavy losses to the invaders.

Japan to Aid England.

Tokyo, July 31.—The Hochi Shimbun, a semiofficial newspaper of Japan, declares that if England is attacked Japan will give assistance to the British arms.

St. Petersburg, July 31.—Orders for Russian mobilization have gone too far to be stopped now. This was the answer made by Minister of Foreign Affairs Sazonoff to a protest by the German ambassador against the concentration of the czar's forces. Minister Sazonoff declared that the mobilization was only partial. The German ambassador's complaint was lodged at a conference which he held with the minister of oreign affairs. The tone of Germany's protest and of Russia's reply as made by the ambassador and Minister Sazonoff was entirely friendly.

Paris, July 31.—Belgrade has been occupied by an invading force of Austrians, according to apparently authenticated Vienna dispatches received late last night. The occupation was effected late last evening without any casualties of consequence.

Austrians shelled the river bank at the point of landing. Getting no return fire, the bridge was placed in position and the Austrians crossed with no further resistance than a few scattered shots from Servian sharpshooters, who retired quickly before the Austrians' return fire.

London Fears the Worst.

London, July 31.—Dispatches received at the Servian legation report that a great artillery engagement is proceeding between the Austrian and Servian forces about twenty miles east of Belgrade and that up to the present time the Servians have succeeded in preventing the Austrians from crossing the river.

Indicating the tremendous importance of the present war situation, Premier Asquith in the house of commons referred to the possibility of an "immeasurable international catastrophe."

Sir Edward Grey, the foreign minister, in the commons strongly emphasized the gravity of the general war situation as a result of the Russian mobilization. He declared that this action by the czar had made the situation "extremely acute," but he said that so far no other powers had been affected.

In reply to a question by Bonar Law, the Opposition leader, the foreign minister declared that the "outstanding facts are the same."

"We will continue our efforts for the preservation of peace," said Sir Edward, "and we are keeping in close touch with the other powers."

Europe's Eyes on the Kaiser.

Not since Napoleon's return from Elba has all Europe's attention been so focussed on one man. The fate of Europe hangs on the next word of Emperor William. All officialdom at heart believes that word will be for war.

With an unsatisfactory reply from the czar to Germany's protest against Russian mobilization almost a certainty the kaiser has devoted the day to putting the German war machine in shape. The answer to Russia's expected unsatisfactory reply can only be a declaration of war from the kaiser.

Further pretense by diplomats and foreign offices has been dropped. St. Petersburg, Berlin, Paris, London and Rome all admit the seriousness of the crisis. All other capitals look to Berlin for the next move. At no point is further hope of peace held out. Berlin alone talks amity.

Many Are Killed.

London, July 31.—Dispatches from widely separated points indicate that the Austrian advance has penetrated south of Belgrade and that the Servians, as they continue to fall back, are severely harassing the Austrians. The Austrian military censorship makes impossible the verification of these reports, most of which emanate from Servian sources.

The Servians are not opposing the Austrian advances in great force, but are seriously annoying the enemy with small detachments left to impede the Austrians marching into the interior from the northwest.

Another unconfirmed report is that the Austrians have attacked the Montenegrin fortress on Mount Lochvhen. Another report says the southern Austrian column remained stationary today in Bosnia awaiting the movement of the Montenegrins.

The line of the Austrian advance is through the valley of the river Morava, and the fighting at Semendria is reported to have been determined. The Servians did not retire until after nightfall. Several hundred are reported to have been killed in the encounter.

WILL ENGLAND FIGHT?

Concensus of Opinion Is That Great Britain Will Enter Conflict.

London, July 31.—"Will England fight?" in the event of Russia and France engaging in hostilities is the question which is probably most keenly debated at the moment from one end of Europe to the other. The Times handled the question in no doubtful manner, declaring that England would have no other course if France should be involved. The Morning Post spoke in a similar manner, but was not quite so direct.

It is of little use to look for guidance to London's radical press, but none can deny the significance of the utterances of the great provincial liberal organs, such as the Manchester Guardian and the Liverpool Post. These papers, while protesting strongly that the present quarrel is no concern of England's, show plainly that they believe and fear that the British government, for the moment at least, does seriously contemplate drawing the sword.

The Guardian this morning refers to Premier Asquith's phrase in his speech in the house of commons yesterday in which he said that "the situation is one of extreme gravity," and says:

"It is a phrase rather more serious than any used by any English minister before. Mr. Asquith does not use idle phrases and the words 'extreme gravity' on his lips are a danger signal of which note must be taken."

ANNUAL OUTING A NOVEL EVENT

Public Service Employes Made Merry at Wayside Park Yesterday With Many Guests.

ATHLETIC MEET HELD

Events Keenly Contested and Numerous Handsome Rewards Were Given to Winners—Newark and New Brunswick Well Represented.

Men, women and children, friends and relatives of members of the Dunellen Athletic and Social Club, organized among Public Service Railway employes, packed the confines of Wayside Park, all day yesterday, and until a late hour last night, enjoying the many feature events arranged by the trolleymen in connection with their annual open-air picnic. The Dunellen recreation resort was transformed into a miniature Coney Island for the occasion and the guests were treated to a continuous round of entertainment. Kaleidoscopic with its profuse decorations the park and its many natural conveniences for an event of this nature, resembled a monster fair, all of the side shows and carnival attractions typical of such an affair being in evidence.

Throngs partook of the amusement in all its varied branches, the excellent music rendered by a full orchestra adding much to the pleasantness of the occasion. Although inclement weather interferred with the picnic on the preceding day and weather conditions were not of the best yesterday, the attendance figures surpassed by far the highest anticipation of those on the enterprising committee and the receipts from the affair were gratifying. Athletics, dancing and novelty performances supplied the entertainment for the excursionists throughout the day and evening.

Five trolley cars, packed to their capacity, arrived from Newark, and one came from New Brunswick, bringing an additional one hundred guests. The car from the latter place attracted considerable attention from those present at the picnic grounds, and those who saw it enroute to Dunellen, because of its elaborate decorations. Draped in bunting and bedecked with flags of all nations the car presented the appearance of a float in a civic parade and the Brunswickers were the center of attraction for some time after their arrival here.

Because of the marked success of the affair the local trolleymen were the objects of much favorable and complimentary criticism and invitations were extended to them by employes of the corporation in several other towns nearby Plainfield, to be present at similar events. A general spirit of fraternalism and good feeling prevailed among the employes and their families, with the numerous foreign division guests and it is thought that the affair will go a long way toward promoting continued harmony among this class of workmen. The town of Dunellen yesterday resembled a municipality beseiged by a country fair crowd, as many of the trolleymen took occasion to wander from the confines of Wayside Park and inspect the thriving little town.

Athletic competition, for which numerous handsome rewards were offered to winners, occupied the attention of the merry makers in the afternoon, and the program of running and jumping events was keenly contested by many entrants. In the evening artificial lights supplied illumination for the evening of mirth and terpischore entertainment reigned supreme. The spacious dance hall on the grounds was filled to a limit capacity all evening, the cool weather making this an ideal source of enjoyment.

The baseball game, between teams from the Newark powerhouses, was the feature of the day and was witnessed by a large crowd of supporters for both sides. The Big Tree-Hilton aggregation was defeated by the Miller-Harrison nine by the score of 15 to 10. The game was well played up to the seventh innings when the Miller batters knocked one man out of the box and landed on the other pitcher that was sent in to relieve him.

The results of the athletic events are as follows:

One mile run—Won by McDonough; second, M. Touby; prizes, solid gold watch, shaving set. Barrel race—Won by John Grimby; second J. Stranahan; prizes, gold watch, jackknife. Dunellen championship race for schoolboys under fourteen years—silver loving cup presented by Mayor E. B. Latham—Event won by DeMont. Sack race—Won by C. Dealaman; prize, fishing rod. 100-yard dash—Won by McDonough; second, W. Smith, of Newark; prizes, silver loving cup, silver shaving set. 440-yard run, handicap (closed to members only)—Won by Samuel Weill, uniform donated by Browning King Co., New York; second, William Vogel, five dollars in gold, donated by Gus Winters, of Dunellen; third, Wels Jensen, one box cigars donated by J. Maier, of Dunellen. The judges were Mayor E.B. Latham, T. P. Burke, Frank Southard, George Luhr, Owen Mohan.

The feature of the races was the Dunellen championship that was under the direction of the Mayor. The rivalry was great in this event and the winner was pushed to the limit at all times.

BAPTISTS TO PLAY THEIR OLD RIVALS

The First Baptist baseball team, having an off day in the Sunday-school League, will take on the Park Avenue aggregation on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon. This is the first time these teams have met this year and, as old rivals, there should be a good contest.

Patterson will pitch for the Baptists and he will be opposed by Bowlby, Parks stellar moundsman. The game will start at 3:30. The Baptists will lineup as follows: Pierson Bailey, center field; Savidge, lf; Smith, rf; Barnes, 1b; Brown, c; Pierson, 2b; Downs, ss; Percy Bailey, 3b; Patterson, p.

REGULAR S. S. GAME.

The Hope Chapel and Monroe Avenue baseball teams will meet in the regular weekly game on the West End avenue field tomorrow at 3:30. The result of this contest may have a decided effect on the standing of the league, and if the Hopes should win they would almost have the title cinched.

SAURERS WILL PLAY SUNDAY.

The Saurer baseball team will play its initial Sunday game against the Sewaren A. C. nine at Woodland Park, Sunday. Manager Martin will have his regular men on the field. He has several good teams booked to appear here later in the season.

CANADIANS IDLE.

Because of the absence of Manager Carroll Taylor, the Canadian A. C. team will not play tomorrow afternoon, but will start in with its schedule next week.

GOOD GAME BOOKED FOR PARKER FIELD

Local Fans Will Be Treated to Good Exhibition When Pets Meet Elizabeth Team.

The Elizabeth A. A. team will be the attraction at Parker Field, tomorrow afternoon, and the Pets will have to play their best article of ball in order to some out ahead. The Elizabeth manager has signed up a number of fast players, among them being Joe Alberts, Washburn, Seery and Ortlieb. The latter will oppose Townley on the mound and will undoubtedly give a good account of himself. This is sure to be as good a game as was exhibited last week and fans will get their moneys worth.

Harry Giddes, the former Dunellen player, will hold down the difficult corner for the Pets tomorrow and will lead off in the batting order. The order has been changed a little and Coyle has been put in the "clean up" position. Nelson will bat eighth. Stine will probably be back in the game and in right field; if his knee should go back on him Harney will play that position. The teams will lineup as follows:

PLAINFIELD	ELIZABETH
Giddes, 3b	Alberts, cf
Mullin, ss	Washburn, ss

POLITICAL NOTES.

August 4—County Board of Elections meets to organize.

August 15—Union County Republican outing.

August 19—Elizabeth Democratic City Committee outing.

August 23—Last day for filing Congressional petitions.

August 28—Last day for filing county petitions.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Marcus Higginbotham, Jr., a Jersey City lawyer, yesterday morning reiterated his statement that he will be a Congressional candidate in the Twelfth District, running as a "plain Independent Republican." The statement was prompted by friends, who object to the self-appointed committee of fifteen Republicans, composed of Dickinson-Decker lieutenants, who met two days ago and indorsed Julius Bierhals for the Congressional nomination. "Several of the alleged leaders in the county approached me today and asked that I withdraw from the race, but I cannot do so in justice to my many friends who urged that I remain a candidate," said Mr. Higginbotham, when see in his office.

Senator Martine is receiving much criticism from members of his party for apparently ignoring Secretary of War Garrison's exhaustive denial of the claim that 500 Spanish-American War veterans have been dismissed from the Philippine service. The same statement as was advanced originally from Republican sources was taken up by Mr. Martine, who made one of his characteristic speeches upon it. He claimed afterward he had not heard of Garrison's answer. That Mr. Martine should have investigated before helping out in a partisan attack, the leaders of the party believe.

"It Pays to Advertise," a comedy by Doi Cooper Mogre and Walter Hackett, is to be presented at the Candler Theatre, New York, in September.

One of the new dramas of the coming season will be "Consequences," a satire on the intermarriage of Jew and gentile.

Mme. Trentini will probably appear in the fall in a new musical comedy from Vienna called "Polish Flood."

Tomorrow the GIMBEL Furniture Sale With Initiative Opens Wide the Door to Better Furniture and Lower Prices

Tomorrow the Sale actually starts, with the Furniture Store open all day. The new departures, which have been so warmly praised, are in full completeness for the opening day. We have already told about them in detail, but let us emphasize again the important features:

The great assortments of practical, beautiful Furniture, distinctive in style, and above all, of established QUALITY.

The arrangement of the stocks, in correct groupings, with spacious aisles permitting unobstructed, critical inspection.

The splendidly low prices, averaging savings of 25 per cent. on our entire stock, covering 100,000 square feet, or almost 2½ acres of floor space.

An hour's review of the stocks tomorrow will tell you more than pages of description—COME!

FOR COLORADO-GULF HIGHWAY.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 31—The Colorado Gulf Highway Association, which is promoting a project for an improved highway from Colorado to the Gulf of Mexico, held a meeting here today. Delegates from various parts of Colorado, Texas and other States to be traversed by the proposed highway were in attendance. President C. L. Williams, of Memphis, Texas, presided and presented his annual report to the association.

SUMMIT QUESTIONS STATUS OF NON-RESIDENT OFFICIAL

Summit, July 31.—Whether his removal from town is equivalent to vacating his office is a question raised concerning Councilman James Truslaw Adams, who has taken up his residence at Bridgehampton, Long Island. Mr. Adams, his father, former Mayor William Newton Adams, and his sister moved from Summit several weeks ago after selling their home in Bedford road. Just before going away, Mr. Adams announced he was going to resign, but his resignation has not been presented to the Council.

It is contended in some quarters that the removal of Mr. Adams from the city automatically removed him from his seat in the Council, and that any act he performs as a city official now is illegal. On the other hand it is declared that Mr. Adams can hold his residence in the city despite the fact that he has moved away. To substantiate this they point to the case of Police Justice Arthur W. Hicks, who lives in Millington, although he declares that his legal residence is in Summit.

It was hinted yesterday that a resolution might be introduced in the Common Council declaring Mr. Adams' seat vacant. Such a course is not considered likely, however, because the Council is largely Republican and Mr. Adams is of that political faith.

MC GILL ESTATE LEVY HELD INVALID BY STATE TAX BOARD

Trenton, July 31—An assessment levied by Jersey City upon the personal estate of the late Surgeon-General John P. McGill, amounting to $325,000, was declared invalid in an opinion handed down yesterday by the State Board of Equalization of Taxes. The Board refrained from entering a final decree pending further proceedings to determine whether the estate may be taxable in Hoboken.

General McGill died in November, 1912, leaving a will under which the Trust Company, of New Jersey, was designated as executor and trustee. He was then a resident of Jersey City. The personal estate consisted mainly of intangible personal property represented by corporate bonds and stocks and bonds secured by mortgages on real estate.

The Trust Company took possession of the papers representing the intangible assets of the estate and deposited them in its banking house in Hoboken, where they have since remained. In 1913 Jersey City assessed this personal estate and an appeal was taken.

Some Cookery Suggestions

ORANGE MARMALADES.

MARMALADES require great care while cooking. They burn very easily. If the marmalade is made from berries the fruit should be rubbed through a fine sieve to remove seeds. Measure fruit and sugar, allowing one pint of sugar to each quart of fruit pulp.

Rinse the preserving kettle so sides and bottom are moist. Add layer of fruit, then layer of sugar until not more than two layers of each are used. Layers should be not more than two inches deep. Heat slowly and stir constantly. If one has an iron stand used for holding a sadiron place it under the kettle to allow an air space between heat and kettle bottom. Let boil slowly two hours for not more than four quarts of fruit. Pack in small jars or glasses and cover with paraffin.

Breakfast Sweets.

Tomato-Orange Marmalade.—Yellow tomatoes are the prettiest, but the red ones taste just as well. Peel the tomatoes and squeeze out all of the seeds. Weigh and to each pound allow one orange (rind and pulp), half a lemon and one pound of white sugar. Boil till thick and put up in small glasses.

Orange Marmalade.—If you have a crate of oranges you can make this delicious sweet at a trifling expense. A dozen large oranges will make a fair quantity. Pare the rinds of one dozen oranges very thin, taking off with them the least possible quantity of white. Run the rinds through your meat chopper, cover with cold water and boil until tender. Drain thoroughly and add to them the shredded pulp of six oranges and one lemon freed from seed and white pith. Weigh the mixture and for every pound allow three-fourths the weight of sugar and boil, stirring often, until thick.

Combined With Oranges.

Blended Marmalade.—A recommended recipe for this delicacy is to allow the pulp of three lemons and seven sour oranges (seeded) to seven coarsely grated pineapples. To each pint of the mixture allow three-quarters of a pint of granulated sugar. Add a good pinch of salt and stir the whole in a preserving kettle over the fire until the sugar melts; then cook until the consistency of peach marmalade is reached. Remove from the fire and pour into preserve glasses. When cool cover with paraffin and put on the lids. Select a cool, dry place for the marmalade if one can be found.

He Scared Loki Away.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Crow Lost His Beautiful White Feathers.

"KIDDIES, you know how black the feathers of the crow are now. Would you like to hear about them when they were a beautiful white?"

There was a merry twinkle in daddy's eye as Jack and Evelyn settled for the evening story which the children knew meant a mythical tale.

"Oh, daddy, weren't they always black?" cried Evelyn.

"My, no!" laughed daddy. "They used to be the purest white you ever saw. They turned black because Loki, the god of envy, disguised himself as a white crow and then did heaps of things that he should not have done."

"Loki sounds like a Japanese name. Is it a Japanese story, daddy?"

"No, dearie; it's an ancient Teutonic legend. In this legend Balder, the god of mirth and merriment, was not immortal, so the other gods prayed to Thor, the greatest god of all, to make Balder immortal.

"Thor said this prayer should be answered if every animal and plant would swear not to injure Balder. Nanna, Balder's wife, like the good wife she was, went right around to all the plants and animals to ask them to take an oath never to injure her husband.

"But, you see, sly little Loki, the god of envy, didn't want the god of mirth and merriment to be immortal. He didn't want anything so fine as that to happen. So he disguised himself as a beautiful white crow and flew just as fast as he could after Balder's wife, Nanna.

"When he got down to earth he settled on a little blue flower, hoping to cover it so Nanna would overlook it.

"But the little flower cried plaintively, 'Forget me not, forget me not!' and scared Loki away, and the flower has been called forgetmenot ever since.

"Then Loki flew up into an oak and sat on a mistletoe vine and preened his lovely feathers. Nanna came along and overlooked the mistletoe, but carried off the oath of the oak tree.

"One day when the gods and goddesses were shooting a blind god shot Balder right through the heart.

"You see, the malicious little Loki tipped an arrow with the mistletoe, which had not taken the vow, and the arrow pierced poor Balder's heart.

"But what do you think happened to Loki, who was masquerading as a lovely white crow?"

"We know, we know!" shouted the kiddies, jumping down from daddy's knees and capering about the floor with bare pink feet. "That crow's white feathers turned an inky black, didn't they? Come up and tuck us in now daddy."

A girl's kimona coat is shown in this design, number 8241. It fastens down the front, has a wide low-hung belt, a full length sleeve and a broad sailor collar. One of the new checked or striped materials could be used with this little coat very successfully or a smooth material. Collar and cuffs may be of satin or another material and the wide belt may be a stitched one of the same material, or of patent leather or suede. These coats will be found very convenient to slip on over the little frock summer evenings or on cold, damp days. To make this coat for a child of eight, 1¾ yards of 42-inch material will be required. The pattern is cut in five sizes, 2 to 10.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the chest well up under the arms. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS
Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

FORMER LOCAL Y. M. C. A. DIRECTOR HAS DISCOVERED S WIMMING WONDER

The Missouri A. C., of St. Louis, has turned out in Herman Laubis a winner of wonderful promise who is claimed by Coach Tom Whitaker, formerly physical instructor of the local Y. M. C. A., to be a second Daniels.

A few days ago this eighteen-year-old lad covered 440 yards in 5 minutes 22 3-5 seconds in open water, a remarkable performance even in these days of sensational aquatic achievements, and at the rate he has been improving of late there seems small doubt that he will before long be flirting with the world's records.

Whitaker writes of his speedy young pupil:

"Laubis is the smoothest piece of swimming material I've seen since Daniels was king, and his performance, in which he defeated Chauncey Heath by about thirty yards, gives me strong hope that he will soon be able to shade the quarter-mile world's figures of 5 minutes, 22 seconds, established a few weeks ago by Ludy Langer, of San Francisco, for he has everything in his favor—youth, natural ability, plenty of nerve and endurance to burn.

"Furthermore, he made his recent mark without special preparation and while training for a five-mile marathon, so that he should be able to better the time even now if he sticks for a while to a given distance. He will be heard of in the near future, rest assured."

Laubis, in spite of his youth, is an experienced all-round competitor. For two years he had been winning laurels in his own district, and last summer he took second to Michael McDermott, of Chicago, in the ten-mile national A. A. U. championship, giving the latter the fight of his life for first. He will bear watching.

Besides Laubis, St. Louis has been developing other crack young swimmers, and it begins to look as if Missouri might presently be claiming its full shares of championship honors.

Whitaker knows his business. A close student of the science of natation, yet a practical man, he is not afraid to experiment with the latest theories, and he has the advantage over many of his fellow instructors, because he is himself an exponent of the modern crawl and a good one. He swam an official time trial at the century last winter, covering the course in 57 4-5 seconds in an 80-foot pool and placing to his credit the world's record for professionals.

His methods are unusual in that he never bothers with advanced material preferring to take in hand absolutely green youngsters of from eight to fourteen and school them from the start in his own ideas.

Since being retained by the Missouri A. C. he has done wonders with his school of small fry, and now he is beginning to earn his reward. Francis Stephens, a lad of thirteen, has won the district title in back stroke swimming; Elmer Bower, a boy of seventeen, has taken the fancy diving championship; Elmer Steurman, aged sixteen, has sprinted fifty yards under 25 seconds; Ollie Horn, a youngster of twelve, has figured in the titular dashes.

With these embryo stars coming rapidly to the fore it would not be surprising to see St. Louis assume the country's leadership in aquatics. The history of American swimming shows that supremacy gravitates from one city to another. New York, Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Chicago and Milwaukee have each at some time or other had men able to capture the lion's share of the national awards. It may be St. Louis' turn next.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query.—Please settle the following argument. In the finals of a 100 yards dash, there were two to run and one of the men "broke" before the pistol was fired and was penalized one yard. The race was run and proved to be a dead heat. A. bets that when the race was run over the one man should start one yard behind the line and B claims he should start from scratch. Which is right? D. ROD AND REEL

Sea bass are giving the fishermen all they want to do at Corson's Inlet these days. They are biting good and there are plenty of them for all. One man reports a catch of about 150 every day for several days straight.

A forty-eight pound bass is the record at that place so far this year. This catch was made recently and the man who caught it also landed a black drum weighing fifty-one pounds.

Weakfish and croaker are plentiful in Raritan Bay and the best place to go for them is off the Seidler stakes. One party landed twenty-six weaks and two croakers in less than two hours which is quite a catch.

Shrimp bait attracted the weakfish and eels down around Keyport last week and they still seem to be lots of them left. They are running in good sizes.

Many deep sea fishermen have been attracted to the fishing banks where they are rewarded with large catches of fluke and sea bass. Many boats visit there every day.

The only big catches that are being made at Water Witch now are weaks and they are reported to be biting to the satisfaction of the anglers.

Weakfish are still biting to the joy of the fishermen at Morgan and large catches are reported every day. They have been biting well for the past two weeks or more.

Some excellent catches of fluke and weakfish are being made from the Long Branch pier. The pier was crowded Sunday, and it was a difficult matter to get rod room on the railing. One man had eleven fluke that ran from one and a half up to four pounds. He also brought in two weakfish.

The tunas have again put in an appearance on the ridge, about ten miles off the Asbury Park shore. A ninety-eight-pounder was captured on Saturday, and was brought in to the boardwalk. This will be interesting news to several of the big game fish hunters in the East, who frequently make trips all the way to the California coast for these mighty battlers of the deep. Cap. Thompson, of Ocean Grove, frequently runs across schools of these monsters while outside, but it is seldom that the rod and reel anglers have fished for them. During the last year or so there have been half a dozen who have tried with the regulation tackle, and the number is increasing each year. The fish will run up to 200 pounds or more, and the landing of one of these big fish is considered quite an achievement among the elite of the fishing fraternity.

A Jersey City man, located a big school of fluke Thursday, and twenty-three fishermen in a boat caught 600 of them before he picked up anchor for home. Every one of the fish was large and many of them flirted around the five-pound mark. The men on board had all the fishing they wanted for once in their lives.

A few bluefish are being picked up right along in Raritan Bay by those who go out for weakfish. One man caught one Sunday that weighed four pounds. He also brought in a nice mess of weaks.

Montreal, Que., July 31—Catcher Thomas Madden, of the Montreal club, was robbed of $350 previous to the start of yesterday's game. One of the Montreal ballplayers is suspected of the theft, but his guilt has not been established as yet.

READY FOR NATIONAL PRINTERS' BASEBALL TOURNEY

Cincinnati, O., July 31—On edge and ready for the annual tournament of the National Union Printers' Baseball League, a dozen teams of union typos have arrived in Cincinnati or will put in an appearance before the formal opening of the tournament tomorrow. Each team appears confident of winning the championship flag and the Garry Herrmann Cup. The contests will extend through the greater part of next week and will be played on the local grounds of the National League.

The league, the most unique in the national pastime, is composed of twelve clubs, representing the following cities: New York, Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, St. Paul, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington and Cincinnati. Each year an elimination tournament is held in a different city in the league circuit. Besides baseball, running, jumping, hammer-throwing other field sports are held.

As the annual tournaments are gala occasions de luxe, the typesticking baseball players try hard for team positions, and the keen rivalry exhibited gives those in charge of the club ample opportunity to select the best diamond pastimers in the printers' ranks.

COPS ARE NOW CITY CHAMPS

They Defeat the Doctors In An Exciting Contest on Parker Field Yesterday.

WON IN THE NINTH

With the Score Tied the Medical Men Score Once, But the Coppers Hit Hard and Pull Two Tallies Over the Plate.

The large crowd that traveled to Parker Field expecting to see a farce comedy in the form of a baseball game between the Doctors and the Policemen were greatly disappointed and were given a fine exhibition of baseball with the final score being 7 to 6. The game was full of excitement and it was not until the cops had pulled two runs over in the ninth frame that they could claim the "city championship." Fritts was on the mound for the bluecoats and Estey Foster served them up for the medical men. The former team made two errors and the latter one.

Fritts started off well and struck out two men in the first inning after two had singled, but they did not get to a dangerous position. Foster, with his curves and spit-ball, had the coppers swinging at the air in the first inning and had no trouble in disposing of the first two men to face him via the strike-out route. In the next round the Doctors took advantage of Fritts' unsteadiness and waited him out, getting two passes in succession. Foster, after his own game, then singled and drove in the first run of the day. The coppers could not stand letting their opponents have the lead and proceeded in their half of the second to get two. Tommy Mullin made one of these without assistance when he connected with one of Foster's curves and the ball sailed into deep left, while Tommy strolled around the sacks. Flatley then doubled and scored on two sacrifices which put his team in the lead. The third inning was full of hitting, but both teams failed to score.

The fourth was noted for its stolen bases and with two free trips to first and a hit, the Doctors were guilty of stealing three times, which accounted for two runs. Foster was at his best in the cops half of this round and after hitting Muir, struk out the next three batters in a row. Neither team scored in the fifth or sixth, but both did in the seventh. For the pillers, Mack drew a pass and Cregar was hit by a pitched ball and went to first. Anthony got in the way of the ball, filling the bases, and then Fritts forced in a run by walking Meeker. Cregar also scored later. The cops went their opponents one better and tied the score by hitting three tallies across the rubber. The eighth was a blank for both sides and then came the exciting frame. The Doctors scored one run and they thought they had successfully retained their hold on the city title, but the coppers hit the ball hard in their half of the ninth and drove two runs in, which won the game and gave them the title.

These two teams must have had some old scores to settle, because everybody was hitting everybody else and four or five men were spiked. There was nothing serious, so the Doctors could not get any patients out of this event. Foster struck out 14 of his opponents while Fritts fanned 10.

ALL TEAMS BROKE EVEN LAST NIGHT

Three Combinations All Win and Lose Two Games Each at Dunellen.

The games of the Women's Two-team Bowling Tournament were continued on the Presbyterian alleys, Dunellen, last evening, before a large and enthusiastic audience. The three teams participating all broke even, each team winning two games and losing a like number.

As a result of the evening's work the Mrs. H. B. Arnold and Mrs. J. N. Apgar team, with Miss Luella Stryker substituting for Mrs. Apgar, lost 12 points in the percentage column, causing a triple tie for fifth place between their team and the Stryker-Eckerson and the Russell-Carpenter combinations to be broken. The Apgar-Smalley and Kelley-Craig teams jumped from tenth to ninth and eleventh to tenth positions, respectively, in the standing, causing the Parker-Strickland duo to be hurled from ninth position to last place.

The feature of the evening was the decided improvement in form shown by Mrs. Robert Craig, who increased her average in the individual standing eight points, from 53 to 61, and advancing from last position to nineteenth. The scores of last night's play and the official standing follow:

PLAINFIELD MOOSE IN BIG SUNDAY TILT

Elizabeth Will Be the Scene of the Important Battle.

A record-breaking attendance is expected on the old Atlantic League grounds, in Elizabeth, Sunday afternoon, when the Plainfield Moose League ball tossers will oppose the Betseytown representatives for the third time this season. Until a few weeks ago the Plainfield team wasn't noticed by many, but when they handed the Elizabethans a 12 to 0 trimming in seven innings, all eyes turned to the local aggregation and they will be watched in Sunday's encounter. Elizabeth won the first game, 13 to 10. The local Moose are always favored with a big attendance on the old Atlantic League field and as Plainfield and Elizabeth expect a big turnout, there should be some crowd on hand Sunday.

Elizabeth is leading the league by a little more than a one game margin and as Bayonne and Orange are playing good ball, the homesters can't afford to drop Sunday's set-to. In June, Elizabeth was forced to use Hans Decker and Eddie Schenck before they took a 13 to 10 win over the 'Fielders. Only three hits were corraled by the Elizabeth team when they suffered a 12 to 0 shut-out two weeks ago. Mike Conklin, the Plainfield twirler, who has been causing his opponents all kinds of trouble of late, will be pitted against the Elizabeth outfit, Sunday, and the Elizabethans are planning to give him a warm reception. While Manager Fitz Osmun's players are having a tussle with Plainfield, the Rahway outfit will battle with the Bayonne nine at Rahway. Rahway and Bayonne have always been great rivals.

NEWARK POLICE LOOK LIKE STATE CHAMPIONS

Although they were allowed but one hit members of the Newark Police baseball team won a well-played and interesting game from the Elizabeth bluecoats, yesterday afternoon, at Athletic Park, in Vailsburg, the score being 1 to 0. The game furnished an interesting pitching duel between Gus Auer, of the Newarks, and Brennan, of the Betseytowners. The former allowed four scattered hits, while the latter held the winners hitless until the sixth inning. In this round Jack Leary, batting as a pinch hitter for Holzworth, accounted for the Newarker's only hit, stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and while the pitcher was delivering the ball made a dive for home and was safe, scoring the only run of the game.

In their half of the seventh the invaders filled the bases with one out, but a snapply double play by the Newark players prevented scoring. There was a large crowd on hand, the Elizabeth fans being conspicuous by their partisan rooting. The teams will play again at Elizabeth, August 10. Next Sunday the Newark Police will stack up against the Riordan A. C. at Riordan Oval, Harrison.

TO DISTRIBUTE MILLION TROUT.

Hackettstown, July 31—Game Wardens Harry E. Cudney, of Warren county, and William E. Young, of Morris county, commenced yesterday the distribution of a million or more of rainbow, brown and brook trout from the local State fish hatchery. The young fish range from six to nine inches in length and are said to be the healthiest lot of fish ever raised here. The distribution begins in the streams of Warren and Morris counties and will extend to all northern counties. The large motor truck of the State Fish Commission carries the fish to the different streams.

CANADIAN HENLEY REGATTA.

St. Catharines, Ont., July 31—With the expectation of witnessing one of the greatest aquatic festivals of the year, scores of sporting enthusiasts flocked to St. Catharines today for the opening of the annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, popularly known as the Canadian Henley regatta. The program extends over two days and provides events for singles, doubles, fours and eights. Added interest has been given the regatta this year by the entry of the University of Pennsylvania in the senior eights. Other entries include individual oarsmen and crews representing boat clubs in a dozen cities of Canada and the United States.

TENNIS IN FULL SWING.

Arrangements are now being made between Metuchen, Bound Brook, Ildenan Club, of Rahway, Plainfield, Westfield, Perth Amboy and South Amboy for matches in tennis with those interested in tennis at Buccleuch, Park, New Brunswick.

TRADE-IN-PLAINFIELD CONTEST

Will have fully as much pleasure from the prize procured.

$10 IN GOLD FOR THE BEST LETTER

Three Other Prizes

HOW TO ENTER THE CONTEST

Write a letter of not more than 500 words telling, in the simplest way possible, of the advantages you have gained in making a purchase in response to some particular advertisement of a local merchant in the Plainfield Daily Press.

Letters must be in the Daily Press office not later than August 12, and prizes will be awarded not later than August 15.

HERE ARE THE PRIZES

First—$10.00 in gold.
Second—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $6.00.
Third—Year's Subscription to Daily Press ($5.00).
Fourth—Due bill for merchandise to the value of $3.00.

CONDITIONS OF THE COMPETITION

1. The instance related in your letter must be bona fide, contain a description of the purchase, the name of the store in which it was made and be accompanied by a clipping of the advertisement. The amount of the sale will have no effect in determining the winner.

2. The advertisement must be from a copy of the Plainfield Daily Press issued within the dates of the contest, i. e. July 22 to August 12. Whether the letters win prizes or not the right is reserved to publish same in the columns of the Daily Press, without payment being made for their use.

3. No person will be considered as a competitor, who is in any way connected with the Plainfield Daily Press.

4. Winners of the second and fourth prizes will designate on what stores the Press due bills are to be issued, but they will only be issued upon Plainfield stores which advertise in the Plainfield Daily Press.

THESE POINTS WILL COUNT IN THE ANSWER:

The best illustrations of the advantages gained by buying at Plainfield stores in response to Daily Press advertisements.

The best illustrations showing the advantages of buying in Plainfield over buying out of town, especially from mail order houses.

Brevity, simplicity and an intelligent handling of the subject.

No man has as much fun at anything

BUT LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR PEACE

Kaiser Hurls Blunt Questions at Czar.

CALL TO ARMS PREPARED

Would Add 2,000,000 Men to the Army and 80,000 to the Naval Forces—Czar Apparently Remains Firm Despite Heavy Pressure.

Berlin, July 31.—"Peace or mobilization within twenty-four hours," that, according to high authority, is the German government's summary of the situation.

The kaiser's government, as a last extreme move on behalf of peace, launched a peremptory demand upon St. Petersburg for an unqualified explanation of Russia's "menacing mobilization" on the German and Austrian frontiers. Russia has been given to understand that unless these movements are abandoned forthwith Germany will respond in kind.

Little hope is cherished in Berlin that Germany's demand will be complied with. Indeed, a report which has just reached here that Russia's reserves in twenty-three districts have been called up seems like a defiant answer to Berlin's representations. In fact, hope that peace can be maintained has been all but abandoned.

Although Germany does not say she will declare war if Russia's military preparations are not canceled, and only threatens to retaliate with a counter demonstration, no secret is made of the fact that a counter demonstration would be tantamount to war.

The fiction is still propagated by the foreign office, the war office and the admiralty that no mobilization in any sense of the word has so far taken place, but when it does come it will turn out to be a mere formality. Germany at this hour is as ready to take the field as she will be when the ominous red placards formally gazetting the fact are posted on the public boardings.

Late this afternoon the officials of the embassy of a certain great power applied to a wholesale provision firm for ten barrels of flour. They were informed that no such order could possibly be filled as everything already had been commandeered for the army and the navy.

Mobilization, it is understood, will call out all reserves for the years extending back to 1908, or the so called "active reserve." This would mean in the case of the navy roundly 80,000 men and in the case of the army 2,000,000 men.

FIGHTING STILL GOES ON.

Carbajal Seeks Cessation of Hostilities Until Peace Meeting Is Held.

Washington, July 31.—There is yet no cessation of hostilities in Mexico, according to dispatches received by the Constitutionalists' agency here reporting the capture of the city of Guanajuato by revolutionists. The city was taken after two days of fighting, following which the federal troops withdrew.

This is a city of 35,000 inhabitants and the last city of importance held by the federals north of Queretaro. It is asserted that the combined forces of Generals Carranza, Gonzales and Obregon will gather before the latter city in the near future unless the coming conference at Saltillo results in arrangements for peace.

3,300 DROWNED IN CHINA.

2,000,000 Suffering From Flood and Famine—Loss $44,000,000.

Washington, July 31.—Flood and famine conditions in China are most serious, according to reports received at the state department. It is said that twenty-nine districts in the province of Kwangtung are affected by the floods and the losses are known to amount to more than $44,000,000. It is estimated that 112,000 houses have been destroyed and 2,000,000 people are suffering. It is also estimated that 3,300 persons have been drowned.

The first harvest has been destroyed and there is no prospect of a second. Dikes are broken and fields inundated.

SNOW FALLS IN MARYLAND.

Stoves and Overcoats Used After Fall In Temperature.

Cumberland, Md., July 31.—The high temperature of the last two weeks fell so decidedly today that a light snow fell along the glades in the mountains above Oakland. Stoves here have been lighted and people are wearing overcoats.

Complaint of cold weather comes from camping parties along the Potomac. Campfires are necessary to keep warm after nightfall.

BRYAN FLEES FROM WAR.

Goes to Virginia to Talk on "The Prince of Peace."

Washington, July 31.—To escape the impending wars and rumors of wars the secretary of state took refuge in Virginia, where, it is understood, Chautauqua throngs will listen to an address on "The Prince of Peace" or some kindred topic.

FORT SMITH TO BE DRY.

Fort Smith, Ark., July 31—Midnight tonight marks the passing of the saloons and other liquor establishments in Fort Smith. Court proceedings instituted in behalf of the saloon interests failed to act as a stay until the matter could be carried to the highest court. In consequence, the "dry" era will be inaugurated tomorrow and it is doubtful if any attempt will be made to obtain liquor licenses until next year. The most of the dealers are prepared to close having disposed of their stock at "special sale prices" after the ruling of the court that they must quit business. About fifty saloons and wholesale houses are affected.

K. OF C. TO MEET.

St. Paul, Minn., July 31—Preparations on an elaborate scale were completed today for the reception and entertainment of the hundreds of delegates and visitors expected here next week for the international convention of the Knights of Columbus. All parts of the United States and Canada will be represented at the gathering. Besides the usual church ceremonies and parade there will be a banquet, a reception and ball and numerous automobile and boat trips to places of interest in and about the Twin Cities. The business sessions of the convention will begin Tuesday and will continue until Friday.

The Daily Press will be glad to have its attention called to any misleading or untrue statement, if such should appear at any time in an advertisement in its columns.

Readers are requested to assist in protecting themselves and legitimate advertisers.

False Modesty

drives many people out of town to open credit accounts. They don't want their acquaintances to see them entering a Credit Store. But they should take into account the fact that owing to our splendid values, many of our customers buy for cash. Therefore nobody knows when you call on us, whether you are a cash or credit customer but ourselves, and we treat all credit accounts in strictest confidence. Call on us.
